Copy of a DESPATCH from Governor Sir E. J. Murray MacGregor to Lord Glenelg.

Government House, Barbados,
My Lord, 1 January 1838.

BARBADOS

No. 1.

Having forwarded by the present opportunity reports from the Lieutenant-governors in the Windward Islands, relating to the probable effects, in their respective colonies, upon the apprenticed population, of the liberation, in August next, of the non-prædial class, it is no less necessary that the bearings of this question, in immediate reference to Barbados, should be submitted likewise to your Lordship.

The special magistrates entertain various impressions in regard to it.

One apprehends " no difficulty when the change takes place, where the prædial apprentices are quite satisfied they are placed in their proper class."

Another states, " in my opinion the manumission of the non-prædial apprentices in the ensuing year will cause great discontent among those of the prædial class termed tradesmen; many expressed their dissatisfaction at the distinction made between themselves and a certain portion of their brethren in trade, not belonging to lands and classed non-prædial".—" Desertion will, in my opinion, be occasioned by the great facilities which will be afforded the prædials among their numerous liberated relations and friends for that purpose."—" The prædials will, I think, work sulkily for a short time after the non-prædial's servitude, but will soon return to their usual cheerfulness."

A third special justice observes, " For a day or two about the period, the minds of the prædial class may be unhinged, and some remissness shown in their labour, but they have been so unremittingly trained for their entire lives to obedience and labour, that I do not apprehend any other result at this crisis."—" I am also of opinion that the non-prædials, who will then become free, will betake themselves to an honest calling, either as domestics, or labourers, or tradesmen, for wages."

A fourth is of " opinion, as far as he can see, that the change in the relation of the non-prædial and prædial apprenticed labourers, to be accomplished in August next, appears to be so perfectly understood by the parties themselves, that he has no reason, at present, to expect any great excitement among the prædial class of apprenticed labourers at the crisis alluded to."

A different conclusion is adopted by a fifth special justice, who reports " that having visited every estate in the district last month, and in communication with the prædial apprenticed labourers, I found several under the impression that all classes were to be liberated next August from the restriction of apprenticeship; and when that period arrives, much discontent, in my opinion, will exist with the prædial class, and their services to their employers, for the two years ensuing, will be given with much reluctance."

The sixth declares, " I feel an inability to advance any positive reason to support the supposition that the contemplated change in the apprenticed system, to be accomplished in August 1838, will probably create any ebullition of feeling on the part of the prædial apprentices, or, on the other hand, that the continuance of service enjoined on them as prædials will be received with a right understanding of this important alteration. I offer this remark, because I have been unsuccessful in meeting with an apprentice of the prædial class who, on interrogation, has been prevailed on to explain to me his individual feelings as to the approaching crisis in 1838; confining myself, however, to the general effect likely to be produced, in my own district, by the measure just alluded to, I am inclined to think that, although the change will no doubt be received by the majority of the prædial apprentices as disadvantageous to their particular interest, and perhaps as oppressive in its operation, I do not infer from thence that the result of this feeling will elicit any open display of intemperate conduct or systematic insubordination. I am strengthened in this opinion by the fact, that a very general anxiety prevails among the apprentices in this district to avail themselves of the timely opportunity afforded them for inquiring as to their classification, in all cases wherein they may feel themselves aggrieved; and I conclude, from this circumstance, that being fully impressed with the essential difference which distinguishes the classification of prædials and non-prædials, they are most desirous for the magistrates' decision on their claims, so that any doubts entertained by them, with regard to their registration, may be finally set at rest prior to that period, when their non-prædial brethren will be emancipated from further apprenticeship."

"The prædial apprentices, on whom the two years additional service is entailed, will no doubt experience, as a collective body, some feeling of discontent when this change shall come into operation; but at the same time I must express my conviction that the late measures directed by his Excellency to be pursued with reference to the classification appeals will materially tend to modify this anticipated feeling of discontent, by affording to those labouring under real or imaginary doubts a seasonable opportunity for a settlement of their claims before that crisis arrives, when it is most essential that every contested appeal should be satisfactorily adjusted."

The seventh special justice says, "I have thought much and seriously upon this subject, and am of opinion that little danger of excitement or unusual insubordination is reasonably to be expected or apprehended on or after the 1st of August 1838 in consequence of any jealousy which may be supposed to exist on the minds of the prædial class, who will from that period be bound to serve two additional years. My reasons for coming to this conclusion are—

"Firstly, because, from the general good conduct of the apprentices themselves for nearly four years, who have, under all the circumstances of the momentous change they are passing through, discharged their duties in a very respectable manner, it is to be presumed that similar good conduct will influence them upon the occasion in question.

"Secondly, because the apprentices have been for nearly four years accustomed and familiarized to the peculiar position the two classes will be placed in on the 1st of August 1838, and have been in the habit of considering that position inevitable; and, as far as I am a judge, no jealousy has been as yet created in the minds of the prædial class, who, as I said before, will have to serve the two additional years. I therefore hope the crisis will, with the assistance of the measures taken by his Excellency to adjust the classification on or before that day, pass off favourably, provided the injudicious interference of persons at home does not produce a contrary result. On this subject I am unwilling, but, in strict accordance with my duty, compelled to make a few remarks, particularly as regards what has been lately said in England on the working of the apprenticeship. Humanity to the apprentices themselves should have influenced well-meaning individuals, and induced them to forbear exciting dissatisfaction in the minds of this vast multitude of recently emancipated slaves, and by so doing teach them, for the first time since the commencement of the apprenticeship, that their condition is by no means improved. It is scarcely credible that any man at all acquainted with the innumerable evils of slavery can for a moment make so unfounded an assertion, and one so likely to create incalculable mischief.

"I watched carefully the conduct of the apprentices in my late district, who are almost exclusively prædials, upon the arrival of the reports of the meetings in England. When those speeches and statements were made, I regret to say, I could plainly perceive an unfavourable impression made upon them; a cloud hung over them for a few weeks, which gradually disappeared, so easily affected are these people. That a considerable number of acts irreconcilable with the law are committed by a certain class of under employers, such as assaults, and acts which may be considered cruel, by the same description of individuals; but if those persons violate the law, they are sure to be punished by the law, of which the special justices do not hesitate to avail themselves, frequently to its utmost limit.

limit. In fairness, I must declare, that the upper order of proprietors, attorneys, and managers seldom commit themselves, although they are unfortunately obliged to bear their full share of the odium attached to acts in which they have no participation; at the same time, when we look back and consider the situation the parties were placed in in relation to each other prior to the 1st of August 1834, it is surprising how few bad cases of this description really occur.

"In forming opinions upon the working of the apprenticeship, this situation or position should always be held in full recollection; without being regulated by such premises, it is utterly impossible to form a correct estimate of the present state of things. If, therefore, the enthusiasts at home will but adopt the kind principle of non-interference with the working of the apprenticeship, the approaching crisis, I have no doubt, will pass over in peace and tranquillity; on the other hand, if they persevere to fix in the minds of the apprentices that their present situation is a series of hardships and cruelties, the consequences may be fatal, and go to destroy all confidence between the employer and the employed, and ultimately engender a rooted dislike to each other, and this, too, between parties whose present and future interests are absolutely indivisible."

The eighth special justice represents that "a longer residence and a closer acquaintance with the affairs of this colony than I have had would be required to enable me to give a clear and decisive opinion. Still, however, I think I may venture to form some conclusion upon the points, from the inquiries I have made, and the conversations I have had among various classes of inhabitants.

"It would seem, then, that the coming period is one that has been looked to with considerable jealousy by the prædial labourers, as a season of exemption from coercive service on the part of the non-prædials, whom they speak of, in opposition to their own calling and condition, as 'the lazy, the sleek, and the well fed;' and there can be no doubt, if this feeling went no further than to excite a spirit of ill-will towards the more favoured class, it would still be a matter of serious consideration for the personal situation of those persons, whenever they might unfortunately fall into a position to experience the consequences of a sleepless hostility.

"But some of the prædial labourers have gone beyond this. They have asserted that they all object to the distinctions between them and the non-prædial class. Upon this fact I venture to raise a presumption, that the same sentiments pervade the whole body of the labourers through the island. Their locomotive habits differ in no respect here from those of labourers in other colonies, where they interchangeably form connexions, in all the relations of life, from one plantation to another. The information, derived from the people of one property, is sure to be circulated in every quarter before the lapse of many days; and if they desire to take measures upon any subject affecting their interests, a chain of communication is kept up, by the medium of the relationship adverted to, with an adroitness and a privacy as remarkable as it is true. I would illustrate this by turning to Antigua. The entire body thought alike and acted alike; and when a plan was concocted by them in July 1835, to strike for higher wages on the 1st of August, it had been so quietly and well arranged, as almost to have escaped discovery. A few days before it happened the sentiments of the labourers on one estate were learnt, and an inference was drawn that it was general. Accordingly, on the appointed day and the subsequent one, every gang in the island had refused to work, and dispersed themselves wherever they listed.

"I cannot apprehend that the prædial labourers of this island would be guilty of any act of sedition or rebellion after the 1st of August next. But I do not hesitate to assert my belief, that they will exhibit much passive resistance to the performance of work, much disinclination, listlessness, and obstinacy, in their employer's service. The landed interest will suffer by it, and the labours of the special magistrates will be considerably increased. A discontented gang of Negroes may produce the ruin of a plantation by the most simple means; and even the manufacturers of sugar may, under such circumstances, spoil their coppers of liquor, though their employers should be at their elbows during the process."

It is further reported to me, by an officer in the police department, that the apprenticed labourers "are, at the present time, conducting themselves in an orderly, contented, and industrious manner, witness the present prospect of a good crop of the staple productions of the country, and I have no doubt they will continue to do so until the arrival of the period above alluded to; but I am doubtful whether the prædial class, at that crisis, will view, without some expression of dissatisfaction, their continuance of servitude beyond their more favoured fellows; and it is not for me to decide whether the personal disadvantages and inconveniences attending the nature of their occupation, and taking into consideration that the commerce and agriculture of the country have been supported and continued without interruption by the exertions of the prædials, might not be fairly placed in competition with the continuous services (the light work and almost total exemption from exposure to the vicissitudes of the climate) of the non-prædial class."

"If the apprenticeship system was intended as a term of probation to prepare the Negroes for ultimate emancipation, it is my opinion that the object might be just as safely effected at the earlier as if delayed to the later period, between which I look for more complaining, more restlessness, and more dissatisfaction, than we have yet experienced. But if, on the other hand, it was intended as part and parcel of the compensation of the planter, it rests for the Government to determine whether time, or a further commutation in money, shall terminate the period of apprenticeship; which latter consideration the bare hope alone of procuring possibly prevents the planters themselves from effecting."

Notwithstanding the contrarieties pervading these opinions, all seem to coincide in the anticipation, however differently accounted for, of a greater or lesser degree of disquietude, in August next, amongst the labouring population.

Upon the mere point of prædial or non prædial classification, after the measures already reported to your Lordship as in progress in this colony, there appears no room for apprehension. But the jealousy imputed to the prædial labourers of their "lazy, sleek, and well-fed brethren;" the inference, deduced from experience, of the remarkable "adroitness and privacy" with which the Negro peasantry organize plans of combination; the clouds "hanging over them for weeks," as well as the unfavourable impression "affecting them upon the arrival of reports of meetings in England;" their consciousness that "the commerce and agriculture of the country have been supported and continued, without interruption, by their exertions;" the impossibility of their failing to contrast their hard field-labour, in all weathers, with "the light work and almost total exemption from exposure to the vicissitudes of the climate" of the non-prædial body, and their constant liability to the impulse of additional irritation, whether derivable from the agitation fomented in Britain by their well-intentioned friends, or from the earlier cessation, past or to come, of apprenticeship in neighbouring settlements, when collectively considered, serve but to confirm my preference, in regard to Barbados, of that common liberation of both classes of apprentices in the course of the present year, which, in the instance of other colonies, I deemed it my duty to advocate when governor of the Leeward Islands.

In taking the liberty of intimating these sentiments to your Lordship, I beg leave distinctly to disclaim all allusion to any other than this colony. They are exclusively founded upon a dispassionate and impartial review, to the best of my humble judgment, of the interests of all ranks of its inhabitants, and upon the belief, not that there have been any proceedings of the Local Legislature in the least degree designed or calculated to impede the effect of the Imperial Abolition Act, but that the apprenticed population here are in general sufficiently intelligent and well-disposed to render the object of giving freedom to the whole, as assumed in one of the above-quoted statements, no less "safely" to be "effected" in 1838 than in 1840. On these grounds, and concurring in another remark from the same quarter, viz. that "more complaining, more restlessness, and more dissatisfaction" than have yet been experienced, will otherwise arise in the interval between those periods, I feel confident that your Lordship will not disapprove of my endeavouring, by the fair exercise, on every fitting occasion, of my legitimate influence, zealously to promote the simultaneous enfranchisement, in August next, of all the apprenticed labourers of Barbados.

Sir, Downing-street, 28 February 1838.

I HAVE had the honour to receive your despatch, No. 1 of the 1st of January, in which you communicate to me the various impressions which are entertained by the special magistrates in Barbados, in regard to the probable effects on the prædial apprentices of the liberation of the non-prædial class on the 1st of next August.

I will not allow this opportunity to pass by of conveying to you my thanks for the very full and circumstantial information which, in anticipation of my circular instruction of the 27th instant, you have thus brought under my notice on a subject of so much importance.

With regard to the intention which you intimate of zealously promoting the simultaneous enfranchisement, in August next, of all the apprenticed labourers in Barbados, I have to state that such an endeavour, prudently and judiciously made, as I have no doubt it will be by you, meets with my entire approval, and it will afford Her Majesty's Government much satisfaction to find such a measure cordially adopted by the Local Legislature. In Barbados, perhaps, more than in any other of the West India colonies, the change may be expected to take place with advantage to the interests of all classes of the community.

I have, &c.

EXTRACT of a DESPATCH from Governor Sir E. J. M. MacGregor, Bart., to Lord Glenelg.

Government House, Barbados, 1 February 1838.

"I HAVE the honour of laying before your Lordship the copy of a message, in which my sentiments, regarding a general emancipation in August next of the prædial as well as non-prædial apprentices in Barbados, have been communicated to the Council and Assembly. 16 Dec. 1837.

When addressing your Lordship on the 1st ultimo (in my letter, Barbados, No. 1), so early a promulgation of my views was not within my contemplation; but being confirmed, by an observation in a despatch subsequently received from your Lordship, in the belief that Her Majesty's Government would willingly witness the spontaneous adoption of that measure by any local legislature, and on considering my own peculiar position in reference to this question, as well as its general bearings, it appeared to me that such a declaration on my part ought no longer to be delayed.

In allusion to the message to the Legislative Houses, I took occasion, in privy council, to observe:

"Having therein suggested, for the deliberate consideration of those honourable bodies, the possible policy of liberating at once, in August next, the prædial and non-prædial apprenticed labourers, the Governor will not, on the present occasion, enlarge upon the merits of this question.

"Without depreciating the well-working, upon the whole, of the system of apprenticeship, although some defects, brought by the Executive under the cognizance of the Legislative Houses, have not as yet been remedied, the Governor will confine himself therefore for the moment to remarking, that an order of things which answers, while the separation of these two classes of apprentices remains to be effected, may entail very opposite results, if that division, hitherto existing in theory alone, shall actually occur; that the measure of complete and simultaneous enfranchisement was happily accomplished without accident or inconvenience in Antigua; and the successful solution of this great problem in that island being an historical fact, that it is to the project of depressing the greater portion of the labouring population by prolonged servitude, after elevating the remainder by the boon of liberty, as an altogether untried experiment, that the rashness of innovation more justly appertains.

"It is on this account that the power of adopting, rejecting, or modifying, according to local circumstances, that particular scheme would seem to have been wisely confided by Parliament to the discretion of the several Colonial Legislatures."

The point at issue being thus subject to internal regulation, information of the various anti-apprenticeship meetings respecting it, recently held in England, being now in circulation throughout this country, and my opinion having been previously expressed in other places, it might have been inferred, had I continued silent, that the labouring classes in this colony were, in my estimation, less ripe for liberty than their brethren, whose cause I had formerly espoused. My impression being precisely the reverse, it was but just to the peasantry of Barbados, as well as to the Legislative Houses, and to myself, that it should be made known before the 1st of August; and it appeared preferable to avail myself of an opportunity of introducing the recommendation in favour of an entire abolition at this season, while the subject at any rate engages the attention of the public, than to postpone it until the period for decision draws so near that it perhaps might be imprudent to give rise to renewed or additional excitement by its agitation.

The majority of the Council, several of the most respectable members of Assembly, and a considerable number of the inhabitants, I have every reason to believe, are friendly to the liberation of both classes of apprentices; but it is warmly opposed by some influential proprietors, or their agents, chiefly actuated, it would seem, by pecuniary motives, who, if the system of apprenticeship works between 1838 and 1840 as well as between 1834 and 1838, look forward during the former term to an amount of profit, upon which, in their apprehension, they cannot calculate with equal certainty if a different principle of labour shall be substituted.

Circumstances may ere long subdue these feelings, and in this hope, having conscientiously discharged, in the present instance, in my executive capacity, what I conceive to be an indispensable duty towards the community at large, it only remains for me to leave the further disposal of the case in the hands of the Legislative Houses."

Enclosure in No. 4.

His Excellency the Governor to his Honour the Speaker and House of Assembly. Encl. in No. 4

(Copy.)

HAVING received an intimation from the Right Honourable the Secretary of State for the Colonial Department, in consequence of certain representations from a neighbouring island, "in favour of a complete emancipation of the prædial and non-prædial apprentices in the present year," that "it would be very gratifying to Her Majesty's Government to learn that the Local Legislature regarded such a change in the law as desirable and prudent," the Governor embraces the earliest opportunity of bringing this interesting subject under the notice of your honourable house.

Agreeably to the stipulations of the Imperial Abolition Act, the payment of the compensation money allotted to Barbados, affords abundant proof that "adequate and satisfactory provision hath been made by law in this colony," for giving effect, by "further and supplementary enactments," to the Imperial edict. It has been with truth declared by your honourable House, and the Board of Council, as quoted by the Governor when communicating with the Legislative House in a former instance, that the question of emancipation "being no longer a debateable point," you "have cheerfully applied yourselves, in good faith, to the consummation of this great national experiment;" and the Governor no less confidently attests that the conditions of the contract existing between the British and Colonial Legislatures, as framed by Parliament, have not been contravened.

The inquiry now adverted to, whenever it shall be the pleasure of the several branches of the Legislature to entertain it, is, therefore, in the opinion of Her Majesty's Minister for the Colonies, to be professedly approached and regulated solely according to their respective views of its local eligibility and prudence.

Although, when prospectively contemplating elsewhere the progress of apprenticeship, the Governor has long since vindicated the expediency of simultaneously accomplishing, at the the earlier period, the alterations in colonial society, not susceptible of postponement beyond the years of 1838 and 1840, that suggestion was guided by the peculiar circumstances of each colony, to which it happened to be applied.

On the same principle, and without the slightest allusion whatsoever to any other colonial settlement, the Governor having come to the conclusion, that the peasantry of this island are sufficiently intelligent and loyal, to prove worthy of the gift, deems it incumbent at the present season, unhesitatingly to recommend to the favourable attention of your honourable House, the propriety of concurring, under due precautions, in the eventual acceleration of their freedom.

Without undervaluing the tranquillity hitherto happily enjoyed by the inhabitants during the apprenticeship, an apprehension may reasonably be experienced, not only of the creation of excitement by the proposed separation of classes, but of a confirmed propensity to litigation possibly to be induced, by the prolongation of a system of reciprocal complaint; and, on examining the internal and external relations of the country, the moment seems to have arrived, in which all intermediate and minor considerations ought to yield to the paramount object of permanently cementing, after the general enfranchisement of the apprenticed population, the common interests of the employers and employed.

The Governor is too well aware of the liberal courtesy of the Honourable the Assembly to dread any misconstruction of the motives by which this Address is dictated, in the conscientious discharge of the duty of the Executive; and in the sincere belief that the future prosperity of Barbados will be most securely founded on the gratitude of the mass of the people, and on the generosity towards them, at that most important crisis, for themselves and their constituents, of the Legislative Houses.

No. 4.

My Lord, Government House, Barbados, 14 March 1838.

March 1838.

WITH reference to my despatch, Barbados, No. 22, of the 1st of February, I have the honour of enclosing, for your Lordship's information, the copy of a communication addressed to me by the Honourable the House of Assembly, in reply to my message of the 16th of January last.

On this occasion I am bound to experience a just sense of the obliging expressions of the House towards myself; but when it is said, "the House conceives that it would be placing itself in an onerous position with the British Parliament were it to supersede, by an Act of its own, one of the most important provisions of the Abolition Law, and thereby assume to itself the responsibility of a measure which could be carried into effect with more safety, and with a greater chance of success, by that august body, possessed as it is of the means of meeting, by pecuniary indemnity and physical restraint, contingencies which may arise out of the proposed change in the law," it is impossible not to lament that the Assembly, according to the present sentiments of the House, although coinciding in opinion with me, "that all intermediate and minor considerations ought to yield to the paramount object of permanently cementing, after the general enfranchisement of the apprenticed population, the common interests of the employers and the employed," should yet deliberately sacrifice that paramount object to secondary, and probably illusory, considerations of momentary pecuniary indemnity or benefit.

Enclosure in No. 4.

The House of Assembly to His Excellency Sir Evan J. M. M'Gregor, Bart., Governor, &c. &c. &c.

May it please your Excellency,

l. in No. 4.

THE House of Assembly, in reply to your Excellency's message of the 15th of January, in which you are pleased to inform the House "that having received an intimation from the Right honourable Secretary of State for the Colonial Department, in consequence of certain representations from a neighbouring island, in favour of a complete emancipation of the prædial and non-prædial apprentices in the present year," that "it would be very gratifying to Her Majesty's Government to learn that the local legislature regarded such a change in the law desirable and prudent," and that your Excellency "embraces the earliest opportunity of bringing the subject under the notice of the House," begs leave most respectfully to state, however it may coincide in opinion with your Excellency, that all intermediate and minor considerations ought to yield to the paramount object of permanently cementing, after the general enfranchisement of the apprenticed population, the common interests of employers and employed, the House conceives that it would be placing itself in an onerous position with the British Parliament were it to supersede, by an Act of its own, one of the most important provisions of the Abolition Law, and thereby assume to itself the responsibility of a measure which could be carried into effect with more safety and with a greater chance of success by that august body, possessed as it is of the means of meeting, by pecuniary indemnity and physical restraint, contingencies which may arise out of the proposed change in the law.

The House of Assembly tenders to you, Sir, its sincere thanks for the generous manner in which your Excellency, "no less confidently" than publicly "attests the fact," that the conditions of the contract existing between the British and Colonial Legislatures, as framed by Parliament, have not been contravened "by the Colonial Government," and assures your Excellency "the inquiry now adverted to" has, in deference to the opinion of Her Majesty's Minister for the Colonies, and in conformity with the inclination of the House itself, been "professedly approached and regulated" in the same spirit of conciliation by which its councils have hitherto been animated in giving effect to the imperial edict, which has, with truth, as your Excellency is so obliging as to observe, been acted upon in good faith to the British nation.

The House of Assembly, quite sensible of the beneficial effects of the straightforward and open conduct by which the measures of your Excellency's administration have been uniformly characterized, fully appreciates the motives by which your Excellency deemed it incumbent, in the conscientious discharge of the duty of the executive, to bring this important subject under the consideration of the House.

By order of the House,

House of Assembly, 13 March 1838.

COPY of a DESPATCH from Governor Sir E. J. M. M'Gregor, Bart., to Lord Glenelg.

My Lord, Government House, Barbados, 12 April 1838. No. 5.

A COURT of Chancery was held on Tuesday the 10th instant, and as soon as its proceedings closed, and the council chamber was cleared, I placed upon the table of Her Majesty's Privy Council of this island your Lordship's circular, private and confidential despatch of the 27th of February, and requested that the opinion of each member of the board might be recorded, in immediate reference to that despatch, upon the expediency of terminating the apprenticeship by an Act of the local legislature, or of maintaining that system, after the 1st of August next, subject to the "remedial measures" of Parliament for "making the Abolition Act more effective."

From the accompanying extracts of the minutes of the board, it will be observed, that of seven members present, six voted in favour of a general liberation of the apprentices in August; and although the dissent of a gentleman of Sir Reynold Alleyne's rank and influence is much to be regretted, it is satisfactory to state that the honourable baronet disclaimed the intention of offering factious opposition, and professed himself perfectly disposed, if the projected alteration should be adopted by the legislature, to co-operate in carrying it beneficially into execution.

The Assembly being also in session on Tuesday last, the members of council repaired from the privy council board to meet that body in conference upon other business, and were empowered by me to embrace an opportunity so eligible of communicating the contents of your Lordship's despatch confidentially to the Honourable House.

The consequences of this interview between those branches of the legislature cannot be officially ascertained until after the departing packet shall have sailed; but I am not without hopes that the Assembly of Barbados, finding itself relieved from the "onerous position with the British Parliament," contemplated in the message from the House, a transcript of which accompanied my despatch to your Lordship of the 14th ultimo, No. 49, may yet resolve to unite with the council and the executive in relieving the peasantry from the restrictions of prolonged apprenticeship.

Enclosure in No. 5.

EXTRACTS from the Minutes of a Privy Council, held on Tuesday the 10th April 1838. Encl. in No. 5

PRESENT:

His Excellency Major-General Sir Evan Murray M'Gregor, Bart.
The Honourable John Alleyne Beckles.
The Honourable John Brathwaite.
The Honourable Sir Reynold Abel Alleyne, Bart.
The Honourable Philip Lytcott Hinds.
The Honourable James Holder Alleyne.
The Honourable Christopher Barrow.
The Honourable Joshua B. Nurse.

The Governor stated that his Excellency considered it important, that the sentiments of the members of Her Majesty's Privy Council should be recorded upon the following question, arising out of a private and confidential circular despatch from the Right honourable the Secretary of State for the Colonies, of the 27th of February last, now laid before the board, viz.

"Whether it was or was not most conducive to the interests of the colony of Barbados, that the apprenticeship should be terminated by an Act of the Local Legislature, or maintained, after the 1st August next, subject to the operation of 'those remedial measures, the enactment of which it is now become the duty of Parliament to take upon itself,' in order to render the 'Slavery Abolition Act more effective, for securing to the apprenticed labourers the protection and advantages originally designed for them.'"

RBADOS.

His Excellency having requested that the opinion of each member of the board might be expressed thereon:—

1. The Honourable Joshua B. Nurse considered that it would be conducive to the interests of the colony that the apprenticeship should terminate in 1838.

2. The Honourable Christopher Barrow, thinking as he did that it was impossible to withstand the current of public opinion, deemed it the best policy not to let the glass run out, and wait till 1840, but to terminate the apprenticeship in August next.

3. The Honourable James Holder Alleyne considered it better to meet the evil at once, great as it might be, of immediate emancipation than to submit to the remedial measures likely to be enacted by the Imperial Parliament.

4. The Honourable Philip Lytcott Hinds considered that it would be expedient to end the apprenticeship, rather than subject the colony to the operation of any remedial measures consequent upon its continuance.

5. The Honourable Sir Reynold Abel Alleyne considered the apprenticeship system to have worked so well, as far as his own observation went, that he did not think it would benefit either the masters or the apprentices to abolish it before 1840; moreover, as the people had enjoyed all their rights hitherto, he did not apprehend any inconvenience from the proposed remedial measures of Her Majesty's Government.

6. The Honourable John Brathwaite considered that it would tend to the peace and tranquillity of the country that the apprenticeship should terminate in 1838.

7. The Honourable John Alleyne Beckles considered that it would be conducive to the interests of the colony that the apprenticeship should be terminated by an Act of the Colonial Legislature in 1838.

No. 1.
April 1838.

My Lord, Government House, Barbados, 19 April 1838.

WITH reference to my despatch of the 12th inst. (Barbados, No. 77), I have the honour of enclosing an extract (No. 1) of the proceedings of Her Majesty's Privy Council, notifying the adoption, on the 17th inst., by the Rev. and Hon. J. H. Gittens (who was absent on the 10th), of the opinion signified by the majority of the members on the subject of apprenticeship.

No. 2.

By a resolution of the same date (Enclosure, No. 2), in terms no less than in spirit highly creditable to that honourable board, the legislative council has unanimously decided—

> "That it is not only expedient to yield to the wishes of the British public, which have been so strongly expressed on this momentous question, but that, moreover, it will be most conducive to the general interests and happiness of the colony that a Bill should be speedily passed, declaring the absolute emancipation of all classes of apprenticed labourers on the 1st of August 1838; and further, that the said Bill be accompanied by such constitutional measures as are furnished by the British common and statute law, to the end that peace and industry, the handmaids of prosperity, may minister to the best interests of this island."

The pledge of Sir Reynold Alleyne has thus been fully redeemed, and the sentiments of every councillor now in the colony have been recorded in the minutes, either of the privy or legislative council, in favour of the early release from their present servitude of the prædial as well as non-prædial apprenticed population.

The determination of the third branch of the legislature is yet to be ascertained. At the conference between the Council and Assembly on the 10th inst., the majority of the House, I have reason to believe, coincided with the former body; but upon the 17th, with the view, it is presumed, of averting a discussion of the question, several members of Assembly withdrew, by concert, from the House, and thereby broke up the sitting.

The retreat of those gentlemen, some of whom appear to be misled by the notion that they ought solely to consult the interests of their immediate constituents, instead of those of the community at large, apprentices included, would rather seem to indicate conscious weakness; but, in order to arrive as soon as possible possible at a better understanding of their designs, I have directed a call of the House to be issued for the 24th inst., and will embrace the first opportunity of reporting the result. BARBADO

For the present I shall merely add, that the ablest members of the Assembly prefer a collective enfranchisement of the apprentices in August, that the former most strenuous opponent in the House of this alternative now befriends it, and that so much good feeling mutually pervades the Honourable Board and House, that there seems no reason to anticipate the occurrence of any collision between the Council and Assembly calculated to interrupt the general harmony happily prevalent in those legislative Houses.

I have, &c.

THE Honourable and Reverend John Gittens, who had been absent at the last meeting of the board, on which occasion the Governor requested the respective opinions of each member as to the expediency of abolishing the apprenticeship system in August 1838, begged to record his firm opinion, "that it would be conducive to the best interests of the colony that the apprenticeship should terminate altogether and absolutely in 1838."

AFTER a discussion among the honourable members of the Board of Council as to the expediency or not of terminating the apprenticeship in 1838, the secretary was desired to make an entry in the minutes to the following purport:

The Council, after the most careful consideration of the Governor's message of the 15th January 1838, in which his Excellency urged upon the Legislative Council the wisdom and expediency of terminating the apprenticeship in August 1838; reflecting, moreover, on the good faith of the British Legislature in rejecting any attempt to abolish the Emancipation Act of the Imperial Parliament of 1833, without the co-operation of the Colonial Legislatures, and taking into consideration the general good conduct of the apprenticed population under so unprecedented an experiment, and during a period of continued excitement; under such circumstances, and influenced by such reasons, the members of Council are desirous of placing on record the following unanimous opinion:

"That it is not only expedient to yield to the wishes of the British public, which have been so strongly expressed on this momentous question; but that, moreover, it will be most conducive to the general interests and happiness of the colony, that a Bill should be speedily passed, declaring the absolute emancipation of all classes of apprenticed labourers on the 1st of August 1838; and further, that the said Bill be accompanied by such constitutional measures as are furnished by the British common and statute law, to the end that peace and industry, the handmaids of prosperity, may minister to the best interests of this island."

COPY of a DESPATCH from Governor Sir E. J. M. M'Gregor, Bart., to Lord Glenelg.

Government House, Barbados,

No. 7. My Lord, 26 April 1838.

THE progress of my efforts to accelerate the abolition of apprenticeship in the colony of Barbados has been reported in various communications addressed to your Lordship on and subsequently to the 1st of January last.

My personal feelings on the subject never had been concealed; but it was of a nature so delicate as to render it especially desirable that dissension and jealousy might not be introduced by its discussion amongst the legislative body, and not only equitable, but prudent, that the invidiousness of its agitation should attach entirely to myself. My message, therefore, of the 16th of January to the House (A.) of Assembly (although I relied upon the favourable sentiments and eventual suffrages of several enlightened and influential gentlemen) was written by me on that day, without the privity of any other individual; and having been despatched, as soon as copied, to the court-house, could compromise none of the members of the legislature, all of whom were alike unprepared, and consequently alike irresponsible for its appearance.

Notwithstanding the reply of the Assembly of the 13th of March, I felt strongly (B.) impressed with a conviction that apprenticed servitude could not endure much longer in this island; and the arrival of your Lordship's private and confidential despatch of the 27th of February, followed by that of the 14th ultimo, forwarding (C.) the Bill amending the Act for the Abolition of Slavery, as read for the second time in the House of Lords, armed me most opportunely with the means of pressing the question home, and of demonstrating to the local authorities that my views of "the internal and external relations of the country," announced in January, had neither been inconsiderately adopted nor unseasonably advanced.

(D.) The support obtained, particularly in the last instance, from the council has (E.) been eminently useful; and I refer with pleasure to the valuable testimony borne, in the speech of the Right Reverend the Lord Bishop of Barbados, to the fidelity of my statement, "that the conditions of the contract existing between the British and Colonial Legislature, as framed by Parliament, have not been contravened."

The members of Assembly who (as mentioned in my letter, Barbados, No. 82) had retired from the meeting of the 17th instant, having resumed their seats upon (F.) the 24th, I have now the honour to inform your Lordship of their discomfiture, after an amicable trial of strength on certain resolutions, in lieu of which the order of the day was substituted by the majority of the House, and a committee nominated to "frame a Bill" to "abolish the Apprenticeship in August 1838."

While the temperate manner in which this controversy has been conducted reflects credit on the moderation of the Assembly, I rejoice to learn from your Lordship's despatch of the 28th of February, Barbados, No. 82, that the measure in which it has terminated promises to prove satisfactory to Her Majesty's Government; and I fervently trust your Lordship will not be disappointed in the anticipation, that "in Barbados, perhaps more than in any other of the West India Colonies, the change may be expected to take place with advantage to the interest of all classes of the inhabitants."

Enclosures in No. 7.

Encl. in No. 7. His Excellency the Governor to His Honour the Speaker and House of Assembly.

HAVING received an intimation from the Right honourable the Secretary of State for the Colonial Department, in consequence of certain representations from a neighbouring island, "in favour of a complete emancipation of the prædial and non-prædial apprentices in the present year," that "it would be very gratifying to Her Majesty's Government to learn that the local legislature regarded such a change in the law as desirable and prudent," the Governor embraces the earliest opportunity of bringing this interesting subject under the notice of your Honourable House.

Agreeably

Agreeably to the stipulations of the Imperial Abolition Act, the payment of the compensation money allotted to Barbados affords abundant proof that "adequate and satisfactory provision hath been made by law, in this colony," for giving effect, by "further and supplementary enactments," to the imperial edict. It has been, with truth, declared by your Honourable House and the Board of Council, as quoted by the Governor when communicating with the Legislative Houses in a former instance, that the question of emancipation "being no longer a debatable point," you "have cheerfully applied yourselves, in good faith, to the consummation of this great national experiment;" and the Governor no less confidently attests that the conditions of the contract existing between the British and Colonial Legislature, as framed by Parliament, have not been contravened.

The inquiry now adverted to, whenever it shall be the pleasure of the several branches of the legislature to entertain it, is, therefore, in the opinion of Her Majesty's Minister for the Colonies, to be professedly approached and regulated solely according to their respective views of its local eligibility and prudence.

Although, when prospectively contemplating elsewhere the progress of apprenticeship, the Governor has long since vindicated the expediency of simultaneously accomplishing at the earlier period the alterations in colonial society not susceptible of postponement beyond the years 1838 and 1840, that suggestion was guided by the peculiar circumstances of each colony to which it happened to be applied.

On the same principle, and without the slightest allusion whatever to any other colonial settlement, the Governor having come to the conclusion that the peasantry of this island are sufficiently intelligent and loyal to prove worthy of the gift, deems it incumbent, at the present season, unhesitatingly to recommend to the favourable attention of your Honourable House the propriety of concurring, under due precautions, in the eventual acceleration of their freedom.

Without undervaluing the tranquillity hitherto happily enjoyed by the inhabitants during the apprenticeship, an apprehension may reasonably be experienced, not only of the creation of excitement by the proposed separation of classes, but of a confirmed propensity to litigation, possibly to be induced by the prolongation of a system of reciprocal complaint; and, on examining the internal and external relations of the country, the moment seems to have arrived in which all intermediate and minor considerations ought to yield to the paramount object of permanently cementing, after the general enfranchisement of the apprenticed population, the common interests of the employers and employed.

The Governor is too well aware of the liberal courtesy of the Honourable the Assembly to dread any misconstruction of the motives by which this Address is dictated, in the conscientious discharge of the duty of the executive, and in the sincere belief that the future prosperity of Barbados will be most securely founded on the gratitude of the mass of the people, and on the generosity towards them at that most important crisis for themselves and their constituents of the Legislative Houses.

The House of Assembly to His Excellency Sir Evan John Murray M'Gregor, Bart., Governor, &c.

May it please your Excellency,—The House of Assembly, in reply to your Excellency's message of the 16th January, in which you are pleased to inform the House "that having received an intimation from the Right honourable Secretary of State for the Colonial Department, in consequence of certain representations from a neighbouring island, in favour of a complete emancipation of the prædial and non-prædial apprentices in the present year," that "it would be very gratifying to Her Majesty's Government to learn that the local legislature regarded such a change in the law desirable and prudent," and that your Excellency "embraces the earliest opportunity of bringing the subject under the notice of the House," begs leave most respectfully to state, that however it may coincide in opinion with your Excellency that all intermediate and minor considerations ought to yield to the paramount object of permanently cementing, after the general enfranchisement of the apprenticed population, the common interests of employers and employed, the House conceives that it would be placing itself in an onerous position with the British Parliament were it to supersede, by an Act of its own, one of the most important provisions of the Abolition Law, and thereby assume to itself the responsibility of a measure which could be carried into effect with more safety and with a greater chance of success by that august body, possessed as it is of the means of meeting, by pecuniary indemnity and physical restraint, contingencies which may arise out of the proposed change in the law.

been "professedly approached and regulated" in the same spirit of conciliation by which its councils have hitherto been animated in giving effect to the imperial edict, which has with truth, as your Excellency is so obliging as to observe, been acted upon in good faith to the British nation.

THE Lord Bishop rose and spoke as follows:—

"Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Council,

"I was informed yesterday, that during my absence from the island, the Members recorded their opinion as to the expediency of absolutely abolishing the apprenticeship in August 1838. I am most anxious to record my entire concurrence in this resolution; but I wish

I wish it to be understood that I do not consider the measure as called for by any hardships under which the labourers in this island are suffering, nor from the want of any essential comfort, nor from the deprivation of any thing which a labourer may fairly claim from his master; still I do express my concurrence in the resolution of the Board, and I do so on these grounds, that I am satisfied the measure can be safely carried in this island, and if safely, then I feel justly; for I consider the very important interests which are involved in the measure. I must confess, too, that I am unwilling that Barbados should be behind any other island, especially in a measure which may be carried both safely and justly, and where its example may be of such beneficial consequence. I am just returned from visiting the northern islands of the diocese. I have gone over every part of Tortola, and though it is far more fertile than the off islands, yet even these are sufficiently productive for the labourer to raise the lesser and necessary provision of life, and yet with these islands in their very face, the Legislature of Tortola has passed the Act of Abolition. Some of the proprietors were opposed to it, but they have now given up their opposition; and I heard, whilst in Antigua, not only that the Act had passed, but that on the day of its passing, or the following day, some of the leading proprietors rode through the island, and were met by the people with expressions of the utmost gratitude, regarding the Act as a boon granted to them by their masters.

"At Nevis the Act has passed.

"At St. Christopher's the Council are in favour of its passing, and with Nevis emancipated in its vicinity, there is little doubt but that the Act must pass. At Monserrat also it has passed. At Antigua, which I visited last year, I found that every thing was proceeding quietly and regularly. I found, too, the planters in high spirits, and some estates, which had been given up, restored; and the small patches and tenements of the free people, commencing last year, now in a very satisfactory state of cultivation. It is possible, indeed, that these last mentioned, unless the population be proportionably increased, may affect the cultivation of the larger estates, but there they are, and flourishing, as I have described, whilst I was in the island. A contiguous though abandoned estate was purchased by Sir Henry Martin, for about 9,500*l.* currency, being 3,000*l.* more than he had offered a few years previously. To compare Barbados with any other island, either as to population, wealth or state of agriculture, is unnecessary. I have seen nothing like the commercial activity which I saw in the streets yesterday, except at St. Thomas; and I feel, therefore, on all these grounds, that the Act may be passed safely and justly. At the same time I am not unmindful or insensible to the state of public opinion in the mother country, nor to the many new and harassing annoyances to which the proprietors may be exposed during a protracted continuance of the apprenticeship. I request that my full concurrence in the resolution of the Council may be recorded on the minutes of this day's proceedings."

His honour the President moved, that his Lordship's sentiments be recorded.

(Extracts.)

Messages from his Excellency the Governor.—The first, informing the House that he had received a new commission, appointing him Governor of Barbados, Grenada, St. Vincent, Tobago, Trinidad and St. Lucia; the second, enclosing "a copy of Lord Glenelg's proposed Bill for amending the Abolition Acts,"—were read.

Mr. Clarke rose and said, "That in rising to make the usual motion for a committee to reply to the communications received from his Excellency the Governor, he should feel it his duty to draw the particular attention of the House to the subject of the communication last received, conveying a copy of a Bill, which had been read a second time in the House of Lords, to amend the Abolition Acts of the several legislative colonies," &c. &c. &c. "It is my deliberate conviction that this House should lose no time in providing for the complete emancipation of the apprenticed labourers on the 1st of August next," &c. &c. &c.

Mr. Hodgkinson presented the following resolutions, which he moved might be adopted:—

Resolved, 1. That an acquiescence in any measure for shortening the apprenticeship would be a breach of duty on the part of this House, inasmuch as it has no right to vote away the property of its constituents secured by an Act of the Imperial Parliament, and which the representatives of the people are bound to protect, not to violate.

2. That the apprenticeship system has been found to answer all the purposes for which it was projected, as is evident in the prosperous state of the country, the contented cheerful conduct of the apprentices, and their rapidly improving condition.

3. That the British Government not having thought it prudent to introduce a Bill in Parliament for shortening the duration of the apprenticeship, but having brought forward a measure for the better protection of the apprenticed labourers, it is gratifying to this House to observe that the principal provisions contemplated by the Government in that measure have been already substantially enacted by the legislature of this island.

4. That this House having full confidence in the faith and honour of the British Government, and in the judgment and firmness of his Excellency the Governor, is determined faithfully to carry through the apprenticeship system both in letter and spirit, feeling assured that that a steady and upright course is best calculated to insure the great object contemplated by Parliament, namely, to prepare the apprentices for a state of freedom before the period fixed by law for that event shall arrive.

Mr. Clarke immediately rose and moved the order of the day. The question being put on Mr. Clarke's motion, the order of the day was carried by a majority of eleven to seven.

Dr. Bascom rose, and gave notice of a Bill to regulate the costs and awards of actions relating to trespass; of a second, to cause the registration of all the inhabitants of this island; of a third, to abolish the apprenticeship system in August 1838. He moved the appointment of a Committee to frame the last-mentioned Bill; and the Speaker nominated Messrs. Bascom, Bovell, Clarke, Hodgkinson, Applewhaite, Waith and Haynes, to frame the said Bill, and to reply to the Governor's messages.

No. 8.

My Lord, Government House, Barbados, 11 May 1838.

COPIES of your Lordship's circular letter of the 2d ult., and of the Bill then depending in the House of Commons, for the amendment of the Imperial Slavery Abolition Act, were communicated to the Council on the 8th instant, but will not become known to the Assembly until the 15th, on which day the House meets by adjournment, and the packet sails for England.

The Solicitor-general, Mr. Clarke, is, I regret to say, seriously ill, having recently caught the scarlet fever from Mr. Best (son of Mr. Best, member of Council) who was himself infected when visiting the sick in a plantation hospital, and unfortunately dying, after a week's illness, was attended to the grave by about 1,000 negroes, manifesting every mark of respectful sorrow and attachment.

Pending the indisposition of the Solicitor-general, who is a member of the committee of the legislature occupied in preparing an Apprentice Abolition Act, their labours, I have reason to fear, may be somewhat retarded, owing to the unavoidable absence of that law officer of the Crown.

Having been most reluctantly, although indispensably, engaged in the irksome and painful task of enforcing the penal law against the apprenticed population at the commencement of the present system, no one can unite more cordially with your Lordship than myself in anxiously deprecating the recurrence, during its continuance, of a necessity so distressing; but I have cited a creditable example, in Mr. Best's instance, of the good feeling of the Barbados peasantry; and now that measures are in progress, as already represented in my previous despatches, for their early emancipation, it affords me sincere pleasure to assure your Lordship, with reference to the enclosed transcript of a message to the Legislative Houses, that there seems no reason to apprehend any interruption of the internal quiet of this island.

Were disturbances unhappily to be excited, either here or in any other colony, it would seem impossible that a more eligible mode of quelling them could be employed than that made available by your Lordship for securing a rapid concentration of force at any given point, on a sudden emergency, by means of steam vessels of war.

Enclosure in No. 8.

His Excellency the Governor to His Honour the President and Council.

l. in No. 8.

April 1838.

THE Governor presents to the Honourable the Council the accompanying copies of a circular despatch from Lord Glenelg, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Colonial Department, and of a Bill now depending in the House of Commons, intituled, "An Act to amend the Act for the Abolition of Slavery in the British Colonies," in which it is provided that "nothing in this Act contained shall apply to any colony to which the said Act for the Abolition of Slavery does not apply, or in which the apprenticeship established under the said Act of Parliament shall be already lawfully determined at the time when the Governor shall receive notice of the passing of this Act."

On perusing the Right honourable Secretary of State's despatch, it has been a source of the highest gratification to the Governor to be aware that, on the 17th ultimo, "The Council, after the most careful consideration of the Governor's message of the 16th January 1838, in which his Excellency urged upon the Legislative Council the wisdom and expediency of terminating the apprenticeship in August 1838; reflecting moreover on the good faith of the British British Legislature in rejecting any attempt to abolish the Emancipation Act of the Imperial Parliament of 1833, without the co-operation of the Colonial Legislatures, and taking into consideration the general good conduct of the apprenticed population under so unprecedented an experiment and during a period of continued excitement, 'unanimously resolved, That it is not only expedient to yield to the wishes of the British public, which have been so strongly expressed on this momentous question; but that, moreover, it will be most conducive to the general interests and happiness of the colony that a Bill should be speedily passed, declaring the absolute emancipation of all classes of apprenticed labourers on the 1st of August 1838,'" and no less pleasing to the Governor to understand that, on the 24th ultimo, a Committee of the House of Assembly was nominated in furtherance of that most desirable and most important object.

These circumstances, so well adapted to the prevention of every conceivable pretext for subsequent excitement, unknown, as they were, to my Lord Glenelg when the despatch under consideration emanated from his Lordship, necessarily render the instructions therein contained inapplicable to the actual situation of the various classes of Her Majesty's subjects composing the population of this ancient and loyal colony, fortunately enjoying, as it does, under the blessing of Divine Providence, the most profound tranquillity.

No clearer manifestation of benevolence, or of confidence, can be offered by the executive to the apprenticed labourers than the proposal for the acceleration of their freedom, which in January last the Governor, in the deliberate, unbiassed and constitutional exercise of his judgment, felt it justly due to them, and consequently to his official station, no longer to refrain from earnestly recommending to the attention of the Council and Assembly; neither is it possible to extend to the labouring orders a more conciliatory or more powerful encouragement for unremitting perseverance in their present peaceable and orderly demeanour than the acceptable reward which, dispensing with the intervention of Parliament, and dutifully participating in the deep interest graciously cherished by Her Majesty the Queen in the welfare and happiness of the apprentices, the Legislative Houses are about to bestow upon the deserving peasantry of this island, by means of "an abridgment of their appointed term of service during the present year."

The Honourable Board of Council, the Governor doubts not, will thankfully appreciate the decisive and vigorous measures adopted by Her Majesty's Government for the prompt and effectual suppression of any local disturbances that may occur in the West Indies.

COPY of a DESPATCH from Governor Sir E. J. M. M'Gregor, Bart., to Lord Glenelg.

My Lord, Government House, Barbados, 16 May 1838. No. 9.

AT a meeting of the Privy Council held at the court-house, yesterday I inquired of the Honourable Board whether it is desirable, 1st.—That the Governor in Council should be authorized to liberate the apprentices from further service on any day between the of June and the 1st of August 1838.

2d.—That the Barbados Bill for abolishing apprenticeship should be assimilated, as nearly as possible, to the Antigua Bill for the Abolition of Slavery, recently recommended as a precedent by my Lord Glenelg, and of the provisions of which, in relation to the negroes, Lord Stanley, in April 1834, expressed unqualified approbation.

3d.—That the prolongation of apprenticeship in certain cases beyond the 1st of August 1840, in repayment of absence from the employer's service, sanctioned by the 64th Clause of the Island Abolition Act, be entirely remitted by the Legislature from the 1st of August 1838.

4th.—That the day on which the liberation from apprenticeship of the labouring population shall commence be appointed a day of general thanksgiving to the Almighty.

5th.—That a proclamation be prepared explanatory of the new obligations the peasantry are about to incur, inculcating the propriety of attention to their religious duties, of perseverance in habits of industry and obedience to the laws, and especially exhorting them to dismiss their prejudices against agricultural employment, and to induce their children to partake of the labours of the field, as well as of the advantages of education.

6th.—That a sum of money should be placed for public purposes at the disposal of the Governor in Council.

 7th.—That

RBADOS.

7th.—That the punishment of the lash be removed forthwith from the jurisdiction of the magistracy to that of the courts.

On the first point, as the Bill in preparation for emancipating the apprentices embraced the prædial class alone, it was judged best to leave the question open for the present.

On the second, it was surmised, in as far as related to an exact assimilation of the Bill to the Antigua Slavery Abolition Act, that resistance might be expected in the Assembly, and one member of the Privy Council avowed himself likewise strongly opposed to it.

The third, fourth and fifth proposals were considered unobjectionable.

The object of the sixth recommendation is connected with confidential arrangements between his Excellency the Lieutenant-general commanding the forces and myself, respecting certain possible temporary movements of troops for the benefit of their health to convalescent stations, and was effectually met by the assurance that the Legislative Council and Assembly would readily defray any charges that might arise under this head.

No. 3.
April 1838.

A Bill embodying the seventh suggestion was stated to be in progress, pursuant to a message which, with a previous understanding to this effect, I laid before the Council and Assembly on the 4th ultimo, conformably with my impression upon that subject submitted to your Lordship in a despatch of the 14th of March last, Barbados, No. 47.

1. & 2.
5 May 1838.

While these proceedings occupied the Privy Council, the House of Assembly had on their table below the message of the 8th instant, accompanying my despatch of the 11th, No. 107, and two other messages, of which copies are enclosed, one containing the concluding passages of your Lordship's private and confidential letter of the 2d of April; and the other announcing the enactment by the Council and Assembly of St. Vincent of a law (in accordance with the Antigua Slavery Abolition Act) for the liberation of the apprentices in that island on the 1st of August next.

Possessed of such materials in aid of their deliberation, the Council and Assembly were perfectly in condition, as it appeared to me, to come to a definitive conclusion; and the Privy Council, participating most kindly in my feelings, solicited, in their legislative capacity, a conference with the Assembly, and informed them that, if an Act for the Abolition of Apprenticeship were passed instanter, I should deem myself justified in detaining Her Majesty's Packet Mutine until to-day, for its conveyance to your Lordship.

This proposition being acceded to, a Bill hastily drawn up, which passed the two Houses, was read to me in Privy Council, and finding it impracticable to win more eligible terms for the apprentices, I thought it advisable, at least, to secure for them the best that were procurable, without further loss of time, and at once intimated an intention of accepting the Act tendered for my sanction, which, when received from the proper department, will be forwarded to your Lordship in a separate despatch.

To the Council (Sir Reynold Alleyne included) I am generally indebted for the zealous support afforded me; and in justice to the Assembly it is to be remarked that all the proceedings of the Committee, originally selected for the preparation of the Bill, are in the hands of Mr. Solicitor-general Clarke, whose illness, reported in my despatch Nos. 107 and 110, unhappily continues, and your Lordship will doubtless make every due and considerate allowance for the imperfections of an Act drawn up under such unusual disadvantages.

Possibly, from the accident of my having had the good fortune to assent to the Bill "for the Abolition of Slavery in Antigua and its dependencies from and after the 1st of August 1834," I may be unconsciously somewhat too partial to its provisions; and the apprenticeship since intervening, as well as the demand for labour, existing in Barbados to a far greater extent than in most other islands, may certainly tend to render less eminent in this densely-peopled colony that risk of "sudden dislocation and confusion" which induced the Legislature of Antigua "to allow the newly manumitted" slaves a longer conditional tenure of their ancient abodes for the election "of their future places of residence and service;" and it is much to be desired that this expectation, by which I believe the majority of the House of Assembly here to have been influenced upon the present occasion, may be warranted by a propitious result.

I have, &c.

AN ACT for terminating the Apprenticeship of the Prædial Labourers within this Island on the 1st day of August 1838.

WHEREAS by the Act of this island for the Abolition of Slavery, the apprenticeship of the prædial labourers will not expire until the 1st day of August 1840: And whereas the legislature of the island, duly considering the same, deem it expedient to terminate their apprenticeship on the 1st day of August next:

CLAUSE 1.—Be it therefore enacted, by his Excellency Sir Evan John Murray M'Gregor, baronet, governor and commander-in-chief of this island, chancellor-ordinary and vice-admiral of the same; the honourable the members of Her Majesty's Council, and the general assembly of this island, and by the authority of the same; that all and every the persons who on the 1st day of August in this present year of our Lord 1838, shall be holden within this island as prædial apprenticed labourers, shall upon and from and after the said 1st day of August 1838 become and be to all intents and purposes whatsoever absolutely freed and discharged of and from the then remaining term of their apprenticeship created by the aforesaid Act for the abolition of slavery, and of and from all and every the obligations imposed on them by, and pains and penalties incurred under, the said Act.

CLAUSE 2.—And be it further enacted, that until the 1st day of November next ensuing, it shall not be lawful for the owners or directors of plantations or places to eject or expel any prædial apprenticed labourer or labourers hereby discharged from the remaining term of his, her or their apprenticeship as aforesaid, who shall be willing to continue to perform such work as shall be assigned to him, her or them, and shall truly and faithfully perform the same for stipulated wages on such plantations or places from the houses or habitations which he, she or they respectively personally occupied in his, her or their state of apprenticeship as aforesaid; but the said owners or directors of the said plantations or places shall be and they are hereby required to permit and suffer the said labourers to have and enjoy respectively the personal occupation of the said houses or habitations, by way of temporary and gratuitous accommodation, until the said 1st day of November next ensuing, without any molestation or interruption of or by the said owners or directors of the said plantations or places, under a penalty of 50*s.* current money of this island, to be recovered before any justice of the peace as in the case of servants' wages, and paid to the party aggrieved: Provided always, that in case of non-performance of work, of insubordinate, quarrelsome, disorderly or riotous behaviour, or in case of drunkenness, theft, trespass or other gross delinquency on the part of any such labourer, it shall be competent to two or more justices of the peace, upon view and impartial inquiry into the merits of the complaint, by an authority under their hands and seals, to sanction the expulsion of such delinquent.

CLAUSE 3.—And be it further enacted, that the owners or directors of plantations or places shall be and they are hereby required to supply those persons who in their aforesaid state of apprenticeship were attached to such plantations or places respectively, and shall on the said 1st day of August 1838 be afflicted with any such disease, or mental or bodily infirmity as may render them permanently incapable of earning any part of their subsistence, with adequate food, clothing, medicine, medical attendance, lodging and maintenance during their natural lives, or until due and adequate provision shall be otherwise made for them by law, under a penalty of 2*s.* 6*d.* current money of this island per week, to the use of the person not supplied as aforesaid, to be recovered before any justice of the peace as in the case of servants' wages: Provided always, that in case any such person afflicted with any such disease, or mental or bodily infirmity as aforesaid, shall have any relations or kindred, or reputed relations or kindred in the first degree able to maintain him or her, the owner or director of the plantation or place to which he or she was attached as aforesaid, shall from and after the 1st day of August 1839 be relieved from any further liability for the food, clothing, medicine, medical attendance, lodging and maintenance of such infirm person: And provided also, that in case the owner of any such plantation or place to which any such infirm person shall have been attached, shall be in such reduced circumstances as to be unable at any time to furnish such food, clothing, medicine, medical attendance, lodging and maintenance as aforesaid, then and in such case the same shall be furnished to such infirm person by the churchwarden of the parish to which he or she shall belong, at the cost and expense of the said parish.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE LEGISLATURE OF MONTSERRAT. Encl. 2, in No. 11.

16th November 1837.

The following Message came down from the Council:

"Gentlemen,

"REFERRING to Lord Glenelg's despatch of 14th November, this board would call to the attention of your Honourable House the approaching crisis, when part of the Apprenticeship will expire by the Abolition Act. Viewing the success of a state of freedom in the island of Antigua, the failure of the Apprenticeship system in this island, and its attendant expense; and, following the suggestions recommended by Her Majesty's Government, this board would advise the boon of freedom being extended to all classes of apprentices; that the present Act be repealed, and a general emancipation take place on the 1st August 1838; in the mean time, such salutary laws be passed as will secure to this colony peace and good order."

EXTRACT of a Letter from President Hamilton, to Governor, Sir W. M. G. Colebrooke, dated Montserrat, 9 March 1838.

I HAVE the honour to hand your Excellency the following Act, for transmission to the Right honourable the Secretary of State—An Act to repeal an Act for the Abolition of Slavery, in August 1838.

(No. 138.)
(Montserrat.)

AN ACT to repeal an Act, intituled, "An Act for the Abolition of Slavery in this Island," and all other Acts auxiliary thereto.—(Passed 20 February 1838.)

WHEREAS by an Act of this island, intituled, "An Act for the Abolition of Slavery," it is, amongst other things, enacted, That from and after the 1st day of August in the year of our Lord 1834, all persons who, in conformity with the laws in force in this island, should on or before the 1st day of August in the year of our Lord 1834 have been duly registered as slaves in the said island, and who on the said 1st day of August in the year of our Lord 1834 should be actually within the said island, and who should by such registries appear to be on the said 1st day of August in the year of our Lord 1834 of the full age of six years or upwards, upwards, should by force and virtue of the said Act, and without the previous execution of any indenture of apprenticeship or other deed or instrument for that purpose, become and be apprenticed labourers; and it was by the said Act provided that, for the purposes aforesaid, every slave engaged in his ordinary occupation on the seas should be taken to be within the said island; and it is by the now reciting Act further enacted, That during the apprenticeship of any such apprenticed labourer, such person or persons should be entitled to the services of such apprenticed labourer as would for the time being have been entitled to his or her services as a slave, as if the said reciting Act had not been made: And it is further enacted, in and by the now reciting Act, that the said apprenticed labourers should be divided into three classes; the first of such classes consisting of prædial apprenticed labourers, attached to the soil, and comprising all persons who in their state of slavery were usually employed in agriculture, or in the manufacture of colonial produce or otherwise, upon lands belonging to their owners; the second of such classes consisting of prædial apprenticed labourers, not attached to the soil, and comprising persons who in their state of slavery were usually employed in agriculture, or in the manufacture of colonial produce, on lands not belonging to their owners; and the third of such classes consisting of non-prædial apprenticed labourers, and comprising all apprenticed labourers not included within either of the two preceding classes: And it was by the said now reciting Act further enacted, That no person who should become a prædial apprenticed labourer by virtue of the now reciting Act, whether attached or not attached to the soil, should continue in such apprenticeship beyond the 1st day of August in the year of our Lord 1840, and that no person who by virtue of reciting Act should become a non-prædial apprenticed labourer should continue in such apprenticeship beyond the 1st day of August in the year of our Lord 1838: And whereas it is deemed advisable and expedient, as well for the benefit of the employer as for the benefit of the apprenticed labourer, that the apprenticeship of all the classes should cease, determine and be at an end on the 1st day of August next; and that such apprentices shall on the said 1st day of August be as free as any other of Her Majesty's subjects, to all intents and purposes; and that the Act of this island, intituled, "An Act for the Abolition of Slavery," and all other Acts auxiliary thereto, should cease and determine on the said 1st day of August:

Preamble.

Repeal Abolition Act, and all Acts auxiliary thereto, o the 1st day of Augu next.

We, therefore, Your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the President administering the government of this island, and the Council and Assembly of the same, do pray Your most excellent Majesty, that an Act of this island, made and passed in the fifth year of the reign of King William the Fourth, intituled, "An Act for the Abolition of Slavery," and an Act passed in the same year, intituled, "An Act for the Protection and Maintenance of Apprenticed Labourers in this Island, and for insuring the punctual discharge by such Apprenticed Labourers of the services due by them to their employers, and generally for regulating the conduct and for the punishment of any offences committed by such Apprenticed Labourers;" and an Act passed in the same year, intituled, "An Act establishing a Police in the said Island;" and an Act passed in the same year, intituled, "An Act for the Classification of Apprenticed Labourers;" and an Act passed in the same year, intituled, "An Act for giving the Special Magistrate Jurisdiction over Apprenticed Labourers, and directing their mode of proceeding in the exercise of such Jurisdiction," shall on the said 1st day of August next cease, determine and be totally void and have no force or effect whatsoever; and that all and every apprentice and apprentices in the said island, of every class, shall on the said 1st day of August be and become as free to all intents and purposes as any other of Her Majesty's subjects.

Apprenticeship to cease and determin and all classes of labourers to be free on the said 1st day of August 1838.

And be it enacted, That the said persons so to be manumitted on the said 1st day of August next shall be entitled to receive relief on the same footing as all Her Majesty's other subjects in this island.

Persons discharged from apprenticeshi entitled to relief.

And be it further enacted, That from and after the said 1st day of August next, all owners or directors of plantations in this colony shall be and are hereby required to supply those persons who in their state of apprenticeship were attached to such plantations respectively, and shall, at the time of such emancipation, be afflicted with any such disease or mental or bodily infirmity as may render them permanently incapable of earning any part of their subsistence, with such food, clothing, lodging, medicine, medical attendance, and such other maintenance and allowances as by a certain Act passed in the year 1798, intituled, "An Act more effectually to provide for the support and to extend certain regulations for the protection of slaves, to promote and encourage their increase, and generally to meliorate their condition;" an owner was required to supply to and for any slave being of the same age, sex, and under the same circumstances as such persons shall respectively be, under a penalty of 5*l.* for every offence, to be recovered before any two or more justices of the peace, and such justices of the peace are hereby empowered and required upon complaint to them made to grant a warrant to bring the offender before them at the time, and place in such warrant specified, and if on the conviction of such offender on his or her confession, or on the evidence of one or more credible witness or witnesses upon oath (which oath such justices are hereby empowered to administer,) such penalty shall not be forthwith paid, it shall and may be lawful to and for such justices to levy the same by distress, and for want of distress to commit every such offender to the common gaol, there to remain for any time not exceeding 20 days, unless such penalty and all reasonable charges shall be sooner paid, and which penalty, when recovered, shall be paid into the public treasury for the use of this island: Provided always, and be it enacted, That in the event of any dispute or difficulty in ascertaining

Sir, Downing-street, 15 June 1838.

I HAVE the honour to transmit to you herewith an Order passed by Her Majesty in council on the 8th instant, specially confirming the two Acts numbered 138 and 139, the former of these Acts being for the total and immediate termination of the apprenticeship system in the island of Montserrat.

In forwarding this Order to the President of Montserrat, you will desire him to signify to the council and assembly of that island Her Majesty's gracious approbation of the liberal and enlightened course which they have pursued in bringing to a close by their own voluntary act the system of apprenticeship in Montserrat.

EXTRACT of a DESPATCH from Governor Sir W. M. G. Colebrooke to Lord Glenelg, dated Government House, Antigua, 16 April 1838.

No. 14.

I REPEATED to the President (of Nevis) my recommendation for the termination of the system in August next, with a view to the advantage of all parties.

Pursuant to this recommendation, it appears that the Council and Assembly on the 10th of March, held a general conference on the subject, and are reported to have divided in favour of the termination of the system by a majority of 17 to 4, which resolution is stated by the special magistrate to have been publicly made known.

After these proceedings, I cannot permit myself to doubt that the measure will be brought to a prosperous issue, and that the expectations raised by the announcement to the apprentices of the result of the conference will not be disappointed.

I have the satisfaction of also reporting to your Lordship, that, pursuant to my recommendation, a Bill has been passed by the Legislature at Tortola for terminating the apprenticeships in the Virgin Islands in August next, under the most gratifying circumstances.

I have not failed to impress on all the local legislatures the necessity of passing such laws as are required to meet these important changes in society.

My Lord, Government House, Antigua, 18 April 1838.

I HAVE much gratification in forwarding to your Lordship a note which I have received from Mr. President Isaacs, at Tortola, informing me that a Bill had passed the legislature of the Virgin Islands for terminating the system of apprenticeship on the 1st of August 1838, and, with others preparatory for the change, were about to be sent up for my approval.

Anticipating the adoption of this measure in the islands under this Government, I brought under the consideration of their legislatures the various provisions which would require to be made, and I have not failed to advert to the necessity of securing to the indigent and infirm a participation in the relief which is afforded by law to the other classes.

Mr. President Isaacs presents his compliments to Sir William Colebrooke, and feels much pleasure in acquainting him that the Act for terminating the system of apprenticeship throughout the Virgin Islands on the 1st of August next, together with several others consequent thereon, have passed the Legislature, which are being fairly transcribed, and which will be forwarded by the coming steamer, if completed in time for Sir William's approval.

THE General Emancipation Bills passed yesterday, after a strong opposition.

The news of the Bill having passed spread like wild-fire, and I was delighted in riding out last evening at the hearty salutations of the negroes.

It is already evident that these measures will prove highly beneficial, as the people will quietly and contentedly slide into the new state of things, being aware a boon has been granted them. I do not think a single planter who has any tact will lose a man who is worth keeping.

My Lord, Antigua, 8 May 1838.

The departure of Her Majesty's ship Racer, Captain Hope, enables me to acknowledge your Lordship's circular despatches of the 2d April, received this day, and on the important subject of these communications to inform your Lordship that there is much reason to hope that the system of apprenticeship in these islands will be terminated by all the local legislatures in the present year, and that the public tranquillity will be preserved.

Anticipating all the difficulties which are likely to arise from the maintenance of the system beyond the 1st of August next, I have been unceasingly anxious for the attainment of this result, and I will not lose sight of the object of obtaining a recognition of the claims of the aged and infirm to participate in the relief afforded by law to other classes of the community.

Copy of a DESPATCH from Sir W. M. G. Colebrooke to Lord Glenelg.

No. 17.

My Lord, Government House, Antigua, 17 May 1838.

On the receipt of your Lordship's circular despatch marked "Private and confidential" of the 2d of April, I had an opportunity of reporting by Her Majesty's ship "Racer," the expectation I had formed that the system of prædial apprenticeship was likely to be terminated in the present year in these islands.

I have on former occasions so fully explained my views on this subject, that your Lordship will have been prepared for such a measure, so far as depended upon my exertions to promote it, and the recent proceedings in Parliament are much calculated to strengthen the grounds in favour of its adoption.

In the Bill which has been passed at Tortola, the claim of the aged and infirm to parochial relief has been recognized; and with the understanding that due provision be made to render this relief effectual, I have not objected to the Bill, on the ground that estates have not been made as at present responsible for the charge, involving as it does a different mode of relief for persons who become chargeable before and after the 1st of August.

At Nevis the Bill is still in progress, and from the unsettled state of the public mind in that colony since the resolution of the Council and Assembly to terminate the system became known, I hope that it will be shortly passed: and I have the assurance of Sir Henry Macleod that it is likely to be adopted in St. Christopher's.

From the effect of the recent dissolution on the composition of the House of Assembly at Dominica, I have suggested to the Lieutenant-governor that it would be attended with the best effect, if the Council, which includes some of the principal landholders, should originate the Bill, which would tend to preserve the bond of union between the apprentices and their employers, while it would avoid the effect of protracted public discussions on a subject of such intense interest to the rural population.

Having circulated the various Acts which have been in operation in this island since 1834, I will endeavour as far as possible to avoid their defects, and to preserve uniformity on those which may be passed by the other local legislatures.

As it is impossible to communicate through Sir William Colebrooke by this packet (which is hourly expected here), I have the pleasure to announce that the Legislature of this colony have resolved to abolish the apprenticeship system on the 1st August next, and I have the honour to inclose the duplicate of a despatch I have addressed to his Excellency on the subject.

Enclosures in No. 18.

Sir, Government House, 18 May 1838. Encl. in No. 18.

MY correspondence will have shown your Excellency that although I had hitherto failed in my attempts with the Legislature for the abolition of the apprenticeship system in August next, I was still led to think it would eventually be adopted. Having pressed the matter, I was asked for a dissolution, that the members might take the sense of their constituents. Your Excellency will think with me that in a small island like this, and where 15 members for the rural parishes in the absence of the proprietary body are returned by 35 voters, it was not necessary; and I was also aware that one great object was to throw out four members who support the Government. Knowing likewise that parties at the time were nearly balanced on the question, I thought it politic neither to risk the loss of those I could depend upon, nor fair on these gentlemen not to have a voice in a popular measure, throughout which they have supported me. I did not therefore consent; but finding there was a great inclination, particularly in the council, to reconsider the subject, I prorogued, and yesterday again submitted the abolition of the system on the 1st of August next, which I have great satisfaction in announcing for the information of Her Majesty's Government was carried unanimously in the Council, and with hardly a dissentient voice in the Assembly.

I transmit my speech, with the answers from both branches, with my replies; and I trust the Right honourable the Secretary for the Colonies will think, under all circumstances, that the general answer I made to the assembly, while it did not pass over the ungracious allusion to the Imperial Parliament and myself, considering they had felt it necessary after a former and recent resolution, "that it was inexpedient to shorten the term of apprenticeship," was best calculated to prevent further irritability on their part; for it would have been almost as presumptuous in my defending at length the proceedings of the Imperial Parliament, as it would have been hopeless to convince them that I had caused the imperfect law under which the system has been carried on to be administered with strict honesty, but determination that the apprenticed labourers should have the full benefit of the spirit of the English Abolition Act. In this I have been ably and zealously assisted by the special magistrates of this island, who on all occasions have answered my fullest expectations, and who, under abuse and contumely heaped upon them by persons and the public press, have steadily and faithfully performed their duties.

I beg to add, the Bill for the Abolition was read a first time yesterday in the House of Assembly, and, that although I failed in obtaining the insertion of the Clauses of the Antigua Act to which Lord Glenelg alludes, yet the persons incapacitated from procuring their own livelihood will be provided for by the parishes as other paupers.

I have, &c.

Mr. President, and Gentlemen of the Council,
Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the Assembly,

SINCE I last met you, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Colonies has sent me a Bill, intituled, "An Act to amend an Act for the Abolition of Slavery in the British Colonies," which, having passed the House of Lords, has been twice read in the House of Commons. In its present state, and before it comes into force here by proclamation, I refrain from further remark, than that it would seem to provide for the proper working of the apprenticeship system.

ST. CHRISTOPHER. I have likewise to announce, that Her Majesty's Law Officers have decided that all plantation tradesmen are non-prædials, which entirely changes their classification in this island.

I will now advert to the reason that led me to prorogue this General Assembly.

I have always advocated the freedom of the labouring classes; but when the abolition of the apprenticeship system was first mooted, knowing this Legislature was not prepared to adopt it, I was then averse to the discussion of the subject, as calculated to raise hopes in those most interested, particularly if proposed by the executive, and consequent discontent and excitement, if rejected by the local Legislature. It has since, however, been debated in this and almost every other Assembly, and favourably entertained by many; it is, in consequence, become the engrossing topic among all classes of the community, which, with other events that have occurred, has so totally changed the aspect under which it was before viewed, that, at the request of the Honourable the Council, I prorogued, that I might again propose the abolition of the apprenticeship system in August next.

I now, accordingly, recommend it, with earnest entreaty for your cool and dispassionate consideration, assuring your Honourable Board and House, that though not possessed of property in the soil, both from the situation I hold and as an individual, I have a deep feeling of interest for the welfare of this colony, and while, from its present peculiar position, I have not a doubt in my own mind as to the policy of granting this great boon, I can well understand the hesitation and anxiety of those differently situated, in making this momentous change.

Should this measure be adopted, I need not remind your Honourable Board and House, there are laws necessary to meet it, and I am confident that they will be framed with your usual liberality and attention.

To His Excellency Sir Henry Macleod, R. H. & K., St. W., Lieut.-colonel in the Army, Lieut.-governor of St. Christopher and Anguilla, Chancellor and Ordinary of the same, &c. &c. &c.

Sir,

We, the members of the Board of Council, in answer to the speech which your Excellency has been pleased to deliver at the opening of the new Session, beg leave to state that, under the strong pressure of the various circumstanees mentioned by your Excellency, and of others to which you have not alluded, are of opinion that the abolition of the apprenticeship on the 1st of August next has become expedient, and that we are prepared to co-operate in immediate measures to accomplish this object. We beg to assure your Excellency, that we will approach the consideration of those laws which may be necessary to ensure the successful cultivation of the soil, with an earnest desire to protect the interests of all classes; and we trust that Her Majesty's Government will favourably entertain laws that shall be enacted in such a spirit.

We beg also to assure your Excellency of our conviction, that in pressing this subject upon the consideration of the Legislature you have been influenced by the desire of promoting the prosperity of this community.

To His Excellency Sir Henry Macleod, Knight of the Royal Hanoverian Guelphic Order, Lieutenant-colonel in the Army, Lieutenant-governor of the Islands of Saint Christopher and Anguilla, Chancellor and Ordinary of the same, &c. &c. &c.

May it please your Excellency,

We, the members of the Commons House of Assembly of the Island of Saint Christopher, having had your Excellency's Address of this date under our consideration, have come to the following resolution, viz.

"Resolved, That the measures adopted by the Imperial Parliament for destroying the efficiency of the apprenticeship system, and the discouragement to its continued well working, shown by the executive of these islands, render it absolutely necessary to prepare for its termination in August next."

And we confidently hope that the measures which will be introduced into this House in furtherance thereof, may be such as will meet with your Excellency's concurrence.

Reply.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Assembly,

I am happy that you have come to the determination to abolish the system of apprenticeship in August next; but I cannot agree that the measure adopted by the Imperial Parliament would destroy the efficiency of the apprenticeship system, nor am I aware of the executive of these islands having in any way discouraged the continuance of the well-working of that system.

I sincerely trust that the measures you introduce will be such as to meet the approbation of Her Majesty's Government.

My Lord, Government House, St. Vincent, 12 May 1838.

It is with no ordinary feelings I fulfil the gratifying duty of transmitting to your Lordship direct by the mail, which leaves this evening, the copy of a Bill for abrogating the apprenticeship of prædial labourers in this colony, which passed the legislature yesterday.

Your Lordship, on reference to my correspondence with his Excellency the Governor-in-chief on the 25th and 26th of April, will observe, I anticipated such a measure; I was not mistaken; its attainment, I am proud to say for the honour of the colony, has been accomplished, as your Lordship will see by the inclosed address from the Council and Assembly, spontaneously and unanimously, with a perfect confidence in its results.

I have therefore only to offer my sincere congratulations to your Lordship that my anxious exertions have been crowned with success, and to express a hope, that when the Act shall be submitted for the favourable consideration of our most gracious Sovereign, your Lordship will be pleased to declare the cheerful co-operation of all classes towards its accomplishment.

I shall do myself the honour of transmitting this communication, accompanied by a transcript of the Bill, and all the necessary official documents connected with the subject, to his Excellency Sir Evan M'Gregor, in the usual manner.

Sir,

l. in No. 19.

We, the Members of Her Majesty's Council and the Speaker and Members of the House of Assembly, respectfully approach and place in the hands of your Excellency a Bill, intituled, "An Act to abrogate the Apprenticeship of Prædial Labourers in the Island of Saint Vincent and its Dependencies."

In passing this most important measure, the two branches of the legislature are not insensible of the difficulties, the sacrifice and inconvenience which will fall with much severity on persons in all professions, circumstances and situations; but, actuated by a spirit of benevolence and an enlarged philanthropy, they are of opinion they have not granted the boon of emancipation upon any conditions inconsistent with the character, the safety and the true interests of the country.

Upon this occasion the Council and Assembly think it but an act of justice to acknowledge and commend the zeal and honourable dealing which your Excellency has on all occasions manifested in the discharge of your important duties, and it is highly gratifying to them that the pleasing and solemn duty of giving effect to this Act has been committed to your Excellency.

To His Honour the President and Members of Her Majesty's Council, and to His Honour the Speaker and Members of the House of Assembly.

The Lieutenant-governor, in congratulating the Honourable Board of Council and the Honourable House of Assembly on the measure of emancipation which they have spontaneously and honourably granted to the prædial labourers by the Bill now before him, cannot but express his firm conviction that this instance of their liberality will best insure the permanent welfare of the colony; that, by cheerfully meeting the end which could not be indefinitely postponed, postponed, they have adopted the safest and most certain means to encourage that confidence and willing intercourse, which, by directing the energies to industrious exertion, will convert our rural population into a faithful and happy peasantry.

For the flattering expressions conveyed to the Lieutenant-governor personally, he feels thankful, and if the discharge of his official duties merits your encomiums, he begs you will believe that those efforts to perpetuate and augment the happiness and security of all classes within this government shall ever occupy his best attention.

AN ACT to abrogate the Apprenticeship of Prædial Labourers in the Island of Saint Vincent and its Dependencies.

1. Terminates the apprenticeship on 1st August 1838.

WHEREAS the prædial labourers in this island and its dependencies are by the laws of the Imperial Parliament and of the said island subject to an apprenticeship until the 1st day of August 1840, which it is expedient to abrogate, we therefore, Your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Lieutenant-governor, Council and Assembly of the island of Saint Vincent and its dependencies, humbly pray your most Excellent Majesty, that it may be enacted, and be it and it is hereby enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all and every the prædial labourers who on the 1st day of August 1838 shall be subject to apprenticeship within this island and its dependencies, shall upon and from and after the said 1st day of August 1838 become and be to all intents and purposes free and discharged from the obligations which are by law imposed upon them as apprenticed labourers.

2. Renders unlawful the eviction from their habitations of labourers willing to work for wages (unless for ill conduct) before the 1st August 1839; also of persons who from disease are incapable of earning their subsistence.

And be it further enacted, That until the 1st day of August 1839, it shall not be lawful for the owners or directors of plantations to evict or expel any labourer or labourers, person or persons who shall be willing to continue to perform such work as shall be assigned to him, her or them, and shall truly and faithfully perform the same for stipulated wages, or who shall be then labouring under any such disease or mental or bodily infirmity as may render him, her or them incapable of earning his, her or their subsistence, from the habitations or tenements which he, she or they respectively personally occupied in his, her or their state of apprenticeship, except in case of insubordinate, quarrelsome or riotous behaviour, or in case of drunkenness, theft, trespass or other gross delinquency on his, her or their part, when it shall be competent to any two or more justices of the peace, upon due and impartial inquiry made into the merits of the complaint, by an authority under their hands and seals, to sanction the expulsion of any such delinquent, but the said owners or directors of plantations shall be and are hereby required to permit and suffer the said labourers and persons to have and enjoy respectively the personal occupation of the said habitations or tenements by way of a temporary and gratuitous accommodation for the year ending on the said 1st day of August 1839, and no longer, without any molestation or interruption of or by the said owners or directors of plantations, under a penalty of 5*l.* current money for every offence, to be recovered and applied in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

3. Makes it imperative on masters to give food, &c, to those not able to earn their subsistence until parochial laws are made.

And be it further enacted, That from and after the said 1st day of August 1838, all owners or directors of plantations in this colony shall be and are hereby required to supply those persons who shall on the said 1st day of August 1838, be afflicted with any such disease, or mental or bodily infirmity, as may render them permanently incapable of earning their subsistence with such food, clothing, lodging, medicine, medical attendance, and such other maintenance and allowances as by the laws now in force in this colony a master is required to supply to and for any apprenticed labourer being of the same age and sex, and under the same circumstances as such persons shall respectively be, until proper arrangements and due and adequate provision shall be made for their maintenance and relief by the respective parishes, or by some other benevolent and effectual plan in their favour, and no longer, under a penalty of 5*l.* current money for every offence, to be recovered and applied in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

4. Provides for the settlement of disputed claims.

Provided always, and be it enacted, That in the event of any dispute or difficulty in ascertaining whether any particular individual shall be included in such number of persons, it shall and may be lawful for the parties interested to make their appeal to two or more of the nearest of Her Majesty's justices of the peace, who, taking to their counsel some experienced medical practitioner, shall under their hands and seals make a peremptory and conclusive decision in this behalf.

5. Mode of proceeding of justices and appropriation of penalties.

And be it further enacted, That all the penalties imposed by this Act shall and may be proceeded for within the space of one calendar month after the offence shall have been committed, and shall be recovered before any two or more of the nearest justices of the peace, and such justices of the peace are hereby empowered and required, upon complaint to them made, to grant a warrant to bring the offender before them at the time and place in such warrant specified; and if on conviction of such offender, or his or her confession, or on the evidence of any one or more credible witness or witnesses upon oath (which oath

EXTRACT of a DESPATCH from Governor Sir Lionel Smith, Bart, K.C.B., to Lord Glenelg, dated Spanish Town, Jamaica, 17 May 1838. No. 98.

YOUR Lordship's circular despatch of the 2d ultimo, enclosing a copy of the proposed Amended Abolition Act, together with your private and confidential letter of the same date, communicating to me the measures which had been taken in Parliament, and the state of the public feeling in England on the apprenticeship question, all reached me on the 13th instant.

Accounts from the Windward Colonies also communicated that Barbados, Tortola, Nevis and Montserrat, had passed Acts of general emancipation, on the 1st of August next, for all classes.

The packet also brought accounts from England, that several landed proprietors had sent out orders to give general freedom to their negroes on the 1st of August next.

I assembled the Council yesterday, who were unanimous in opinion, that the House of Assembly should be immediately convened, and have the opportunity given them of providing for the expected crisis; and I am happy to say the Council were equally unanimous, that the only measure to carry the country through its difficulties, on this great question, would be by the general release of all the apprentices on the 1st of August next, and they will come to a legislative resolution to that effect, when the Legislature is assembled.

The House of Assembly stands prorogued to the 29th instant, and I have ordered it to assemble for the despatch of business on the 5th proximo.

EXTRACT of a DESPATCH from Governor Sir Lionel Smith, Bart. K. C. B., to Lord Glenelg, dated The King's House, Jamaica, 7th June 1838. No. 114.

MY previous reports will have informed your Lordship, that I had resolved on calling upon both branches of the Legislature to take into consideration the state of the island, consequent upon several of the Windward and Leeward Colonies having agreed to abolish the apprenticeship system, in respect to all classes, on the 1st August next.

The Legislature accordingly met on the 5th instant, when I addressed to the Council and Assembly the enclosed speech; and I have the honour also to transmit their replies.

After some little discussion in the House of Assembly, the question was referred to a committee, and I believe I can safely promise your Lordship, that the most desirable object of general abolition will be agreed to, to take place on the 1st August; and I confidently expect to have the happiness of forwarding your Lordship the Bill by this packet, the House having requested me to detain the packet, for 48 hours, for this purpose.

The British Amended Abolition Act comes into operation on the 9th instant.

Gentlemen of the Council,

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Assembly,

I HAVE called you together, at an unusual season, to take into your consideration the state of the island under the laws of apprenticeship for the labouring population.

I need not refer you to the agitation on this subject throughout the British empire, or to the discussions upon it in Parliament, where the honourable efforts of the Ministry were barely found sufficient to preserve the original duration of the law, as an obligation of national faith.

I shall lay before you some despatches on this subject.

Gentlemen, General agitation and Parliamentary interference have not, I am afraid, yet terminated.

A corresponding excitement has been long going on amongst the apprentices themselves, but resting in sober and quiet hopes on your generosity that you will do them justice, and not deny to them that boon which has been granted to their class in other colonies.

Gentlemen of the Council,

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Assembly,

In this posture of affairs, it is my duty to declare my sentiments, and distinctly to recommend to you, early and equal abolition of apprenticeship for all classes.

I do so in confidence that the apprentices will be found worthy of freedom, and that it will operate as a double blessing, by securing also the future interests of the planters.

I am commanded, however, to inform you, that Her Majesty's Ministers will not entertain any question of future compensation; but should your views be opposed to the policy I recommend, I would entreat you to consider well how impracticable it will become to carry on coercive labour. Always difficult, it would in future be in peril of constant comparison with other colonies made free, and with those estates in this island made free by individual proprietors.

As Governor, under these circumstances, and I never shrink from any of my responsibilities, I pronounce it physically impossible to maintain the apprenticeship with any hope of successful agriculture.

Gentlemen of the Council.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Assembly.

Jamaica is in your hands; she requires repose by the removal of a law which has equally tormented the labourer and disappointed the planter; a law by which man constrains man in unnatural servitude.

This is her first exigency.

For her future welfare she appeals to your wisdom to legislate in the spirit of the times, with liberality and benevolence towards all classes.

The humble Address of the Council.

May it please your Excellency,

We, the Council of Jamaica, beg leave to thank your Excellency for the speech with which you have been pleased to open the present session.

Unusual as the period of the year is for the assembling of the Legislature, and inconvenient as it undoubtedly is for us to be absent from our respective houses at this moment, still we feel grateful to your Excellency for having called us together for the purpose of taking into our consideration the state of the island, under the laws of apprenticeship, for the labouring population.

We are aware of the agitation on this subject throughout the British empire, and of the discussions on it in Parliament, and duly appreciate the honourable efforts of Her Majesty's Ministers to preserve the original duration of the law as an obligation of national faith.

When it shall please your Excellency to lay before us any despatches on this subject, your Excellency may rely on their receiving our most attentive consideration.

We

JAMAICA.

We feel confident that the hopes of the apprentices will not be disappointed, and that the wisdom and generosity of the Legislature of Jamaica will not hesitate to extend to them that boon which has been granted to their class in the other colonies.

We cordially concur in your Excellency's wise and humane recommendation of an early and equal abolition of the apprenticeship of all classes, and feel pleasure in recording our perfect conviction that the apprentices will be found worthy of freedom in every respect, and will so conduct themselves in their altered condition as to insure the future interests of the planters.

Coercive labour has at all times been obtained with difficulty, but under the present peculiar circumstances of this island we fear it might be impossible to maintain the apprenticeship with any hope of successful agriculture.

Jamaica does indeed require repose; and we are sanguine in the expectation that, under Divine Providence, such laws will be passed by her Legislature as will evince their desire to act with liberality and benevolence towards all classes.

We also rely on that sound and safe discretion, and that firmness of purpose, which have ever characterized your Excellency in the administration of the government of this important and valuable colony.

(No. 3.)

Gentlemen of the Council,

I THANK you for this Address, and beg to assure you, that I feel the highest confidence in your anxious desire to promote the true interests of the country at this important crisis.

I gratefully acknowledge your reliance upon my humble efforts to secure the tranquillity and welfare of all classes of Her Majesty's subjects.

The humble Address of the Assembly.

May it please your Excellency,

WE, Her Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Assembly of Jamaica, thank your Excellency for your speech at the opening of the session, and we duly appreciate the consideration evinced by your Excellency, in convening this General Assembly on the earliest day consistent with the public welfare on the present emergency.

On receiving the despatches alluded to by your Excellency, we shall proceed, in the critical posture in which the island is placed, to give to the momentous matters submitted to us our most serious consideration. Jamaica does indeed require repose, and we anxiously hope, that should we determine to remove an unnatural servitude, we shall be left in the exercise of our constitutional privileges, to legislate for the benefit of all classes, without any further parliamentary interference.

The apprenticeship was forced on the acceptance of the House, as one of the precautionary measures to be adopted in the transition from slavery to freedom, and was a portion of our compensation; while therefore we discuss the propriety of its abolition, we neither assume the responsibility nor exonerate the public faith.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Assembly,

I RECEIVE this your Address with great satisfaction, feeling confident that you will give a calm and dispassionate consideration to the important question upon which you have been specially convened.

Gentlemen of the Council,
Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House of Assembly,

I CONGRATULATE you and the whole country on the Act for the abolition of the apprenticeship from the 1st of August next, and most fervently do I hope that it may ensure to the colony those advantages which equal liberty, under wise laws, has ever been found to produce.

I am happy that I can now grant you a recess, as I am most anxious that you should, by returning to your houses, be enabled to make such arrangements as may give encouragement to the industry of the free labourer; and by your example prepare all ranks to meet the approaching change, in a spirit of kindness and mutual good will.

Gentlemen of the Council,
Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House of Assembly,

It will, I am convinced, prove a source of lasting satisfaction to you, that this final declaration of unrestricted freedom has been the Act of the Legislature of Jamaica; and I cordially thank you for the great boon it confers upon those whose former condition has long been the cause of painful discontent both here and in the mother country.

I do now, in Her Majesty's name, prorogue this General Assembly, to Tuesday, the 17th day of July next, and it is hereby prorogued accordingly.

EXTRACT of a DESPATCH from Colonel Bunbury to Lord Glenelg, dated Camp House, Demerara, 22d June 1838. No. 86.

I have herewith the honour of transmitting to your Lordship extracts of the Minutes of the Court of Policy, in which will be found a notice of motion for the abolition of the apprentice system, and the observations to which that measure gave rise; these, alone, cannot lead your Lordship to any conclusive opinion; neither is it from what passed in court, but from the result of conferences which I have since had with the members and other influential persons, that I am at this moment enabled, unreservedly, to state to your Lordship, that the unconditional and total emancipation of the apprenticed labourers in this colony will take place on the 1st of August next.

The Honourable Colonel M'Turk's motion, by which this glorious measure is to be effected, is to be brought forward on Monday next the 25th instant.

I am in hourly expectation of the arrival of my successor, Mr. Light, who will, I have no doubt, take the first opportunity of informing your Lordship of the consummation of this great event.

Encl. in No. 4.

EXTRACT from the Minutes of the Proceedings of the Honourable the Court of Policy of the Colony of British Guiana, at its adjourned Assembly held, at the Guiana Public Buildings, Georgetown, Demerara, Wednesday, 20th June 1838.

The Honourable Colonel M'Turk here rose, and addressed the Court as follows:

May it please your Excellency,

In rising to give a notice of a motion for the future consideration of this Court, having for its object the greatest change in the social order of society that was ever mooted in this colony, it is necessary, I should say, that as such it should be received with caution, listened to with attention, and judged of with temper after mature deliberation. I know there are many in the community who support me in the views I entertain of the proposed measure, while at the same time I am aware that there are others of a different way of thinking. To reconcile both parties is my most earnest wish and ardent desire for that purpose, and impressed with the belief that if a mutual understanding could be come to, whereupon it would be safe to legislate, much future good would accrue to the community at large, and all irritation and excitement in the minds of the negroes and the whites allayed. To attain this most desirable end, I see only one way in which it can be done, and that is by making it imperative on parties holding contrary opinions to state their reasons in a constitutional way, and by so doing, enable this Court to arrive at a safe, just, and equitable conclusion, previous to attempting any legislative enactment. The standing rules of this Court happily afford me the means of putting these conflicting opinions to the test. The Court is aware that any Bill not brought forward by his Excellency, after a first reading, must be published in the Royal Gazette for a time, for general information, for the purpose of inviting the opinion of the community as to the propriety or impropriety of the measure contemplated. What I then contemplate is, to bring in a Bill to abolish the apprenticeship as it now exists in this colony, which, when published, will elicit that information which I am so anxious to obtain. For the present, it is not necessary to say more, as I shall hereafter enter more fully into detail, if I am permitted to bring in my Bill. I therefore now give notice, that I will, at an early day to be fixed, bring in a Bill having for its object the abolition of the negro apprenticeship as at present existing in the colony, to take effect on the 1st of August next ensuing, under the proviso that all the labourers shall have to remain and work at their usual occupations until the 1st of January, for reasonable wages to be fixed by this Court.

The Honourable Colonel Dougan considered such a motion as that of which the honourable member had just given notice, highly unnecessary and inexpedient, and could not conceive how it would be possible for so limited a representation as that which this Court presented, to entertain a question of such vast and general importance, without previously ascertaining the sentiments and opinions of the community at large. Some discussion took place in reference to that part of Colonel M'Turk's notice of motion which implied that any "Bill not brought forward by his Excellency, must, after a first reading, be published in the Royal Gazette."

The

The Honourables the Attorney-General Warren and Macrae, with his Honor the Chief Justice, differed with the honourable member as to there being any such rule or regulation.

The honourable Colonel M'Turk had no doubt that the mere notice of motion which he had this day given would soon have the effect of eliciting the opinions of all who differed with him, and of the many likewise who coincided with his own view of the subject. The most prudent course, in his opinion, was to meet the question at once fearlessly and openly, and to bring it to a decision one way or the other.

His Excellency stated that several gentlemen had expressed to him their intention of terminating the apprenticeship upon their properties on the 1st of August next, and questioned how far it would be practicable to avoid a general measure if these partial concessions were made.

The discussion here terminated, his Honor the Chief Justice stating, that when the motion came before the Court would be the proper time to discuss the merits of it, and that he should reserve what he had to say on the subject until then.

Extract from the Minutes of the Proceedings of the Honourable the Court of Policy of the Colony of British Guiana, at its adjourned Assembly, held at the Guiana Public Buildings, Georgetown, Demerara, Thursday 21 June 1838.

The bill to amend an ordinance, intituled An Ordinance for the Classification and Registration of Slaves hereafter to become and be Apprenticed Labourers, having been brought up for a second reading, the honourable Colonel M'Turk stated, that as the motion of which he had yesterday given notice might in some measure interfere with the Bill now before the Court, and as the present vacancy among the elective members would so immediately be filled up, he would take leave to suggest the expediency of postponing the further consideration of the Bill for the present, declaring it to be his intention to bring forward his proposed Bill without any unnecessary delay.

His Excellency stated that he should have no objection to defer the further consideration of the Classification Bill, if the honourable member would name as early a day as possible for the introduction of his Bill; to which the honourable member agreed, and the Bill was deferred accordingly.

Extract of a DESPATCH from Colonel Bunbury to Lord Glenelg; dated Camp House, Demerara, 26 June 1838. No. 87. — No. 5.

The term of my administration of this government having drawn to a close, by the arrival of Governor Light, I hasten to enclose to your Lordship an extract minute of the proceedings of the Court of Policy, containing the speech I had the honour to address to that body on the occasion of Colonel M'Turk's giving notice of the day on which he proposed the Court of Policy should take into consideration his motion on the vital question of the abolition of the apprenticeship system on the 1st of August next.

I beg to assure your Lordship that I entertain no doubt whatsoever as to the termination of this debate in the total extinction of the apprenticeship on that day.

I trust that the part I have taken, at this momentous crisis, will meet your Lordship's approbation.

Extract from the Minutes of the Proceedings of the Honourable the Court of Policy of the Colony of British Guiana, at its adjourned Assembly, held at the Guiana Public Buildings, George Town, Demerara, Monday, 25 June 1838. — Encl. in No. 5.

Gentlemen,

I have determined to take upon myself the responsibility of again delaying the Classification Bill until Monday next, in order that the Honourable Michael M'Turk may, on that day, bring forward his motion for the abolition of the apprenticeship.

BRITISH GUIANA.

Although I fully concurred in the views entertained by your late Governor, as to the continuance of the apprenticeship to the term originally fixed by law, yet recent events, and the public announcement of such a motion in this court, render its abolition unavoidable.

It would now be both impolitic and useless to offer opposition to this measure, supported, as it is, out of doors by a majority of the proprietory body.

I would, therefore, implore the colonial section of this court to remember, that the destiny of this magnificent colony depends on the vote they shall give that day; and I would entreat them to come forward, and unanimously support a measure which the course of events has rendered inevitable, and which the voice of the community loudly demands at their hands.

Sir, Government-House, Grenada, 28 May 1838.

May 1838. I have the honour to forward to your Excellency the transcript of a Bill, intituled, "An Act for the Abrogation of the presext System of Prædial Apprenticeship upon the 1st day of August next," together with the report thereon by Her Majesty's Attorney-general for this colony.

I earnestly hope your Excellency will see fit to allow me to assent to this Bill, as I should view with anxiety any delay, as I know many of the employers of apprentices have already made them acquainted with its provisions, or with the fact that the Legislature intended to abrogate the apprenticeship. I have of course been silent on the subject, and have not allowed the special magistrates to make any communication to the people until after I should have received your commands as to assenting to the Bill. As the matter is, in my opinion, of such importance, and I am desirous of addressing the people myself without loss of time, to prevent the chance of misconception on their part, I have deemed it expedient, on my own responsibility, to send an express vessel with the Bill to Barbados, with directions to await your Excellency's answer and return forthwith; a measure which, I trust, will meet your approval.

In consequence of the passing of this Bill, it is not my intention to proclaim the "Act to amend the Act for the Abolition of Slavery in the British Colonies, 11th April 1838," unless I receive your Excellency's further instructions.

I have, &c.

His Excellency the Governor-general, &c. &c. &c. (signed) C. J. Doyle, Lieutenant-Governor.

Sir, Grenada, 27 May 1838.

I have perused the Bill submitted to my consideration by your Excellency's desire, intituled, "An Act for the Abrogation of the present System of Prædial Apprenticeship upon the 1st day of August next." I find that the provisions of this Bill are substantially the same as those comprised in the Act of the Legislature of Antigua, passed in the year 1834, for relieving the slave population of that colony from the apprenticeship imposed by the Imperial Act. In the second clause your Excellency will observe that delinquents who are blind, and of unsound mind, are not liable to expulsion from their habitations for the delinquencies provided against by that clause in the case of other persons not subject to those infirmities. This wholesome exception is not contained in the Antigua Act.

In

In the latter part of the third clause is a recognition of the rights of the proprietors, in which it is provided that, from the stipulated wages of the labourer, such rent shall be deducted for the habitation occupied by him as may be agreed upon between the owner and director, and the labourer. I consider this deviation in form from the Antigua Act as merely introduced from the excessive caution of the owners of property, and that it does not create any substantial difference between the two Acts.

The wages of the labourer in Antigua being equally liable to a deduction for the habitation which he occupies (these are the only variations from the Act of Antigua), I feel, therefore, every confidence in stating to your Excellency that there exists no legal objection to this Bill becoming the law of the colony.

Sir,

I HAVE had the honour of perusing your Excellency's despatch of the 28th ultimo, received this morning, together with the transcript of a Bill, intituled, "An Act for the Abrogation of the present System of Prædial Apprenticeship upon the 1st day of August," in the island of Grenada, and the report of Her Majesty's Attorney-general for that colony.

It affords me sincere pleasure to be enabled, without delay, to request that your Excellency will be pleased to sanction the above-mentioned Act, and likewise to convey to your Excellency, as well as to the Honourable the Council and Assembly, my congratulations on the decision at which the Legislature of Grenada has arrived upon this most important subject.

With respect to the proclamation of the Imperial Act to amend the Act for the Abolition of Slavery in the British Colonies, I have the honour of referring your Excellency to the Right honourable the Colonial Secretary's despatches, and to the Act itself, adding, at the same time, for your Excellency's information, two proclamations issued by me here, and the transcript of a message which I have had occasion recently to address to the Legislative Houses of Barbados.

Enclosures in No. 9.

Sir, Government House, Tobago, 1 June 1838.

Encl. in No. 9. In my despatch of the 19th May (No. 37) I had the honour to acquaint your Excellency that the Council had unanimously declined to come forward with any proposal for the abolition of negro apprenticeship; and on the 24th May (No. 43) I spoke of certain resolutions which they had passed relative to Lord Glenelg's despatch of the 30th March, covering the opinion of the Attorney and Solicitor-general in England, on the claims of estates mechanics to be considered non-prædials.

While the joint committee of the Council and Assembly were debating upon the address to be presented to me, I determined, upon consideration of the deeply important nature of the late despatches from Her Majesty's Secretary of State, and the information I had received of the proceedings in the neighbouring islands, to address to both branches of the Legislature a message, of which I beg to enclose a copy to your Excellency.

No. 2. 26 May 1838. This message they abstained from answering, until possessed of my sentiments on the address which they had prepared, but had not then delivered. Finding by my answer, when received, that there was little prospect of obtaining the object of their wishes, namely, a suppression of the legal opinions transmitted with my Lord Glenelg's despatch, Mr. Campbell on the 29th ultimo, gave notice, in his place in the House of Assembly, of a motion for the following day for taking my message into consideration, with a view to the general abolition of the apprenticeship on the 1st of August. The result of the debate was yesterday communicated to me in a hasty resolution, of which I enclose a copy, the question having been

No. 3. 31 May 1838. carried against the dissentient voices of Mr. Gairdner and another.

On this occasion some of the members thought it necessary to give in their speeches in writing, not trusting to their oratorical powers to do justice to their change of sentiments. The Bill was read twice yesterday, and has happily passed the Assembly: I shall be truly rejoiced if it pass the ordeal of the Council with equal rapidity, and that I may be enabled to send your Excellency a copy by the expected mail boat.

No. 4. 29 May 1838. I trouble your Excellency with a copy of the joint Address presented to me, and my answer, that you may judge of the importance attached to the loss of the services of the estates mechanics, who were considered by the island classification as prædials.

No. 5. 30 May 1838. To the loss of their services, is to be attributed chiefly the consummation of this most interesting object.

We should not have been very materially affected by the operation of the Act of 11th of April, though it is not to be doubted that it had its influence in the change of sentiments that has so happily taken place, it not having been communicated to the Legislature when I addressed your Excellency on the 19th ultimo.

No. 6. 1 June 1838. P. S. Since putting my name to the foregoing, I have received a communication from the House of Assembly, whereof copy is enclosed, officially announcing that the Bill had passed, and had been sent up to the Council.

(No. 2.)

MESSAGE to the Honourable Board of Legislative Council, and House of General Assembly.

THE Lieutenant-governor has the honour to put the ———— in possession of two printed copies of an Act of the Imperial Parliament, dated 11th April 1838, intituled, "An Act to Amend the Act for the Abolition of Slavery in the British Colonies."

The Lieutenant-governor has to acquaint ———— that he has received peremptory instructions to carry this Act into operation, as soon as the necessary proclamation, and other arrangements connected with it, can be prepared.

The short interval that must thus occur before the Proclamation, appears to invite the Lieutenant-governor to a communication with the Legislature, on a deeply important measure, for the consideration of which the present moment appears peculiarly favourable, namely, the general abolition of negro apprenticeship at an early period.

In offering this question to the consideration of the ————, the Lieutenant-governor feels it proper to inform the ————, that although Her Majesty's Ministers may participate in the universal and deeply-seated feeling so prevalent in the parent State, for bringing the system of apprenticeship, established in 1833, to an early close, yet are they not unmindful of the pledge implied on the passing of that Act as to the period to which the proprietary body were to enjoy the services of their apprentices; and although a motion for a general emancipation on the 1st of August next was supported in Parliament by so large a minority as that of 217 votes, the measure was successfully resisted by Government.

It is therefore only as an appeal to the liberal feelings of the planter that this subject can now be brought before them; and it is for them seriously to reflect how long it may be practicable to resist the excitement that must naturally be engendered in the minds of those negroes who may be retained in a state of servitude in this island, when constant intercourse with the neighbouring colonies must bring to their knowledge the boon that has been conferred on their equals in other places, where (as the Lieutenant-governor will venture to assert), it has not been more deserved by general good conduct and obedience to the laws on the part of the apprentices than in Tobago.

It is further worthy of the most serious consideration of the planters, whether it may not be highly advisable for them to conciliate the goodwill of the labourer, on whose disposition to work for fair remuneration in a state of unrestricted freedom, the proprietor must hereafter be in a great measure dependant.

To these considerations may be added the well known fact, that during the state of slavery Tobago was ever foremost in altering its laws and adopting any amelioration in the slave code when suggested, by which the condition of those unhappy beings was from time to time much improved; and will the island be backward in following the example so nobly set by many of the sister colonies, of annihilating all traces of bondage or compulsory service, within the circle of their influence, by declaring a general abolition of negro apprenticeship in this island on the 1st of August next, or as soon after as may be practicable with the existing circumstances of society?

The Lieutenant-governor would have some time since addressed the Legislature on this interesting subject, had he not preferred that a measure calculated to reflect so much credit on its authors should have emanated from the parties most interested in it. Having now found the necessity of bringing it into discussion, it is for the ———— to decide as their feelings and judgment may dictate.

Lieutenant-Governor.

THE House of General Assembly beg leave to annex, for your Excellency's information, copy of a resolution agreed to by the House this day; viz.

(No. 4.)

To His Excellency Major-General Henry Charles Darling, Lieutenant-Governor in and over the Island of Tobago, and its Dependencies, &c. &c. &c.

The Joint Address of the Board of Legislative Council and the House of General Assembly.

May it please your Excellency,

We, the President and Members of the Board of Legislative Council, and the Speaker and Members of the House of General Assembly, beg leave to approach your Excellency on a subject of the most vital importance to the colony, and one on which we feel a difficulty in expressing our feelings, as it embraces not only the welfare of the apprenticed labourer himself, but involves the peace and safety of the colony.

Your Excellency may well anticipate the subject of this address from the tenor of your Excellency's message (covering the opinion of the Attorney-general and Solicitor-general of England) to both branches of the Legislature, of date the 17th instant, and which we regret to say has caused a ferment in the community which we want language to describe.

Although not professional men, we cannot but think that the opinion of the Attorney-general and Solicitor-general of England has been given on a case not correctly stated as to the operation of the different Acts passed for the relief of the apprenticed labourers; for we submit, with deference, to your Excellency, the following facts:

First, By the Classification Act passed on the 18th July 1834, it is enacted by clause first,

"That all persons who by force and virtue of the said recited Act, or of any Acts of the Legislature of this island, shall on the 1st day of August now next ensuing, cease to be slaves, and be freed and discharged of and from the obligations of slavery, shall be called and styled apprenticed labourers, and shall be divided into three distinct classes. The first of such classes to consist of prædial apprenticed labourers attached to the soil, and comprising all persons who in their state of slavery are now employed or worked upon any plantation or plantations in this colony belonging to persons entitled to their services; the second of such classes to consist of prædial apprenticed labourers not attached to the soil, and comprising all persons who in their state of slavery are employed or worked in agricultural labour upon any plantation or land in this colony, not belonging to persons entitled to their services; and the third of such classes to consist of non-prædial apprenticed labourers, and comprising all apprenticed labourers not included within either of the two preceding classes. Provided always, that no person of the age of 12 years and upwards shall be included in either of the said two classes of prædial apprenticed labourers, unless such person shall, for 12 calendar months at least next before the passing of the said recited Act, have been habitually employed or worked upon any such plantation or lands as aforesaid."

Secondly, That by the general rules sent out to the Assistant Commissioners of Compensation, confirmed by His Majesty in Council, and enrolled in the High Court of Chancery in England, and drawn up and framed in pursuance of 47 and 55 clauses of the Act 3d & 4th Will. 4, c. 37, for the guidance of the Assistant Commissioners in Tobago, all slaves were to be divided into three classes (distinct) or divisions.

1. Prædial attached.
2. Prædial unattached.
3. Non-prædial.

The prædial attached, the subject of our present address, are by these instructions divided into five classes; viz.

1. Head people.
2. Tradesmen.
3. Inferior tradesmen.
4. Field labourers.
5. Inferior field labourers.

By which your Excellency will perceive that two of the above-mentioned five classes are the parties to which the present case peculiarly alludes, viz. tradesmen and inferior tradesmen.

Your Excellency cannot but perceive that the intention and wishes of the British Government, confirmed by the instructions sent out to the Assistant Commissioners before alluded to, were to include all tradesmen attached to estates, as well principal as inferior, in the class of prædials.

We therefore think it impossible, and against reason, to consider the opinion of the Attorney-general and Solicitor-general of England at all applicable to this colony; that opinion having been founded without any reference to our Colonial Classification Act, which Act has received the Royal Assent, and been proclaimed in this colony, and thereby became the law of the land.

Were it necessary to place these facts in a stronger light, and to demonstrate that the feelings and intention of His Majesty's Government, at the time of framing the Abolition Act, were given effect to, we refer to the overwhelming fact, which we consider conclusive, that the appraisers appointed by the Assistant Commissioners of Compensation put a higher higher value of 10*l.* more upon the non-prædials than upon those attached to estates, taking nto consideration the longer duration of their time of servitude.

In further proof of this, we refer your Excellency to Sir Lionel Smith's despatch and instructions, of date 14th December 1834.

We further add, that trusting to the operation of the above facts, and considering these tradesmen as belonging to the class of prædials, the usual allowances and days secured to prædials by law, besides payment for their extra labour, was given to these tradesmen, but which non-prædials were not entitled to.

Having thus laid before your Excellency the true state of the case, we feel confident that your Excellency will not adopt the opinion of the Crown officers, nor promulgate the same in this colony.

We beg leave to call your Excellency's attention to the schism which would be created in the colony by the promulgation of the Attorney-general and Solicitor-general's opinion, and your Excellency, who is bound as the head of the Government to see that the peace of the colony is duly preserved by both the stipendiary and local magistrates, and to give effect to all laws in force, by promulgating such an opinion, authorizing the special magistrates to go upon estates, and declare any class of apprenticed labourers free on the 1st of August 1838, in direct violation of the Classification Act, would place the stipendiary and local magistrates in direct opposition to each other; for the local magistrate would feel himself called upon, by an imperious sense of duty, to repel any attempt on the part of the stipendiary magistrate to declare opinions which would tend to rebellion among the apprenticed labourers, and involve the colony in ruin and bloodshed.

ANSWER of the Lieutenant-Governor to the Joint Address of the Two Branches of the Legislature.

The Lieutenant-governor, in replying to the joint address of the two branches of the Legislature, received yesterday, has to make the following observations.

He considers a joint address of the Board of Legislative Council and House of General Assembly, although perhaps not unconstitutional, as somewhat irregular, and subject to many obvious objections, which it is not material to detail here. It is, moreover, without example in this government, and although it has been admitted on this particular occasion, such admission is not to be construed into a precedent for any future departure from the established routine of legislative duty.

With reference to the immediate subject of the address, the Lieutenant-governor need scarcely say how unwillingly he should become instrumental in producing the consequences adverted to, as likely to result from the promulgation of those official opinions, the validity of which it is the object of the address to dispute.

Consistently, however, with the sincerity which he has always observed in his intercourse with the Legislature, he thinks it advisable to declare that he has no discretion left to him in the business; but as several weeks have yet to elapse before the period when the instructions founded on the opinion, now the subject of controversy, are to come into operation, the Lieutenant-governor will willingly avail himself of the interval for communicating with the Governor-in-chief on the subject, to whom may possibly be confided an extension of that discretionary power which is denied to the Lieutenant-governor.

He does not, however, hold out any great hope of such a result as would be agreeable to the views of the Legislature, who, he apprehends, have based their address on somewhat treacherous authority, as the returns accompanying "The General Rules," adverted to in the address, if they appear favourable to the island classification of mechanics or tradesmen, will prove fatal to its correctness as respects domestics, who are there included in the class of non-prædials only, though always considered in the island as prædials.

To his Excellency Major-General H. C. Darling, Lieutenant-Governor, &c. &c. &c.

The House of General Assembly have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your Excellency's communication of the 28th ultimo, forwarding two copies of an Act of the Imperial Parliament, intituled, "An Act to amend the Act for the Abolition of Slavery in the British Colonies."

The House have lost no time in taking the same into consideration, and in reply beg leave to inform your Excellency, that a Bill, intituled, "An Act for the Abrogation of the Apprenticeship System in this Island on the 1st day of August next," was introduced yesterday, and passed through a first and second reading, and has this day passed the House.

(No. 7.)

Sir, Government House, Tobago, 2 June 1838.

I have much satisfaction in transmitting to your Excellency the copy of an Act passed by the Legislature of this island, for the General Abolition of Negro Apprenticeship from the 1st of August next, to which I have not hesitated to affix my assent. This being market day, and the weather tolerably fine, the town is probably pretty full of negroes from the country; I have, therefore, directed the Provost-marshal to proclaim it without delay.

In taking upon myself the important step of giving this Bill the force of law, without previous reference to your Excellency's authority, I trust the weighty and deeply interesting considerations which it involves, will in some degree palliate my deviation from the prescribed routine, and accepted as my apology.

I presume, with reference to the 25th clause of the Act of the 11th April, "to Amend the Act for the Abolition of Slavery," that it will not be esteemed a forced or improper application of its meaning, to consider Tobago as an island "in which the Apprenticeship established under the said Act of Parliament shall be already lawfully determined," which will render the proclamation of the said Act unnecessary.

It has indeed very little application to this island, which judging by the events of the past four years, would only be affected by it (and that but partially) in three or four clauses.

I have had the honour of receiving, and will forward to the Right Honourable the Secretary of State for the Colonies by the earliest opportunity, your Excellency's Despatches, Nos. 47 and 48 of the 1st and 2d instant, with their several enclosures.

Your Excellency has acted in a manner perfectly agreeable to me, in assenting at once to the Act passed by the Council and Assembly, "for terminating the apprenticeship of the prædial labourers within the island of Tobago, on the 1st day of August 1838;" and I congratulate your Excellency and the Legislative Houses on the adoption of a measure destined, it is to be hoped, by obliterating the traces of slavery and apprenticeship, to infuse confidence and cordiality into the future relations of the United Kingdom with these valuable and important colonies.

Proclamations, Barbados Globe. 4 June 1838.

In regard to the Imperial "Act to amend the Act for the Abolition of Slavery," I beg leave to state, that I am, equally with your Excellency, divested of discretionary power; and, accordingly, necessitated to refer your Excellency upon that subject to the Act itself, to the instructions instructions by which it was accompanied from My Lord Glenelg, and to the enclosed documents which explain the present position of the question in this island. TOBAGO.

COPY of a Memorial addressed to Her Majesty's Government relative to the System of Negro Apprenticeship.

My Lord, 17 November 1837.

WE avail ourselves of the favour which we have asked of your Lordship, and which in the midst of great pressing and public duties has been so promptly and courteously conceded to us, to appear before you as delegates from all parts of the United Kingdom, to represent the feelings and wishes of a vast body of Her Majesty's faithful and loyal subjects, on a question of vital importance and interest, which calls for immediate and most serious attention.

We beg to assure your Lordship, that, in common with the nation at large, we regard slavery in every form as a monstrous evil, directly opposed to the spirit of the British Constitution and to all the principles of our Holy Religion; and that we have adopted, and resolve to redeem, the pledge which was contained in a memorial presented to the Right Honourable Earl Grey and his colleagues by a body of delegates, who assembled in this metropolis in the year 1833, and expressed in the following unequivocal terms: "We feel bound, publicly and emphatically, to declare that while slavery obtains in any form, however modified and however sanctioned, we will never relax from our efforts, nor swerve from our purpose to exert that influence, which we may collectively or individually possess, to effect by all legitimate means its immediate and entire abolition."

We, your Lordship's memorialists, are fully and painfully convinced, by evidence of a character authentic and indubitable, of which a large portion is derived from official documents, that slavery in all its essential features, and in some respects under aggravated circumstances, still exists in the British colonies; that the principles of the Imperial Act, passed avowedly for its extinction, and to effect the emancipation of the Negroes, for which the immense sum of twenty millions was paid, have been systematically nullified, and its benevolent intentions grievously and shamefully defeated by the legislatures and special magistracy of the colonies, on whom its execution has been devolved.

We respectfully represent to your Lordship, that the result of this experiment accords with the obvious dictates of sound policy and the immutable principles of eternal rectitude, and confirms the impressive lessons of all past history, that slavery is an evil which no legislative enactments can effectually ameliorate, and nothing short of its utter extinction can remedy; and that the apprenticeship system, like all other modifications of crime, has demonstrated the absolute hopelessness of reconciling right and wrong, of combining light and darkness, while it warns us against any further perpetration of evil, under the presumption that good may ensue.

But we refer with a confidence, which is not weakened by the slightest misgiving, to the satisfactory results with which the measure of complete emancipation has been attended in the islands of Antigua and Bermuda, and we anticipate the same peaceful and prosperous results should a similar course be adopted through the entire range of our colonial possessions. If we have any fears, it is not from the bestowment of "just and rational, of full and impartial liberty," but its denial to any class and portion of the Negro race; and the greatest dangers, in our apprehension, which menace the colonies, are those which would spring from the enfranchisement of one section of the apprenticed negroes, while another, and still larger portion, men of like passions, joined to them by natural ties, and suffering with them under equal wrongs, are left to all the bitterness of prolonged, and thus aggravated, bondage; thousands of them in the different colonies being originally of the number of those who, as non-prædials, were destined to obtain their freedom in 1838, but who are now transferred, by the fraud and cupidity of interested masters, to the less favoured class of apprentices.

We beg to assure your Lordship, that throughout the United Kingdom, so far as the actual state of the colonies has been made known, there is one indignant feeling of displeasure and disgust at the shameless manner in which the Negro population are treated by colonial legislation, and by special magistrates and planters. After having paid so many millions, the people feel that the Negroes in our colonies have become, not their property indeed, but their charge, the very wards and children of the nation, and that it is now more than ever the duty of the country to protect them from outrage and injustice, and to take care that they shall be admitted at once and fully to all the high and cherished privileges of the British constitution.

In every instance where the public has been informed that the Act, which was intended to bring relief and benefit to the slaves, and professing to invest them with the rights of freemen, has been abused to increase their burdens and aggravate their sufferings, it has occasioned the most grievous mortification and disappointment, and has aroused a more earnest and unappeasable demand for immediate, entire, and unconditional freedom to this injured race of men; and this feeling, we beg to assure your Lordship, is rapidly and universally spreading throughout the reflecting, religious, and influential classes of the British community.

All these and other considerations, founded on the policy as well as the justice and humanity of the measure, influence us to express to your Lordship our strong, unanimous, and fervent desire that your Lordship and the members of Her Majesty's Government will take the earliest possible period for introducing a measure to bring the system of Negro Apprenticeship in the Colonies to an end; and if it cannot be effected before that time, we respectfully suggest that the 1st day of August 1838, being the day already appointed for the emancipation of the non-prædials, would be a most appropriate time for that great object.

We further beg to state to your Lordship, that the proof and evidence for the justification of such a measure, if it ought not rather to rest on the eternal principles of justice and truth, and the solid basis of our own free constitution, are, in our opinion, already made so abundant and complete by official and Parliamentary documents, as to render any committee of inquiry in either House of Parliament unnecessary; that we should deprecate such a course of proceeding as calculated only to serve the purpose of mischievous delay, to defeat the ends of justice, and to prolong the misery of the Negro; and we do, therefore, most earnestly and respectfully entreat your Lordship to resist such a proposal.

Be assured, my Lord, that the reign of our youthful and beloved Sovereign, already so auspiciously commenced, and giving such bright promise of coming felicity and prosperity to a loyal nation, would receive an ornament of grace, and gain imperishable glory, by such an act of humanity and justice to that unhappy portion of Her Majesty's subjects who have so long groaned and suffered, with unexampled patience, in our colonies.

On their behalf the sympathies of the females of the United Kingdom are already awakened; more than 600,000 of whom have attached their names to addresses about to be presented to Her Majesty, and they will link with them the generous and amiable sympathies of the British Queen, whose own sex are doomed to a still larger share of suffering than ours from that system, the utter and immediate extinction of which we thus strenuously seek.

My Lord, we are very respectfully yours,
(Signed, on behalf of all the Delegates, by)
R. Harward, Chairman.

REPLY.

Sir, Downing-street, 27 November 1837.

I AM directed by Lord Glenelg to acknowledge the receipt of the memorial dated the 17th instant, presented by you and other gentlemen to his Lordship on the 18th, expressing a desire that Her Majesty's Government will take the earliest possible period for introducing a measure into Parliament to bring the system of Negro Apprenticeship in the colonies to an end, and further deprecating the appointment of any Committee of either House of Parliament for the purpose of inquiring into the working of the present system; I am to acquaint you, in reply, that Lord Glenelg, after an anxious and minute attention during the last two years and a half to the details of this subject, and after a careful consideration of all the information respecting it to which his Lordship has had access, does not feel that there are sufficient grounds to justify Her Majesty's Government in proposing to Parliament to make so essential an alteration in the Act of 1833 as that which is desired by the memorialists. His Lordship is further of opinion, that, however desirable it might be that the apprenticeship should be terminated by Acts of the Colonial Legislatures before the period fixed by law for its expiration, the proposal by the Government to the British Parliament of a measure for its immediate abolition would, without tending to shorten the duration of the present system, have the effect of producing irritation, excitement, and disappointment throughout the West India colonies. It would thereby, in Lord Glenelg's judgment, present a serious obstacle to the success of the constant and unremitting endeavours of Her Majesty's Government to secure to the apprenticed population the enjoyment of the immediate rights to which they are legally entitled, and to ensure the ultimate termination of the apprenticeship under circumstances the most favourable to their full possession and exercise of unqualified freedom. In the prosecution of this object, Her Majesty's Government will not hesitate, in case of necessity, to apply to Parliament for such additional powers as may be required to strengthen the hands of the Executive Government in the discharge of the arduous and responsible duty with which they are entrusted.

With respect to the desire expressed by the memorialists, that Her Majesty's Government should resist any proposal for the appointment of a Committee of either House of Parliament to inquire into the working of the present system, I am to inform you that Her Majesty's Government have, in the two last Sessions of Parliament, assented to the appointment of a Committee of the House of Commons on this subject, on the motion of Mr. Buxton, and that the inquiries of the last Committee having been interrupted by the unexpected termination of the Session, a short Report was presented to the House of Commons, which appears to have been unanimously agreed to, in which it is recommended that a Select Committee should be appointed to pursue this inquiry in the next Session of Parliament. On the ground of this recommendation, and of the admitted obligation on the Government to afford the fullest information which Parliament may require on so important a subject, Lord Glenelg directs me to state that Her Majesty's Government could not, in his opinion, be justified in refusing their assent to the appointment of such a Committee during the present Session, if a motion with that object should be made in either House of Parliament.

I have, &c.

NEGRO EDUCATION, JAMAICA.

1.
Mr. Latrobe's Report, 19 Oct. 1837.

REPORT from C. J. Latrobe, Esq. to the Right Hon. Lord Glenelg, on Negro Education, Jamaica.

My Lord, St. Thomas, 19 October 1837.

Ordered to be Printed by the House of Commons, 10 June 1837. No. 393.

IN conformity to the instructions which I had the honour of receiving from your Lordship, in the month of February last, to proceed to the British West India colonies, with the twofold object, to inspect the schools on account of which any share of the Parliamentary grants for Negro education of 1835-1836 had been applied, and to furnish a report upon the state of education in those colonies at the present time, especially with reference to the Negro population, I sailed from England for Jamaica on the 3d of March.

At the period of my arrival in that island on the 15th of April, I found that both his Excellency the Governor and his Lordship the Bishop were absent from the vicinity of the seat of Government on official tours. I was constrained to await their respective returns before I could undertake the active business of my mission; but as soon as these causes of delay were removed I hastened to put myself in communication with the several parties whom it principally concerned.

The official letter of introduction with which I was furnished by your Lordship to his Excellency Sir Lionel Smith, insured me such facilities towards the attainment of the objects in view as lay in the power of the Governor. I was immediately furnished by his direction with letters to the custodes of the several parishes, or to other gentlemen who might be calculated to give me information. From his Lordship the Bishop, to whom I also took the earliest occasion of presenting your Lordship's letter, I experienced the same reception and assistance.

On the part of the various missionaries, to whom the directing committees had addressed general or special letters of recommendation at your Lordship's request, I have throughout the island met with every disposition to further the specific or general objects of my visit to the colony as far as possible.

I left the city of Kingston for a complete tour of the county of Surry on May 12th, and employed the following three weeks in visiting the parishes of St. Thomas in the East, Portland, St. George, and the greater part of St. Mary's, when business connected with my mission called me back to Kingston and Spanish Town.

After having been detained in those towns and in the parishes of St. Thomas in the Vale and St. John till the close of June, I undertook the tour of the parishes which I had yet to visit, and during the following months of July and August found ample employment in examining the central and western portion of the island.

On the 16th of August I returned to Kingston. The schools of that city and of the neighbouring parishes of St. Andrew, St. David and St. Catherine now demanded attention in the intervals of more sedentary occupation, as from the time of my return to the city to that of my leaving the island, on the 30th of September, I was almost fully occupied by the preparation of the documents which I have now the honour of forwarding to your Lordship.

The space of time which I have had ultimately to devote to the obtainment of the information desired, with regard to the state of education in Jamaica, has far surpassed that which I had conceived necessary. But a comparatively small proportion of that employed would have been necessary to gain that which was desired with regard to the state of the schools connected with the Parliamentary grants, which was the primary object of the mission; but as it was your Lordship's desire, as expressed in my instructions, to be furnished with a statement of the proportion which the existing means of instruction in the colonies bore to the call for it, and of the actual number of Negro children in attendance upon schools of any description, it was necessary for me to make myself acquainted, as far as it lay in any degree in my power, with the actual state of every school, without exception, at present in existence; and a very slight insight into the manner in which schools are conducted in Jamaica, and into the utter impossibility that exists of procuring correct information by any means, however plausible, short of actual personal inspection, or inquiry on the spot from the parties mainly concerned, showed me that if I would perform what I had undertaken I ought to rest satisfied with no other course.

It is not only that in general the members of the different missionary bodies cannot give the slighest information to be depended upon concerning each other's proceedings, or even of the existence of their respective schools, if at but a moderate distance; but that, with reference to at least one class of missionaries, the manner in which each individual of the body conducts his operations, perfectly independently of the co-operation, or even knowledge of his brethren, interposes unlooked-for impediments in the way of obtaining the most ordinary information for the guidance of the inquirer.

If this is the state of the case with regard to those from whom some general information on the state of education might most naturally be sought, it is not to be wondered at if little or no information could be obtained from persons connected distantly, if at all, with the education of the labouring classes of the island.

Independently of the causes here hinted at for a much slower advance in the business of my mission than might have been anticipated, it is but just to remind your Lordship that the tour of inspection in Jamaica was undertaken and effected at a season of the year when the weather interposes no small difficulty in the way of the traveller, in a country much of whose rugged and unreclaimed surface is, at all times, difficult to traverse.

The documents which I forward to your Lordship by the present mail consist of a schedule (A), with its enclosure, showing the localities at which school-houses have been or are to be erected by the various missionary societies, with aid from the Parliamentary grants, and the present state of both the buildings, and the schools by which they are either occupied already, or to be occupied when the school-houses are finished; and further, a general schedule (B), with its enclosure, furnishing a catalogue of all the schools of whatever description to be found in the island at the time of the tour of inspection, and, as far as subsequent information has been given, up to the close of September.

The difficulties that have attended the construction of schedule (B) induce me to speak with diffidence of its being quite complete, at the same time that I flatter myself that there is no omission of any consequence; and that if any schools have escaped diligent research they cannot be other than small evening schools here and there on estates, or conducted by persons unconnected with any who could give me information of their existence.

The above papers will convey to your Lordship all the particular information of an important character which I have been able to collect, and will, I trust, be sufficient to enable Her Majesty's Government to form a correct idea of the state of education in the island.

With reference to the schools connected with Government, I may be permitted to make a few general observations.

In attempting to comprehend and to explain the causes of delay in the erection of school-houses in this colony, it must be remarked that the solicitude evidenced by Her Majesty's Government, in the manner in which the proposal to afford aid from the Parliamentary grants was made to the directing boards of the several missionary bodies, seems to have been answered by a corresponding degree of haste in the manner in which the latter accepted it. As the amount of each grant was known to be limited, considering the necessities of the case, each society seemed to deem it a duty to secure a portion, which could only be done by promptitude in returning an answer to the proposition of Government. The consequence was, that, in many instances, mere suggestions for future stations received previously from the missionaries in the colonies were adopted and proposed as suitable for the purpose, or the missionary was applied to for his proposals, with an anxious precipitation which inspired him with the same same feeling, and constrained him to send home ill-digested or sanguine plans, which time has proved to be impracticable.

The obligation imposed by an acceptance of the Government offer, that the school-houses should be built upon land which was the property of the society, necessary as it was, has been, in far the greater majority of instances, the cause of great delay, and is likely to remain so, from the embarrassed state of property in the island, and the complicated character of the claims upon much of it, especially in the more thickly peopled districts, where the benefit of schools would be most felt.

In every case where the title to the ground chosen was found to be difficult of obtainment, or questionable, there was necessarily a complete bar to advance, however advantageous a station might be in other respects; and as, on the other hand, it was felt that the society was under an obligation of putting its own proposal in execution with regard to the erection of a school-house on any given site, after aid had been obtained for that special purpose, and did not conceive itself at liberty, without express permission, to transfer its application to another locality, the reason for much of the delay is but too obvious.

But even in many cases where this difficulty has not existed, or has been surmounted, the scarcity of carpenters and masons in both town and country, the great demand for such as may be found, the occasional impossibility of engaging competent persons to contract for the work, and the failure or negligence of such as may have undertaken it, have thrown great difficulties in the way of the erection of the school-houses in every district of the island.

In the mountain districts, the impediments in the way of collecting the necessary materials, at a distance of their transport to the proposed sites, have been much felt; and in more than one instance, the want of sufficient water, in the presence of every other advantage, has put a stop for months to work which has been begun.

The utter ignorance of each other's proceedings to which I have alluded, as generally observable among the Christian missionaries in the island, and particularly among such as are attached to different societies, is to be lamented also as one of the causes which has been in divers instances productive of hesitation and delay, when it has been discovered, that two and even three societies had had an eye to the same locality or neighbourhood, and proposed building there with the aid of Government grants obtained for that special purpose.

Delay has been, as may be remarked, produced in particular cases by circumstances, unforeseen at the time of the original application for assistance, recommending a modification of the first plan, or the appropriation of a building, already in existence, as a school-house, for the sake of greater convenience or economy.

These are causes of hindrance so evident, and many of them so little to be guarded against by the missionary, whose time and care are in fact fully in demand for the performance of other duties, that your Lordship will doubtless allow them to have some weight in accounting for and excusing the delay which has certainly taken place in many instances.

At the same time it must be observed, that in sundry cases much valuable time might have been gained, and hesitation avoided, had more energetic means been employed by the directors of the several missionary societies at home for the execution of what they had undertaken, by the employment of agents whose attention might be expressly directed to that end in the colony, and by greater promptitude and clearness in their correspondence with the missionaries in the island.

It is further to be regretted that the stipulations laid down by Government in its general circular of September 10, 1835, or in its explanatory correspondence with the directors subsequently, were in divers instances hardly sufficiently explained to the missionaries in the colony. The consequence has been irregularity in the mode of proceeding among the various missionaries in their mode of applying the Government aid, and a difference of interpretation as to the conditions to be observed, and the mode of building or arrangement permissible, which had better been avoided.

There are four distinct modes of building or arrangement to be found in Jamaica, towards defraying the cost of which the aid in question has been applied.

Examples:
ast Branch National School, Kingston.
Iorant Bay, S. P. G.
unaway Bay, L. M. S. ew Fulnee, M. M. S. almouth, B. M. S.
&c. &c. &c.

1. Regular school-houses, distinct from every other building, with regard to which it is generally understood that the Government has no objection to divine worship being occasionally performed in them, provided the specific object of their erection be never lost sight of.

our Paths, L. M. S.
landeville, L. M. S.
ry Harbour, L. M. S. airfield, M. M. S.
&c. &c. &c.

2. Regular school-houses, which, though in contact with chapels, and without a permanent separation, are still perfectly distinct as to the plan and estimates. The majority of this class have, or are to have, a moveable partition, to be removed at times of public worship.

ethany, M. M. S.
ew Beaufort, M. M. S.
&c. &c. &c.

3. School-rooms, occupying part or the whole of the basement story of a chapel, and forming part of the plan in the erection of the building.

Vilberforce, B. M. S.
assage Fort, B. M. S.
&c. &c. &c.

4. The arrangement, or appropriation of part of the area of a chapel, or of a chapel, to the purposes of the daily instruction given to the Negro children.

Of these, it will be admitted that the first specified is undoubtedly the best, even though the master's dwelling lies under the same roof.

The second mode has the advantage of economising materials and labour in the construction of both buildings, and where the plan is evidently distinct, is hardly open to objection of any kind.

In defence of the third mode specified, it is stated that though not a distinct school-house, yet it fulfils the design of Government in giving the assistance received, by providing a permanent school-room for the children of the labouring class, far more substantial and spacious than could be furnished for the same sum in erecting a separate building, estimating the cost according to the proportion established to be defrayed by the Government aid.

Though the intentions of Her Majesty's Government may be virtually fulfilled by the fourth, insomuch as a permanent place for the education of the Negro is provided, yet it may be liable to objection, for obvious reasons.

I regret that I am unable to furnish your Lordship with general information as to the cost of erection of school-houses in this island, as it will be seen from the schedule that the total cost of but few of the school-houses was to be obtained; indeed, such are the different circumstances presented by distinct localities, that it would almost be impossible to form general conclusions on this subject.

Almost in every instance the observation is made, that the estimated cost must fall far within the actual expense. This is partly owing to the increased price of labour of every description observable in the colony, but mainly, perhaps, to the haste with which an opinion of the probable cost of erection was formed, and inexperience on the part of the missionary in the actual difficulties attending building enterprises of every kind in the island.

I have considered it my duty in the prosecution of the objects which brought me to the colony, rather to confine myself to gaining information as to the actual state of things, than to control in any measure the proceedings around me. Yet, as far as my opinion in certain instances, when asked for, could not be withheld with propriety, I beg to assure your Lordship that I have always borne in mind the explicit instructions with which I was honoured, and the insight into the spirit of the measure adopted by the British Legislature which I had been able to gather from the explanatory correspondence between the Colonial Office and the directors of the missionary societies at home; and at the same time that I felt myself obliged to state my conviction of the wisdom of the strict strict rule laid down for the observance of all, and my opinion that adherence to it as far as practicable would remove causes of jealousy and discontent among the several missionary bodies in the colony, and perhaps misunderstandings and difficulties with Government in future, I have never forgotten that the special object aimed at by the measure adopted by Her Majesty's Government was the moral and religious improvement of the Negro population, and that provided that was attained, the precise manner was of secondary importance.

Mr. Latrobe's Report, 19 Oct. 1837.

In as far as it may be satisfactory to your Lordship, I am happy to say that the mission which was entrusted to me on the part of Her Majesty's Government has thus far been performed with the cordial assistance of all classes of the population with whom it brought me in contact; and that no suspicion of an undue interference with the respective systems and forms of moral and religious instruction pursued in the schools of the various missionary societies seemed to exist.

At the same time that it is to be regretted that from the causes of delay hinted at so few of the schools in question are actually built or occupied at this date, it will be observed that at or near most of the proposed stations schools have been established and carried on in temporary buildings. The greater part of these schools are, it is true, quite in their infancy, but there are few of the number which do not promise to be eventually successful if wisely conducted.

In noticing the proceedings of the distinct missionary bodies, in as far as they may be supposed to influence the success of the measure adopted by Her Majesty's Government, it may be my duty to state, with regard to the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, that though the general and comprehensive plan formed by his Lordship the Bishop of Jamaica for the formation of schools in this island in connexion with the society and the Established Church, which I have attempted to explain under the proper head in the enclosure to schedule (A) may, it is true, be productive of a less rapid establishment of schools than might appear desirable on some considerations, as by that plan the concurrence and co-operation of parties whose attention is as yet hardly sufficiently awake to the necessity of the measure is made absolutely necessary; yet there is every reason to believe that what is done will be efficiently done, and that these schools will be a permanent blessing to the country.

Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Doubtless a greater number of schools might have been set on foot under another and more independent mode of proceeding, but it may be questioned whether such would ever become of equal importance to the island, or be equally permanent in their character.

The strongest and best guarantee for the future efficiency and success of these schools will be that constant personal inspection on the part of the clergy of the island, which is to form a part of the system, and of the good fruits of which the schools in the city of Kingston furnish a striking example; it is there evidently an inspection equally observant of the progress and daily course of the scholars, and of the conduct and capacity of those who are intrusted with their education; and thus cognizance of the actual state of these institutions does not depend on the mere official report, handed in at given periods, or on the observations made at stated visits of inspection, on neither of which, common experience shows, that reliance can be placed.

The Church Missionary Society possesses in the colony able and excellent missionaries, whose character and attainments guarantee the careful and conscientious discharge of the duty they undertake.

Church Missionary Society.

The society has nevertheless had, from circumstances, peculiar difficulties to struggle with, and it is greatly to be regretted that their executive in the island is not more efficient, and that duties foreign to those of a missionary, properly speaking, and which none, however active and willing, can discharge competently in addition to clerical duty, are not vested by the directors of the society in England in distinct and fitting hands. To this cause simply much of the delay in the progress of their proposed buildings is to be attributed.

The stations of the society are widely dispersed over the island, and they number more in the highest and most neglected part of the country than any other missionary body.

1. Mr. Latrobe's Report, 19 Oct. 1837.

The causes of delay in the case of the Wesleyan Missionary Society have been alluded to in the enclosure to schedule (A). Though the zeal of its missionaries has long been acknowledged in this island, the attention of the society has not hitherto been particularly directed to the subject of education.

esleyan Mission- y Society.

The wise measure adopted by the directors at home, to send a resident inspector of schools to the island, has unfortunately at the outset been rendered a less efficient one than might have been hoped from the peculiar circumstances in which the society has been placed. Perhaps the desire of completing the new school-house and forming the model school at Kingston, before further proceedings were undertaken, retarded the advance of the schools in other places.

But under the systematic plan adopted, it is expected that all the school-houses to be built in the parishes will now be erected simultaneously, and become occupied in the course of 1838.

The stations of the Wesleyan Missionary Society are pretty widely dispersed over the island.

oravian Mission- y Society.

Those of the Moravian Missionary Society are all to be found, with the sole exception of Irwin Hill, St. James, within the limits of St. Elizabeth, and the adjoining districts of Manchester and Westmoreland, where some of the number have been now maintained for many years. The society has had certain advantages from the favourable eye with which its missionaries have in general been regarded by many of the resident proprietors of this portion of the island, and has not had to struggle with the difficulty of obtaining land, experienced by many others.

The delay in the erection of their school-houses is perhaps rather to be attributed to the necessary absence of the presiding missionary of their body in Europe, during the major part of the past year, than to any other cause.

adies' Negro ducation Society.

In many instances it will be seen that the schools under their charge owe their maintenance to the friendly aid of the Ladies' Negro Education Society, which, by unostentatiously providing teachers with small annual salaries, has done much good in this part of the country.

The necessity of securing the services of a higher class of masters and mistresses for the future, with the means of giving suitably increased salaries, is however becoming daily more evident, as well as that of employing more energy in the whole system of education than has been done hitherto.

aptist Missionary ociety.

The principal sphere of exertion on the part of the missionaries in connexion with the Baptist Missionary Society for the education of the apprentice and coloured population lies in the parishes of St. James, Trelawney and St. Catherine.

The Baptist Missionary Society is understood to entertain the opinion that funds raised by it for missionary purposes, or specifically for the preaching of the Gospel among the heathen, cannot be consistently devoted to the purposes of education, and consequently the individual missionaries have been thrown almost wholly upon their resources for the prosecution of their schemes for the education of the coloured classes. The energy, perseverance and devotion of time, means and strength by which these extensive plans have been brought to bear are well calculated, in each instance, to excite respect and admiration.

It may be but just, however, to other missionary bodies to remark, with regard to the comparison which might be drawn between the advanced state of the school-houses of the Baptist missionaries, that the latter have arisen under different circumstances.

As the Baptist Missionary Society was unable to furnish the funds for the purpose mentioned, it seems also to decline to take the responsibility of the undertakings of its missionaries, as far as education is concerned, or to exercise any control over the schools, which are in fact to be considered as under the superintendence of the individual projector solely, and dependent upon him for maintenance.

Thus, while the government and regulations of the majority of the other missionary societies bound down the individual missionary to await the decision sion of his directing board in Europe, and intelligence that the Government aid was actually pledged for the purpose of assisting in the erection of a school-house in any station, the zeal and energy of the missionaries of the Baptist Missionary Society were stimulated by the knowledge that their Directors could not assist, and therefore would not control their projects. Personal exertion of no ordinary character was the result, and most, if not all, of their school-houses were advancing towards completion before arrangements were made for securing assistance to them in defraying a portion of the expense through the Government grants.

Mr. Latrobe's Report, 19 Oct. 1837.

Nothing but the want of funds is now urged by the same individuals, and by others of their colleagues, for not daring to extend the field of their labours.

The missionaries of the London Missionary Society have shown their devotion to the cause of Negro education by the willingness with which they have come forward to supply in their own persons, in addition to their ministerial duties, or in that of their families, the places of teachers in the schools, till such could be provided from Europe, at the same time that the charge of superintending the erection of the school-houses rested entirely upon them.

London Missionary Society.

The greater number of their stations are to be found in the parishes of Clarendon, Manchester, Trelawney and St. Ann.

The Scottish Missionary Society seems in every instance, with the exception of that of Hampden, to have met with great difficulty thus far in obtaining the legal transfer of the land chosen for the sites of its school-houses. The field of its labour is chiefly to be found within the parishes o St. Mary, Hanover, St. James and Trelawney.

Scottish Missionary Society.

There is no doubt, from the personal character and qualifications of the individuals forming the missionary body in connexion with this society in this island, that wherever they are enabled to set on foot permanent schools, they wi be well conducted and will exercise a salutary influence over the population.

As may be gathered from schedule (A), a considerable degree of caution has characterized the proceedings of the trustees of the Mico Charity hitherto, in forming what may be called permanent establishments or school stations in Jamaica. I am not aware that this has originated in any doubt of the ultimate popularity, or the success of schools, conducted upon the liberal principle by which they are guided, or of the peculiar system of instruction pursued in them, but would rather suppose that, being free to act with greater circumspection than the missionary societies, they were willing, in the present undecided state of things in the colony, to confine themselves to promptly furnishing instruction at every suitable point where there might be an urgent call for it or a favourable opening, without, for the present, pledging themselves further to maintain schools and to occupy permanently the posts in question. The order and system with which their operations are conducted in the island leaves nothing to be desired on that head. Their stations are to be found distributed over the whole island.

Trustees of the Mico charity.

It will be seen from a glance at the general schedule (B), that by far the greater majority of schools of every description existing at this time in the island, as well as the most important, generally speaking, are conducted and supported by the charitable and missionary societies, and individuals just named.

Of the parochial schools, unconnected with the Bishop, whether endowed or not, the general remark must be, that, with few exceptions, they are all lamentably inefficient for the purposes of education, whether we regard the extent of their means, the principles upon which they are conducted, or the attainments and character of the individuals employed in giving tuition.

Nevertheless, since 1834 the attention of the vestries has become gradually more alive to the state of the parochial establishments; and in many parishes measures are in agitation, if not actually in force, either in conjunction with the Bishop, or otherwise, to remedy this evil.

Of the two other classes of schools in the island, unconnected with the Established Church or missionary bodies, namely, private schools and estate schools for the children of apprentices, set on foot and superintended by the proprietor or his representative, but little can be said at present. Of the first named there are few, except in the city of Kingston, or in a few of the larger towns, that rise to the humble rank of Dame Schools in England, the character of the instruction being of the most limited description. The want of private schools of superior order, in which the higher classes of the island could meet with liberal education, or, perhaps, yet more of a college or other public institution, sanctioned by the Legislature, is severely felt throughout the island, particularly at the present time, when restricted means, and the doubt with regard to the future, which it is to be expected may exist in the minds of many of the proprietors, in speculating upon the ultimate effect of the measure of emancipation upon their fortunes, render the great expense of a home education for their children hard to be borne.

Mr. Latrobe's Report, 19 Oct. 1837.

The estate schools of the description mentioned are also at present few in number; nevertheless, the subject begins to engage the attention of many influential men in the colony, and probably any future report may record the institution of many of this class. There exists a great diversity of opinion in the island as to the probable success that may attend them, considering the peculiar position which the two principal classes of the community hold to each other. Time alone can prove the justice of either view of the subject.

Your Lordship is aware, that up to the present time the legislature of the island has not found the opportunity of declaring itself fully upon the subject of the education of the labouring classes, or of adopting any general measure to further that important object; that the subject was introduced in the session of the House of Assembly of 1835–36; and that the last session of 1836–37 came to a conclusion without the subject having made any great advance.

I am informed that certain propositions on the subject are in preparation for introduction before the House as soon as it shall have met in November; and as there is undoubtedly a growth of interest in the public mind on this subject, and an increasing conviction of its necessity for the welfare of the island, it is fully expected that suitable measures will be carried in the approaching session.

It remains for me, in accordance with the wish of your Lordship, that I should furnish Her Majesty's Government such remarks or suggestions on the subject of education in the colonies as my personal observation or experience may afford me the opportunity of making, to offer the following remarks to your notice.

It has been hinted above, that an excess of the means of instruction is scarcely to be looked for in any place or district at the present time; yet, as might be expected from the little connexion that exists between the different missionary bodies, and the circumstances which render the choice of localities extremely limited, the existing schools are very unequally distributed over the surface of the island; and it might have been wished, considering the utter destitution of the means of instruction in entire districts, that here or there a little more space had been interposed between two stations. The coasts in general, and the adjoining districts occupied by the sugar estates, possess the largest proportion of schools; but even in these parts of the island large tracts of well-populated country may be marked in which there are no schools at all.

The upper and mountain districts are in general much neglected, the schools there being few in number, and mostly scattered over a wide, broken region, occupied by pens, coffee plantations and provision grounds. The population is here by no means as thin as might be judged from a casual glance at the physical character of these hills and mountains, whose steep and constantly intersecting ridges separate glens of great fertility, almost always under a greater or less degree of cultivation. Small schools, planted with forethought and judgment, with regard to the position of the plantations and settlements in the vicinity, and the facility of access to the children of a small circuit, are very desirable in these regions.

It will be seen from schedule (B), that by far the greater proportion of children in attendance upon the day-schools in the colony are free children of apprentices; apprentices; indeed, when it is considered that many of the remaining number are children of such as have become free by purchase since 1834, I should consider that three-fourths of the whole number estimated as receiving regular education in the island belong properly to that class of the population. Of the remaining fourth, no inconsiderable proportion consists of the children of poor, free coloured people, and Maroons.

Mr. Latrobe's Report, 19 Oct. 1837.

The great majority of those attending the Sunday and evening schools are either young or adult apprentices. Of the former, few, if any, are to be found in the day-schools, for reasons easily understood; and perhaps, of all classes of the community, this is the one that enjoys the scantiest proportion of instruction, when the necessity for it in their case is taken into account.

In both the Sunday and evening schools the more advanced of the day scholars are of great use, and in the country many of these schools are conducted almost entirely through their agency.

When it is considered how very recently the great majority of the schools now reported have been instituted, and also the difficulty and uncertainty that attend all first efforts under the circumstances of the island, your Lordship will not expect me to give any decided opinion as to the actual efficiency of the greater number; but I have no hesitation in saying, that the promise held out at present by all, more or less, is sufficiently encouraging.

It is a remark, universally made throughout the island, that the children of the coloured classes of every shade show a remarkable facility for the attainment of the rudiments of such branches of instruction as are taught them. This is more especially the case with writing and arithmetic; and in these branches the progress made in a very limited space of time in the best conducted schools is truly extraordinary. In reading, the proficiency is not ordinarily equally striking; but I suspect that this is attributable, in a great degree, to the defective education in this respect of many of those employed for the time being in giving instruction.

With reference to the hindrances and difficulties which lie in the way of education in this island at present, I think I am stating the truth when I aver, that active opposition to the various plans set on foot for the education of the apprentice or his children, by whatever religious denomination they may be proposed, is rarely to be met with, either on the part of the authorities or of influential individuals. It cannot be said that there is not a numerous class yet existing in the island whose opinions are still tinctured with the prejudices of the old time; but even among these, I should think that the present feeling is rather one of doubt and suspicion as to the policy of the measures in favour of universal instruction, and of its ultimate effect upon the labouring population, and consequently upon their own fortunes, than one which would urge them to open hostility. The present position of this class, as well as that of another, whose main objection is avowedly founded upon the fact that so few of the plans hitherto set on foot embrace lessons of labour or industry, is rather to withhold all assistance and to stand aloof, letting things take their course, than to offer active opposition. It is to be admitted that many exhibit great apathy with reference to the question, yet it is no less true that the change of public opinion on this head in the island has been such as to surprise those acquainted, for even ten years past, with the colony, and with the strength of prejudices, which the former state of things had apparently rooted in the mind of the community at large, beyond all hope of speedy eradication; and when every few months give proof of an advance in the public feeling on this head, and bring with them the hearty and liberal co-operation of many influential individuals, who, up to a recent date comparatively, were foremost in opposition, there is certainly every encouragement held out to the friends of education at home and in the island, and far more reason to wonder that so much has been already achieved than that so much remains to be done.

Still, the question of active opposition set aside, there are still great obstacles in the way of the present success of schools.

The principal one is the uncertain attendance of the scholars; the impossibility, apparently, of impressing upon the parents the necessity of sending their children at all to school in many cases, and in others, of permitting them to attend with regularity. And for this experience shows that there is no remedy, unless the schoolmaster has the time, zeal and address to follow up the parents, and shame them by repeated reproof, admonition and persuasion to do what lies in them to remedy this evil.

Mr. Latrobe's Report, 19 Oct. 1837.

Different circumstances and localities may furnish various experience, but the general expression everywhere is, "We cannot get the children to attend regularly."

To say that in many parts of the country there was not a desire of instruction evinced by the labouring classes would hardly be borne out by inquiry; but it is not the less true that it is as yet far from general, and that where it may be said to exist, a proper value can hardly be expected to be set upon it.

Many a school has been well stocked with scholars during the first week, which has afterwards fallen off to an attendance of a fourth of its number on the books.

It was observed that the attendance in the district covered by pens or coffee plantations was more regular than in those occupied by estates.

There are few schools that can pretend to what might be called a full average attendance on more than three days in the whole week, for there is great negligence in this respect on the Monday; on the Friday, many of the children stay at home with the parents, or go to the provision grounds or elsewhere, and on Saturday there is scarcely a school throughout the island.

But to this irregularity of attendance without cause is to be added that which is the result of the peculiar phenomena of the climate and the natural features of the country.

The tour of inspection could not have been made at a better season for becoming convinced of the unavoidable influence which these must exercise over the schools, or of the reasonableness of the apologies made by many of the superintendents for evidently indifferent or varying success, and that principally in the mountain districts.

In attempting to ascertain the actual attendance upon schools of every description, about the time of my visit to each, without reference to what it might have been, or was expected to be in the future, I still felt that to have recorded the actual average attendance at that time of the year would scarcely be doing strict justice to the parties concerned, or be furnishing Her Majesty's Government with a suitable idea of what was effected in the island. Had I taken the numbers in the day-schools as I actually found them, the total of those in attendance would scarcely have amounted to one-half of what I have reported.

The causes of this fact are, sickness, the rains and the scarcity of provisions; and all three have been felt this year, more or less, all over the island, in an unusual degree, from the month of May to the close of September.

The want of provisions operated to the detriment of the schools, insomuch, as that the poor apprentices or free coloured people had no "bread kind" of any description to give their children to take with them to school; and this general scarcity was produced throughout the country by a six months' previous drought, in a great measure, and, in some degree, by greater neglect in the cultivation of the provision grounds.

The ripening of the mango, and its great abundance in July and August, brought some alleviation on one hand, but, by adding to the number of the sick, rather diminished than augmented the attendance in the schools.

The frequent rains which distinguish this season will at times influence the attendance all over the country, but they are felt less on the coasts, where they fall much less frequently, than some miles inland, in the midland and upper districts, and on the mountains, where their frequency and violence, and their instant effect upon the mountain streams and rivers, have obliged in many instances the schoolmaster to consent to the arrangement of closing the school every day at noon or soon after.

I believe I am right in stating, that all these causes of non-attendance on the part of the scholars were felt to a greater degree in the present year than ordinarily; ordinarily; but as all the three are incident to the climate, they may always be expected to be a certain check upon the steady education of the children during these months of the year.

Mr. Latrobe's Report, 19 Oct. 1837.

This subject leads me to refer to the opinion often expressed in the higher parts of the country, that few arrangements would tend to give greater success to the measures set on foot for the education of the labouring classes than the connexion of dormitories with the school-houses. By this is merely intended the addition of one or two rooms furnished with mats, and perhaps coverlids, where such of the children whose parents would engage to furnish with a week's provisions in advance might be lodged and boarded under proper superintendence for a few months at a time, and whereby shelter might be provided for the younger children, coming from a distance, or over a dangerous tract of country, in case of bad weather.

Hopeton, Westmoreland.

(See Hope Bay.)

I have cited a few instances where the attempt is or has been made. The main difficulty in all cases where the experiment has been either tried or projected lies in the arrangement to be made for the maintenance of these boarders, as wherever the parents have been responsible for the supply of provisions, experience has been made of the poor dependance that can be placed on their discharge of this duty. Could this difficulty be got over, many would certainly make the experiment without further aid. It is an idea, of which the advantages are so evident, that I need scarcely remark further on the subject than to observe that there is reason to believe that it would be far from unwelcome to a great number among the apprentices of those districts.

The measure adopted by certain of the societies to require a trifling remuneration for the instruction given at their schools, cannot be said to influence the attendance in such schools, as it is but little insisted upon, and may be said, in almost every case, to be apparently perfectly optional.

Whether any compulsory measure necessitating the attendance of the children of a certain age at school could ever be framed, and be made really effective, under the peculiar circumstances of the colony, is for the consideration of the Legislature.

Another difficulty, which is severely felt at present by all who are engaged in providing instruction for the labouring population of this island, is that of procuring proper persons as masters and mistresses.

There may be said to be four classes of persons at present employed in tuition in the day-schools:

1. Europeans, married or unmarried, made choice of by the directors of the societies, &c. at home, and sent out expressly to be employed at certain stations.

2. Such white masters or mistresses as have been engaged in the colony.

3. Adult coloured persons born on the island; and

4. Such young males and females as may have received their education, in part at least, in the normal or the larger schools.

Doubtless the first class is the most efficient, generally speaking, though even here great care must be exercised in the choice if they are to succeed. Unfortunately, the great expense (not only of the voyage but of maintenance there) which must attend this measure on the part of a society or other party concerned and the risk of life, gives this mode of furnishing the necessary instruction the appearance of a speculation, which no missionary society can undertake without hesitation, and which each would be glad to avoid.

Of the white instructors, &c., whether European or Creole, hitherto engaged in the colony, experience can alone prove in each individual case whether necessity, which in many instances has compelled the choice, has allowed it to fall on a suitable or unsuitable individual.

With regard to the employment of coloured teachers of every class in the day-schools,—and their number will be seen to be about two-fifths of the whole number of those engaged in tuition,—I believe that hitherto the general experience has been, that whether owing to the defectiveness of the education

Mr. Latrobe's Report, 19 Oct. 1837.

of most of the adults, or the haste with which necessity has obliged the teacher to be transported from the bench of the scholar to the desk of the instructor, there are but few of the number whose capacity for the discharge of their duty extends sufficiently far.

Many of the younger class may have shown great quickness as scholars, but in their new position, not having perhaps either the opportunity or the taste for further self-improvement, there is a point at which both teacher and scholars come to a stand.

Here and there there are certainly exceptions to this remark, but of the number employed at the present time hardly one-fourth are fitted to conduct a school of any description beyond the mere rudiments.

But in stating for the information of your Lordship what I consider to be the state just at the present time, I would by no means convey the opinion that the character of this class of instructors may not change greatly before any great lapse of time. The absolute necessity that has existed to set schools on foot, however poorly they might be conducted in the first instance, to occupy the ground, and to carry on those which had been commenced, has frequently left no choice to the parties upon whom they were dependant than to make use of any instruments that offered. The few schools, moreover, in the island which may be considered to hold out any of the advantage of normal schools are all, it will be seen, of recent foundation, and scarcely a single one can be considered to be in full operation.

Connected with the subject of teachers, that of their maintenance ought to be mentioned, as it is perhaps the greatest cause of anxiety to the conductors of the majority of the schools maintained by the missionary societies, and especially so with reference to such as have availed themselves of the Government aid. The present and future payment of the salaries of the masters, &c. employed in the schools conducted by the missionaries of the Baptist Missionary Society, is, as has been already remarked, wholly dependant upon the means and exertions of the individual missionaries. In the case of the Moravian Missionary Society, it depends upon the co-operation and the amount of the funds which may be at the disposal of the Ladies' Negro Education Society, and the small means possessed by their own church. The salaries furnished by the Church Missionary, as well as by the Wesleyan, London and Scottish Missionary Societies, must be supplied by the fluctuating funds furnished by voluntary contributions, for the general purposes of their missionary undertakings, and which are not by all considered strictly applicable to this purpose.

The inquiry has therefore continually been made, if Her Majesty's Government could by any means give some assistance; and I take the liberty of presenting the subject for your Lordship's consideration, and that of Her Majesty's Government, from a conviction that, next to the measure already adopted, none would conduce more to facilitate the purposes of education in the island than one that should relieve the parties of any portion of this burthen and cause for future anxiety.

In the present state of education in Jamaica every class of schools must be considered a blessing as long as they tend to impress moral and religious principles upon the minds of the coloured population. There is one class, however, of which the utility appears so evident, under a consideration of the low moral state of feeling and habits which degrades the island, that I cannot do otherwise than allude to it. These are institutions on the plan of the Female Refuge at Fairfield (Manchester), at Kingston (commenced by the Church Missionary Society), and of that at Half-Way Tree, St. Andrews, which owes its origin to his Lordship the Bishop of the diocese and his family. Wherever such can be established, every encouragement ought surely to be given; for they cannot fail, if well and sagely conducted, to be of the most certain benefit to the island, whether the inmates are to be employed subsequently as teachers in the schools, as domestic servants, or become the wives of labourers.

Your Lordship will still permit me to make the general remark, that, under the circumstances of the island, it would be equally kind and wise, as far as the labouring classes are concerned, and be but acting justly as well as with policy, in

Mr. Latrobe's Report, 19 Oct. 1837.

in reference to the master and proprietor, to never fail to inculcate the necessity of honest labour upon all classes under tuition, and that, wherever lessons of active industry can be united with other branches of instruction, they should be encouraged by every means in the power of those concerned in the success and real utility of the schools.

I regret that notwithstanding my best efforts I have found it totally impossible to obtain credible information from any source concerning the precise number of the white and free coloured population of the several parishes. I might, it is true, have filled up those columns in the recapitulation of schedule (B) with numbers, but confessedly so incorrect as to be of no advantage in guiding the judgment.

Your Lordship is aware that there is no census of the entire population of the island in existence, but that, roughly calculated, it was supposed, prior to 1834, that there were, in addition to the slave population, 30,000 whites and 70,000 free coloured persons in the colony. With regard to the apprentice population, I have followed the returns handed in to the House of Assembly in 1834, for the guidance of the Commissioners of Compensation.

In conclusion, I must be permitted to remark, that if the returns obtained at the day-schools of those in attendance, &c. were always the result of a systematic plan of proceeding, in recording the names, marking the individual attendance, and revising the list at the expiration of every two or three months, implicit confidence might be placed in their being exact; but where this is not strictly the case, it is not difficult to understand that, without the slightest desire to furnish statements unsupported by fact, on the part of masters and directors, their zeal and their anxiety to believe the best and to hope the best would naturally lead them rather to err in overrating than in underrating the fact in this particular.

And if this remark is at all applicable to Day-schools in Jamaica, it is much more so with regard to numbers reported in attendance upon Sunday and Evening schools, as there, lists are seldom if ever kept with any degree of strictness, and in many cases not at all.

This leads me to state my belief that the total number which I have reported in attendance upon schools of every description in the colony may give a rather too favourable impression of the state of education.

I have the honour to be,
my Lord,
Your Lordship's most obedient Servant,

Charles Jos^h Latrobe.

THE SOCIETY FOR THE PROPAGATION OF THE GOSPEL.

Twenty-three Stations indicated as begun or proposed.

Grants for 29 Stations, including the Caymannas; 12 from the Parliamentary Grant of 1835, and 17 from that of 1836.

Kingston.—Diocesan Central National School; Diocesan Eastern Branch School; Diocesan Western Branch School.

These three important schools have arisen since 1835, under the auspices of his Lordship the Bishop of Jamaica, at whose disposal the funds received by the Society from Her Majesty's Government, to be applied to the erection of school-houses in this island, have been placed.

The various expenses consequent upon their establishment and maintenance are wholly met by funds in the Bishop's hands, aided by voluntary contributions to the National School Society, formed in Jamaica to advance the cause of education, in connexion with the Established Church. To this Society, the vestries of St. Andrews, St. Thomas in the East, Trelawney and other parishes, have subscribed liberally, apart from any arrangement entered into with the Bishop for the establishment and maintenance of particular schools within their respective limits.

Though the city of Kingston has subscribed largely to the erection of one of the schools above named, they are in no way connected with the parish or city authorities, or under their control or inspection.

1. Schedule (A.)

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

The Central School may be considered to have superseded a school, existing for a number of years previously, under the inspection of the Bishop, and supported in much the same manner; and, though far less efficient, devoted to the instruction of the same classes. It merged, however, into the present institution in January 1836, when it was reorganized and placed under the care of a master and mistress brought out from England.

Till such time as a proper site for a permanent school-house could be found, it was opened, with the concurrence of the trustees, on the premises of Wolmer's Free School, in the basement story of that part of the buildings which is occupied by the Infant School of that endowment. The arrangement was perhaps the most advantageous that could then be made, though not unaccompanied by inconvenience to both parties, and it will be highly satisfactory, when the erection of a new school, or the choice of another situation, admits of another.

The difficulty of obtaining perfectly secure titles to otherwise purchasable plots of ground, is felt in this city, as well as throughout the island. As soon as this difficulty is overcome in this case, it is intended to commence the erection of the New Central National School, and plans and estimates are now in preparation. It is proposed that it should be a substantial brick building, forming two sides of a square, and upon a scale admitting the reception of at least 500 scholars. The present plan comprises a story over part of the building at least, to furnish an infant school, class-room and apartments for a matron, and a number of young female boarders, to be educated as family servants.

The Western Branch National School was opened in March 1836. It is held for the present in a very indifferent locality, rented for the purpose; but a new school has been founded within the present month (September) in the same quarter of the town; a brick building, upon the same general plan as the others, though slightly differing in dimensions.

The Eastern Branch National School was commenced in a temporary school-house in February 1836. In the month of July following, the present building was founded on land purchased for the purpose, and conveyed to the Bishop of the diocese and the rector of the parish for the time being: in the March following it was opened. It is a substantial brick building, occupying two sides of a square, and would afford ample accommodation for 800 children or upwards, following the arrangement of Dr. Bell.

oting Education.

Towards the construction of this a donation of 500*l.* currency was presented by a committee of the corporation, and the sum of 730*l.* sterling was applied to the same purpose from the funds placed in his Lordship's hands by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel. The remainder of the sum required was raised by voluntary subscription.

The master lives in a house existing on the premises at the time of their purchase. The school-house is not in immediate contiguity to any other building, but from some fault of construction or position, there is hardly a sufficiently strong current of air during certain hours of the day to temper the heat of the climate.

The three National Schools in Kingston are placed under the inspection of a resident superintendent, at the same time that under present arrangements he is more particularly attached to the Central School. To him reports are sent in weekly from the Branch Schools in the city, and quarterly from those dispersed through the parishes; they are then laid before the Bishop and his secretary, to whose constant inspection the schools in Kingston are subject.

The probationers or novices, and the monitors, are considered under the immediate care of the superintendent. The probationers may be divided into two classes, either such young persons of either sex as are under training for being subsequently employed as masters and mistresses, whether educated in the National School or not; or persons of a more adult age, who, after having been occupied in tuition elsewhere, are sent, or come here to gain a knowledge of the national system. All who are admitted upon this footing must enter furnished with a character from a clergyman or a respectable freeholder, and before quitting the institution are expected to undergo a strict examination, after which they are furnished with a certificate from the superintendent.

Many enter into the employment of parties unconnected with the National School Society, on the strength of that certificate.

Such of the probationers as are employed by the Bishop in the Branch National Schools must be first furnished with a licence by him.

Both the probationers, and the monitors, whose time is necessarily taken up during the ordinary school hours in attending to their several classes, receive particular instruction at stated hours; and on Saturday have two hours' lecture on the Gospels, from his Lordship's chaplain.

This mode of proceeding, if faithfully adhered to, it is presumed will supersede the necessity of arranging a distinct normal school.

The national system of instruction is strictly adhered to, as far as circumstances admit, in all the schools in connexion with the Central National School throughout the island.

The attendance of the children, at the season of the year at which the tour of inspection in Jamaica was undertaken, was as good as might be expected, under the circumstances of the season and of the country, neither of which were the most favourable.

The progress of the scholars of both sexes was in general satisfactory; and that made by many amongst them in such a limited space of time, very surprising, especially in the branches writing and arithmetic.

In the Central School:

Boys	175	in number,	form	5 classes.
Girls	128	—		3 —
Infants	174	—		1 —

In the Eastern Branch:

Boys	151	in number,	form	3 —
Girls	83	—		3 —
Infants	120	—		1 —

In the Western Branch:

Boys	67	in number,	form	3 —
Girls	50	—		2 —
Infants	160	—		1 —

In all three, needlework is taught to the elder class of girls; and, in the afternoon, a certain number of the boys, with the monitors and probationers, are instructed in straw-hat making.

There is a lending library attached to the Central School.

It is hardly necessary to remark, that children are admitted without the slightest distinction of class or colour.

In common with the whole of branch national and other schools under the control of the Bishop throughout the island, no remuneration of any kind is allowed to be taken from the scholars. Here, as has been already remarked, the schools are maintained without parochial aid: in the other parishes, wherever schools are established on this plan, in connexion with the Bishop, the vestries have undertaken to furnish their proportion of the necessary funds for the erection of the school-houses and the maintenance of the master. Those schools are exceptions however to this remark, which are dependant upon the "Mitchell Institution," founded by Samuel Mitchell, Esq., and maintained by funds supplied by him, and placed at the disposal of the Bishop. There are at present five masters and one clergyman supported by by this means, in addition to very liberal aid given by the same gentleman to the erection of schools and chapels.

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

In the terms of agreement between the Bishop and the vestries, it has in the majority of cases hitherto been stipulated that the parish should furnish the land, should provide for at least half the sum required for building, and half the stipend of the master, should meet the law expenses of the conveyance, &c. As in the case of chapels of ease built with the assistance of the parish, it is required that the land and school premises should be legally conveyed to the Bishop of the diocese and the rector of the parish for the time being, as trustees; the former for the society, and the latter for the parish, upon trust, that the school-house should be always used for the purposes of a school for the children of the inhabitants, and inhabitants, according to the rules and regulations of the Diocesan Central School established in the city of Kingston, to be conducted upon the principles of that institution, and always considered as a branch of it.

It is also understood that the appointment of the master rests solely with the Bishop, and is to be made under qualifications defined by him, and that the school is not subject to the control of the parochial authorities in any degree.

In pursuance with the general plan thus laid down, a number of schools have already been determined upon or opened in the island upon the same principle, subject to the same government, provided with masters instructed to follow a uniform system of instruction, placed under the immediate inspection of the parochial clergy, and disseminating the doctrines and principles of the Established Church.

The following is the present List of the National Schools furnished with masters. (An asterisk marks a school which is connected with the "Society for the Propagation of the Gospel," and through it with the Government grants; and a double asterisk, such as are connected with the "Mitchell Institution.")

Morant Bay.—St. Thomas in the East.

The new school-house is situated on a plot of ground near the centre of the town. At the time of this district being visited, the school, which had till then been held in a temporary locality, was suspended, in consequence of the difficulty in providing suitable superintendence, but shortly after was re-commenced in the new building with every prospect of success. It is as well that the Wesleyan Missionary Society have determined to build at Rocky Point rather than at the Bay, as the London Missionary Society have also the erection of a school-house with the Government aid, in the town, in contemplation; and in the present state of education in the island it is well to avoid too great a concentration of the means at present at command, in one spot.

cieties for Pro-
oting Education.

Old Harbour Bay.—St. Dorothy.

At this place the two school-houses are approaching their completion; they are in near proximity to the new chapel of ease. There is no school established here as yet, but that step is to be taken as soon as a proper master is secured. There is a small Baptist School at the Bay.

Canesham.—Manchester.

This is placed at the western extremity of the Mile Gully district; Petersfield on one side and New Eden on the other, are the nearest day-schools; but both many miles distant.

Coley. Blue Mountain District.—St. Thomas in the East.

m Morant Bay.

This station, which is extremely well chosen (see Monklands, St. Thomas in the East, enclosure to Schedule B.), takes the place of Rocky Point, where a school existed till recently, and where it was contemplated to build a permanent school-house with the aid of the Government grant, as the Wesleyan Missionary Society is now doing. There are no schools nearer to Coley than those at Morant Bay. No return had been received of the school which had just commenced.

odney Hall, 8 or rom Stoney Hill.

A school placed with great judgment in a district lying near the junction of the parishes of St. Catherine, St. Andrew and St. Thomas in the Vale, full of small settlements and coffee plantations. It is extremely rugged and elevated, and is supposed to contain a population of 2,000 and upwards, who are in a manner quite isolated; the nearest schools are those at Grateful-hill (Wesleyan Missionary Society), and Fern-hill (Mico Charity); the first two miles and the second five miles distant.

Rodney Hall.—St. Thomas in the Vale.

anish Town.

The site of the school-house now being erected is perhaps not the best chosen, on account of the proximity of the house of correction of the parish; but the preference was given to the present position, rather than to another near the parish church, two miles distant, where land was also offered for the purpose, on account of this being more accessible to the children of the neighbourhood.

The nearest school is that of the Mico Charity at Comfort, scarcely a mile distant; but there will be but little competition nevertheless, as the road between the two places traverses a branch of the Rio Cobre, very liable to sudden overflow. With this exception, there is no school within many miles, and the children of a large apprentice population totally unprovided with the opportunities of instruction.

Heathfield. Santa Cruz Mountains.—St. Elizabeth.

m Black River.

The school has been carried on for some time past by the family of the resident clergyman, in consequence of the ill health of the mistress. There is no other school except that at Prosper Hall estate, in this district of the Santa Cruz mountains, and the situation is well chosen. New Bethlehem (Methodist Missionary Society), lies on the same ridges some miles to the north, and Bonavista and the school on the Pedro Plains (Church Missionary Society), many miles distant on either side.

Mount Charles.—St. Elizabeth.

This district is totally without schools; it lies towards the western boundary of the parish, probably from 12 to 14 miles from Black River.

Lincoln.—Westmoreland.

vanna-la-Mar.

The Scottish Missionary at Morgan's Bridge has a school in the immediate vicinity of the site on which it is proposed to build, otherwise there are no schools whatever in the neighbourhood.

Of the two following stations specified by the Schedule, nothing further can be said but that they are fully determined upon.

Port Antonio or Titchfield, Portland.—Montego Bay, St. James.—Clarendon.—St. Catherine's.

The occupation of these stations has been for some time under discussion, but there seem to be impediments in the way which are difficult to surmount.

The four stations in Manchester were determined upon in the course of the past summer; but up to this date nothing further has become known with reference to the precise sites.

Mulgrave.—Westmoreland.

The question of the occupation of the land offered on this property for a school-house and school under the Bishop, has not yet been finally disposed of.

With regard to the Grand Caymanne Island, upon which it was proposed by the society to

Schedule (A.)

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

to erect a school-house with the aid of Government, it appears that the offer was made to the authorities, on the part of the Bishop of the diocese, to furnish a certain sum for this purpose, under conditions similar to those adopted in like cases elsewhere; but as the parties there have not conformed to the stipulated terms within the usual period during which such a proposal on the part of the Bishop is considered open for acceptance, it is understood that the offer has been withdrawn.

With Honduras and the Bahamas no communication is maintained by the Bishop of Jamaica, as organ of the society in this portion of the British colonies.

The sum of 8,000 l. sterling, including the proportion of the Government aids, destined by the society to be applied to the erection of school-houses in this island, has been placed by it at the disposal of the Bishop. This is perfectly distinct from the sum of 10,000 l. sterling drawn from the society's funds and placed in the same hands for the erection of chapels and schools.

Of the 8,000 l. it will be seen that up to this date, September 1837, the sum of 3,695 l. had been expended, or pledged by his lordship for the end in view.

The directors of the society in England must be applied to for information as to what proportion of this sum is to be considered drawn from the two grants made to the society, as that could not be ascertained in the island.

The ordinary salaries allowed to masters, &c. in the schools connected with the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, may be stated at from 100 l. to 150 l. currency per annum to unmarried men, and from 150 l. to 200 l. currency to married couples. It depends upon circumstances whether the house be provided or not.

THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Fifteen Stations indicated as begun or in prospect.

Grants for 16 stations; nine from the Parliamentary grant of 1835, and seven from that of 1836.

Port Morant.—St. Thomas in the East.

7 miles to Morant Bay, 7 miles to Bath.

The delay in commencing the building of the school-house at this station, has been caused by the difficulty of obtaining a secure title to the land chosen for the site. This difficulty has been quite recently removed; and it is promised that the work shall be commenced without further loss of time. The nearest day-school is that at Rocky Point, at the distance of three or four miles.

Long Bay near Manchioneal.—St. Thomas in the East.

The want of a secure title to the land offered to the society by the proprietor for the erection of the school-house in question has been productive of great but unavoidable delay in this instance, at the same time that the need of a school is severely felt in this neighbourhood; and the question now arises, whether a lease, the terms of which should be so worded as to secure to the society all the advantages short of actual possession, and the right of disposing of it, will not in this particular case be deemed sufficient by Government, so that the society might proceed to construct the school-house, with the aid from the Parliamentary grant which has been destined to be applied to it.

Birnam Wood.—St. George's.

14 miles from Buff Bay.

The coffee property upon which this school is situated was purchased by the society some time back, and plans made for the conversion of the principal building on the premises into a school-room of the dimensions stated. It is situated in the upper part of the valley of Buff Bay River, in a mountain district, full of settlements and small coffee properties, and very advantageously for the instruction of a neighbourhood containing a considerable population. Unfortunately, at the time of the purchase, immediate repair was urgent, apart from any new construction, whether interior or exterior; and as this was in a great degree neglected from the force of circumstances and the bad management of the parties more immediately intrusted with the duty, much valuable time has been lost, and additional expense will possibly be the consequence.

Yet it is but just to observe, that under the most active superintendence and management so much difficulty is to be encountered in such remote parts of the country, in the transport of materials, either from the coasts or the interior, over roads which in their best state would be in many countries pronounced impassable, and which a few hours' rain in the mountains may render completely so, that much allowance is to be made. The difficulty of obtaining workmen, even when the materials are on the spot, is no less felt.

According to accounts received since the district was visited, the work is now advancing.

The nearest school to Birnam Wood is that of the society at Charlestown, among the maroons, situated in the same valley, within two miles of the bay.

Many of the children of the school in operation come and return daily the distance of three or four miles. The general prospects of the success of the undertaking were satisfactory. The school is under the eye of the resident missionary, who, with his wife, takes an active share in tuition.

1. Schedule (A.)

marks on the cieties for Pro- ting Education.

Appleton. Nassau District.—St. Elizabeth.

The plot of ground given to the society is most advantageously situated in the centre of a cluster of large sugar estates. It is to be regretted that here also circumstances have occurred to cause delay in the erection of the school-house, after the title of the land was secure. The principal source of delay lay in a point in dispute between the society and the persons who had contracted to carry on the work. The last intelligence received, however, states that the work is now in progress.

The nearest schools are those of the society among the maroons, at Accompongs, eight miles distant in the mountains to the north; and that at New Eden (Methodist Missionary Society), nine or ten miles distant.

Bonavista.—St. Elizabeth.

out 16 miles m Lacovia.

Measures are now taken for the immediate erection of this school, for which materials were collecting at the time the neighbourhood was visited. There is no doubt of the success of a school in this neighbourhood, as it is surrounded by large properties and pens, and without any day-schools for the present nearer than Fairfield (Methodist Missionary Society) on the mountains to the east, and New Bethlehem (Methodist Missionary Society) on those to the west, both at the distance of many miles.

Elstree.—Manchester.

In July last the work was not advancing, though the frame of the building was already raised, partly in consequence of the parties who had undertaken the work having thrown it up, and partly from a doubt which seemed to be entertained as to the salubrity of the situation. Still at that time there appeared no alternative but to proceed with the work as soon as workmen could be engaged; and it was hoped that it might be opened by Christmas of this year. It is situated in the midst of a wooded district, with many coffee properties in the vicinity, and no day-school at present nearer than Snowden (London National Education Society), five miles distant. Green Pond, where the school is held for the present, is hardly a mile further up the country.

Vaughansfield.—St. James's.

miles or upwards m Accompongs.

This station of the society is situated in a very elevated part of the island, not far from the maroon town barracks, and in one hitherto without the means of instruction for the children of apprentices. At the time the district was visited, August 1st, the land had been just secured for the erection of the school-house, which it is intended to use as a temporary place of worship.

The school has been opened at Long Acre at a short distance from the site proposed.

If the Baptist Missionary Society should put in force the idea of a day-school at their station at Greenwich Hill, which is at the distance of a few miles from Vaughansfield, that will be the nearest school. At present there is none nearer than that at Hampden (Scottish Missionary Society), 14 miles distant.

Prattville.—Manchester.

With reference to this station no information can be given beyond that conveyed by the schedule.

Meylersfied, Westmoreland.—Cambleton, Hanover.

It was the intention of the society, on finding the apparent impossibility of securing a proper title to the land upon which it had proposed to build a school-house, with the aid of Government, on Phœnix estate, in Hanover, to have transferred the school from that station to Meylersfield estate, in Westmoreland, where there is a better prospect; and the small school which had been established at Rock Spring was relinquished, and the master removed to the new post. By recent intelligence, however, there appears a probability of a plot of ground being obtainable at Cambleton, in the immediate vicinity of Phœnix; and the consequence is that there is an idea of building at both Meylersfield and at that place. They lie a few miles apart on either side of the boundary of the two parishes, and would occupy part of the district lying between the Mico Charity's station at Providence, and Green Island.

Knockalva, (Argyle Pen, &c.)—Hanover.

bout 15 miles m Montego Bay

The necessity of delay, till the land given to the society was legally conveyed to it, is stated as the sole cause why the erection of the school-house has not been proceeded with; but it is now proposed to commence as soon as the necessary estimates are completed. The proprietor of the estate has added a donation of 200 l. sterling to the gift of the land. The flourishing school at Argyle Pen, distant from Knockalva one mile, will be removed to the new school-house as soon as it is completed.

The school of the Wesleyan Missionary Society at Ramble, when in operation, will be in the immediate vicinity; and it will have been observed that the society have a second school in this neighbourhood, on Alexandria estate.

The

The Grove.—St. Andrew.

7 miles from Kingston.

In addition to the normal school which the society has formed at this point, (see Enclosure to Schedule B., St. Andrew's), it has lately seen the propriety of forming a day-school expressly for the instruction of the children of the apprentices of the neighbouring hamlets and mountain properties, who are altogether without opportunities of instruction. The new school-house is to be built on the opposite side of the river to that on which the grove stands, as being more accessible to the children of Dunsinane and other hamlets; and estimates are in preparation.

The Pedro Plains.—St. Elizabeth.

15 or 20 miles from Black River.

The land for this school-house has been but recently secured to the society, and a small school commenced. The major part of the population of this district consists of poor free brown people, till now utterly neglected.

The nearest school will probably be that at Heathfield (Society for the Propagation of the Gospel), but still at many miles distance.

Mooretown. Maroon Town.—Portland.

10 miles from Port Antonio.

This is one of the three Maroon villages to which the society turned its attention about ten years ago; but here especially various difficulties have interposed themselves in the way of success.

At the time it was visited there was no master on the station, nor school held of any description, though it has since been supplied with a catechist, and the course of instruction recommenced. Since the attention of the society was directed to it as a permanent station, where it would be advisable to erect a school-house with the Government aid, it has been found that a clause in the deed, by which these lands were made over to the maroons by Her Majesty's Government, forbids the right of sale under any circumstances; and that unless Government interferes to facilitate the object in question, the society must forego its purpose, and turn its attention to some other point, where the same difficulty, in taking advantage of aid offered, may not be in the way. Upon the school here, and other advantages afforded by the mission at Mooretown, the emigrants at the settlement at Allamont, three miles higher up the country, are dependant for religious and other necessary instruction. There is no school nearer than Port Antonio. (See Titchfield, Schedule B.)

The society has, at this date, two other stations offered for the erection of schools, but the arrangements are so much in uncertainty, and so liable to change, that they are not specified.

It is understood in the island, that, in all the above cases, two-thirds of the estimated cost of erection is defrayed by the Parliamentary aid.

The "mixed system," adopted in the majority of the schools set on foot by the society, is a combination of such parts of the National and the British Foreign systems, as appeared best suited for the country. It was first introduced at the school at Argyle Pen, by the present secretary of the society in the island, and its success there was the cause of its general adoption.

Though, in one or two instances, the trifling sum of 5 d. per week (3 d. sterling) is taken from such of the scholars as are willing to pay it, the society seems in general to act upon the principle of requiring no remuneration of any description.

The salaries allowed by the society to persons in charge of its schools varies considerably, according to circumstances, localities, the cost of living, &c.

In all cases the society furnishes the dwelling and medical attendance.

The Church Missionary Society's operations in the island are guided by an auxiliary society, composed of a number of clerical and lay members, meeting annually in Kingston. From these two committees are chosen; the one a general committee of 18 lay members, elected annually, and of all the clergymen of the Established Church who are members of the society; and the other a "corresponding committee," of a certain number, by which the current business is conducted, and communication held with the parent society at home.

An annual report of proceedings is published. In the case of each station where buildings are to be erected, the "corresponding committee" nominates a "building committee," consisting of such of the members of the society as are resident in or near that particular district.

Schedule (A.)

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

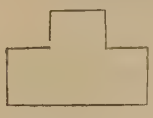
THE WESLEYAN MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Nine Stations indicated as begun or proposed.

Grants for Nine Stations; Two from the Parliamentary Grant of 1835, and Seven from that of 1836.

Kingston.

The school-house, founded here in May last, is now nearly completed. It stands on the mission premises on the Parade, with a plot of unoccupied ground, as a play-ground, behind. It is a handsome brick building, and is not attached to any other. In the month of June, the master of the society's small school at Ocho Rios in St. Ann's, was withdrawn, to begin a school which is held temporarily in the Sunday school-room of Wesley Chapel.



Spanish Town.—St. Catherine's.

There is to be a class-room, 14 feet square, attached to this building, which is to be wholly unconnected with any other, though in the immediate vicinity of the society's chapel.

Mandeville.—Manchester.

2 miles from Porus.

The locality chosen for this school-house is about a mile distant from that erected by the London Missionary Society.

Watsonton.—Vere.

Nothing further can be said with reference to this station at present.

Grateful Hill.—St. Thomas in the Vale.

3 miles from Lodney Hall.

This position has been occupied for many years as a missionary station by the society. It is in the Above-Rocks District, and lies two miles from the newly-established school of that name (by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel), and about five from Fern Hill, (Mico Charity). A master was to be sent immediately, and the new building to be contracted for without further delay.

Rocky Point.—St. Thomas in the East.

o miles or more om Morant Bay.

The previous occupation of the ground at both Bath and at Morant Bay, at one of which two places the society had proposed to Her Majesty's Government to build, has led to the transfer of the Parliamentary aid to the erection of a school-house at this point, where the society has built a chapel, and has land suitable for the purpose. As the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel has relinquished its school at this place, (see Coley, Society for the Propagation of the Gospel,) the nearest school will be that at Port Morant, (Church Missionary Society).

Duncan's.

miles from almouth.

This will be the only school on the coast between Falmouth and Rio Bueno. It was proposed to send a master here without loss of time to begin a school.

Ramble.—Hanover.

In the mountain district, a short distance from Knockalva (Church Missionary Society), which will be the nearest school.

Blue Fields.—Westmoreland.

Midway between Savanna-la-Mar and the school station of the Moravian Missionary Society at Parker's Bay. Blue Fields takes the place of New Sheffield (Providence) in the same parish, as that ground is occupied by the Mico Charity.

It is understood that two-thirds of the expense of erection, as indicated in the schedule, is supplied from the Parliamentary grants.

But little information of any description can be added to that conveyed by the schedule. The society intends building all these school-houses upon one uniform plan, as far as circumstances admit, each having its class-room and play-ground.

A superintendent of schools has been sent to the colony, and in each particular case, that gentleman, the chairman of the committee of the Wesleyan Society's mission in the island, and the missionary employed at or near the station, form a "building committee" for the prosecution of the work.

With reference to the delay that has occurred in carrying the intentions of the society into effect,—though in the case of the station in St. Thomas in the East, which was one of the the two stations proposed to be aided by the grant of 1835, it may be attributable to doubt as to the ultimate choice of a locality,—in all the other instances, and latterly in this also, it is to be accounted for in the same manner, and has arisen from the same circumstances.

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

Till the arrival of the superintendent in the colony at the beginning of the present year, no definitive steps were taken; and unfortunately, subsequently to a general tour undertaken by him and the chairman of the committee, to examine the proposed localities, as a preliminary step, the circumstances attending the secession of a member of their missionary body have almost altogether turned the attention to other subjects, and certainly been productive of a further delay. At the close of September, nevertheless, the purpose has been resumed with activity; and in the course of a second tour, which the same parties are about to undertake, it is expected that final arrangements will be made, and the whole of the school-houses contracted for and commenced.

It is the intention to make the central school at Kingston a model school for the rest, and in some respects a normal school, from which others in the island may be supplied with masters and mistresses.

The precise system adopted, and the scale of salaries allowed by the society, will be seen hereafter.

THE MORAVIAN MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Seven Stations commenced.

Grants for Seven Stations; Three from the Parliamentary Grant of 1835, and Four from that of 1836.

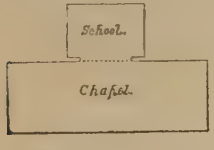
Fairfield.—Manchester.

12 miles from Mandeville.

The delay in the case of this station has mainly arisen from the question having been started, subsequently to the estimates and proposals having been sent home, whether, in case a perfectly new school-house were built for the use of the "Female Refuge," as was then contemplated, a portion of the estimated expense of the new school-house might not be avoided, by devoting the building at present occupied by that institution to the service of the day school for the children of apprentices, and by arranging it accordingly.

After many months' delay, this scheme has been seen to be impracticable, (see Ladies' Negro Education Society,) and the plan proposed in the first instance, for the approval of Government, is now being acted upon, and the school-house founded in July advancing towards completion.

It has been decided to build it in contiguity to the chapel, with a moveable partition between the two, so that it can be completely isolated, or laid open during periods of Divine service. The nearest school is that at Comfort (the Mico Charity), three miles distant.



New Fulnec.—St. Elizabeth's.

7 miles from Lacovia.

The delay here arose principally from circumstances connected with the official absence of the president of the Moravian Missionary Conference in the island in Europe, in 1836, and the difficulty of procuring materials and labourers. The school-house had risen to the frame-work, which stands on a stone basement, when the station was visited in July, and it is presumed will be entered at Christmas.

The school at present existing here was transferred hither from Spring Vale estate, where it had already existed for some years, under the eye of the family of the proprietor, Matthew Farquharson, esq.

The nearest day schools are those at Lacovia and Black River, from which New Fulnec is about equi-distant. (The school-house is unconnected with any other building.)

Adam's Valley, or Nazareth.—Manchester.

8 miles from Fairfield.

The Government grant appropriated towards the expense of this building was originally made to New Eden, St. Elizabeth, where it has subsequently appeared inadvisable to erect a permanent school-house at the present time. The transfer was made with the permission of Her Majesty's Government. The building was not in this instance erected by contract, but by day labour, many of the apprentices of the neighbourhood freely giving their Saturdays to aid in the work.

Until this school-house was occupied, the school was held in a temporary locality at Shirehampton, two miles distant.

The society has not the intention of forming a regular missionary settlement at present; but considering that the building is upon a far larger scale than could be furnished for the sum estimated in the proposal for Government aid in the case of New Eden, and that it has cost considerably more (taking into consideration the value of the free labour), the society deems itself justified in making use of it occasionally for Divine service, as an outpost of the settlement at Fairfield; always keeping in mind that the education of the labouring class must not be interfered with; and pledges itself that should Adam's Valley become, at any future time, to be considered as a distinct missionary settlement, and the building become more regularly required as a place of worship, another and distinct school-house shall be erected upon the scale and to the full amount of the estimate handed in to the Government.

Schedule (A.)

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

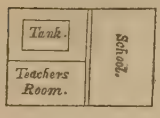
The building is frame-work upon a stone basement, situated in a very elevated position in the mountains overlooking St. Elizabeth's parish.

The day-school at Huntley is within a distance of three or four miles.

Bethany.—Manchester.

12 or 14 miles from Fairfield.



The school-room is here constructed under the new chapel, as a part of the basement story, the remainder being occupied by a tank and a teacher's room. The whole length of the building is 70 feet and the breadth 40. Great delay is attributable to the scarcity of workmen and of materials in such a remote part of the country, and the difficulty of transport to such an elevation.

There has here also been great goodwill manifested among the apprentices in connexion with the mission, 120 of whom have, at different times, given their Saturdays for free labour, with a saving to the society of at least 100 l. The school children have also been regularly employed to aid in the transport of materials for the road, &c. The whole work is very solid, and will be altogether of hewn stone from the spot. The small schools at Hollywood (London Negro Education Society), and at Petersfield (Branch National), are within a short distance; but there is ample field for the exertions of all. Bethany is situated towards the lower extremity of the Mile Gully district.

New Bethlehem.—St. Elizabeth's.

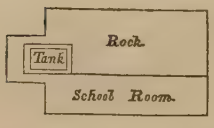
11 miles from Black River.

Delay in the erection of a school-house at this station, has arisen from the question having been started subsequent to the grant having been made, whether the Government aid might not be applied to the arrangement and complete repair of the present missionary dwelling-house, which it was the intention of the society to replace by another in a more suitable position. The answer has recently been received in the affirmative, and the work commenced without loss of time. The said dwelling-house is to be valued by impartial judges, and as the expense of repair and arrangement will doubtless fall short of the sum estimated for the erection of a new school-house, towards which the Government offered two-thirds, the surplus will be devoted to another school-house elsewhere.

The present school was removed hither from Malvern estate, one mile distant, where it had existed for some time under the patronage of the proprietor, J. Millar, esq., for the advantage of the children of the negroes on the estate.

New Bethlehem lies on the ridge of the Santa Cruz mountains, forming the back bone of the parish of St. Elizabeth; an extremely salubrious region, full of settlements and coffee plantations. Meribah (Church Missionary Society), and Heathfield (Society for the Propagation of the Gospel), are the nearest points at which schools have been established.

New Beaufort.—Westmoreland.



This school-room, like that at Bethany, is constructed as a basement story under part of the new chapel; and the difficulty of procuring materials at a point so far up the country is pleaded in excuse for any delay in the completion. At the time the station was visited, it appeared that, independent of every other objection, there was a probability of inconvenience in future being felt, from the confined nature of the room and the want of sufficient means of ventilation; but it was resolved that measures should be adopted for remedying this defect.

The school, previous to its being opened here, had existed in the vicinity for some years.

The small school at Gibraltar (the Established Church) is the only one of any description in this vicinity.

Irwin Hill.—St. James's.

5 miles from Montego Bay.

The school-house recently founded here is unconnected with any other building; till July last no person could be found to undertake the work. The schools at Montego Bay are the nearest to this station.

Two-thirds of the estimated expense of erection of all these school-houses is defrayed by the aid given to the society by Government from the two Government grants.

The missionary body in this island forms a conference, having for its president one of its members appointed by the society in Europe, and who is the principal organ of communication upon official matters with the directors of the Moravian missions there.

The meetings of this body take place at irregular periods and at different stations, according to the necessity for deliberation that may exist; and the comparative proximity of all the missionary settlements in the same part of the island gives a certain facility to this arrangement.

No remuneration from the scholars is taken at any of the schools under the Moravian Missionary or the Ladies' Negro Education Societies.

The

The majority of the teachers employed will be seen to be coloured females, and the remuneration is unequal, as many of the smaller schools in connexion with the stations named above are established on the properties of persons friendly to education, and who willingly give the teacher board and lodging, while others live in the school-houses, but have to find their own board.

The common standard may be the following: for the superintendence and instruction of from 20 to 30 chijdren, salary 20 l. currency per annum, and for every child above 30 an additional dollar per annum. But these salaries must be raised, as the necessity of providing a higher class of masters and mistresses than those hitherto employed becomes evident.

Teachers sent from England by the Ladies' Negro Education Society are allowed 120 l. sterling and a house, while those of the same class, who are paid by the Moravian Missionary Society, and who board and lodge with the missionary, may have something under 100 l. sterling per annum.

THE LADIES' NEGRO EDUCATION SOCIETY.

Fairfield.—Manchester. Female Refuge School.

The same causes which led to delay in the erection of the day-school at this settlement (see above), were productive of similar procrastination in this instance.

The alternative of building a wing to the present building, towards which Her Majesty's Government have given 100 l. sterling, was adopted ultimately from a conviction that the first plan of erecting an entirely new school-house was impracticable. The 600 l. sterling, which this was estimated to cost, could not be raised.

The foundation of the wing was laid in July last, simultaneously with that of the day-school for the children of apprentices.

This institution is supported by voluntary subscriptions made by a committee of ladies in Jamaica, in connexion with the Ladies' Negro Education Society, for this specific object; and it has been placed upon land belonging to the Moravian Missionary Society, and under the immediate inspection of the resident missionary. The two mistresses employed as superintendents of the charity are also members of the Moravian church, engaged in Europe for this purpose.

The Refuge was founded for the education of a number of orphan and destitute girls, without distinction of class or colour, as schoolmistresses or upper family servants. They are received at the recommendation of the subscribers, and maintained and educated free of all charge or claim upon their services in future. To the children and young females on the charity, a number of boarders, paying from 15 l. to 20 l. currency per annum, are added.

The institution has met with some support from the public in the island, beyond the circle and connexions of those with whom it originated; but hardly adequate to its merit, or to the importance of the object.

The expenses of its maintenance are about 400 l. currency per annum: this has hitherto been chiefly raised in the island.

There can be no doubt, but by an extension of the means possessed at present by the institution, its usefulness would be greatly increased.

The pupils and their teachers form, in fact, part of the missionary family, and have the advantage of receiving the best instruction for their position in life, with none but good examples before them; and with a prospect of being placed, according to capacity, &c., as soon as they arrive at a proper age, either as instructresses, or as domestic servants, in permanent situations among the friends of the institution.

Several educated here are employed at this time as assistant teachers by the Ladies' Negro Education Society.

No part of the sum of the 150 l. sterling, furnished by Government from the Parliamentary grant of 1836 to the Ladies' Negro Education Society towards the salary of teachers, has been appropriated to this island.

It has still to be observed that the Moravian Missionary Society have two new stations, at Parker's Bay, Westmoreland, and at Skaife's Chapel, St. Elizabeth, at both of which schools have been established, in the hope that, should further grants be made by Parliament available for this object, they may receive aid in the construction of permanent school-houses.

Schedule (A.)

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

THE BAPTIST MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Ten Stations indicated, with School-houses built or founded.

Grants for Ten Stations; Four from the Parliamentary Grant of 1835; Three from that of 1836; Two Supernumerary, and One Metropolitan school, Spanish Town, from that of 1836.

Montego Bay.—St. James's. The British School.

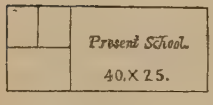
The school-house is an excellent building, arranged precisely after the model of the British and Foreign School Societies, and nearly complete in every particular. It is intended that it should ultimately comprise a normal school; and at this present time there are four young men in training there for schoolmasters.

Mount Carey.—St. James's.

8 miles from Montego Bay.



Also an excellent school-house, arranged as the foregoing. It was not in full occupation at the time the station was visited; but it has since been permanently occupied. At present only that portion of the building of which the dimensions are given in the schedule is furnished; but it is contemplated to appropriate the whole length and breadth (60 × 25) to the use of the school, should the increase of numbers make it advisable.

Falmouth.—Trelawney. The Suffield School.

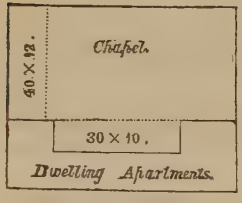
A spacious and well-built school-house, on land purchased expressly for its erection, and fully furnished like that at Montego Bay. Three male teachers have already been trained here for employment in other schools.

Besides the hours of attendance indicated in the schedule, the monitors, 21 in number, have separate instruction from six to eight, A.M.

The female teachers mentioned attend alternately to teach the girls needlework in the afternoon of each day.

Wilberforce.—Trelawney.

8 miles from Falmouth.



The accommodation provided here for the scholars consists of two divisions of the area of the chapel, the whole building containing the master's dwelling and the missionaries' private apartments under one roof. The cost of the whole was about 1,600 l. currency.

The nearest schools are those at Falmouth; but when Duncan's (Wesleyan Missionary Society) is occupied, that will be more immediately in the vicinity.

Sligoville.—St. Catherine's.

12 miles from Spanish Town.

A building was erected at this spot at an expense exceeding the estimated cost of 900 l. sterling by the sum of 500 l., with the intention of comprising within itself a chapel or school-room of 30 × 20, and dwelling apartments for the missionary and his family, whenever called to do duty here. The Government aid was originally intended to have been applied to diminish the cost of this arrangement. Prior to the completion of the building, a school was commenced in an outhouse, with the idea of its being, when the arrangement was completed, permanently located here. But since the work was finished, various considerations have urged the propriety of applying that aid to the erection of a distinct school-house, unattached to any other building. This is now being built, and is advancing to a speedy completion. It will in all respects meet the design and wish of Her Majesty's Government.

The children in attendance upon the present school, which is still held in the temporary locality, have aided greatly in the erection so far with great goodwill and in many ways. It is a part of the system of the missionary to accustom them to light field or garden labour part of the time they are in attendance, and for this purpose a large piece of land is set apart, which he proposes gradually to bring into cultivation. There is no school within many miles. Sligoville lies in a very elevated situation in the St. Catherine's mountains; and, from the frequency of fogs and violent rains, it is to be feared that a certain irregularity of attendance will always be experienced.

Passage Fort.—St. Catherine's.

7 miles from Spanish Town.

No portion of the chapel or school-house erected here has as yet been regularly fitted up as a school, though it has been for a considerable time occupied as such.

The final cost, it is supposed, will surpass the estimated cost of 900 l. sterling by 600 l. currency.

There is a large apprentice population in this neighbourhood, and no school within the distance of many miles.

Shortwood.

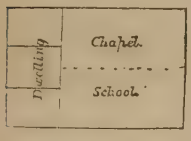
Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

Shortwood.—St. James's.

This station is chosen with judgment, in a part of the parish hitherto without any means of education. The new erection will be substantial, and perfectly complete and distinct in itself. A school has been opened since the district was visited (July), and it probably will occupy the new building before the close of the present year. 18 miles from Montego Bay.

Waldensia, or Piedmont.—Trelawney.

The school-room here occupies one-half of the open area of the large apartment of which the other half forms the chapel. There is no partition between the two. The master's apartments are contained under the same double roof. The cost of the entire building was 1,200*l.* currency. The position is well chosen, and no school exists nearer than First Hill (London Missionary Society), six or eight miles distant. The grant for this school was obtained in the course of the present year. 9 miles from Falmouth.



Bethtiphel.—St. James's.

A grant has been obtained for this station within the course of the summer, and it is proposed to commence the erection of a school-house and a residence for the master without loss of time. It is so far to be connected with the chapel as to admit of its being thrown open to it on the Sunday, though separate during the week-days. A school has been some time in operation on the premises, under the immediate inspection of the missionary. 14 miles from Montego Bay.

Metropolitan School.—Spanish Town, St. Catherine's.

These premises consist of two excellent and substantial school-rooms, and a class-room between, with all the necessary outbuildings and inclosure, admirably planned, and situated close to the missionary house and chapel.

The main rooms are fully furnished according to the plans and system of the British and Foreign School Society, in conformity to whose principles the whole establishment is conducted.

The school was begun as early as 1825, by the resident missionary, as a Lancasterian school, for the instruction of the children of the slave and free population of the town and neighbourhood, and was, in the first instance, wholly dependant upon him for maintenance in every particular. It was at that time held under his roof, and mainly supported from the proceeds of a superior school kept by him with this object.

The superior school had subsequently to be relinquished, from the want of a teacher for the Lancasterian school, which obliged the missionary to devote himself to the instruction of the scholars, the number of which then amounted to 140.

After an interval of eighteen months a master was sent out by the society, and the school prospered till 1834, when the missionary, having in the interval visited England, contrived, by public and private appeals for assistance, to collect about 800*l.* sterling towards the erection of permanent school-rooms, his own dwelling-house having been devoted to its use for some time previous. He returned with his family, accompanied by a young female teacher, to be employed in superintending the girls' school, and who was salaried by the Ladies' Central London Negro Education Society.

A house was then hired for the girls' school, and on the arrival of a master for the superintendence of the boys' school, the same arrangement was made for them.

The present buildings were then erected, and are perhaps more complete than any others in the island.

The premises are conveyed in trust, partly to members of the committee of the British and Foreign School Society, and a committee of management named, composed of gentlemen of various religious denominations in Spanish Town and its vicinity, to share with the resident missionary the superintendence and responsibility of the institution.

The grant of 500*l.* sterling from the funds placed at the disposal of Her Majesty's Government by Parliament, was obtained in consequence of a presentation of a memorial from the committee above named to the late governor of the island, the Marquis of Sligo.

Of the 1,800*l.* sterling, which is the entire cost of the premises and buildings thereon, the sum of 450*l.* is still due to the contractors, and 100*l.* to the treasurer, for salary advanced.

As the salary of the female teacher is guaranteed, the main annual expense in maintaining the institution would be the master's salary of 100*l.* per annum. For this there exists no fund at present, and of course the missionary alone is considered answerable for its payment.

The normal department of the Metropolitan school furnishes the means of carrying on the school at Passage Fort, and till lately that at Sligoville, as the older and more advanced female pupils are sent there in rotation for a limited time for that purpose.

1. Schedule (A.)

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

It is believed that the respective sums indicated by the schedule, as appropriated to each station, from the total aid received from Government, 2,200 l. sterling, are substantially correct.

The grants made to Bethtiphel and Waldensia were announced subsequently to the tour of inspection being commenced; and it is not exactly known from what source they were drawn, nor the precise amount.

In the case of the majority of schools conducted by the agency of the missionaries of the society in the island, a small remuneration, varying from 6*d.* to 10*d.* currency per week, is required of such as have the means of paying; but this less for the purpose of securing an income, upon the certainty of which experience shows (in by far the greater majority of cases) that no dependence is to be placed, than for the establishment of a principle.

The salary of teachers depends altogether, except in the case of the female teacher at the Metropolitan school, upon the respective missionaries by whom they are engaged; and it appears to vary considerably, according to the class, merit, and the particular duties required. It may be said to be between 100 l. and 300 l. currency.

Independently of the great expense incurred in building their schools, the annual expense of their maintenance is a heavy burden upon the private means and exertions of the missionaries.

The Suffield school, at Falmouth, does not cost its founder less than 350 l. currency per annum; and the British school, Montego Bay, together with Mount Carey, Shortwood, Bethel Hill, &c., not less probably, at the close of this year, than 900 l. currency; and for the raising of these sums the individual missionary is alone responsible.

As far as the present projects of the various missionaries in connexion with the society have been communicated, it is to be observed, that the society's missionary at Montego Bay, the Rev. W. Burchell, has purchased land for the erection of a school-house at Bethel Hill, on the borders of Westmoreland and St. James's (see Schedule (B.) Westmoreland, and its Enclosure). He has already established a school, near the proposed site, on hired premises, which he must shortly relinquish. Materials are purchased to the amount of 300 l. currency; but the want of funds do not allow him to proceed with the work.

The same gentleman has purchased land in an important situation, eight miles west of Montego Bay, in the parish of Hanover, with the same intention; but is prevented from proceeding from the same cause.

At Salter's Hill, in the hilly country of St. James's, the Rev. W. Dendy, of Bethtiphel, has the foundation and basement story of a large school-house already laid since October 1836, and the beams prepared for the greater part of the building. The dimensions are 55 × 28 in the clear, to seat 200 children, and the estimated cost is from 900 l. to 1,000 l. currency; towards which he has made application for Government aid to the amount of 380 l. sterling, but is not aware that it can be granted.

It is in a difficult situation for building, but one in which instruction is much needed, and where the society have for some years had a very spacious chapel and large congregation.

The work is discontinued for want of funds. A school existed here, but was relinquished in May last, as it was found impossible to provide it with a proper master. One is shortly expected from England.

The society's missionary at Stewart Town, the Rev. B. B. Dexter, is desirous of opening schools at that place and at Rio Bueno, and of obtaining the aid of Government in making the following arrangements:

At Stewart Town he proposes converting the basement story of the large chapel, already built, into a school-room and teacher's apartments, both of which it is fully capable of furnishing, as well as dormitories, if necessary, which are very advisable in this mountain district. He states that he spent upwards of 100 l. sterling extra in erecting the chapel, in the hope of his being enabled to make this arrangement, and he proposes petitioning Government for a grant of 200 l. to assist him in carrying it into effect.

At Rio Bueno he contemplates cutting off an apartment, 20 × 40, from the chapel recently built, with moveable partitions, and converting it into a school-room. The dimensions of the chapel, as it now is, are 60 × 40.

Schedule (A.)

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

THE LONDON MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Twelve Stations indicated.

Grants for Twelve Stations: Eight from the Parliamentary Grant of 1835, and Four from that of 1836.

Kingston.

The delay in the erection of the school-house in this city has been principally caused by the doubt hitherto existing, whether it were advisable for the society to form a permanent missionary station there.

That being now decided, the land necessary for the erection of a chapel and a school-house, &c., has been secured, and the latter founded. From the advance made up to the present time, it promises fair to be occupied at the date specified. It is a brick building, to be arranged in all respects upon the model of the British and Foreign School Society's. The school set on foot is at present held in the house of the missionary. It is in the vicinity of the Western Branch National School.

Morant Bay.—St. Thomas in the East.

Though a school for the education of the children of the inhabitants and of apprentices on the neighbouring estates has been in operation here for about two years, conducted upon the system of the British and Foreign School Society, and superintended by a regular master and mistress from England, yet considerable hesitation has existed with reference to the erection of the school-house. The doubts entertained with regard to the ultimate decision of the Wesleyan Missionary Society, whether the school-house, towards which it had received the Government aid, would be built here or at Bath, seems to have been the principal source of this indecision on the part of the missionaries of the London Missionary Society. It appeared to them, that to place three of the schools, towards which aid was given by the Government, close to one another in a town having but a limited population, would not be fulfilling the end proposed, at the same time that as a great proportion of the inhabitants of the town and neighbourhood were of the Wesleyan connexion, and that, consequently, a school instituted by the missionaries of that society would in all probability be more to the taste of the parents than any other.

Since it has been decided to build, the usual difficulty is experienced in finding suitable persons to undertake the work. Labour is extremely high at Morant Bay.

Shortwood.—St. Andrew's.

No school exists here for the present, but a teacher is expected to arrive from England in time to open the school in the new building, which is advancing to completion. It is intended to seat 160 scholars in the centre of the building, and to hold the infant school in the broad piazza which will run round it. 5 miles from Kingston.

As the Branch National School here has been relinquished, the nearest schools are those at Half-way Tree, at half a mile's distance.

The schoolmaster's dwelling will be attached to the new school-house.

Blue Mountain Valley.—St. Thomas in the East.

All inquiries for purchasable land in this district have failed up to this date.

Runaway Bay.—St. Ann's.

The school-house here is being built in contiguity to the new chapel, into which, though in the main distinct, it will be made to open at times of public worship. The present school at Williamsfield, which will be removed hither as soon as the work is completed, is conducted by the society's missionary and his wife; but a regular teacher from Europe will be provided in the sequel. The nearest schools will be those at Rio Bueno. 5 miles from Rio Bueno, 6 miles to Dry Harbour.

Dry Harbour.—St. Ann's.

This school-house is finished, and is an excellent free-standing building, situated on an eminence overlooking the harbour. The master and mistress are from Europe, and there is every prospect of success. There is no school between Dry Harbour and Runaway Bay at present. 9 miles from St. Ann's Bay.

Schedule (A.)

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

First Hill.—Trelawney.

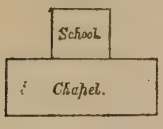
4 miles from Stewart Town.

Till the new school-house, now being built, is finished, the school is held in the dwelling of the missionary, who, with the assistance of his wife, conducts it, till the master who is expected from Europe arrives. The new building will be distinct and isolated, though in proximity to the proposed chapel. There has been great difficulty in procuring land in this quarter.

The nearest schools are to be found at Stewart Town.

Mandeville.—Manchester.

The new school-house is, like that at Runaway Bay, attached to the chapel, but with a flooring raised a few feet above the level of the latter, from which it is moreover separated by a moveable partition. It will speedily be finished; and, till that is the case, the school is held in a temporary locality, one mile distance, under a master and mistress from Scotland.



Besides the Parochial or Branch National School at Mandeville, the school to be set on foot by the Wesleyan Missionary Society in Manchester will be within the distance of one mile.

The society have no missionary station here at present, and Mandeville is considered as attached to Porus.

Porus.—Manchester.

11 miles from Mandeville, 10 to Four Paths.

This is an excellent school-room, constructed upon the walls of the former distillery on the property. Till a proper teacher was provided, the school was wholly conducted by the resident missionary and his wife.

The falling off in the numbers since the commencement which may be observed, is attributable to the circumstance that, at the outset, the overseer upon Whitney estate allowed the small apprentice gang to attend every day for four hours; but a change having taken place in the management of the estate, this permission has been withdrawn. There is no school nearer than that at Oliphants or St. Jago, seven miles distant.

Four Paths.—Clarendon.

The new school-house is constructed upon the same plan as those at Mandeville and Dry Harbour, attached to the chapel, and admitting of separation, or of being thrown open to it, according to circumstances.

The delay in the erection, as in the cases of Porus and Mandeville, was the want of a proper plot of ground, in the first place; of the difficulty in procuring workmen, in the second.

Till a master arrives from Europe, the school is conducted by the family of the resident missionary.

The Baptist Society's missionary has recently commenced a small school in the same village.

Chapelton.—Clarendon.

14 miles from Four Paths.

This station would be under the superintendence of the society's missionary at Four Paths. Land has been bought, and a master is expected from Europe to begin a school.

The delay here is perhaps attributable to the attention of the missionary having been so fully taken up with the erection of the school and chapel at Four Paths, and the difficulty of finding proper persons to superintend the work, or even to undertake it. The scarcity of workmen is a general complaint all over the island.

There is a small parochial school at Chapelton, but the whole district is in a most neglected state on the score of education.

The Botanic Garden.—St. Andrew's.

8 miles from Kingston.

The occupation of this station has but recently been decided upon.

It is within one mile of the Grove.

(See Church Missionary Society.)

There are one or two stations, in addition to those named, the occupation of which as permanent school stations, and the erection of school-houses with the aid offered by Government, has lately been taken into consideration; but everything with regard to them is as yet so vague, that they can hardly be named with justice to the society.

What the total number of schools may be which the directors of the society at home intended to be erected in this island, with assistance of second Parliamentary grant of 1836, cannot be ascertained in the colony. Eight of those indicated are supposed to have received aid from the grant of 1835, to the extent of two-thirds of the estimated cost.

Schedule (A.)

Remarks on the Societies for promoting Education.

All the school-houses of the society built or arranged up to this date are well and substantially built or remodelled. It seems to be the general plan adopted, to arrange the school-houses according to the published directions of the British and Foreign School Society, and also that married masters should be procured from Europe for all the principal schools.

Three of the stations are already furnished in this manner.

The annual stipend would be for teachers of that class 150*l.* sterling, and a house is always furnished. At the present time 100*l.* currency is the salary of an unmarried coloured master employed to conduct a school.

Though certainly independent of each other, or of any superior authority in the island, nominated by the society at home, the London Society's missionaries in this island form themselves into a general committee, meeting occasionally, under the presidence of a chairman, for the discussion of points of importance or interest to the mission.

It appears, however, that each missionary corresponds directly with the Board in England concerning all matters relating to his post, and he has the sole control in the island of all that relates to his station and its branches.

In the majority of cases a trifling remuneration is taken from such of the parents of the children in attendance upon the schools of the society as are willing to give it; but there is no idea of enforcing payment, or of adding to the funds of the society from that source.

THE SCOTTISH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Ten Stations indicated.

Grants for Ten Stations from the Parliamentary Grant of 1836.

Lucea.—Hanover.

As far as delay may have attended the operations of the society at this place, it is to be attributed to the twofold difficulty of finding a suitable piece of land with a good title, and of knowing what course to pursue in case the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel were to erect a school-house here with the aid of Government, at the same time that a school had been established by the Mico Charity.

The difficulty as to land still exists, but the erection of a school-house is fully determined upon as soon as this is removed.

Green Island.—Hanover.

The erection of the school-house has been commenced since the district was visited (July). It is to be built distinct from any other building.

12 miles from Lucea.

East Hams.—St. James.

The school-house to be built here is to be detached from any other building, and to be laid out in two school-rooms and teacher's apartments. From the impossibility of getting the workmen to work steadily, no precise idea can be given of the time of its probable completion.

12 miles from Montego Bay.

The school established, in the meantime, at Cornwall, was begun as early as 1830, but, till recently, was conducted solely by the wife of the missionary. Both here and at The Spring the premises occupied by the two schools are rented till the new and permanent school-house is ready for the reception of the scholars from both.

The temporary school-house at Cornwall was erected for the purpose, and with considerable aid from the children of apprentices, whom it is the system of the missionary to accustom to work daily for an hour, at some field labour suited to their strength. The nearest school is that of the Baptist missionary at Bethtiphel, three miles distant.

Barret Hall.—St. James.

The delay in building the school-house here is caused entirely by the land not having been properly conveyed to the society.

6 miles east of East Hams.

Hampden.—Trelawney.

This is an excellent and substantial school-house. The Government aid has been applied to the enlargement of one erected by the proprietors of Hampden estate, the congregation of the Missionary and the Ladies' Negro Education Society at Edinburgh. Till the recent alteration it consisted of a small school-room and teacher's apartments. These have now been thrown into one, and an addition of exactly the same size as the original building added, forming one large and spacious apartment. Towards the expense 50*l.* currency was raised among the neighbouring apprentices, &c.

7 miles from Falmouth.

The school list here is revised every two months.

1.
Schedule (A.)

Orange Valley, or Kent Estate.—Trelawney.

3 miles from Hampden.

No title for land has been secured up to this date (September), but preparations are making for the building in the expectation that this difficulty will shortly be surmounted.

The neighbouring apprentices have entered into a subscription towards the expense.

Frontier Estate.—St. Mary.

Close to Port Maria.

At the time this district was visited the society had not obtained a title for the land. This cause of delay has recently been set aside, and the school-house founded, with a prospect of being soon fit for occupation.

Goshen. The Cottage. The Decoy.—St. Mary's.

The want of proper land, or of a full title to that which has been chosen for the erection of the school-houses, is still a cause of delay at these three stations. In the case of the last mentioned, it is the intention of the missionary at Carron Hall, if the application for a title is not successful shortly, to purchase a plot within a short distance of Decoy for the purpose, and at all events he trusts to have a school-house occupied in the course of six or seven months from this time (September). The whole of this district is very populous: it is computed that there are 600 free children of apprentices within a circuit of five miles from Carron Hall.

These three stations are all within a few miles of one another and of Carron Hall, which is 10 miles from Port Maria.

The missionaries of the society appear eager to extend their labours, if the necessary funds can be obtained. In St. Thomas in the Vale a station is contemplated in connexion with Carron Hall, in a part of the parish utterly destitute of instruction; and at Navarre, in the parish of Trelawney, assistance is required to build a school-house.

At The Cottage and Hampden, and other schools of the Scottish Missionary Society, a slight remuneration is taken from such of the scholars as are able or willing to bring it.

Till the schools of the society are placed upon their permanent footing, it is not easy to say what scale of salary for masters, &c. will be adopted; but it cannot differ greatly from that adopted by other similar societies.

There is but one teacher from Europe employed at present, namely, at Hampden; another of the same class sent out to Lucea unfortunately died.

The members of the Scottish missionary body in this island are united under one presbytery; but this board can hardly be said to exercise any interference with the plans and operations of the individual missionary, who conducts his own particular business with the parties at home by whom the missionary post is supported. This is not always the Scottish Missionary Society, properly so called, but in certain cases a distinct congregation, or other body, in the mother country, which has guaranteed the maintenance of the station.

THE MICO CHARITY.

Sixteen Schools indicated.

Grants from the Parliamentary Grants of 1835, 1836.

With regard to the proceedings of the Mico Charity but little information can be added to that conveyed by the Schedules.

Of the 16 school-stations specified there are but five stations which may be considered permanent, as in these the charity has acquired land, and has either built or is about to build. These are

Kingston,

Where the whole premises of the Mico Institution are extremely well arranged, and may be considered in every way permanently established and in full operation.

Bath.—St. Thomas in the East,

14 miles from Morant Bay.

Where a new school-house has been opened recently on land purchased by the charity.

Comfort.—Manchester,

3 miles from Fairfield, and perhaps 15 from Mandeville.

Where temporary school-houses have been erected.

Providence.

Schedule (A.)

Providence.—Westmoreland,

Where a substantial school-house is being built upon land given to the charity. And Perhaps 12 miles from Savanna-la-Mar.

Chantilly.—Westmoreland,

Where the same remark applies.

All the other stations are so far temporary, as the premises are only hired for a shorter or longer period, and as there is no idea of purchasing land or building.

Three stations have been begun and afterwards relinquished; namely,

Wilton.—St. Elizabeth.

Begun in July 1836, relinquished June 1837.

Newport.—Portland.

Begun in May 1836, relinquished January 1837.

Port Royal.

Begun in June 1836, relinquished December 1836.

The charity have established, as a general principle, that the children in attendance upon their schools should be required to pay a trifle, 5*d.* currency per week, for instruction, but it is not insisted upon, and no child is dismissed for neglect of payment.

Uniformity of system is attempted to be followed throughout.

The scale of stipends adopted for the present by the charity in remunerating the various classes of its masters and mistresses employed in the schools, appears to be the following, the dwelling being always provided:—

To coloured females, unmarried, from £. 50 to £. 70 currency.
To coloured males - - ditto - 120 - 140 —
To white females - - ditto - 50 sterling.
To white males - - ditto - 100 —
To married white masters and mistresses from £. 150 to £. 250 sterling.
To ditto coloured ditto - ditto - 150 sterling.
To simple assistant teachers, from £. 30 to £. 50 sterling.

The three inspectors are allowed, with their wives, the sum of 300*l.* sterling, including travelling expenses.

The reports from the schools in each district are sent in regularly to the district inspector, of which there are three, at Bath, Comfort and St. Ann's Bay, and by these to the superintendent at Kingston, who is the regular organ of communication with the trustees.

It is not known that the charity has other stations in contemplation at this date.

Schedule (B.)

SHOWING the Number of Schools, of whatever Description,

N. B.—This Schedule embraces all the schools in the island, of whatever description, as far as could be ascertained by careful inquiry, with the sole exception of the garrison schools attached to the military posts.

* An asterisk indicates a school aided, or to be aided, by the Parliamentary grants of 1835–36 for Negro education.

The scholars are of both sexes, and occupy the same room, unless when indicated as otherwise.

The sign (c) after the name of a master or mistress indicates that the individual is a person of colour.

Schedule (B.)

existing at this Date in the Island of Jamaica.

Whenever the term "children of apprentices" is employed, it is to be understood that free children of apprentices, or such as were under six years of age on the 1st of August 1834, are intended.
In case the school, though a day school, is attended only once or twice in the week, and but for a few hours at a time, the number of scholars is entered on the column of evening schools, except in cases where regular daily instruction was to be shortly substituted.
In noticing the hours of attendance, it is always to be understood that there is an interval of an hour's relaxation at noon when the school is open from 9 A.M. to 4 P.M., and that two such hours are included when the school is opened still earlier in the morning.

Schedule (B)

Remarks on the several Schools.

Enclosure to Schedule (B.)

Remarks.

SURREY.

The City and Parish of Kingston.

Wolmer's Free School.—The Corporation.

Mr. Wolmer, by a will dated 1729, left the bulk of his fortune for the foundation of a free school for the children of the free white inhabitants of this city.

In 1736 it was put in force by act of legislature. The mayor, aldermen and common council of the city for the time being were appointed trustees. To the original school-house, erected on the site of Mr. Wolmer's dwelling, where the school was at first held, the late parish poor-house was added in 1830, being purchased for the use of the infant school, at the cost of 4,000*l.* currency, and arranged for the purpose at a further cost of 1,500*l.*

From the year 1736 to 1815, a period of 79 years, it is computed that the number of children educated amounted to 869; and that from 1815 to 1836, a period of 21 years, 1,755 have been entered on the books.

There is a school-library attached, of which the elder scholars reap the advantage under proper restrictions.

Beside the usual branches of instruction, the upper class of boys are instructed in the Spanish, and the upper class of girls in the French tongues.

The principal school-room measures 78 × 48, and that occupied by the infant school 68 × 28.

Regular examinations take place at stated periods, and from 50*l.* to 100*l.* are annually spent in the purchase of books as prizes.

At present, it is observed that the upper classes scarcely benefit fully from the careful tuition offered to them; the young people being withdrawn from school at too early an age, in consequence of the request in which such as may write a tolerable hand, and have acquired a competent knowledge of the common rules of arithmetic, are held at present among the tradesmen and merchants of the city.

The following table, compiled by the present head-master, who has had the superintendence of the institution for the last 26 years, will show the gradual increase of the coloured, and decrease of the white children in attendance from the year 1814, when the former were admitted, up to the present time.

The Parish Church Sunday School.

Under the curate and assistants.

St. George's Chapel Sunday School.

Under the island curate and seven assistants.

The British School, East Queen-street.—The Baptist Missionary Society.

This is a well-conducted school, upon the British and Foreign system. It occupies two permanent school-houses, built on the mission premises, by aid of voluntary subscriptions raised at home and in the island. The larger measures 60 × 30, and seats 204 pupils, and the smaller, which is used as an infant school and class-room, 45 × 31. The latter was built in 1830. The master is appointed by the resident missionary for the time being, and the communicant communicant members of the congregation. This school is conducted with energy and system; but it is complained that the attendance is irregular and uncertain.

The Female Refuge, Duke-street.—The Church Missionary Society.

This school has been but recently commenced. It owes its origin to the benevolence of the Ladies' Committee of the Church Missionary Society in the island. The object is to rescue orphan and friendless female children in this city from vice and destitution, and to educate them as servants.

The Mico Institution, Hanover-street.—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.) The Mico Charity.

Day School, the Parade (Wesleyan Missionary Society).—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.) The Wesleyan Missionary Society.

Day School, North-street (the London Missionary Society).—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.) The London Missionary Society.

The Kirk Sunday School.

This is a Sunday school of a superior kind, in which the upper classes, composed of day scholars from Wolmer's and other schools, are catechised, and receive careful religious instruction from the minister. It is of a description very suitable for the city, and for the class for which it is intended. The children of apprentices also attend, and are taught to read by the members of the congregation.

The Union School, Church-street.—The Jamaica Union Society.

The society to which this school owes its origin and support was formed for the main purpose of providing instruction for the coloured and poorer classes of children of every description in this city, without reference to prejudices of any kind, civil or religious. It is supported by voluntary subscriptions, aided by grants from the House of Assembly of 300 l. currency annually in 1834 and 1835, and of 200 l. in 1836.

It has received no assistance whatever from home, with the exception of a grant of books and a donation of 50 l. sterling from the British and Foreign School Society. Four dollars per annum are charged for each scholar, with the understanding that but half that sum need be paid with a second child of the same family, and one dollar for all others that may be sent to school. It is governed by a sub-committee of the society, and has hitherto met with tolerable support from individuals of every rank and denomination.

It was proposed to establish branch societies in the various parishes, but this, it would appear, has failed or been neglected.

It will be seen by the list that the private schools in Kingston are numerous; but while there are several of high and established respectability, there are few in this number that offer the means of acquiring more than the common branches of education; and a large proportion confine instruction to the mere rudiments. A great number of children are sent in from the neighbouring parishes to take advantage of them.

There are many hindrances in the way of making a complete list of these schools, or of obtaining a correct idea of their efficiency, or the numbers educated by them. Many are mere sewing or working schools, but such as afford occasional opportunities of learning to read.

There is another source of popular instruction in this city, and that is furnished by itinerant teachers moving from house to house among the poorer classes, and to these must be added a number of the elder children from the day-schools, who in many instances are well known to employ a portion of their leisure hours in instructing adults and others who have not the time and opportunity to profit by the regular schools. Many of the children thus employed earn from 3*d.* to 1*s.* currency per week for each pupil, and are enabled, from this source, to clothe themselves and to assist their respective families.

It cannot be calculated with certainty how many are taught to read by these means. It has been surmised that the number at the present time is not as considerable as it was two years ago, and two reasons are adduced for this: first, that many more find the means of attending the regular schools now than formerly; and that, secondly, a species of excitement which originated in the pledge given by the British and Foreign Bible Society to furnish every individual among the emancipated negroes or their children, who should be able to read, with a copy of the New Testament, an excitement which was fanned at the time by the exertions and exhortations of the clergy and the ministers of every denomination, has now in a great measure passed away. There is no doubt, however, that the number indicated by the schedule is below rather than above the truth.

Places of Worship, Clergy and Missionaries, &c. in the City of Kingston.

The Established Church - - - -	- - the parish church, the rector and curate; St. George's chapel, the island curate; E. branch N. school, stipendiary curate.
Wesleyan Missionary Society - -	- - the Parade chapel, the Wesley chapel, the Ebenezer chapel; three resident missionaries.

Baptist Missionary Society - -	- - E. Queen's-street chapel, two resident missionaries.
The Kirk of Scotland - - -	Duke-street church, the minister.
Roman Catholic - - - -	two chapels (a third building), three priests.
Jewish - - - - - -	- - English and German synagogues, two rabbis, and assistants.
The London Missionary Society -	a chapel, one resident missionary.
Wesleyan Secession - - - -	a chapel, Duke-street, one missionary.
Baptist Secession - - - -	seven chapels, seven preachers.

THE PARISH OF ST. ANDREW.

Half-way Tree.—Parochial School (four miles from Kingston).

Altogether supported by and under the control of the parish.

Half-way Tree.—Branch National School.

This school was opened under the more immediate auspices of the Bishop and his family, and is in the immediate vicinity of their usual residence. The object is to bring up a number of females to moral, industrious and religious habits, in a part of the country where the poorer class is more than ordinarily exposed to neglect, and at a point where the existing means of instruction were not in every way the best suited for their sex. The main difficulty hitherto experienced has been that of finding suitable superintendence. In the meantime there is every prospect of the infant institution flourishing. It is one of a class the necessity of which begins to be felt at the present time, and which will be much more so before the lapse of many years.

The Grove Normal School (seven miles from Kingston).—The Church Missionary Society.

The normal school which the society established in the course of last year in this healthy position, is altogether intended for the education of young men for the service of the schools. It is to be placed permanently under the especial care of a resident missionary in orders. At the present time it is under the more immediate superintendence of a young catechist. He has also the charge of the small day-school recently commenced there; but this arrangement will cease when the new school-house, proposed to be built with the aid of Government, is finished.

The pupils are maintained as long as they reside here at the cost of the society. They consist of such individuals as are recommended by the superintendents of the various schools of the society in different parts of the island, as fitting subjects for ultimate employment as teachers; and they remain here from the age of eight or ten, till such time as they are old and experienced enough to become assistants.

There are two very promising Maroons in the present number. Though quite in its infancy, the prospects of this institution are thus far very encouraging.

Stoney Hill.—Branch National School (ten miles from Kingston).

Papine Estate.—Branch National School (four miles from Kingston).

These are both schools of recent formation; the latter, which is held in an excellent school-house built at the expense of the proprietor, existed previously to its being connected with the Bishop, under the care of the Church Missionary Society. A third Branch National School at Shortwood, four miles from Kingston, has been recently abandoned, in consequence of the indifferent attendance.

Fern Hill.—The Mico Charity, (seven miles from Stoney Hill).—See Enclosure to Schedule (A). The Mico Charity.

PLACES OF WORSHIP, Clergy and Missionaries in the Parish of St. Andrew.

The Established Church - - -	- - the parish church, the rector and curate; Hope chapel of ease, stipendiary curate; Stoney Hill chapel of ease, island curate.
The Wesleyan Missionary Society -	Stoney Hill and two stations, one missionary.
The Baptist Missionary Society -	Mount Charles, one missionary.
Wesleyan Secession - - - -	a chapel, one preacher.
Baptist - ditto - - - -	four places of worship, four preachers.

THE PARISH OF PORT ROYAL.

This parish is for the present almost without schools of any description. The small parochial school at the town of Port Royal has been recently relinquished, and an attempt made made by the Mico Charity to establish one has also failed. In the country there is, as far as can be ascertained, no school for the negro children, with exception of the Sunday-school named in the schedule, and the attendance there is stated to be far less than it was.

Remarks on the several Schools.

Places of Worship, Clergy and Missionaries in the Parish of Port Royal.

The Established Church - - -	- - the parish church, Port Royal, the rector; St. Michael's chapel, mountain district, the island curate.
Wesleyan Missionary Society - -	one chapel, Port Royal.
Baptist Missionary Society - -	one chapel, Port Royal, one missionary.

The Parish of St. David.

Invermay.—Branch National School (five miles from Yallahs).

The prospects of this school are very fair, though the choice of a healthier position may be ultimately necessary. It is situated opposite Easington, on the left bank of Yallahs River, and is of easy access from the village, by the ruins of the chain bridge, formerly existing here, having been made passable for foot-passengers. The boarders pay from 8 l. to 12 l. sterling per annum.

Easington.—Licensed Place of Worship. Sunday School.

This school is conducted by the master of that just named. He is salaried by the parish and the Bishop, each of the parties allowing him 80 l. currency per annum.

Æolus Valley.—Evening School.

As is frequently the case in this class of school, the parties receiving instruction provide the necessary lights, and give some slight remuneration to their teacher, either in cash, or more frequently in provisions. Six pounds sterling may be considered as the common salary of a teacher of this class per annum.

Besides the schools named upon the schedule, it is known that oral instruction is given on many estates in the upper part of the parish by the leaders or others in connexion with the Baptists.

The Baptist missionary in whose circuit this parish is included is just completing a large school-house at Yallahs.

The vestry of St. David's, and the inhabitants generally, are well disposed to promote the education of the labouring classes. Some difficulty may exist in placing schools advantageously, from the character of the district over which it extends being, in the main, extremely mountainous and rugged, and intersected by considerable streams liable to sudden overflow. The Yallahs River may at any time become in the course of a few hours impassable from this cause at any other point of its course than that indicated above, at Easington and Invermay.

The difficulty of finding builders for newly projected schools is much complained of. Advertisements for tenders for the erection of a new school-house at Woburn Lawn, where the proprietor, J. Barclay, esq., has conveyed a piece of land to the parish and the Bishop, for a national school, have been published since July 1836, without any success.

Places of Worship, Clergy and Missionaries in the Parish of St. David.

The Established Church - - -	- - parish church, Yallahs, the rector; one licensed place of worship, the island curate, but no chapel of ease; St. Michael's chapel, within the limits of Port Royal parish, was built at the joint expense of the two.
The Baptist Missionary Society - -	- - have a station, but as yet no chapel or resident missionary.
The Wesleyan Missionary Society -	- - a station in connexion with Morant Bay, but no resident missionary.

The Parish of St. Thomas in the East.

Morant Bay.—Parochial School.

Founded in January 1811. Like the majority of the schools of this class throughout the island, it was not originally accessible to children of colour of any description, but was rendered so in February 1833, when admission was conceded to them by the vestry, ostensibly also to the children of apprentices since January 1835, but few or none have availed themselves of this permission.

1.
Schedule (B.)
Remarks on the several Schools.

Bath and Manchioneal.—Parochial Schools.

The same remark applies to the two other parochial schools in this parish, which are similarly constituted and are governed by nearly the same laws. In that at Bath all the scholars at present are children of free parents, and at Manchioneal there are but three exceptions. If the same regulation be made in all three cases as in that of Bath, "that children of apprentices may be received to the number of 50, on recommendation, they or the persons in charge of them paying the sum of 10 d. per week to the schoolmaster for each," one reason why this class may perhaps rather seek instruction elsewhere is evident.

The master's salary at Bath and at Manchioneal is 200 l. currency, and at Morant Bay 250 l. The masters are, moreover, permitted to take private pupils, at fixed rates, varying, from the scope of the instruction, from 5 l. to 8 l. currency per annum. The regulations at Bath set forth that the free scholars may be received as early as two or three years old, and remain at school till the age of 15, when they are to be apprenticed to some trade for four or five years, the parish paying a fee of 5 l. But this has been found to be a very unpopular regulation.

The present custos, vestry and magistrates of St. Thomas in the East are extremely well disposed to favour the education of the coloured classes, and in the course of 1836 voted the sum of 1,100 l. currency to this end, or for purposes connected with it.

They have in every instance approved of the proposals of the Bishop, and co-operated with him in carrying them into effect. The three schools above named cost the parish annually the sum of 1,000 l. currency to maintain.

Morant Bay. Rocky Point, Coley.—Blue Mountain District. Branch National Schools.—See Schedule (A) and its Enclosure, The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Morant Bay.—Day School. London Missionary Society.—See Schedule (A) and its Enclosure, The London Missionary Society.

The Sunday-school at the chapel of the London Missionary Society at Morant Bay is composed of three, formerly distinct; that at the Bay, and those on the Belvidere and Retreat estates in the vicinity. On the Belvidere a chapel has been recently built, mainly, if not altogether, by the voluntary labour of the apprentices, under the advice and encouragement of the society's missionary at the Bay.

Port Morant.—Day School. Church Missionary Society.—See Schedule (A) and its Enclosure, The Church Missionary Society.

Monchlands.—Blue Mountain District. Robert Patterson, Esq.

This school is maintained for the emigrants and apprentices on the estate.

There was formerly a school in this neighbourhood in which a Presbyterian licentiate gave instruction to the apprentices; but in May of this year he had quitted the island, if report said true. In the present month, (September,) it is stated that a Presbyterian precentor has been introduced at Moncklands, and that a school has been commenced, of which no return has been obtained as yet.

The whole of this fine and populous district has, with these two exceptions, been left utterly without schools of any description, though at different epochs the Established Church, the Wesleyan and the London Missionary Society, has each in turn attempted to form stations, but have failed hitherto for want of land or other causes. (See Coley.)

The Blue Mountain district contains an apprentice population of 23,000 and upwards. Taking the estate of Mount Lebanus as a centre, having itself an apprentice population of 160, there are within the circuit of one mile, 350 apprentices; of two miles, 400 more; of three miles, 1,200; of four miles, 600; of five miles, 1,000; of six miles, 500; making a total of upwards of 4,000 within six miles, while none of this number live nearer to church or school than eight or 10 miles.

Bath. (Fourteen miles from Morant Bay.)—Day School, &c. Mico Charity.—See Schedule (A) and its Enclosure, The Mico Charity.

Amity Hall.—Day School, &c. Church Missionary Society.

On this estate the Church Missionary Society have recently built a spacious and convenient school-house at its own expense, assisted by the voluntary labour of the apprentices. It is particularly well situated, on the edge of one of the most fertile and populous districts in the island, It is calculated that there are 500 children of an age to profit by school instruction within a circuit of four miles. The dimensions of the school-room are 50 × 20, and is calculated to contain 200 with ease.

The adult school is held late in the evening, and is attended only by adult males of every age, from 18 to 60.

Golden Grove.—Sunday School.

A church consecrated to the use of the Established Church has been erected here, principally by the estate's workmen, at the cost of the proprietor, C. Archdeckne, esq. The Sunday-school is under the care of the catechist of the Church Missionary Society at Amity Hall, two miles distant.

1.
Schedule (B.)

Remarks on the several Schools.

Happy Grove.—Day School.

Besides the small school here named, there are one or two persons in the same part of the parish who instruct the children of apprentices in reading, but the numbers attending are very limited and uncertain. With the exception of Moncklands, it is not ascertained that there is any estate day-school in the parish, though attempts have been made to increase the number. In 1835, proposals were made by the rector for the establishment of such throughout the parish. It was projected to furnish the estates with regular masters, licensed by the Bishop, and placed under the superintendence of the parochial clergy, stipulating that a few hours each day should be employed in some light field labour. Nothing however was carried into effect.

Other offers have been since made by individual proprietors to their apprentices for the establishment of schools, on condition that all the children of above six years of age should labour four hours per diem on the estate, with a promise of a full allowance to all of what they had received under the old system, the article of clothing excepted; and that each child so employed should receive 10 d. per week. The reason assigned by the parents for the rejection of this offer was this, that by such an arrangement the children would become virtually apprentices.

Projected Schools.—Blue Mountain Valley, London Missionary Society; Rocky Point, Wesleyan Missionary Society; and Long Bay, Church Missionary Society.—See Schedule (A.)

Places of Worship, Clergy and Missionaries in the Parish of St. Thomas in the East.

The Established Church - - -	- - parish church, Morant Bay, the rector chapel of ease, Bath, the island curate; chapel of ease, Manchioneal, stipendiary curate; chapel of ease, Golden Grove, stipendiary curate.
Wesleyan Missionary Society - -	- - four chapels, Morant Bay, Rocky Point, Bath, Manchioneal, two missionaries and one assistant missionary.
Baptist Missionary Society - -	- - two chapels, Bell Castle, Manchioneal, one station, Long Bay, one missionary.
London Missionary Society - -	- - two chapels, Morant Bay, Belvidere estate, a schoolmaster, but no resident missionary.

The Parish of Portland.

Titchfield.—Free School.

This is an endowed school, with an income of about 700 l. currency, founded for the education of a limited number of Creole children born in wedlock, and confined to that class till shortly before the emancipation of the Negroes, when the trustees enacted that the coloured classes might be admitted.

Titchfield.—Day School. Ladies' Negro Education Society.

This school is composed of two classes, the first consisting of 25 free female pupils, paying 2 s. 1 d. currency per week, and the second of both sexes, paying from 2½ d. to 5 d. weekly, if willing, but 33 of the number are educated free of expense. The Ladies' Society gives 100 l. per annum to the master, who is otherwise dependant upon the income drawn from the scholars.

Mooretown.—Day School, Church Missionary Society.—See Schedule (A), The Church Missionary Society.

There is a great deficiency of the means of education for the poor and labouring classes in this parish. The question of a school to be maintained conjointly by the parish and the Bishop in the principal town, Titchfield, is still pending. The proprietors, generally speaking, do not appear to be particularly anxious for education, unless coupled with industry.

There was a small school at Carsfield, near Boston, but it has gone to decay. It could not be ascertained that there was an estate school of any description within the limits of the parish, or that any schools, except that at Titchfield, were in contemplation.

Places of Worship, Clergy and Missionaries in the Parish of Portland.

The Established Church - - -	- - parish church, the rector; chapel of ease, Boston, the island curate.
Church Missionary Society - -	chapel of ease, Mooretown, missionary curate.
Wesleyan Missionary Society - -	one chapel, Titchfield, one missionary.

THE PARISH OF ST. GEORGE.

Hope Bay.—Sunday School. The Church.

THIS Sunday-school, which can hardly be said to exist at present, was conducted by the catechist of the Church Missionary Society, resident till the present spring (1837) at Paradise, three miles distant. The society had established a school there, but have been constrained to abandon it, from the circumstance that the school-house lay between two mountain streams, liable to sudden overflow. This objection the society attempted to remedy as far as lay in its power, by proposing to the parents of the children on the neighbouring properties to lodge the pupils altogether, provided the apprentices would furnish them from week to week with the provisions necessary for their consumption. A trial was made, a dormitory provided, and a number of children became inmates of the house, but the parents neglected to send provisions, and it was soon found absolutely necessary to break up the establishment.

Charlestown—Day School. The Church Missionary Society.

The society have here a regular school-house, built some years ago. The school had been suspended for some time, from difficulties of various kinds, and had but just been recommenced at the time the district was visited. Considering that the Maroons have enjoyed the means of instruction for many years in advance of the Negro, from the establishments formed among them by this society, it must be allowed, that apparently they evince, as a race, less aptitude for gaining knowledge and less pliancy of mind and temper than the latter.

Birnam Wood.—Day School, &c. Church Missionary Society.—See Schedule (A) and its Enclosure, The Church Missionary Society.

Fort Stewart Estate.—Branch National School.

This is one of those schools in connexion with the Bishop and the central school in Kingston which is supported by funds placed at the disposal of his Lordship by the munificence of Samuel Mitchell, Esq. It is altogether subject to the regulations established for the government of schools of this class. There is an excellent school-house, built recently by the proprietor. In addition to the regular number of children in attendance, 20 of the adult apprentices usually attend between shell-blows, or from 12 to two P. M.

At the time that the parish of St. George's was visited there were signs of the decay rather than of the improvement of the existing means of instruction in the parish generally. The parochial schools seem to be under great neglect; and perhaps it may be said with some truth, that in this and the adjoining parish of Portland there was evidently greater apathy on this subject, both among masters and apprentices, than in any other parishes of equal size and importance.

PLACES OF WORSHIP.—Clergy and Missionaries in the Parish of St. George.

The Established Church - - -	- - The parish church, Buff Bay, the rector; chapel of ease, Hope Bay, the island curate; chapel of ease, Annotto Bay, stipendiary curate.
Church Missionary Society - -	chapel of ease, Birnam Wood, one missionary.
Wesleyan Missionary Society - -	two stations, no resident missionary.
Baptist Secession - - - -	- - one chapel, Annotto Bay, one preacher, two stations.

MIDDLESEX.

THE PARISH OF ST. CATHERINE.

Spanish Town.—School of Industry; Beckford's Free School; Smith's Free School.

THE portion of this school which is supported by the vestry of the parish is the remnant of a school opened in 1830, under the superintendence of a master sent out from England, at the application of the vestry. His death, at a time when the number in attendance was nearly 400, proved an unfortunate circumstance for the success of the institution, as a second appointment proved a failure, and the funds necessary for its support were shortly withdrawn by the parish. As a separate master could not be supported under these circumstances, an arrangement was made with the trustees of the two endowments to combine all three, and to divide the expense of the master's maintenance between the three parties. This measure was adopted quite recently. Within the few months past the national system has been introduced.

Spanish Town.—Metropolitan School; Sligoville Day School, &c.; Passage Fort Day School, &c. Baptist Missionary Society.—See Schedule (A) and its Enclosure, The Baptist Missionary Society.

The question of a school to be maintained at the joint expense of the parish and the Bishop, which it is proposed to locate near the Ferry chapel of ease (the Caymannus), is not yet determined.

There

There are no estate schools in this parish, as far as can be ascertained; and the only school in contemplation, in addition to that mentioned, is that to be founded in Spanish Town by the Wesleyan Missionary Society, with the aid of the Parliamentary grant.

PLACES OF WORSHIP, Clergy and Missionaries in the Parish of St. Catherine.

The Established Church - - -	- - the parish church, Spanish Town, the rector and assistant curate, the island curate; the Ferry chapel of ease, stipendiary curate.
Wesleyan Missionary Society - -	one chapel, Spanish Town, two missionaries.
Baptist Missionary Society - -	- - three chapels, Spanish Town, Sligoville, Passage Fort, one missionary.

THE PARISH OF ST. DOROTHY.

Bushy Park.—Branch National School.

THIS school has been just opened, and is well situated in every respect. It is accessible to all who apply for admittance, whether from this or the neighbouring estate. It is provided with a master from the central school, and is under the immediate eye of the rector.

The existing means of instruction in this parish are totally inadequate to the call for it. It may be seen, however, to the new school just alluded to, there are two school-rooms advancing to completion at Old Harbour Bay, (see Schedule (A), the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel,) in the erection of which the parish has fully entered into the Bishop's views.

PLACES OF WORSHIP, Clergy and Missionaries in the Parish of St. Dorothy.

The Established Church - - -	- - the parish church, near Old Harbour-Market, the rector; chapel of ease, Old Harbour Bay, the island curate.
Wesleyan Missionary Society - -	- - one chapel, Old Harbour Bay, no resident missionary.
Baptist Missionary Society - -	- - one chapel, Old Harbour Bay, with a resident missionary.

THE PARISH OF ST. THOMAS IN THE VALE.

Rodney Hall, Day School. Above-Rocks, Day School.—See Schedule (A) and Enclosure, The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Guy's Hill.—Branch National School.

THIS school is situated near the limits of the three parishes, St. Thomas in the Vale, St. Ann and St. Mary, not far from the new chapel of ease at Blackstonedge, but it is maintained at the joint expense of the first named parish and the Bishop. The position is very suitable, both from the number of children of the labouring class in the vicinity, and the absence of serious impediments to their regular attendance, ordinarily met with in districts of equal elevation; but from some cause it appears to be rather declining than otherwise.

Grateful Hill.—Sunday School. Wesleyan Missionary Society.—See Schedule (A.) and its Enclosure, The Wesleyan Missionary Society.

Constant Spring.—Day School. Mico Charity.—See Schedule (A) and its Enclosure, The Mico Charity.

Lucky Valley.—Day School.

This little school is on the property of Mrs. O'Mealy, and is situated in the mountains to the east of Rodney Hall; and it is interesting chiefly from the good spirit to which it owes its origin, and from being one of the few attempts made in the island to set on foot a class of country school, of which the want is severely felt in many parts of the country. Many of the scholars have remained here for entire months without returning home, and are cared for by the family. They are instructed by a young person of almost pure African blood, who has been prepared for this duty by a daughter of the lady. She is remunerated by a trifling gratuity paid by such of the parents of the children as are able to afford it. Fourteen, out of 21 on the list, were in residence at the time the spot was visited. Though it is stipulated that the parents should bring provisions weekly, there is considerable neglect and irregularity in that respect. In the intervals of instruction the children cultivate a piece of ground, laid out as a garden, on which it is intended that they should rear their own ground provisions. The Baptist missionary at Jericho, who has a preaching station here, has some intention of building a school-house.

At the Sunday and evening schools, as in all mountain districts, the attendance is very irregular.

The vestry of this parish have shown every disposition to further the cause of education, and have voted a large sum in aid of the school-houses to be erected in the parish in connexion with the Bishop.

It is not known that there are any estate schools at present in St. Thomas in the Vale. There was one on Walter estate, which has been abandoned on account of the bad attendance; and a small evening school kept by the beadle (a female), has in the same manner fallen off. A similar observation must be made with reference to the small Sunday-school formerly held at the parish church. In 1834 a catechist was stationed at Hangivy in the mountains of this parish. He established a school for the apprentices and their children, which was held three times a week, but circumstances have led to his being withdrawn.

The Scottish Missionary Society has had the choice of land for the erection of a chapel and school-house offered them by three several proprietors, and it is probable that it may take advantage of one of them.

Places of Worship, Clergy and Missionaries in the Parish of St. Thomas in the Vale.

The Established Church - - -	- - parish church, two miles from Rodney Hall, the rector; chapel of ease, Williamsfield, the island curate.
Wesleyan Missionary Society - -	one chapel, Russel's Pen, one missionary.
Baptist Missionary Society - -	- - one chapel, Jericho, one missionary; three stations, Guy's Hill, Lucky Valley, and Mount Hermon.

The Parish of St. John.

Point Hill.—Parochial School.

This is for the present the only day-school in this parish. It may be said, as far as it goes, to be efficiently and well conducted, but, as may be supposed, is totally inadequate to supply the wants of even its own neighbourhood. The school-room is attached to the parish offices. The master is paid 100*l.* currency by the vestry, and 50*l.* by the Bishop, since the admission of the children of apprentices, and out of this stipend he must pay his assistant and furnish the school with books.

There existed, till recently, both a day and Sunday-school at Luidas Vale, the clerk of the chapel of ease acting as schoolmaster. His resignation seems to have broken these up altogether. There were 54 children in attendance upon the day-school. The cause of the post being abandoned is stated to be the want of means to furnish a salary for a regular master. The clerk's stipend was 50*l.*, and to this the Bishop and the island curate made some addition.

On Spring Vale estate the proprietor allows 10*l.* currency per annum to one of his book keepers to teach the apprentices to read, between shell-blows, or when they can spare the time.

At Guanaboo (the parish church) great want of a school for the children of the neighbouring estates is felt, and the Bishop has made offers to the vestry of aid towards the erection of a school-house and the stipend of the master, in case it would co-operate with him, but the parish has not yet fallen into his views.

The Parish of St. Mary.

Port Maria.—Free School.

This school was originally founded for the education of six poor free children of the parish; at present the number is augmented by the vestry to 20. The number is kept up without difficulty; but it is stipulated that if a full number of free children of free parents do not offer it may be filled up by apprentices, or the children of apprentices.

Esher Estate, Branch National School.

Placed under the charge of the bishop in 1836, though founded in 1832 by S. Mitchell, esq. The attendance of the children has been latterly very indifferent; and but few of the apprentices avail themselves of the invitation to attend at shell-blow. The permanent school-room formed, till it was thus arranged, a part of the hospital. It may conveniently hold 150 or upwards.

Scott's Hall, Day School, Mico Charity.—See Schedule (A), &c., The Mico Charity.

Guy's Hill, Sunday School.—See the Parish of St. Thomas-in-the-Vale.

The estates in the vicinity of the chapel of ease, upon which schools for teaching the apprentices to read are occasionally held, are those of Spring Garden, Halifax, Goshen, Mount Plenty and Soho. Coloured teachers are employed.

Highgate, Sunday School.

The plan of erecting a school-house here has been for some months in agitation. The bishop offered 200 l. towards it as his proportion of the expense; and a subscription has been entered into to raise the remainder of the sum necessary; 50 l. has been given by the apprentices of the vicinity.

The Sunday schoolmaster is allowed 40 l. per annum by the bishop. In this neighbourhood the school on Whitehall estate is furnished with a master salaried by the proprietor; and besides this school and that at Islington, there were two others at Tremolesworth and Nonsuch, both set on foot for the benefit of the apprentices, but relinquished in consequence of the indifferent attendance.

The island curate states that in this district there is great apathy among the labouring class on the score of education.

The general feeling among the proprietors, &c., in this parish is apparently very favourable to education; and there would be no difficulty in finding suitable pieces of land for the erection of school-houses, were the titles always to be depended upon.

It is, however, asserted that there is a strong feeling in the minds of many in favour of schools of industry; and in the case of Highgate, the demur which has arisen on this head may lead to the erection of the school being postponed.

In this parish the state of the roads is such as to throw a great hindrance in the way of regular attendance on the schools, at certain seasons of the year.

The attention of the vestry and of the principal magistrates of the parish is strongly directed to the extension of the means of education among the apprentices. With exception of the school-houses to be built by the Scottish Missionary Society, four in number, and perhaps one in connexion with the bishop at the Port, no new ones are projected at present.

The Scottish Missionary Society -	1 chapel, Port Maria; 3 missionaries. 2 temporary chapels, Carron Hall and Goshen.
Baptist Missionary Society - -	2 chapels, Port Maria and Oracabessa; 1 missionary. 1 station, Scott's Hall.
Wesleyan Missionary Society - -	3 chapels, Port Maria; 1 missionary. Port Maria and Guy's Hill. 1 station, Derry.
Wesleyan Secession - - - -	1 station, Port Maria; 1 preacher.
Baptist Secession - - - -	1 station, Bagnals; 1 preacher.

The Parish of Clarendon.

Chapelton, Parochial School.

The offers of the bishop to the parish vestry to remodel this school, and to commence one on the plan and in connexion with the Central National School at Kingston, are still under consideration.

Schedule (B.)

Remarks on the several Schools.

Leicester Fields, Day School, 18 miles from Chapelton.

On this estate there is a regular school-house, built by S. Mitchell, esq. A master is salaried for the instruction of the children of apprentices, and of the emigrants on this estate. It is under the control of the managing attorney for the property, who appoints the master, and of the rector of the parish.

Oliphant's, or St. Jago, Day School.

Also a property of S. Mitchell, esq., but, like those of Fort Stewart and Esher, placed under the control of the bishop, and in connexion with the Central National School at Kingston.

The school on Kellit's estate (18 miles north-east of Chapelton) is under the control of the managing attorney for the property; it is held for but one hour in the day, by a book-keeper, who is paid a small stipend for this service. There are 90 or 100 free children of apprentices on the estate, and of this number only two are in attendance.

The proprietor of Arthur's Seat (S. Poole, esq.) has ceded the works of his estate, with 30 acres of land to the parish and the bishop, to furnish a chapel of ease, school-house, curate's residence and glebe. The curing-house, which it was proposed to convert into the school, would give a room of 42 × 35 in dimensions. Some difficulties, however, have arisen between the vestry and his lordship in adjusting the terms of settlement, which to this date have caused this advantageous opening to be left unoccupied. With the exception of the small attempt at Kellit's, there is no school to be found in this part of the parish, within a circuit of 15 or 18 miles.

The London Missionary Society are pledged to open a school, and build a school-house at Chapelton. It is not known that any other new school station is in immediate contemplation.

The Church Missionary Society have recently relinquished a small school at Low Ground, in this parish.

Places of Worship, Clergy, and Missionaries, in the Parish of Clarendon.

The Established Church - - -	Parish church, Chapelton; the rector. Chapel of ease, Lime Savanna; the island curate.
Wesleyan Missionary Society - -	2 chapels, Lime Savanna and Four Paths; 1 missionary. 1 station, The View.
Baptist Missionary Society - -	1 chapel, Four Paths; 1 missionary.
London Missionary Society - -	2 chapels, Four Paths and Porus; 2 missionaries. 1 station, Chapelton.

The Parish of Vere.

The Alley, Endowed School.

Endowed for the education of 12 white children, recommended by the vestry, from the age of eight to that of 16. The ordinary branches of education only are taught. The head master must be a clergyman of the Established Church. The situation is notoriously unhealthy.

The Alley, Branch National School.

The master of this school is paid conjointly by the parish and the bishop, as clerk an schoolmaster. As the rector of the parish is master of the endowed school adjoining, and has his residence there, the rectory has been given up, for the present, for the use of the national school.

Salt Savanna, Day School, C. M. S.

This station of the Church Missionary Society has been established for upwards of 10 years, and, till the national school at the Alley was formed, was the only school to which the labouring class had access for instruction in the parish, and in a district which contains as dense a population as is to be found in the island, within a circuit of six or seven miles diameter. It has been of eminent service, as far as its influence could be felt.

It is remarked that there is a very great desire for instruction among the labouring class in this parish; and there is no want of a disposition to favour education amongst them, on the part of the vestry and principal inhabitants.

The Church Missionary Society contemplate shortly to open another station for a school at Milk River.

Places of Worship, Clergy, and Missionaries, in the Parish of Vere.

The Established Church - - -	The parish church, The Alley; the rector. Licensed preaching places; the island curate.
Wesleyan Missionary Society - -	Have a station, but no missionary.
Baptist Missionary Society - -	Have a station Hayes Savanna; but no missionary.

The Church Missionary Society have at present no missionary at Salt Savanna.

Schedule (B.)

Remarks on the several Schools.

THE PARISH OF ST. ANN.

St. Ann's Bay, Free School.

Instituted for the education of 16 free children, and wholly supported by the parish. At 14 years of age they are apprenticed to some suitable trade.

St. Ann's Bay, Day School, M. C.; Brownstown, Day School, M. C.—See Schedule (A.), The Mico Charity.

Brownstown, Sunday School, &c.

This school is merely held on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, for the space of two hours each day, under the master of the Mico School, to whom the island curate gives 16 l. per annum for this service. The number attending is therefore placed in the column of evening schools.

Retreat Estate, Day School.

This is the only estate school set on foot and maintained by the proprietor, as far as can be ascertained, in the parish. In addition to the free children, a proportion of the apprentices on the estate are allowed to attend in rotation.

Aboukir, Sunday School.

This is a chapel of ease, situated in the mountain district of St. Ann's, and at a considerable distance from every other church or missionary station. A school here is loudly called for.

Runaway Bay, William's Field and Dry Harbour, Day and Sunday Schools, &c., L. M. S.—See Schedule (A), &c., The London Missionary Society.

Ochorios, Day School, Wesleyan M. S.

This small day school was more flourishing some months ago than at present, as the master has been called by the directors to Kingston to take the charge of the new central school about to be opened; but another master is to be provided. A bequest of some consequence has been made to the society for the express purpose of building a permanent school-house in this village.

Coultart's Grove, Sunday School, Baptist Missionary Society.

Here the society contemplate beginning a day school, and building a school-house, if the funds can be obtained.

Walton, Endowed School.

Endowed for the liberal education of 16 pupils: 10 to be recommended by the vestry, and six by the governor of the island.

There are no schools for the children of apprentices in this neighbourhood; and in general it may be remarked, that the interior of this fine parish is almost altogether without schools, the few within St. Ann's being ranged at distances along the coast. Compared to the necessity, there is but little done or doing, and there seems to be considerable apathy on the subject among the higher classes and the authorities.

PLACES OF WORSHIP, Clergy, and Missionaries, in the Parish of St. Ann.

The Established Church - - -	The parish church, St. Ann's Bay; the rector. Chapel of ease, Brownstown; the island curate. Chapel of ease, Aboukir; stipendiary curate. Chapel of ease, Guy's Hill; stipendiary curate. Chapel of ease, Walton; head master in orders.
Wesleyan Missionary Society - -	2 chapels, Moneague and St. Ann's Bay; 2 missionaries: and 2 stations, the Finger Post and Ebenezer.
Baptist Missionary Society - -	3 chapels, St. Ann's Bay, Brownstown, and Ochorios; 3 missionaries: and several stations, Moneague, Coultart's Grove, &c.
London Missionary Society -	1 chapel, Dry Harbour; 1 missionary, temporarily at Williamsfield.

Schedule (B.)
Remarks on the several Schools.

THE PARISH OF MANCHESTER.

Mandeville, Branch National School.

THIS school was commenced in March 1836, but became connected with the central national school at the epoch specified in the schedule. When the district was visited it was discontinued, from the difficulty that existed in supplying the place of a master, who had been dismissed six months previously. It is however understood that it has been since recommenced. The schedule gives the number of scholars in attendance at the time of its temporary suspension.

Mandeville, Day School, L. M. S.—See Schedule (A), &c., The London Missionary Society.

Snowden, Day School; Kensworth, Day School.

These schools are placed under the inspection of the island curate, and are supported by the Jamaica branch of the Ladies' Negro Education Society.

Green Pond, or Elstree, Day School, C. M. S.—See Schedule (A), &c., The Church Missionary Society.

Cocoa Walk, Day School, &c.; Scottish Mission.

The schools lie in a part of the country in which no others are to be found, and are conducted by a minister of the Secession Church of Scotland, unconnected with the Scottish Missionary Society, though all the Scottish missionaries in the island are united in one presbytery.

The prospect of these schools is very encouraging.

The Sunday and evening scholars are collected from a circuit of several miles in extent.

The day school is mainly supported by the Ladies' Negro Education Society, and is more particularly under the care of the worthy widow of the Scottish missionary, lately deceased.

The boarding school is a private undertaking of the missionary, and forms an almost solitary instance of a species of school, of which the want is exceedingly felt in Jamaica, combining the advantages of superior instruction with those to be derived from the steady example, and the religious and moral instruction of a Christian missionary, of whose family the children are, in fact, members, for the time of their stay under tuition.

It is at present well supported by the upper classes of the community, and it is to be hoped will exercise a salutary influence upon the neighbourhood among a future race of masters and proprietors. There is no distinction of colour; but the terms, which are 40*l.* per annum, of course confine its usefulness to the better classes, for which it is, in fact, intended. The ages of the pupils, 23 boys and 17 girls, are between five and 13 years.

Comfort, Hill-side, Day Schools, M. C.—See Schedule (A), The Mico Charity.

Fairfield, Adam's Valley, Bethany, &c. &c., Day Schools, &c., M. M. S.—See Schedule (A), &c., The Moravian Missionary Society.

Huntley Estate, Hollywood, &c., Day Schools.

The tuition at these schools is like that at Snowden and Kensworth, in this parish, and at many schools in the adjoining parishes of St. Elizabeth and Westmoreland, provided by the Ladies' Negro Education Society. The schools at Huntley and Kensham have the advantage of being under the eye of resident proprietors, known to have been for many years foremost in the exercise of generous, but quiet and well-judged efforts for the welfare of the labouring classes in their respective neighbourhoods.

Petersfield, Day School.

At the time this school was visited it was hardly in operation, from the absence of the proper master. It is believed that he has since returned to his post. It is situated in a district where it cannot fail of success, if properly conducted. Green Hill is a small school, at a few miles distance, and is chiefly intended for such of the children of the neighbourhood as might be too far removed from Petersfield.

Canesham, Day School.—See Schedule (A), &c., The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

In the parish of Manchester the vestry has recently come forward with zeal to further the cause of education among the apprentices.

Four distinct schools, besides that of Canesham, which has recently been opened, are to be commenced without delay, in parts of the parish where education is most called for.—See Schedule (A), Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Th

The sites at this date, September 1837, were not yet fully determined upon. It will also be seen that the Wesleyan Missionary Society has pledged itself to build a school-house, with the aid of Government, and to establish a school near Mandeville.

With all this, the means of instruction, whether actually there, or in prospect, are very inadequate to the call for it.

PLACES OF WORSHIP, Clergy, and Missionaries, in the Parish of Manchester.

The Established Church - - -	The parish church, Mandeville; the rector. Chapel of ease, Snowden; the island curate. Chapel of ease, St. David's; stipendiary curate. Chapel of ease, Canesham.
Moravian Missionary Society - -	2 chapels, Fairfield and Bethany; 1 station, Adam's Valley; 4 missionaries.
London Missionary Society - -	1 chapel, Mandeville; no resident missionary.
Presbyterian Church - - -	A temporary chapel, Cocoa Walk; 1 missionary.

CORNWALL.

THE PARISH OF ST. ELIZABETH.

Black River.—Branch National Schools.

THESE schools are supported by the vestry of the parish, conjointly with the Bishop. The former barracks have been placed by Government at the disposal of the House of Assembly, and by that body have been made over to the parish, and devoted for the present to the use of these schools. The boys' school occupies the soldiers' barracks, and the girls' the former officers' quarter.

Black River, Day School; The Pedro Plains, Day School.—Ladies' N. E. Society.

These are of the number of those small schools, which placed, according to circumstances, upon the estate of a family favourable to the object, or in a locality where the want of education is most felt, are supported by the Ladies' Society, and placed under the care of the nearest clergyman of the Established Church, or Moravian Missionary.—See Schedule (A.) and its Enclosure, The Ladies' Negro Education Society.

Black River.—Sunday School.

Conducted by the master of the Branch National Boys' School, who is a catechist, licensed by the Bishop.

Heathfield, Day School.—See Schedule (A), &c., The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Lacovia, Sunday School.

By a master salaried by the Bishop.

Lacovia, Day School, M. C.—See Schedule (A), &c., The Mico Charity.

New Eden, Day School.—Moravian Missionary Society.

A school has existed on this estate for many years. It was originally designed by the proprietor, W. F. Foster, esq., for the education of the children on this and the three adjoining estates, belonging to gentlemen of the same name; but it seems never to have fully succeeded to the extent desired. Of late the stipend of the mistress has been furnished by the Ladies' Negro Education Society. It was contemplated by the Moravian Missionary Society to build a school-house here, with the aid of Government; but the slight encouragement afforded by the parents of the children on these estates, in sending them to the present school, and other circumstances, led to the idea being for the present abandoned, and to the appropriation of the sum offered from the Parliamentary grants in aid of this object, with the permission of Government, to the school-house built since at Adam's Valley in Manchester.

Scaife's Chapel, in the Plains.—Moravian M. S.

The chapel is built in the centre of the half cultivated plains that stretch between the foot of the Carpenter's Mountains on one side, and that of the Santa Cruz chain on the other.

A.
Schedule (B.)
Remarks on the several Schools.

It is a district upon which there are but few large estates, but a multitude of small settlements, chiefly of free brown people, who have planted themselves gradually on this and the other side of the Santa Cruz Mountains on the Pedro Plains, and till lately have been completely overlooked. It is the intention of the society to apply to Government for aid in erecting a school-house at this spot.

New Bethlehem, Day School, M. M. S.—See Schedule (A), &c., The Moravian Missionary Society.

Hampstead, Day School Moravian.—Missionary Society.

The school, existing on this estate under the encouragement of the proprietor and the managing attorney, Matt. Farquharson, esq., is held in an excellent and spacious school-room, arranged for the purpose.

New Fulnec, Day School, M. M. S.—See Schedule (A), The Moravian Missionary Society.

Mount Unity, Day School.—See Appleton, Schedule (A), The Church Missionary Society.

Accompongs, Maroon Town.—The Church Missionary Society.

One of the three stations among the Maroons, in which the society have supported schools for some years; and here, as at Mooretown and Charlestown, the success has hardly answered the toil and expense. The whole population of the village is about 400. Thirty children are in attendance, and there is the greatest difficulty in persuading the parents to send them with any degree of regularity. On account of the rains, so frequent in the mountains in the afternoon, the school terminates at one, P. M.

Meribah, Day School, C. M. S.—See Bonavista, Schedule (A), The Church Missionary Society.

Grosmond, Sunday School.

Since the Mico Charity's school at Wilton, in this neighbourhood, was abandoned, in June last, there is no day school in this district, in which it is calculated that there are, within a moderate number of miles, upwards of 5,000 apprentices. It is now determined that the seat of the endowed school to be founded in this parish by Dickinson and Monroe's charity is to be on this property. What the precise plan and scale of this institution is to be cannot be stated at the present date; but it is understood that no further time is to be lost in putting the intentions of the testators in force.

Kepp Pen, Day School.

The proprietor of this property, G. Marcey, esq., has for some years back given gratuitous instruction to a number of apprentice children, with regular catechization on the Sunday.

Besides the projected institution to be supported by Dickinson and Monroe's charity, as above mentioned, and the erection of various permanent school-houses in this parish, by the aid of Government, the vestry have resolved to meet the views of the Bishop, by the speedy foundation of two schools, one in the Santa Cruz Mountains, and the other in the Mount Charles district.

The parish of St. Elizabeth, with the adjoining ones of Manchester and Westmoreland, has been for some years under far greater advantage, on the score of education and steady attention to the moral and religious improvement of the children on the estates, than others in the island, from the greater proportion which they possessed of resident families, whether proprietors or otherwise, sincerely anxious for the moral improvement of the coloured classes, and ready to co-operate with the clergy and the Christian missionary in whatever was conducive to this end, and that, in some instances, at a time when any such line of conduct was loudly condemned by the public voice.

At the present time the feeling of the higher classes generally, and of the parochial authorities in all the three parishes, appears to be strongly in favour of giving the means of education to the labouring classes, though there may be, even among the friends of the principle, considerable diversity of opinion, both as to the means to be employed, and the extent and character of the instruction to be given.

In St. Elizabeth's, though the schools are small, and perhaps in many instances conducted without sufficient energy, they are scattered widely over the country, compared with other parishes. Still there are large and populous districts, not only completely without the most partial means of instruction at the present time, but seemingly without any immediate prospect of obtaining it. In the upland district there are no schools but those at the Maroon Town and Appleton.

Schedule (B.)

Remarks on the several Schools.

PLACES OF WORSHIP, Clergy, and Missionaries, in the Parish of St. Elizabeth.

The Established Church - - - (There are, besides, three catechists or Sunday-school masters, paid by the Bishop.)	The parish church, Black River; the rector. Chapel of ease, Lacovia and Grosmond; the island curate. Chapel of ease not yet built, Heathfield, &c. &c.; stipendiary curate. No chapel, Font-hill; stipendiary curate. No chapel, Appleton; stipendiary curate draws his salary partly from the Bishop and partly from the Church Missionary Society, whose missionary he is.
Church Missionary Society - -	No chapel, the Pedro Plains; 1 missionary.
Moravian Missionary Society - -	4 chapels, New Bethlehem, New Fulnec, New Eden, and Scaife's hapel; and many stations for preaching or catechization; 3 missionaries.

THE PARISH OF WESTMORELAND.

Savanna-la-Mar.—Manning's Free School.

AT this school there are no children of apprentices admitted on the foundation. The private scholars who take advantage of this school pay a certain sum per annum, viz. 3*l.* 4*s.* and some extras for the common branches, and a small additional sum for the classics. The head master is a clergyman of the Established Church. The school is visited periodically by the trustees, and an annual examination takes place. It is not upon a sufficient scale to satisfy the wants of the portion of the island in which it is situated, but is far more efficient in its character than any other institution of the kind in the island. There are 50 boys and 50 girls in the free school, and 74 boys and 28 girls in the private school. There are five classes in each.

Savanna-la-Mar, Sunday School.

Is conducted by a catechist, salaried by the Bishop.

Savanna la Mar, Day School, M. C.—See Schedule (A), The Mico Charity.

New Carmel.—Moravian Missionary Society.

There is here an excellent school-room, built by subscription in 1830. In this the Sunday and evening schools are held, and the reason why no day school has been hitherto established is stated to be the number of schools upon the estates in the neighbourhood, which are placed under the inspection of the missionary, combined with the necessity which has occurred of supplying the Mico Charity's school at Chantilly with a temporary master. It is intended, however, as soon as he shall be set at liberty, that a regular day school will be commenced at New Carmel.

Woodlands, Day School.—M. M. S.

The school-house on this estate is a permanent one, built some years ago on land secured to the Moravian Missionary Society.

Parker's Bay, Day School.—M. M. S.

It is contemplated to apply for the aid of Government for the erection of a school-house, to be built on land conveyed to the society by the proprietor of the estate, Hutchinson Scott, esq. The situation is highly favourable, and hitherto there has been no school nearer than Savanna-la-Mar, a distance of 12 miles.

The Cruse, Day School, &c.—L. N. E. S.

The school-house here is a permanent one, built by the resident proprietor, F. Cooper, esq.; and the pupils have the advantage of being under the eye of a family, both able and willing to benefit them in many essential ways.

Hopeton, Day School.—H. Scott, Esq. and the M. M. S.

This school was commenced by the family of the resident proprietor as early as 1824, for the children of the slaves and free coloured people on this and the adjoining property. A school-house has been built within a few steps of the family mansion, and a master and mistress brought out from Europe to conduct the school; the expenses attending which are wholly borne by the proprietor. The whole of the children attending as day scholars are furnished with two suits of coarse, and one of Sunday clothing per annum. There are 40 of the number in constant residence, sleeping in an apartment attached to the school-house, under the care of a domestic. The whole of the day scholars are in fact fed at Hopeton, at the same time that such of the parents as are apprentices on the two estates draw their full allowance of provisions at home. Twenty of the number of these children are orphans, and without home or resource elsewhere. All the scholars pass a portion of the early morning in some light labour suited to their strength. The girls are taught needlework, to wash, and, as well as the boys, to wait at table upon the family by rotation, if the general conduct and application warrants that indulgence, for such it is esteemed. Those that pass the night on the premises, in addition to any adult evening scholars as may feel disposed, join the family worship. The children attend the Sunday school at New Carmel, about a mile distant, and they are considered as under the inspection of the Moravian missionary of that settlement, who attends regularly at Hopeton for the purpose of giving scriptural instruction and of catechization.

Beaufort, Day School, M. M. S. and L. N. E. Society.—See Schedule (A), &c., The Moravian Missionary Society.

Gibraltar, Sunday School.

The master is a catechist, regularly licensed, and paid by the Bishop.

Chantilly, Day School, The Mico Charity.—See Schedule (A), &c., The Mico Charity.

Morgan's Bridge, Day School.—Scottish M. Society.

Supported by the resident missionary, and in the immediate vicinity of the new chapel of ease.

The Mint, Branch N. School.—See Schedule (A), &c., The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Spring Garden and Petersfield, Sunday Schools.

There are in both of these estates temporary places of worship of the Established Church. The former is served, alternately with that of Lincoln, by the assistant curate of Savanna-la-Mar. At the latter a day school will shortly be opened.

Mesopotamia, Day School.

This school has recently been re-commenced on the premises formerly occupied by the Moravian Missionary Society. It was just commenced in connexion with the Establishment in April, but was subsequently abandoned for a short space of time.

Providence, Day School, Mico Charity.—See Schedule (A), &c., The Mico Charity.

See Bluefields, in Schedule (A) and Enclosure, The Wesleyan Missionary Society.

Paul Island, Day School.—See Meylersfield, Schedule (A), The Church Missionary Society.

Bethel Hill, Day School.—The Baptist M. S.

This school is situated among the high ridges rising in the centre of the island, about 18 miles from Montego Bay, and near the boundaries of this parish, and those of Hanover and St. James. The situation is well-judged; in a district where there is ample field for usefulness. The society's missionary at Montego Bay, with whom it has originated, and upon whom it is wholly dependent, proposes to build a permanent school-house, for which purpose land is secured, and materials to a considerable amount prepared; but at present he is incapacitated from proceeding from the want of funds. Besides the schools enumerated in the schedule, there are several new ones in contemplation, as may be seen by a reference to the proceedings of the various societies.—See Schedule (A).

It has been already remarked, that in this parish the education of the Negro and the coloured classes has been for some years an object of solicitude with many among the residents. There are no very large schools, but the good effects of the number of small ones on the various estates, under the eye of the various families, the clergy, or the missionaries, is acknowledged in many parts of the country. The vestry has proved itself very favourable to the extension of the means of education in the parish, and the foundation of estate schools is strongly urged by the custos of the parish and other gentlemen in connexion with the government of properties. Still there is no proportion between the number of schools and the necessity which exists for them. The upper district is totally without the means of instruction, with the exception of the vicinity of Bethel Hill. There is a small private school held at Seaforth Town, but no proper provision has been made for the education of the children of the emigrants, most of whom are of the Protestant faith, and the sole means of religious instruction held out to them is through an arrangement with the Moravian missionary at Beaufort, probably 20 miles or upwards distant, who comes over once a fortnight to render them that necessary service.

Schedule (B.)
Remarks on the several Schools.

PLACES OF WORSHIP, Clergy, Missionaries, &c., in the Parish of Westmoreland.

The Established Church - - -	The parish church, Savanna-la-Mar; the rector. Chapel of ease, St. John's; the island curate. Petersfield and Mesopotamia, licensed places of worship; the stipendiary curate. The Mint and Spring Garden, ditto; assistant curate.
(Besides the regular clergy, there are 4 licensed catechists employed.)
The Moravian Missionary Society -	2 chapels, New Carmel and Beaufort; and temporary place of worship, Parker's Bay, &c. &c.; 3 missionaries.
Baptist Missionary Society - -	1 chapel, Savanna-la-Mar; 1 missionary.
Wesleyan Missionary Society - -	2 temporary chapels, Providence and Bluefields; and 3 stations; 1 missionary.
Scottish Missionary Society - -	2 temporary places of worship, Morgan's Bridge, &c.; 2 missionaries.

THE PARISH OF HANOVER.

Lucea, The Free School.

THIS is composed of an endowed school, under the will of Martin Rusea, and of a parochial school. The former was incorporated in 1777, by Act of Legislature, under proper trustees, for the free admission of a number of free white children, the number to be determined by the proceeds of the estate.

It was opened to the coloured classes about 1832, but is not yet accessible to the children of apprentices.

The number of free scholars to the parochial branch of the institution is limited to 60, all above that number are considered private scholars, and all such pay 6*l.* per annum for the common branches of education, and from 8*l.* to 9*l.* for the learned languages. The vestry adds 100*l.* currency per annum to the funds of the charity towards the payment of salaries.

Lucea, Infant School, M. C.—See Schedule (A), The Mico Charity.

Lucea and Green Island, Sunday Schools, &c. S. M. S.—See Schedule (A), The Scottish Missionary Society.

Green Island, Day School.

A licensed catechist is employed as master of this school. He is paid 110*l.* currency per annum by the parish and the Bishop. The school is held in his house, and is not considered as one of the branch national schools. It was originally a private school, held by the present master, till in 1826 the vestry granted him a small salary for the free admission of a limited number of free children of colour. In 1834 it became connected with the Bishop, who made a further arrangement for the admission of the children of apprentices.

In common with many throughout the country, it is liable to great fluctuation in numbers, from streams, which are frequently flooded, lying between the school and the estates from which it draws its greater proportion of scholars.

Kew Estate, Day School.

A small school in a temporary building and a master, supported by the Mitchell Fund, in the hands of the Bishop.

Knockalva, Argyle Pen, Alexandria, Day Schools, &c. C. M. S.—See Schedule (A) and Enclosure, The Church Missionary Society.

The Ramble, Sunday School, W. M. S.—See Schedule (A), The Wesleyan Missionary Society.

In addition to the schools to be established by the Scottish Missionary Society at Lucea and Green Island, and by the Wesleyan Missionary Society at the Ramble, it is contemplated to establish a school shortly at Point estate, where the proprietor, G. Atkinson, esq., has ceded the works for this purpose to the parish and the Bishop. The parish did support a small school at Badrue in the interior of the country, but according to intelligence received at Lucea, it is now abandoned.

The Church Missionary Society contemplated building a school with the Government aid at Phœnix estate, and till recently maintained a small school at Rock Spring in the vicinity, but difficulties have arisen, and the master has been removed to Paul Island, Westmoreland. It is still hoped, however, to find a suitable piece of land in the parish for the purpose.

Schedule (B.)
emarks on the veral Schools.

The interior of this parish, with the exception of the south-east corner, is completely without schools, or the immediate prospect of obtaining any; and there appears but little hope at present of a larger and more efficient school being established at Lucea by the co-operation of the parish and the Bishop.

PLACES OF WORSHIP, Clergy, and Missionaries in the Parish of Hanover.

The Established Church - - -	The parish church, Lucea; the rector, and a deacon. Chapel of ease, Green Island; the island curate.
The Church Missionary Society -	1 chapel, Knockalva; 1 missionary.
Scottish Missionary Society - -	1 chapel, Lucea; 1 missionary.
Wesleyan Missionary Society - -	Temporary chapel, Lucea; 2 missionaries. Ditto, the Ramble, and several stations.
Baptist Missionary Society - -	No chapel; but besides Lucea, two stations, Gurney's Mount and Fletcher's Grove; 1 missionary.

THE PARISH OF ST. JAMES.

Montego Bay, Parochial School.

Originally founded in 1806, by Act of Legislature, for the education of an unlimited number of free white children. Coloured children have been admitted since 1829. No distinct permission has been voted for the reception of the children of apprentices. The Bishop is among the trustees named under the later arrangements, but otherwise has no control over or connexion with the institution.

In addition to the free scholars, whose number is unlimited, the master is permitted to take private pupils. On arriving at a suitable age, the children of the free school may be apprenticed to fitting trades; and the premium in that case is paid by the parish. There are 50 free scholars in the boys' school, and all the girls on the books. No needlework is taught. The two schools are held in distinct buildings. The parish expends 1,100*l.* currency per annum for the maintenance of this institution.

Montego Bay, the British School, Day School, &c.; Mount Carey, Day School, &c.; Shortwood, ditto; Bethtiphel, ditto, ditto, B. M. S.—See Schedule (A), &c., The Baptist Missionary Society.

Irvin Hill, Day School, M. M. S.—See Schedule (A), The Moravian Missionary Society.

In addition to the schools at Tryall and Williamsfield estates, under the inspection of the Moravian missionary at Irvin Hill, there is a school held once a fortnight on Kirkpatrick Estate.

Marley, Chapel of Ease.

The small day school is altogether under the care of the island curate.

There are many estates in this neighbourhood which are visited by that clergyman, the Baptist missionary from Bethtiphel, and the master of the Mico Charity's school at Somerton.

Cornwall, The Spring, Barret Hall, Graines Pen, &c. &c. S. M. S.—See Schedule (A), &c., The Scottish Missionary Society.

The school here is composed of a class of 19, taught to read by one of the Barret Hall apprentices.

Vaughansfield, Day School, C. M. S.—See Schedule (A), The Church Missionary Society.

Greenwich Hill, Sunday School.

The Baptist Missionary Society has a Sunday school at this station; but it is understood that a day school is to be opened shortly. It is in the upper part of the parish, not many miles from Vaughansfield.

In addition to the schools existing at present in St. James, or to be established shortly, as shown by the schedules, and amongst which that now in contemplation at Montego Bay, at the joint expense of the parish and the Bishop, must not be overlooked, there are several projected on different estates by the proprietors, or the gentlemen acting for them, among whom there appears to be a growing attention to the subject. To the great exertions in the cause of education among the apprentices made in this and the adjoining parish of Trelawney by the missionaries of the Baptist and Scottish Missionary Societies, especially in the course of the last three years, this part of the island owes almost all the means of instruction which it possesses.

THE PARISH OF TRELAWNEY.

Falmouth, Parochial School.

Established for an unlimited number of indigent free children, without distinction of colour, and commenced in 1836. It is supported altogether by the parish.

The question of the erection of a school-house, and the establishment of a school in connexion with the Bishop, has not yet been decided, but is under consideration.

Falmouth, Suffield School; Wilberforce, Waldensia, Day Schools, &c. B. M. S.—See Schedule (A), &c., The Baptist Missionary Society.

Good Hope, Day School.

There is a good school-house on this estate, and a master is paid by the gentleman managing the property (J. Thorpe, esq.) to conduct the school. It has now become the residence of a stipendiary curate, and a regular master has been provided by the Bishop, under whose certificate he is to be in future appointed.

Hampden, Day School, &c. S. M. S.—See Schedule (A), The Scottish Missionary Society.

Navarre, Day School.—S. M. S.

The school is conducted by the Scottish missionary and his wife, on the same principle as that at Hampden, and with no assistance, pecuniary or otherwise. It is, however, contemplated to procure a proper piece of land for the erection of a school-house, and to obtain a regular schoolmaster.

First Hill, Day School, L. M. S.—See Schedule (A) and Enclosure, The London Missionary Society.

Stewart Town, Day School.

Forms a branch of the parochial school at Falmouth, and is held in a good school-room under the chapel of ease. The master is salaried by the parish (30*l.* currency), and is employed as a catechist and Sunday schoolmaster by the Bishop, with a stipend of 20*l.* currency per annum.

Stewart Town and Rio Bueno, Sunday School, B. M. S.—See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Baptist Missionary Society.

Rio Bueno.—Branch National School.

The expenses, as in similar cases, are borne in equal proportions by the parish and the Bishop.

The Wesleyan Missionary Society is pledged to begin a school and erect a school-house at Duncan's, on the coast, about eight miles from Falmouth; with this exception, and that of the two day schools proposed to be commenced by the Baptist missionary at Stewart Town in that place and at Rio Bueno, it is not known that there are any schools decidedly in contemplation at the present moment in this parish.

The upper portion of the country does not possess a school of any description.

2. Observations of Lord Glenelg on Mr. Latrobe's Report.—Despatch, 15 Jan. 1838, to Sir L. Smith.

COPY of a DESPATCH from Lord Glenelg to Lieutenant-General Sir Lionel Smith, K. C. B.

Sir, Downing-street, 15 January 1838.

I HAVE the honour to transmit to you herewith a copy of a Report which I have received from Mr. Latrobe on Negro Education in Jamaica. I have derived much gratification from the testimony borne by Mr. Latrobe to the facilities which you afforded him in the prosecution of his inquiries, and to the reception and assistance which he experienced from the Bishop and from the various missionaries to whom he was recommended, as well as from all classes of the population with whom his duties brought him into contact.

The Report itself is highly valuable, and does credit to the talents and industry of its author. An attentive perusal of it has convinced me that the measures recently adopted for the promotion of Negro education in Jamaica have already contributed largely to the advancement of this most important object. There is every reason to anticipate that the experience and information which have now been acquired will lead to most beneficial results in removing some of those difficulties which have hitherto retarded the progress of useful education.

The delays in commencing or completing school buildings which the respective societies have undertaken to erect, with aid from the Parliamentary Fund, appear indeed, at first sight, to be more numerous than might have been expected; but they are, on the whole, satisfactorily accounted for by the impediments and hindrances which have surrounded these undertakings, many of which no forethought could avert, nor any exertion immediately overcome.

The greatest and most general cause of delay in the execution of the proposed buildings seems to have been the difficulty of purchasing or acquiring sites of land with satisfactory titles. I directed your attention, some time since, to this subject; and I should be very glad to learn that the Colonial Legislature had, at your suggestion, been able to devise any means of giving increased facilities in this respect. I hope also that some arrangement may be made with the several societies which may in great measure tend to obviate this impediment for the future. The scarcity of carpenters and masons, and the want of competent persons to contract for the buildings are inconveniences which must always more or less affect the simultaneous commencement of a general undertaking of this nature; but this evil may be expected gradually to disappear as the urgent demand for such services becomes more known, and as the successive completion of school-houses may enable workmen or contractors to transfer their industry to other quarters.

But although the completion of the school buildings towards which Parliamentary aid has been appropriated has been so frequently retarded by the causes above alluded to, it is gratifying to perceive that the main object of their erection has nevertheless been in a great measure fulfilled by means intermediately provided; and that where the school-houses have not been actually finished and occupied, schools have been established, and are in operation at or near the sites of most of the proposed buildings. I advert with much satisfaction to the assurance of Mr. Latrobe, that although, considering "how very recently the great majority of the schools now reported have been instituted, and also the difficulty and uncertainty that attend all first efforts, under the circumstances of the colony he cannot be expected to give any decided opinion as to the actual efficiency of the greater number; the promise held out by all, more or less, is sufficiently encouraging." I feel bound in justice to the exertions of the various religious societies, of the trustees of the Mico Charity, and of others who are engaged in this important work, to express my conviction, that a powerful impulse has been given to Negro education by the aid voted by Parliament, and applied through their agency; and that, from a continuance of such zealous co-operation, the happiest results may be anticipated.

It is peculiarly gratifying to observe the testimony which the Report bears to the improved state of feeling in the colony on the subject of education; to the rapid decline of former prejudices, and to the total disappearance of all active opposition to the various plans set on foot for the moral and religious improvement of the apprentices and their children.

At the date of this Report the legislature of Jamaica had not adopted any general measure for the promotion of the education of the labouring classes. But I trust that they will not have failed, during their present session, to give that attention to the subject which its important bearing on the interests and welfare of the great body of the inhabitants of Jamaica so justly demands, and that the expectation adverted to by Mr. Latrobe in reference to their proceedings for this end will have been fully realized. I shall await with some anxiety the information which I trust it will be in your power shortly to transmit to me on this subject.

I shall without delay communicate this Report to the trustees of the Mico Charity, and to the various societies whom it concerns, with a view to the adoption of such further regulations in the appropriation of any future Parliamentary grant as, on consideration of the suggestions made by Mr. Latrobe, may be found practicable.

I am, &c.

Circular to Societies for Promoting Education.

Copy of a CIRCULAR LETTER addressed to the Secretaries of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, Church Missionary Society, Wesleyan Missionary Society, Moravian Missionary Society, Baptist Missionary Society, London Missionary Society, Scottish Missionary Society, Ladies' Negro Education Society, and of the Trustees of the Mico Charity; dated Downing-street, 16th January 1838.

Sir,

I transmit to you herewith, by Lord Glenelg's direction, a copy of a Report on Negro Education in Jamaica, which his Lordship has received from Mr. Latrobe, who has completed his inspection of the schools in that colony.

I also transmit the accompanying copy of a despatch which his Lordship has addressed to Sir Lionel Smith, the Governor of Jamaica, forwarding to that officer a copy of this Report; the general tenor and result of which has, as the society will perceive, afforded his Lordship much satisfaction.

The detailed information comprised in this document will probably be found to suggest to the society many considerations which may be of practical value in the course of their future operations in the extension of Negro education, and to which it may be necessary on a future occasion more particularly to refer.

There is, however, one topic adverted to in this Report, to which Lord Glenelg thinks it necessary to direct the attention of the society. The delay in the building of school-houses appears chiefly to have arisen from the difficulty of purchasing or acquiring sites of land with satisfactory titles.

In laying down the general rule, that school-houses aided by Parliament should be the permanent property of the society, the object of Her Majesty's Government was to obtain an adequate security against the conversion of the use of such buildings to other purposes foreign to those of their original erection.

In the absence of so necessary a precaution, instances might probably have occurred in which, on the expiration of short leases or otherwise, such school buildings might have been taken possession of by the proprietors or mortgagees of the lands on which they had been built, and the object of their erection might thus have been defeated. But considering the numerous delays which have occurred from the cause above alluded to, and duly appreciating the urgency of the occasion, and the value of time at this critical period, Her Majesty's Government feel anxious that no further restrictions should be understood to be placed on the operations of the society in this respect than ordinary prudence, under the circumstances of the case, imperatively prescribes.

With this view, I am to acquaint you, that where in order to obviate the difficulty, leases of land for the erection of schools can be obtained on such terms as to give the society a substantial, although not a permanent proprietary interest in the buildings, and as to hold out a reasonable prospect that they will at least for many years to come be appropriated to the purposes of education, Lord Glenelg will readily give his assent to the erection of school buildings with Parliamentary aid in such sites, without insisting on the actual purchase of the land by the society.

I am further to add, that where neither satisfactory purchases nor leases of land are attainable without considerable delay, or where delay from other causes may be obviated, or any superior advantage be obtained by a deviation from the original intention of the society with respect to the selection of sites, his Lordship is not only prepared to acquiesce in a change of locality, but he earnestly recommends that improved selections should be made.

In these cases his Lordship only requires that he should receive the earliest intimation of any alterations which the society may wish to make in the details of the arrangements agreed upon, in order that Her Majesty's Government may both themselves possess, and may be enabled to furnish to Parliament, the most correct returns of the actual appropriation of the sums voted by Parliament for Negro Education.

NEGRO EDUCATION,

WINDWARD AND LEEWARD ISLANDS.

Copy of a DESPATCH from Lord Glenelg to the Governors of the Windward and Leeward Islands.

Lord Glenelg to Governors of Windward and Leeward Islands.

Sir, Downing-street, 12 June 1838.

I have the honour to transmit to you the accompanying copy of a report which I have recently received from Mr. Latrobe, on Negro education in the Windward and Leeward Islands, together with a Schedule, showing the appropriation in detail of the Parliamentary grant of 1837, and a report of the trustees of the Mico Charity.

Mr. Latrobe's Second Report. No. 1, p. 3.
Schedule of Appropriation. No. 2, p. 147.
Report of the Trustees of Lady Mico's Charity. No. 3, p. 151.

I further enclose a copy of Mr. Latrobe's report on Negro education in Jamaica, with a copy of my despatch to the Governor of Jamaica, and of a circular letter addressed by my direction to the different societies on the subject of that report.

Mr. Latrobe's First Report. Ordered, by the House of Commons, to be printed, 7 Feb 1838, No. 113.

The observations contained in that despatch and circular letter have, in a great measure, anticipated the substance of the remarks which have been suggested to me by the perusal of the second part (embracing the Windward and Leeward Islands) of Mr. Latrobe's report on Negro education in the West Indies; and I beg therefore to call your particular attention to those communications.

The causes of the delays which have occurred in the operations undertaken in those islands with the aid of Her Majesty's Government are, as Mr. Latrobe observes, in almost every instance, similar to those which have produced the same consequences in Jamaica; and the remedies to be applied to them, and the measures to be adopted to prevent their recurrence, must likewise be of a corresponding nature to those already pointed out.

I have communicated a copy of this report to the various societies to which Mr. Latrobe's former report was transmitted, and I have called their attention to those instances mentioned by Mr. Latrobe where the land on which schoolhouses have been erected with Parliamentary aid has not been properly secured; I trust that this omission, which is stated not to have resulted from any serious impediment, will be promptly repaired.

The subject of chapel-schools has very properly been noticed by Mr. Latrobe as deserving some consideration. In cases where the erection of buildings of this description has been aided by the Parliamentary fund for Negro education, I shall expect some guarantee that such buildings shall be permanently, though not exclusively, appropriated to the instruction of the Negroes, except where other adequate buildings, to be approved of by Her Majesty's Government, may be substituted for them; and also, with reference to the cost and construction of such buildings, satisfactory proof will be required that the aid is really and effectually applied to the purposes intended by Parliament, and that the means of instruction are increased to an extent fairly proportioned to the amount of the aid so appropriated. Subject to the strict observance of these conditions, Her Majesty's Government do not wish to offer objections to any mutual facilities, with a view to economy, which can be effected in particular cases by combined arrangements for the respective purposes of Divine worship and of Negro instruction.

You will perceive, on reference to the Schedule in the report of the trustees of the Mico Charity, showing the amount in the course of expenditure by them from the 1st January 1838 to the 30th June 1839 (at page 154 of the printed papers herewith enclosed), that the suggestions made by Mr. Latrobe respecting Grenada, Dominica, and St. Lucia, have been already anticipated; and that for this purpose an estimated sum of 6,060 l. is in the course of expenditure by the trustees on Negro education in those islands.

The success which has attended the operations of the trustees in Trinidad affords me the best reason to hope for equally favourable results from the direction of their efforts to the other islands, in which the condition and circumstances of the Negro population are in many respects the same.

You will find, in the Appendix to the report of the trustees (at page 163 of the printed papers), an extract of a despatch addressed to me by the Governor of Trinidad, in November last, in which he acquaints me that the "admirable system adopted by the trustees in that colony has obtained universal applause;" and that parents professing the Roman-catholic religion send their children without scruple to the Mico schools for instruction. Out of a total number of 700 persons, of all ages, at that period under instruction in those schools, it appears that 550 were Roman-catholics.

I have derived much gratification from the testimony borne by Mr. Latrobe to the facilities and ready assistance afforded him by yourself and the Lieutenant-governors of the islands comprised in this report, by the Bishop of Barbadoes and clergy of his diocese, and by the members of the missionary bodies, and every other class of persons with whom his duties led him into communication.

I have, &c.

— No. 1. —

COPY of a REPORT from C. J. Latrobe, Esq., to Lord Glenelg, on Negro Education in the Windward and Leeward Islands.

1.
Mr. Latrobe's Report, 14 April 1838.

My Lord, Bridge Town, Barbados, 14 April 1838.

By the last homeward-bound packet, which sailed from this port on the 1st of the month, I had the honour of forwarding to your Lordship one division of the Papers which I have prepared, to throw light upon the state of Negro education in the Windward and Leeward Islands. Schedule (A.) and Enclosure.

By the present mail I enclose to your Lordship the remaining documents on this subject. Schedule (B.) and Enclosure.

Schedule (A.) will be found to refer to the actual or proposed erection of school-houses in these islands, in connexion with past or future Parliamentary grants in aid of Negro education; and Schedule (B.) details the number and the state of the schools, of whatever description, existing at this date, within this portion of the West Indian Colonies.

Though the same general system of arrangement has been pursued which I had adopted in the case of Jamaica, I have not scrupled to avail myself of any slight modification which appeared to be an improvement.

In my letters of 10th December, Antigua, and of 1st March, Barbados, which I had the honour to address to Sir George Grey, I gave an outline of my proceedings since my Report relative to the state of education in Jamaica was sent home from St. Thomas, in October last. It is a subject of regret to me that so much more time has been required for the proper performance of the duty with which I have been charged by your Lordship than I had originally calculated upon; and I trust that the manner in which it is accounted for in the more recent of those communications will have satisfied your Lordship that this apparent delay has been unavoidable.

With reference to Schedule (A.), the attempt has been made to render it as complete as possible, under the disadvantages which attended the construction of by far the larger proportion of it, namely, that part which has reference to the proceedings of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel. Until my arrival in Barbados I was quite at a loss to distinguish, among the many school-houses that I found recently built or being erected, under the patronage of his Lordship the Bishop of the diocese, which were connected with the Government grants, or intended to be so; more particularly as, though aware that the society had received aid from the last Parliamentary grant of 1837, I had, till then, no means of ascertaining to what stations that aid would be applied.

Even at the present hour, after availing myself of the fullest information which his Lordship could afford me, there are still points upon which I do not feel at liberty to hazard positive statements. One of these regards the exact proportion of the expense in each case which is to be considered as Government aid. I have therefore confined myself to detailing, with as much precision as circumstances enabled me to employ, the estimated or the actual cost incurred, and in each instance the amount of the sums either expended, or by which it is supposed that the expense of erection may be met; with the sources from which such sums are derived.

The schedule in question will be found to contain notices of all those stations upon which school-houses are either being erected, or to be built, in expectation of assistance from future Parliamentary grants of a similar character to those of preceding years.

I am happy to be able to persuade myself that your Lordship will consider the statement with regard to the school-houses in question upon the whole satisfactory.

Delay may have occurred here and there in carrying the intentions of the various societies in conjunction with Her Majesty's Government into effect; but the causes are evident in almost every instance, and similar to those which have produced the same results in Jamaica.

Of 39 school-houses, towards the erection of which the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel received aid from the Parliamentary grants of 1835 and 1836, it will be seen that 28 are built and occupied at this date; and that more than the number required to complete the total are actually in progress, while schools are there carried on under temporary arrangements.

The rule laid down by your Lordship, that in all cases where Government aid was applied the land upon which the school-house stands must first be legally secured, has not been adhered to in every instance, as it ought to have been; but as in every such case it appears to have been the effect of negligence rather than of any serious impediment, it is trusted that this oversight will be repaired without delay.

Of 12 school-houses, to the erection of which in these islands the Wesleyan Missionary Society had in the same manner pledged itself, on receiving assistance from the grants indicated, it is probable that at this time nine are completed, and in use; and as it will be seen that the one at St. John's, Antigua, will in all probability be finished before the close of the year, the only two cases in which the pledge given will remain to be redeemed are those of Sion Hill, in Antigua, and Cavalla Hill, in Montserrat. The causes of delay in these instances are explained in the proper place.

The Moravian Missionary Society received aid from the same sources for the erection of eight school-houses; of this number, but three are actually completed, owing to circumstances which are mentioned elsewhere. It is trusted that four of the remaining number will be completed before the close of the present year.

The Mico Charity has hitherto confined its operations to Bridge Town, Barbados. Two other stations are now on the point of being opened in connexion with it in the country parts of the same island.

The Schedule also shows that all the societies in question are desirous of obtaining further aid for the erection of other school-houses; and that the Bishop of this diocese, as the agent of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, has fixed upon no fewer than 30 stations in these islands, over and above the 63, for the erection of which the society has advanced funds in connexion with the three Parliamentary grants of 1835, 1836, 1837.

It may be proper for me to offer a few observations in explanation of the several distinct classes of school-houses, which have either arisen or are projected to be built by the conjoined funds of the societies and of Her Majesty's Government, and that more particularly in reference to those in connexion with the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

In a note prefixed to the enclosure to Schedule (A.) six different classes are specified.

1. Bonâ fide school-houses of one or two apartments or stories, standing apart from other buildings, though adjacent to a church or chapel of ease.

1. Mr. Latrobe's Report, 14 April 1838.

2. School-houses, with teachers' apartments included, either taken off by partitions or annexed to the main building.

3. School-rooms attached to regular and consecrated places of worship.

4. School-rooms built over a spacious basement story, employed as a remise or stable.

5. School-houses, licensed as places of worship, but without any particular interior arrangement in consequence; the whole area being devoted to the purposes of instruction during the week.

6. Chapel-schools, in the arrangement of which one-third or more of the area is set apart for the stated performance of divine worship, being screened off and fitted up in all points as a chapel of ease.

With reference to the first class, no observation may be deemed necessary.

With regard to the second, I believe I am correct in stating that the Government aid is generally considered to be applied to the erection of the school, properly so called; and that, in cases where the purchase of land, or the plan of adding a dwelling for the teacher entails any considerable additional outlay, that this expense has been, or is to be, met by local and other contributions raised in the colony.

The third mode of supplying a school-house for the children of the labouring population will doubtless meet with your Lordship's approval, necessitated as it may be in particular cases by the difficulty of otherwise procuring a site, and the advantage by which it is accompanied, of affording more accommodation for attendance on divine service.

The fourth is to be found in the Island of Barbados alone; and there, in cases where the new school-house is erected in the vicinity of the parish church. Many of the parochial schools thus situated are built upon this plan; and it has its origin in the necessity that exists to provide a shelter for both the carriages and the horses of such of the parishioners as attend church from a distance, in a climate where either excessive heat or violent rains would otherwise expose both to manifest injury. In such cases also it is understood that the additional expense incurred should be met by the application of local funds raised expressly for the purpose.

The fifth class are held to be bonâ fide school-houses, in the full costs of the erection of which the Government money is employed in the proportion permitted; but that, nevertheless, the absence of more regular places of public worship at this time in such parts of the country is a sufficient plea for these buildings being regularly licensed by the Bishop for occasional use as such.

I am led to believe that your Lordship has sanctioned this arrangement, and admitted its propriety in more than one instance, both in case of this society and of the other missionary bodies which participate in the same grants. Of the necessity that exists for providing increased opportunities of religious instruction for the population of these islands by every practicable means, and for bringing the ordinances of the Church within the reach of all, there can be no doubt in your Lordship's mind; and it is to this conviction in the mind of the Bishop of the diocese and his clergy that the sixth class, or chapel-school, mainly owes its rise.

In this description of building, the present and the permanent occupation of the building, as a place of worship, is to be considered assured; not only by its being, like the preceding, licensed by the Bishop, but by part of the interior being railed off and fitted up with pews, &c., as a regular chapel of ease. I trust that I am correct, when I would lead your Lordship to conclude that the space more particularly set apart as the scene of daily instruction is, and will be always, fully proportioned to the sum advanced by the society, in connexion with Her Majesty's Government, for the sole purpose of the erection of a school-house, and that the great additional outlay has been, and will be, met by other funds.

1. Mr. Latrobe's Report, 14 April 1838.

Were the case the same as in the last-mentioned class, that supposing that the number of the scholars should increase, there would be no difficulty in the character of the structure, and the disposition of the area, to the whole being thrown open, fitted up and occupied as a bonâ fide school, no very weighty objection would, perhaps, present itself in disfavour of the arrangement. I should not presume to suggest any to your Lordship, however much I have felt it to be my duty to adopt the same language to every class of participants in the assistance given from the Parliamentary grants, and to lay a stress on the propriety, where impracticable, of following the provisions and conditions of the grant to the letter, without special permission be given to deviate from them. There are two considerations, however, which impress me with the necessity of placing the circumstances connected with this class of building in the clearest light.

The first is the fact, that certainly a proportion of the local funds furnished for the erection of such chapel-schools are, or will be given, under an impression that the main object in view is to provide the neighbourhood with a regular place of worship; and this idea will be nursed by the good taste evinced in the plain style of Gothic architecture, which has been made choice of by the Bishop for this class of building. It may, perhaps, be even stated, that in some cases, that local aid would not be yielded at all, if it were supposed that the principal object in view were that of the education of the labouring classes.

The second consideration is the possibility, and, perhaps the probability, that after no great lapse of time, when the comfort and convenience of the arrangement is fully felt by all classes of the inhabitants of the vicinity, that there will be a call for the enlargement of the area set apart for the performance of divine worship, and for the accommodation of the regular attendants upon it. The necessity of providing further school room may not improbably be apparent at the same time: the proposal might then be made to the original contributors to the cost of erection and to the fresh applicants for church room to assist in the erection of a bonâ fide chapel of ease, and to relinquish that upon the ground altogether for the purposes of a school-house; but it is not to be expected that either party would regard such a proposition in a favourable light, as the first might with justice urge, that what they had already subscribed was in that view; and it is to be, perhaps, expected that the community in general may then feel a certain degree of attachment to the locality, and to the building in which it may have regularly attended for some years upon divine service and the ordinances of the Church; and may be inclined the rather to urge, that the entire building should be furnished with sittings, regularly consecrated, and constituted as a chapel of ease, leaving to the society to procure a proper locality for the accommodation of the school hitherto held within it.

Your Lordship is aware, that as to matters of importance connected with my mission, that I consider myself authorized merely to state known facts, and to receive suggestions, and not to give decided opinions as to the wishes or views of Government. Doubtless the society will lay the state of the case before your Lordship. I take, however, the liberty to mention the view that has been suggested in conversation, by the Bishop. It is to this purport: that in the case of buildings of this class being erected in this diocese, with the funds of the society, in connexion with the aid received from the Parliamentary grants, increased by further local aid of the character described; one portion of the area being enclosed, fitted up, and licensed as a chapel; that if the contingency alluded to should arrive, and it should be found advisable to convert the whole into a bonâ fide chapel of ease, his Lordship should guarantee on the part of the society the instant erection of a proper school-house, attached or unattached to the building, according to circumstances, and of course of dimensions, and at a cost coinciding with the original plan and the estimated expenditure proposed by the society for its erection, and to which they are pledged by their acceptance of the Government aid.

Mr. Latrobe's Report, 14 April 1838.

It was at first proposed that no chapel-school of the class specified should be consecrated; the Bishop, however, on further reflection, expressed his desire that the right of consecrating the portion enclosed might be left open to him, in case circumstances might render it advisable.

It is not to be denied that one or two of the buildings erected by the Wesleyan and Moravian Missionary Societies, in connexion with the Government grants, are, to all intents and purposes, chapel-schools, and that others are projected. It is, presumed, however, with regard to them, that the societies would be willing to give a similar guarantee, if the reasons urged in favour of such arrangements appear to be admissible by your Lordship.

Since my arrival at Barbados I have obtained information with regard to the assistance given by Government to the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, and to the Moravian Missionary Society, from the Parliamentary grant in aid of Negro education, of 1837, and of the stations at which it is in consequence the intention of the respective parties to erect school-houses in these islands. I am also aware that certain sums have been placed at the disposal of the same societies for the part payment of teachers. I have not yet ascertained whether the Wesleyan Missionary Society have participated in that grant.

Of the 400*l.* sterling drawn from the Parliamentary grant of 1836, and placed in the first instance at the disposal of the Governor-general at Barbados, in aid of voluntary subscriptions in the islands of Grenada and St. Vincent, 100*l.* has been advanced towards the erection of the infant school-house at Kingstown, St. Vincent's. It is believed that the balance has been withdrawn by your Lordship, and placed at the disposal of the trustees of the Mico Charity.

By Schedule (B), and the papers attached, I have attempted to convey as much succinct information to your Lordship as lies in my power with regard to the schools to be found at present in these islands, and to give a general glance at the moral and physical features of each colony, so far as they have any immediate reference to the subject of education.

Your Lordship will not be surprised to find that there is but little harmony in these details; nor, that in the whole long chain of islands from Tortola downwards, there are not two to be found in which Negro education is advancing in precisely the same manner. It would be comparatively easy, by describing the natural features of one island, to convey an idea of those of many; but it appears impossible, by giving an outline of the causes which may have an influence in retarding or accelerating the course of education in any one colony, to furnish a complete idea of the state of others in this respect. There are no two islands in which the social, political, and physical features precisely coincide; and these must all have their influence on education.

In Barbados, though the Wesleyan and Moravian Missionary Societies and the trustees of the Mico Charity support a few excellent schools for the benefit of the labouring classes, the education of these throughout the colony depends mainly upon the instruction given in schools in connexion with the clergy of the island, stimulated and supported in this good work by the presence and active co-operation of their diocesan. The high character and accomplishments of the Bishop of Barbados are too well known to your Lordship to need any additional testimony; but as the mission with which I am charged has brought me more particularly into relation with him, I should be wanting in propriety if I withheld the expression of my feeling admiration of what has been effected in 12 years, with the blessing of God, through his instrumentality, and of gratitude for the courtesy, patience, and frankness with which he has facilitated the object I have had in view by every means in his power.

The number of schools and of permanent school-houses in Barbados will be seen to be very considerable, and there is every probability of both being greatly increased. Full reliance may be placed upon the zeal of the parties more particularly engaged in furthering the instruction of the labouring classes, and assurance entertained that every facility for the generalization of instruction among them, which either the Home Government, the Colonial Legislature, the vestries, or individuals, may afford, will be fully taken advantage of, as far as means permit.

1. Mr. Latrobe's Report, 14 April 1838.

The great number of poor white people in this island (and it is feared that truth is not outraged when it is asserted that they form the lowest class of the population) renders their education a subject of almost equal anxiety with that of the Negro and coloured races.

The large and flourishing central schools in Bridge Town, and, till very recently, all the parochial schools without exception, have been maintained for the especial benefit of the children of white parents. Where these schools are eminently efficient, as in the case of the first-named, and are conducted upon principles, which however exclusive to a certain degree, would appear to be wisely constructed under the circumstances in which this portion of the population of the island is placed, perhaps the objections that might be raised against the exclusive system may be set aside; as moreover, with the assistance of the vestry of St. Michael's, though not of the Legislature, excellent institutions of almost an equal rank as to efficiency are found to exist in the same town for the benefit of the coloured classes. In the case of the parochial schools in the country, however, of which it may be said, in many instances, that the white would not profit by them, and the coloured could not, it must be a subject for congratulation, that at this time there appears a disposition in several of the parishes to throw them open to all, and placing them upon a more efficient footing, to make no further distinction of colour. When this becomes more general, it will be seen what is the strength or character of that prejudice on the subject of colour, which at present exhibits itself almost universally in the schools of this island. True it is, that at this day there are only two or three instances of even national schools to be met with in which the white child may be seen in attendance in company with those coloured children, for whose benefit more especially the schools may have been set on foot; while, on the other hand, instances are cited of manifest repugnance in the parents of coloured children to send them to schools frequented by the poor whites.

The joint committee of the Council and the House of Assembly of the colony appointed to take the subject of the education of the free children of apprentices into consideration, and to report upon other subjects in connexion with it, commenced its sittings in July 1837, but has not yet terminated its labours.

Hitherto, if I am rightly informed, they have been entirely directed to the examination of the various parties connected with Negro education in the island, and of planters or of other gentlemen conversant with the present state of these children, their habits, employments, and prospects. The report, when prepared and adopted, will, I am given to understand, be submitted to the attention of Her Majesty's Government.

I am not able to gather that it will lead to the adoption of immediate and active measures on the part of the Legislature in favour of Negro education, but must be altogether considered as a preliminary step, and that a certain period of delay must follow before the anxious wishes of Her Majesty's Governor-general on this subject can be fully met.

It is greatly to be desired that this noble colony, which possesses undoubtedly many moral and physical advantages over almost every other, should take the lead in laying down sound and liberal principles for the general education of the children of its labouring population, and of reducing them to practice.

In Barbados, where almost the entire surface is subjected to high cultivation, where there exists no back-country to which the idle may retire, skulking beyond the pale of civilized society, with a certainty of still finding means to supply mere animal wants; where the labouring classes have no provision-grounds independent of the estate, to the cultivation of which both they and their masters must look for their means of existence; where there are many more resident proprietors and a far better organized social system in many respects than can be met with elsewhere; where the Negro himself is stated to be many years in advance of his brethren; and lastly, where less of the unhappy internal jarring and bickering of parties is to be observed, both in and out of the Legislature, than in others of these colonies, surely this great end might be effected without risk, and in full confidence of its healthy influence on the future.

It is to be greatly lamented, that with all these apparent advantages, whatever may be the cause, in few of the islands that I have been led to visit is the distrust on the part of the Negro, with reference to the employment of his children on the estates in agricultural labour, so marked as in Barbados; and it follows that the planter's sense of self-interest is productive of hesitation in the adoption of any plan, whether connected with education or not, that may not appear certain to attach the labouring class to the soil.

If this difficulty can be surmounted, none of the questions which may embarrass the subject in other islands appear likely materially to retard the progress of education in this.

With regard to the Negro in Barbados, however he may be in advance of his brethren elsewhere in many points, it can hardly be said that his superiority is exhibited in his placing a higher or juster value upon education. It is not that a vague desire for instruction does not exist among a great number of this class, but neither the attendance at school nor the disposition on the part of the parents to give their mite towards the expenses incurred by the education of their offspring are, up to the present time, essentially better in Barbados than elsewhere.

With reference to the Island of Tobago, your Lordship will be led to remark that there has recently been a considerable increase in the means of instruction for the children of the labouring class, and that this has mainly been brought about by the good feeling with which both the colonial legislature and a number of the more influential proprietors, or their representatives, have concurred in stepping forward to promote Negro education. If this praiseworthy spirit continues to actuate the community, there can be no doubt but the lapse of a few years will show a considerable improvement in the moral state of the population, particularly if the number of clergy or of missionaries is increased in proportion to the necessity.

In Grenada the legislature of the colony has evinced greater maturity of feeling on the subject than the apathy shown by the proprietors as a body and by the majority of the parochial vestries would lead one to expect. It has repeatedly expressed liberal views, and come forward to show its willingness to assist the efforts of every religious body in the colony with pecuniary aid, without regard to difference of religious opinion. In spite of the difficulties thrown in the way of the clergy of the Established Church and of the Protestant missionaries by the large proportion of the Negroes being nominally attached to the Romish faith, there can be no doubt of good being effected in consequence; notwithstanding, as no schools have been set on foot in the country parts of the island by the Roman-catholic clergy for the children of apprentices, and as the anxious desire of the Lieutenant-governor to see schools established upon the liberal system has not yet been met by the trustees of the Mico Charity or any other neutral party, the prospect is still cloudy, as far as regards the prompt improvement of these classes in the island. It will be remarked that some of the children of Roman-catholic parents attend without scruple upon the schools in connexion with the Established Church.

Your Lordship will observe, that in Grenada, as well as in the islands of St. Vincent, Barbados, Tobago, &c., schools for the coloured children of the principal towns have existed for already 10 years or upwards; they deserve to be particularly noted, from the circumstance of their having in each case taken rise in a strong feeling of their necessity in the minds of a few respectable individuals of that class, at an epoch, too, when the education of the coloured children appears to have been foreign to the thought of every class of philanthropists, however otherwise alive to the state of the population of the West Indies. This neglect produced the conviction that there was no hope but in self-exertion; and in each colony an association was formed for the purpose of founding these schools for the especial benefit of that class.

Mr. Latrobe's Report, 14 April 1838.

If the principle that incited them to exertion was worthy of respect, the manner in which it was reduced to practice, and has since been sustained, is not the less so. In almost every instance the result has been the establishment and maintenance of an excellent school, where ordinarily the children are carefully educated in the principles of the Established Church, and placed under the general supervision of the Bishop and his clergy. At the present day, in each case assistance towards their support is drawn either from his Lordship, from the parochial, or from the legislative bodies of the respective colonies where they are to be found.

Much still remains to be effected in the country parishes of the Island of St. Vincent, and particularly on the windward coast, before the Negro population can be said to be properly provided with the means of education.

There is a considerable Roman-catholic population in the colony, but no school whatever attached to that communion existed at the epoch of my visit to it. It is since rumoured that one has been opened in Kingstown for the education of children of every denomination, under the patronage of the Roman-catholic Bishop in Trinidad.

The Legislature has not as yet found the leisure to meet the wish of Government with reference to the adoption of local measures in aid of the object in question; and I regret that I can furnish no indication of the course which it may ultimately take with respect to it.

Her Majesty's Lieutenant-governor is sincerely anxious to forward any measure connected with Negro education, and to see schools established of a class capable of meeting the wants of the colony generally. As far as the means of the clergy of the Established Church have enabled them to act, what has been effected through their instrumentality in certain districts cannot be too highly appreciated.

St. Lucia and Dominica both labour under great and manifest disadvantage with regard to the spread of education among the Negro population. The prospects of the first are indeed gloomy; though in certain districts of Dominica a stimulus has recently been given, from the good-will to the cause suddenly evinced by a few of the more influential proprietors, and through the agency of the missionaries of the Wesleyan Missionary Society; yet so various and so great are the obstacles in the way of general education in both the islands, resulting from the language current among the Negroes, the faith professed by the majority, the small number of the clergy and missionaries, the extent and physical character of the surface, and, more than all, from the intestine discord among the parties that ought to concur in forwarding it, that no favourable report can be expected on the subject till some of these are overcome.

In Antigua, your Lordship will observe that the Legislature has in particular instances shown its good-will towards the advance of the object in question; and there can be no reasonable doubt entertained but that a colonial government so constituted and presided over will eventually see the necessity, the propriety, and the policy of giving its countenance, by some legislative and general measure, to the diffusion of a proper degree of instruction among its labouring population. The sentiments of the Governor-general of the Leeward Islands on this subject are, I am aware, familiar to your Lordship.

To a certain degree, a parallel may be drawn between the position of the slands of Antigua and Barbados with regard to education. In both, great activity activity prevails among the clergy of the Established Church and the missionary bodies on that head. The schools are numerous, and to a certain degree similar in character. In both colonies every facility that may offer for their increase in number or efficiency, from without or within, is zealously embraced and improved; and with proper support there will doubtless be a certain degree of instruction largely diffused through every parish before many years elapse. In one important point the Island of Antigua would appear to have the advantage, perhaps not over Barbados only, but over every other island in the West Indies. There is no island in which, judging from present indications, the transition from school to labour, or the union of both, appears likely to be attended with so little difficulty. I would not willingly mislead your Lordship, or leave it to be inferred that no obstacles may arise; but it is certainly the fact, that very many children who, on the abolition of slavery, were taken from field-labour by their parents and sent to school, are now found to have returned to it, together with many of the class that would elsewhere be termed free children of apprentices. Undoubtedly, the principal causes which have produced this originated in the position of the colony during the two years of drought and distress with which it was visited subsequently to the emancipation. In many instances, and perhaps in most, this distress obliged the parent to withdraw the child, and to avail himself of the small but certain produce of his labour as an addition to the common stock.

Mr. Latrobe's Report, 14 April 1838.

It is to be gathered from the accompanying details, that, from the want of funds, the cause of Negro education in this island has been maintained by the clergy of the Established Church under circumstances of very great difficulty; and that this has resulted from the embarrassments under which it appears that the Christian Faith Society, upon which the principal dependence of the Bishop reposed for the support of schools, laboured subsequently to the year of emancipation.

The same circumstance has had a yet more unfavourable influence upon education in St. Christopher's, Nevis, and the islands more to the north. In the more important of these, were it not for the successful efforts of the Wesleyan and Moravian Missionary bodies, and the personal influence and zeal of the late rector of Basseterre (now Archdeacon of Antigua), the course of education among the children of apprentices would certainly have rather retrograded than advanced.

In the Island of Montserrat, the stimulus given to education, in spite of similar difficulties, by means of the great personal exertions of the rural dean and his colleague, as well as of the Wesleyan missionaries, only needs encouragement to be productive of the best effects.

It cannot be said, with reference to any of the colonies included in the Government of the Leeward Islands, that the Legislatures have hitherto turned their attention to the subject of Negro education; neither have proprietors, with comparatively few exceptions, shown a disposition to assist cordially in the work, or to come to the aid of those who are struggling to carry it forward under circumstances of discouragement and difficulty.

The position of Anguilla is very peculiar just at the present time; and if the emigration of the labouring class continues, there will be but little necessity of adding to the present means of instruction.

The Virgin Islands were found to be in a deplorably neglected state, certainly from no want of zeal on the part of the resident clergy or missionaries, but from the complete absence of means to effect anything. With regard to the principal town in the main island of Tortola, better prospects had recently opened; but it was feared that, unless permanent school-houses and more suitable salaries could be furnished, the schools would scarcely become as effective as might be desired. Great apathy appeared to reign in the Legislature of the colony with reference to the education of the Negro. From the scattered nature of the population over 11 larger or smaller islands and keys, it will be a matter of no easy contrivance to furnish all with frequent and regular means of instruction.

Mr. Latrobe's Report, 14 April 1838.

It is satisfactory, under the circumstances alluded to, as far as this more remote portion of the diocese is concerned, to know that the attention of his Lordship the Bishop, at present absent from Barbados upon a visitation in that quarter, is now fully drawn to the situation of the schools and the state of education, in connexion with the Established Church, within it. The best results may be anticipated, from all connected with this subject being brought under his personal observation at this time; and it is hoped that that pecuniary aid, for the want of which the progress of education in these islands has been so evidently retarded, will not be withheld; but that both the colonists themselves, and the friends of the Negro in the mother country, will see that the surest and only way to ensure the colonial prosperity is to furnish the whole of the population, without delay, with ample means of sound religious instruction.

With regard to the general features of Negro education in the Windward and Leeward Islands, an examination of the detailed information that I am enabled to send will enable Her Majesty's Government to form its own judgment.

Doubtless a singularly great stimulus has been given to it within a very limited number of years. It may have first become evident shortly after the formation of these islands into a diocese, as it is known to your Lordship that, from his arrival to the present time, the attention of the Prelate to whose spiritual charge these colonies are committed has been unceasingly directed to the subject; but it is since 1834 that this stimulus has assumed a far greater degree of power. At the present hour, taking the West Indies as a whole, there can be no doubt but that the advance of public feeling on the subject of Negro education is both rapidly and steadily making progress from day to day. Numerous obstacles may still be observed to lie in the way, in the prejudices of all classes, the want of means, and the feebleness of the instruments employed, and, in particular directions, the current may appear to flag or even to retrograde; but it is no longer a few devoted missionaries or zealous clergymen bending themselves to the work, or here and there one more bold or more simple than his fellows, in the ranks of the proprietors, imparting instruction, in the face of both prejudice and opposition, to those whom Providence had placed under him; but at this hour, where one child went to school 10 years ago, hundreds may be enumerated; and where one man stood up in defence of the cause, 20 may be found ready to abet and to further it.

Though many of the colonial Legislatures as yet withhold their aid, and even their sanction, yet the way to a change of feeling, even in those bodies, has been opened by several, who have both shown their approval of the extension of education among the Negro race, and their willingness to aid its advance by such means as lay in their power; and this example will not be without its weight.

In the larger islands the vestries, though far from being unanimous as yet, are indicating year by year a greater willingness to examine into and reorganize their parochial establishments, and to raise institutions of a more liberal character upon the restricted foundations laid down by the prejudices or necessities of the old time.

In judging of the feelings of the proprietors and of the better classes of the population in the different islands on the subject of Negro education, the only safe criterion is to see what is done; neither attributing to him who does not yet see that it is his duty or his interest to come forward to its aid the harbouring unworthy motives, or hostile feelings to the education of the labouring class; nor to him who proclaims himself friendly, and who praises the exertions of others, the credit of being its patron, without active and indubitable proofs of the sincerity of the profession.

It must be confessed that in many of the islands the proprietors and their representatives, if they do not resist actively, yet by their very apathy interpose a powerful impediment in the way of the advance of education; and that, generally speaking, that which is effected by the clergy and the missionaries is effected with great labour, and under great disadvantages in consequence.

Success

Mr. Latrobe's Report, 14 April 1838.

Success that may attend Negro education in a given island must not lead to the conclusion that the cause is necessarily approved of, either by the Legislature or by the proprietors. Even in Barbados and in Antigua, where so much is already effected, it is impossible to conceal, that up to the present time, if the judgment is to be formed by the observation of facts, the exertions of the clergy and missionaries to this end have been far from being generally satisfactory to either.

It is only just to remark, however, that this may spring, less from a narrow-minded dislike to see the Negro mind cultivated, than from a mistrust as to the sound views or judgment of many of the advocates of the cause; an undecided opinion as to the quality and the measure of the instruction to be given; and doubt as to the effect which education, unaccompanied by lessons of industry, may exercise over the prosperity of the colony.

Your Lordship will be prepared to expect that, in the main, the same general observations which I had the honour to lay before you in reporting upon the state of education in Jamaica will be applicable to the whole of the islands in this archipelago. In general there is no great distinction to be drawn between the characteristics of education in them and in the larger colony, either as regards the modes pursued, the instruments employed, the nature of the difficulties in the way, or the character of the race to be benefited by these exertions.

The scope of the instruction, and the mode of imparting it, is, with slight modifications, the same throughout the West Indies, and perhaps the more uniform in these islands as, with the exception of the institutions of the Mico Charity in Bridge Town, Barbados, there are but three principal bodies engaged in the work of education in the Windward and Leeward Islands, and the shades of distinction between their respective systems are but faint.

No system combining practical lessons of industry with the culture of the mind has been discovered, or tried, up to the present moment, by any party, in any prominent instance; and, if I may be permitted to do so without presumption, I should say that, without great tact and prudence on the part of those who wish to introduce this union, and of those who consider their worldly interests dependent upon its being brought about, the subject is beset with difficulty. I have already stated my conviction that the apathy or the hesitation on the subject of education evinced by most of the planters chiefly hinges upon this point. Considering, as I must, that the finger of Providence evidently points out the estate or the plantation as the natural field of industry for the majority of the rising generation of the poorer classes in these islands, I should be inclined to doubt the wisdom or real kindness of any system or mode of instruction which would lead either the parent or the child to reason falsely on the subject, by not strongly impressing upon the mind the necessity of submitting to labour, not only as it yields the means of satisfying brute nature, but as it is conducive to social order, morality, and happiness. I see with regret the effect of prejudices that remain from the old times, whether in the mind of the master or the servant, and must acknowledge the doubt that rests over the future, as long as they exist. Time and circumstances, under the guidance of Providence, will probably effect more than human schemes at present; and this question, like others of vital importance to the West Indies, must be left till the full development of the great measure recently adopted with regard to the Negro race. Certain it is that much, even now, lies in the power of the proprietor or of his representative to induce a greater degree of confidence and a healthier tone of feeling on this subject in the mind of the apprentices.

It will have appeared evident to your Lordship that the great difficulty interposing itself in the way of Negro education in these islands consists in the want of funds. Without them nothing can be effected; with them, as long as the clergy and the missionaries are zealous in the cause, the work it may and will advance, even in cases where the Legislature does not precisely give its sanction or the proprietor his assistance. Your Lordship will have no hesitation, I trust, in assuring Her Majesty's Government and the country that the public money voted for the purpose, hitherto has been well bestowed and conscientiously applied by those who were constituted the almoners of the public bounty, without my affirmation that this is the case; and so it would have been, had it been of ten times the amount.

It is very satisfactory that it is decided to give some assistance from the Parliamentary grant of 1837 towards the maintenance of teachers. In the majority of instances, the attempt to make the parents of the children contribute a trifling weekly sum towards the expenses incurred has thus far signally failed. In the whole of these islands I can only name three or four instances where the experiment was, or promised to be, successful; and all of these were made under peculiar circumstances. I have had much opportunity to weigh the propriety of making a small charge, and of hearing many opinions on the subject; and, if I may be permitted to say so, I am fully inclined to admit it, for considerations apart from the necessity that exists to do so in consequence of the restricted means of the societies by which the work is mainly carried on. The sum demanded from each parent individually is extremely trifling; so much so, as to place by far the greatest majority beyond a just plea of inability to pay it. Those schools which were originally opened upon the "free system" are under manifest disadvantage, now that principle or necessity obliges those who conduct them to change their mode of proceeding, and to require payment, especially if there is to be found at a moderate distance a school where the children may repair free of all charge. It is suggested by many who have bestowed much thought upon the subject, that it would be well to demand a trifling sum, of scarcely any amount, from all in attendance, orphans, &c. excepted; and that this should be doubled or tripled in the case of such as are taught writing and arithmetic. This might be a stimulus to exertion to the parents, and enforce upon them the necessity of requiring a better and more regular attendance on the part of their children.

The indifferent attendance, which is more or less observable throughout the islands, is a great drawback to the steady improvement of the children; but it is a difficulty very hard to remedy at the present time. There are islands where the causes of irregular attendance, at certain seasons of the year, are evident; but it is not to be seen that where these causes do not exist that there is any considerable distinction to be drawn in this respect.

Your Lordship will be aware that up to this date no legislative measure to enforce the attendance of children at school exists in any of these colonies.

Next to the question of the pecuniary means by which schools once established shall be maintained, that of securing proper and efficient teachers is the most weighty, and embraces one of the existing difficulties in the way of Negro education. In a great degree it may be considered consequent upon the want of funds; for though I have remarked that the coloured classes have furnished a larger proportion of respectable masters and mistresses in this portion of the West Indies than in Jamaica, it is certain that the stipend which it is in the power of the clergy to offer, in the generality of cases, is so small and inadequate, that it would be unreasonable to expect that really clever and efficient teachers could be engaged on such terms. The difficulty is of course mainly experienced in the larger islands. In Barbados, it is true, the number of white and coloured persons possessing some education affords more choice in the selection of those employed in the schools; at the same time that both the central and colonial schools are fully capable of being made subservient, under proper arrangements, to the training of efficient instructors for the country schools. The same observation applies to the model school of the Mico Charity.

But in Antigua and St. Christopher the case is far otherwise, and there is an urgent call, in Antigua especially, for the institution of proper Normal schools for the education of teachers. It has been suggested, if funds and agents could be found, that one might be set on foot, which, under proper regulations, would send out masters and mistresses with certificates of capacity and moral conduct for employment in the schools of that and other islands, without reference to the particular particular society under which the school might be conducted, or to the particular denomination of Christians to which the individual might be attached.

However useful the attendance of an individual upon one of the larger and best conducted schools may be, with a view to future employment as teacher, it would be highly desirable that the candidates training for this service should be placed in a position where they might reap fuller advantage of the expenditure of time and patience, and might imbibe a taste for self-improvement. It is the want of this power which keeps many schools at a very low ebb; for many may be remarked where the quicker children must soon gain all the knowledge that the teacher has it in his or her power to impart, without the hope of further advancement.

I am enabled, as in the case of Jamaica, to bear my testimony as to the general readiness with which the majority of the children of the Negro and coloured races in these islands imbibe the first principles of ordinary knowledge. It might almost be said that they evince precocity of talent when placed in circumstances calculated to develop it. The children of apparently pure African blood are not to be distinguished from those of other classes in this respect. In general, I should say that they learn to write well before they learn to read correctly. It is argued by many that this early promise of talent shown by children in this climate, and the facility which they certainly possess in obtaining the rudiments of knowledge at a tender age, is not followed in the majority of cases by the fruit that might be expected. To whatever opinion on this subject private opinion may incline, it is surely too soon in the day to decide that question. It must be left to the future to solve it, as well as many others, with reference to the powers and position of the present inhabitants of these magnificent colonies.

In addition to the two main points of difficulty which have been laid before your Lordship, and which must be considered in a great measure common to all the islands in question, it is my duty still to allude to those which are more particularly found to exist in the islands which were formerly under the dominion of France. In these, the language and the faith have hitherto interposed an almost insurmountable barrier to moral improvement.

That the language must be productive of difficulty to the spread of education will surely be conceded on all hands. It is ordinarily a dialect, which neither a Frenchman nor an African will readily understand, and which, however cultivated by being made the vehicle of a certain degree of pleasing and natural expression in a number of national songs, is nevertheless but a jargon.

The faith has been, my Lord, as far as these islands are concerned, and is at this day, an obstacle in the way of the moral improvement of the Negro and coloured races. The mission with which your Lordship charged me was, apart from the special object in view, a friendly mission to all, of whatever class or modification of religious opinion, who had been, or were calculated to be, conducive to this great object; and I have held the same language of respect and encouragement to all, whoever they might be, who were honestly and anxiously endeavouring to improve the condition of the Negro and his children, and to bring sound education within their reach, and that without any regard to the clashing opinions or the jealousies of the several parties with which I was brought in contact. I was happy to communicate personally with such members of the Roman-catholic church as I met with; but I cannot lead your Lordship to infer that I entertain any hope of the Roman-catholic population of the colonies receiving that education which is becoming absolutely necessary through the medium of their own pastors. There are men of liberal mind among the clergy of the Romish church, who have lately thrown no obstacle in the way of the children attached to their communion, in town and country, taking advantage of the means of education provided for the poorer class through the instrumentality of the Church of England, but the number gaining instruction in this manner is very trifling. The officers in command of those islands, as well as their Excellencies the Governors-general of Antigua and Barbados, are all, without exception, extremely anxious upon this subject; and to all it has been a subject of regret, and one in which I must participate, that the trustees of the Mico Charity have not turned their especial attention to the cause of education in these islands, where the door would appear to be open to them, though, to a certain degree, shut to the clergy of the Established Church and the agents of Missionary Societies. It must be admitted that the subject of the education of a large proportion of the labouring population of Dominica, St. Lucia, and Grenada, presents great difficulties in consequence, and I take the liberty of bringing it forward for the serious consideration of your Lordship.

Mr. Latrobe's Report, 14 April 1838.

In assuring your Lordship, in conclusion, that I have, throughout my inspection in these islands, experienced every facility from Her Majesty's representatives, which being in their power to impart, I am only acquitting myself of a duty. I found the attention of all strongly directed to the subject, and ready to take advantage of any favourable opening to introduce or forward the subject with the respective Legislatures.

The degree of authority which my mission brought with it was but confined; and I have the more gratification in adding, that not only from the clergy and the members of the missionary bodies, but from the individuals of every branch of the population of these islands with which my inquiries on the subject of education brought me in contact, I have met with the greatest courtesy, and every disposition to give information and to render assistance.

I beg leave to mention, that I am upon the point of visiting Demerara and Trinidad; and trust, in the course of the summer, on my return to England, to furnish your Lordship with the desired information upon the state of education in those colonies.

I have the honour to be

Your Lordship's most obedient, humble servant,

Charles J. Latrobe.

Schedule (A.)

SHOWING the Application of the Aid given by Her Majesty's Government to Missionary and other Societies towards the Erection of SCHOOL-HOUSES, &c. &c., for the purposes of NEGRO EDUCATION in the Windward and Leeward Islands, from the Parliamentary Grants of 1835, 1836, 1837, and comprising a Notice of Stations where the Erection of School-houses is in contemplation, in expectation of future Aid, &c. &c. &c.

N.B.—It has not been found possible to state, in every case, with certainty what part of the sums named in the Schedule as advanced by the Societies is actually drawn from the aid voted to them from the late Parliamentary Grants for the erection of School-houses. That information, if necessary, must be gathered in England.

The various sums between parentheses in the 8th column merely indicate the sums which have actually been or are to be employed in the erection of the School-house in question. They may be frequently found to fall below the actual or the estimated cost of the building, and in such cases it may be understood that it is not exactly known at present how the debt may be liquidated, or by what means the full sum necessary for the erection is to be raised.

Barbados, March 1838. C. J. Latrobe.

Schedule (A.)

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

Enclosure to Schedule (A).

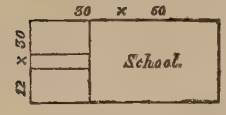
N. B. Whenever in the accompanying Schedule, the plot of ground upon which a school-house stands, or is intended to be erected, is stated to be "conveyed", it may be understood that it has been made over, by legal form, for the purpose in question, to "the bishop of the diocess and the rector of the parish for the time being," unless it be otherwise indicated.

Also, that in all cases where not stated to the contrary, the stipends of the teachers, conducting schools in operation, in connexion with the Established Church, have hitherto been supposed to be paid by the bishop from funds at his disposal, without local aid, or any assistance from Government connected with the late Parliamentary grants for negro education; and further, that in the case of all schools in the island of Barbados, it is to be understood that no children of white parents are to be found in attendance upon the national or other schools open to the apprenticed population and their children, unless it is expressly so mentioned.

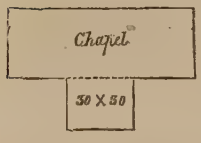
THE SOCIETY FOR THE PROPAGATION OF THE GOSPEL.

THE school-houses or rooms erected or arranged, or which it is proposed to erect or arrange shortly in these islands, with the funds of the society placed for this purpose at the disposal of the bishop, including the aid given from the three several Parliamentary grants for negro education, may be classed under six different heads.

1. Simple school-houses, of one or two stories or rooms, standing apart from other buildings, and employed for no other purpose than that of tuition. Ex. gratiâ, St. Paul's, Bridgetown, Barbados, &c. &c. &c.



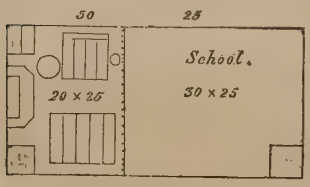
2. School-houses, with teachers' apartments, either included under the same roof, and taken off with partitions, or annexed to the main building. Ex. gratiâ, St John's Rectory School, Antigua; and Mangrove, St. Jude's, St. Matthias, &c. &c. &c. Barbados.



3. School-rooms, attached to regularly consecrated churches or chapels of ease. Ex. gratiâ, St. Luke's, St. George's parish, Barbados; St. John's Figtree, Nevis, &c. &c.

4. School-rooms built over a spacious basement story, used as a 'remise' or stable, for the shelter of the carriages and horses of such of the parishioners attending Divine service in the church or chapel, to which such a building may always be understood to be contiguous, as may live at a distance. Ex. gratiâ, St. Philip's national school, Barbados, &c. &c.

5. School-houses, attached or unattached to the teacher's dwelling, which, at the same time that the whole area is considered appropriated during the week to the purposes of instruction, are nevertheless licensed, and employed occasionally as temporary places of worship. Ex. gratiâ, Vaughan's, Barbados; George Byam's, Antigua; Fry's, Montserrat, &c. &c. &c.



6. Chapel-schools, in which one-third or more of the area is to be, or is actually enclosed and set apart for the regular celebration of Divine worship; the whole to be licensed for the purpose, and the portion enclosed perhaps ultimately consecrated: the chapel portion being properly and permanently screened off, and furnished with pews, pulpit and reading-desk, font and altar, in all respects like a chapel of ease. Ex. gratiâ, St. Lawrence, Barbados, and many in contemplation on that model.

Schedule (A.)

(March 1838.)—10 Stations, Parliamentary Grant, 1835; 2 Stations, Parliamentary Grant, 1836; 3 Stations, Parliamentary Grant, 1837.

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

St. Michel's Parish.

St. Paul's National School.—Bridgetown.

A handsome but plain building of two floors, in proximity to the new chapel of ease, and situated in a neighbourhood where there is a great necessity for increased means of instruction for the children of the poorer classes. The efficiency of the school and the prospect of success have improved since the present school-house was finished, but there exists some reason to fear, that whenever necessity obliges the clergyman, under whose inspection and direction it is more immediately carried on, to enforce the weekly payment of a small sum by the parents of the children, less as an equivalent than as an acknowledgment of the benefit received, and also to aid in the support of the teachers, that a great falling-off in numbers will be the consequence.

This has been so evident, that at present the only charge attempted, is that of one half-penny sterling per week for the purchase of books and cards.

A small infant school was held in a contiguous building, but it has been suspended for want of a proper teacher; and probably before recommenced, the school-room will have to be enlarged.

St. Stephen's.

The building which has here been bought and appropriated to the purposes of a national school-house stands at a short distance from the chapel of ease.

2 ½ miles north of Bridgetown.

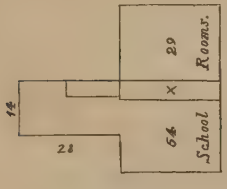
A portion of the adjacent glebe land having been sold to the legislature of the colony for the erection of a police station-house, the sum of 200 l. sterling paid for it was applied to the purchase of the plot on which the school-house stands; and that building forthwith purchased by the bishop, the said land having been previously conveyed for the purposes in question by the rector of St. Michel's.

The final arrangement of giving the boys and girls their separate school-rooms will be made in the course of a few weeks, upon the marriage of the master. Apartments are provided for his accommodation in an adjacent cottage.

There is no other school for the children of the labouring classes nearer than Bridgetown.

All the children at present in attendance are extremely young. It was at first expected that the parents would pay a trifle weekly for their instruction, but the result of the experiment made has not justified the expectation.

St. Matthew's.



Erected near the new chapel of ease, and in a neighbourhood unfurnished with other means of instruction for the children of the poorer classes. The school was in a tolerably efficient state, but the person in charge seemed to hurry the children rather too much forward.

3 miles N.N.E. of Bridgetown.

St. Barnabas, or Pickering's.

It is in contemplation to erect a chapel school on this estate; one-third to be fitted up as a regular place of worship, and screened off from that part of the area that is to be occupied by the children.

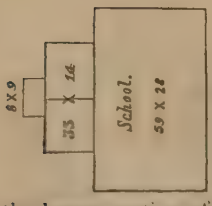
3 miles E. from Bridgetown.

The estimates hitherto presented, however, for the execution of this plan, have been so exorbitant (1,300 l. currency), that some delay will certainly be the result. A plot of ground attached to the site has been purchased by the donor of the land, and annexed to his former gift, as a garden for the use of the future teacher.

There is no school in this immediate neighbourhood.

Christ Church Parish.

St. Matthias.



The school-house is a very handsome building; erected in front of the new chapel of ease now being built. The school is at present well conducted by a very competent teacher, recently appointed, after having fallen off considerably in numbers, from the ill health of the person previously employed: perhaps also, in consequence of a charge of 6 d. sterling per month, which is however scarcely enforced. This is one of the very few schools in the island in which the children of a few white parents may be found intermixed with those of a darker class. By far the larger portion of the children in attendance are those of free people living in the outskirts of the town. Till the new chapel of ease can be occupied, the school-house is used regularly twice on the Sunday for Divine worship.

2 miles from Bridgetown, 2½ from St. Lawrence.

St. Lawrence.

5 miles from Bridgetown, 3 miles from the parish church. See N. B. at the head of this Enclosure.

A chapel-school, properly so called, well and handsomely built, on a rocky promontory jutting out into the sea. Rather more than one-third of the given area to the eastward is screened off by a gothic screen as a place of worship, and fitted up completely to that end, with fixed seats, one pulpit, reading desk, font, altar table, and rails.

There is a good prospect of the success of the school, in which, however, the same charge must be made as in the preceding case. It is well conducted, under careful and frequent inspection. Service is regularly performed here by the curate at an early hour on the Sunday morning. The situation has been chosen with great judgment, as it occupies a point about midway between St. Matthias and Oistin's Town.

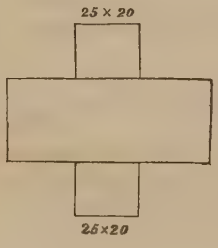
Yorkshire.

3 miles from the parish church, 6 ½ from Bridgetown.

It is proposed to build a school-house near the northern limit of the parish and the confines of St. Philip's and St. George's, on a swelling ridge, which will be accessible to the children of many large estates. Two different sites on the ridge, half a mile apart, are under consideration. There is no school in the vicinity.

St. Bartholomew.

2 ½ miles from the parish church, 8 from Bridgetown.



It had been intended to build a distinct school-house on a piece of land, on part of which the chapel of ease has been erected; but, as a doubt has arisen, whether the terms of the conveyance of the same, by which it was made over merely to afford a site for a chapel, permit such a mode of appropriation, it has been decided, in repairing and enlarging the chapel, which is now being done, to add two projections of the given dimensions, and to make use of these as the school-rooms during the week.

A Sunday-school existed in the chapel till the present work caused it to be suspended. The nearest school is that of Below Rock.

Kirton.

4 miles west from Bridgetown.

The site fixed upon for this chapel school is eligible in every respect. There is no school for the children of the labouring classes in this corner of the parish.

Below Rock.

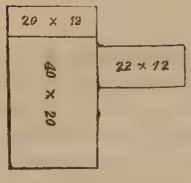
2 miles from the parish church, 8 ½ from Bridgetown.

This is a very plain but substantial building, situate in the lower part of the parish, not far from the southernmost point of the island. It is still under consideration whether it should be enlarged or not. The school has opened with a very good prospect of success.

ST. JOHN'S PARISH.

St. John's National School.

12 miles from Bridgetown.



Is situated within a mile of the parish church, and many of the children are making tolerable proficiency. The house is large and very suitable for the purpose. With reference to the school-house, however, a doubt has arisen, whether the small sum given by the society towards its erection can be considered to have any connexion with the Government aid.

From the date of the erection, it is probable that it has not.

Kendal's.

2 ½ miles from the Society's School.

The proposed site for this school-house is judiciously chosen on a plot of ground at the intersection of two roads, and it will be central with reference to a considerable labouring population. It is to be commenced without loss of time.

There is no school for the children of apprentices in this immediate neighbourhood.

ST. PHILIP'S PARISH.

St. Philip's National School.

9 miles from Bridgetown, 3 from Mangrove, and 3 from Parochial-school, Trinity Chapel.

The new building is rapidly advancing. It stands at a short distance from the parish church, and will be a substantial erection, upon the plan of several of the parochial schools in Barbados, similarly situated in near proximity to the church; the lower part forming a place of shelter for the carriages and horses of such of the parishioners as attend Divine service from a distance.

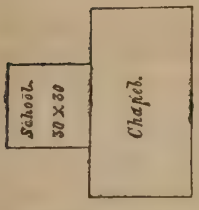
The school will be equidistant from those at Mangrove and Trinity.

Mangrove.

The new school-house, with master's apartment attached, is well situated and substantially built; and the school opened in it is one of the most promising of its class in the island. It may be said to have existed previously in the same neighbourhood as a private school of the master now in charge. The children are under good tuition, and are making satisfactory progress. A charge of 6*d.* sterling per month is made, but very few of the children have hitherto paid it.

3 miles from the parish church, 3 miles from Trinity.

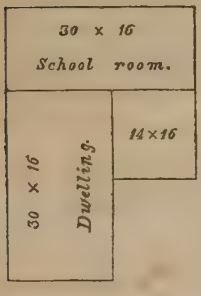
St. George's Parish.



St. Luke's.

This addition to the chapel of ease is to be made without delay. There is a small private school in this neighbourhood for the coloured classes, &c. (see Schedule (B.); but otherwise no ready means of instruction for the children of the poor or of apprentices.

2 ½ miles from the parish church, 6 miles from Bridgetown.



St. Jude's.

The school-house in question lies at some short distance from the chapel of ease. The work is proceeding under a contract binding the party to have it finished at the date specified in the Schedule.

3 miles from the parish church, 1 ½ from Mount Tabor. M.M.S.

Fisher's Pond.

The plot of ground fixed upon for the site of this school-house is situated in the northern extremity of the parish, and near the limits of St. John's, St. Joseph's and St. Thomas's.

4 miles from the parish church.

St. Joseph's Parish.

St. Joseph's. Rectory School.

The site of this chapel-school has been very judiciously chosen on the seacoast, within a very short distance of the rectory. It is built exteriorly much in the same style as that at St. Lawrence, Christchurch parish; and though not yet fitted up in the same manner interiorly, will probably be so eventually.

The delay which took place in building was caused by the great distance from Bridgetown, and the difficulty of getting the timber, &c., round by the coast.

There are but two estates in the vicinity, but there are many settlements of poor free people scattered over the whole district. The charge of 3*d.* sterling per week prevents the school being numerously attended at the present time.

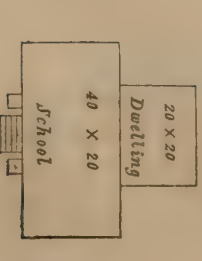
There has been a difficulty in providing it with a suitable teacher.

There is reason to believe that when the completion of the rectory, now being rebuilt, permits the rector to inspect it more frequently, that it will be conducted in every way in a more efficient manner.

2 ½ miles from the parish church.

St. Thomas's Parish.

Welshe's.



Completed, with the exception of the fitting up and some unimportant details. After the building was commenced at the time indicated, the necessity of advancing with the re-erection of the parish church, which had been destroyed by the hurricane of 1831, occasioned considerable delay in completing the school-house. It is not yet known with certainty when the school will be opened, as the propriety of enlarging it and forming it into a chapel-school has recently been taken into consideration.

3 miles from the parish church, 1 ½ from Sharon. M.M.S.

Lyon Castle.

3 miles from the parish church.

Some delay will probably take place at this point before the school-house is built, as it is proposed to commence the erection of the new chapel of ease in the first instance. The two buildings are to be separate, though contiguous. The site is in the higher part of the parish, in the midst of a number of very fine estates.

Irish Town.

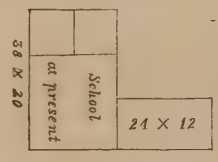
3 ½ miles from the parish church, 2 from Mount Hillaby. W.M.S.

Till a proper site has been procured for this school-house, a small school is maintained by the bishop in this, the northern extremity of the parish, in the dwelling-house of the person in charge. The school-house is to be built uniformly with that at Vaughan's, in St. Andrew's parish.

ST. ANDREW'S PARISH.

Vaughan's.

2 ½ miles from the parish church, 2 ½ from Mount Hillaby.



Towards the erection of this school-house and of that at Irish Town (see above) it is understood that but one grant, that of 1835 for St. Andrew's, is to be applied, as in both cases the construction is far slighter than ordinary in this island, and consequently less expensive. It is nevertheless sufficiently strong to resist any ordinary weather: the end walls are constructed of masonry. It is now proposed to cut off one-third of the present building to form an apartment for the master, and to add another school-room, of 24 × 12, at right angles to the present one, for the convenience of having the boys and girls separate.

The expense of this alteration is to be met partly by a small contribution from the Hurricane Fund, and partly by 20*l.* sterling, applicable to this purpose, in the hands of the rector. The school has commenced with a very good prospect of success. The site is well chosen, and is accessible to both the children from the heights, and to those from the estates in the valley.

ST. JAMES'S PARISH.

Clarendon Fort.

3 miles from the parish church.

This will be, in all probability, a chapel-school, on the plan of St. Lawrence. The fort lies on the coast, near the northern limit of the parish, about half way between Hole Town and Speightstown. The materials on the ground will be employed in the erection.

Spring Head.

4 miles from the parish church.

Is situated in a very populous upper district, near the limits of St. Andrew's parish.

ST. PETER'S PARISH.

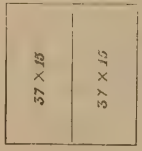
All Saints.

3 miles from Speightstown.

The school-house will be erected on the same plan as that now being built near St. Philip's parish church, on the glebe land adjacent to the chapel of ease to be shortly erected on the site of that destroyed by the hurricane of 1831. No estimate of the cost has as yet been furnished.

Speightstown.

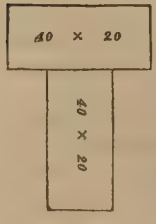
10 miles from Bridgetown.



The purchase and arrangement of these premises have been made with great judgment. They are spacious, and in every way suited for the purpose. The school is a very important one, and evidently efficiently conducted. The sum of 3 ½*d.* is charged per week, but only about 20 of the children in attendance can be said to pay at present. Besides several private schools, the Wesleyan Missionary Society have a well-organized school in this town.

ST. LUCY'S PARISH.

2 ½ miles from the parish church, 3 from St. Clement's.



St. Swithin's.—Near Crab Island.

The delay that has taken place in this instance, has been caused partly by want of the needful funds for its completion, and partly by the scarcity of materials and workmen in this remote district of the island. There is no immediate prospect of its being opened as a school-house for some months hence. The portion of the building to be used as a chapel has been planned at right angles to the school, and will be separated from the latter by a screen.

St. Clement's.—Pye Corner District.

The school here is to commence forthwith. The building set apart for its accommodation is adjacent to the newly arranged chapel of ease recently consecrated. It was first understood that the donor of the land should receive a certain sum for the buildings upon it, which are both substantial, but subsequently he declined receiving any remuneration, and presented both to the bishop, &c., to be arranged and furnished as permanent chapel and school-house. Hitherto this extremity of the island has been without any schools for the instruction of the apprentices or their children. 4 miles from the parish church.

TOBAGO.

(January 1838.)—One Station from Parliamentary Grant, 1835; Four Stations from Parliamentary Grant, 1837.

Plymouth. Great Courland Bay.—St. David's.

This school-room is extremely well-contrived, and forms a very spacious airy apartment without partitions. The school established in it is attended by very young children, who as yet cannot be expected to display any great degree of proficiency. Only one at present reads in the Testament. It is, however, conducted with order and care. Much sickness among the children was prevalent at the time the colony was visited, and the attendance at school was consequently more than ordinarily indifferent. 3 miles from Les Coteaux, 10 from Scarborough, 5 from Golden-grove.

The attendance at the Sunday-school has fallen off greatly since that at Les Coteaux has been opened, as that is far more accessible to many who formerly attended here.

Les Coteaux.—St. David's.

It is to be understood that in this instance, the master's house, though contiguous to the school-room, forms a distinct building of smaller dimensions. The sum expended upon the two has greatly exceeded the estimate, or that proportion of the grant to Tobago which properly fell to its share. The buildings are, however, substantially constructed, and the site well chosen, in a populous district. It was, nevertheless, in contemplation to remove the teacher's house, which has, perhaps injudiciously, been placed to windward of the school-house, in consequence of which it was supposed that the strong current of air constantly rushing full upon it down the narrow valley in that direction, seriously affected the health of the inmates. 3 miles from Plymouth, 8 from Scarborough.

Hitherto the land has not been legally conveyed, but it is hoped that it will be done without further delay. One of the donors is the island curate, resident on the estate.

The school was composed of very young children. Under the eye of the clergyman in question, it is not to be doubted but it will prove an effective school. When the girls are sufficiently advanced in age, it is understood that they are to be taught needle-work. There is no other school in existence further to the leeward.

Roxborough.—St. Paul's.

This school-house stands upon the sea shore, at a point where it is easily accessible to the children of a number of inland estates in the vicinity. A married couple are in readiness to enter as schoolmaster and mistress as soon as it is quite completed. They are to have a salary of 30 l. sterling from the bishop, with further assistance from the colonial fund. The upper story will furnish them with apartments. The land has not yet been conveyed. 13 miles from Scarborough, 8 ½ from the Hope.

The Hope.—Barbados Bay.

An excellent school-house on the same plan as the foregoing, and situated in a similar position, near the shore, with a number of fine estates in the vicinity. The donor of the land has added the outbuildings at his own expense. The other proprietors and managers of this neighbourhood have come forward in a very praiseworthy manner to aid in the expense of the erection. 4 ½ miles from Scarborough.

The school promises to become very effective, and has been opened under the charge of a very competent and respectable teacher. No conveyance of the land has taken place up to this date.

Lambeau Hill.—On the Confines of St. Paul, or Queen Bay Division.

The idea of erecting a school-house on this ridge has been already for many months in agitation. It is greatly required, as the children of the estates in the vicinity of Tyrrell's Bay to the north are completely cut off at present from all means of religious or other instruction. The want of funds applicable to this purpose has hitherto stood in the way; but as it is understood that a grant has at length been procured for a school-house in this district, it is to be hoped that the land will be procured, and the building commenced without loss of time. The want of labourers is severely felt throughout this part of the island, and it was feared that this might still prove an obstacle in the way of its very speedy completion. 24 miles from Scarborough.

pletion. No school of any description (with the sole exception of the small estate school at Murchiston in this neighbourhood) is to be met with in making the further circuit of the island in this direction, along a line of coast probably 40 miles in extent.

Mount Pleasant.—St. Andrew's.

7 miles from Scarborough.

It was originally proposed by the bishop to erect a "chapel-school" at this spot; but the great want of a spacious and permanent place of worship in this populous neighbourhood was so strongly felt in the colony, that the plan has been again and again revised, improved upon, and extended, till the primary object of its erection was nearly, if not wholly, lost sight of at the time the colony was visited; for not only were the legislative grants, 400*l.* sterling, and the local subscriptions, if the information was correct, advanced expressly for the erection of a bonâ fide chapel of ease, but the plan, as drawn out, was that of a gothic chapel, fitted up throughout its whole area with pews, &c. However, the estimate of expense which accompanied it fell so far beyond all the means that could be brought to bear and made available to the purpose, even if the 400*l.* sterling from the society had been employed, that it was evident that the idea of a building being erected on that scale must fall to the ground; and it is now probable that a simple chapel-school, according to the original proposal of his Lordship, will be erected, in the style of St. Lawrence, &c. Barbados (see this Enclosure, Barbados), of much the same proportions, and subject to the same conditions. It is not supposed that the grant from the Legislature will be withdrawn in consequence of this arrangement.

The locality chosen is the best adapted for the purpose; a gentle rise in the lowland or south-west extremity of the island, surrounded by large estates. The nearest school will be that at Montgomery (Moravian M. S.), placed on the hills about two miles distant.

GRENADA.

(January 1838.)—One Station, Parliamentary Grant, 1835; one Station, Parliamentary Grant, 1836; four Stations, Parliamentary Grant, 1837.

St. George.

It is supposed that this building will be completed in the course of the summer of this year, 1838. The difficulty of finding a suitable plot of ground for its erection, and the prevalence of the small pox throughout the island in the earlier part of 1837, are urged as reasons for the delay which has taken place. It is proposed to form it into an occasional place of worship, and that it should be licensed accordingly.

The scale upon which it has been planned and begun will render it imperatively necessary to raise a considerable balance before it can be completed; and it is understood that this must be done altogether by local means.

In the meantime the infant school, which in common with all the schools in the colony had to be suspended for some months of the past year (1837), has recommenced with tolerable prospects in the parish church.

Perd mon Tems.—St. George and St. David's.

4 to 5 miles from St. George.

The tract of country known under this appellation forms a ridge of several miles in extent, and of considerable height, extending over the limits of the two adjacent parishes named. On both sides of the boundary line land appears to have been offered to the respective rectors for the erection of school-houses; and it is not yet quite certain whether both offers, or only one, will be accepted, or can be undertaken at the present time. There is a considerable population in the district, both on estates and in small settlements, scattered over the face of the country.

Black Bay.—St. John's.

7 ⅛ miles from St. George.

The site proposed to be occupied by this school-house is well and judiciously chosen on a ridge to the south of Black Bay, and will be of easy access both to the children of the hamlet and of the estates both in the valley and further up the country. A contract for the erection had been entered into, and the work was upon the point of being begun at the time the district was visited; but the contractor dying, it is to be expected that some delay will be the consequence.

The building is to be licensed for the occasional performance of divine worship.

Charlotte Town, or Gonyave.—St. John's.

12 miles from St. George, 4½ from Black Bay.

This a plain but substantial building, placed upon the outskirts of the little town. It has been opened for the school for upwards of two years. All the children in attendance are the offspring of Roman-catholic parents. It is considered to a certain degree to be under the control of the parishioners, who subscribed to the cost of erection, as well as under that of the rector. The children of the infant school, which, for want of a more suitable school-room, is held in the parish church, are drafted into it as soon as they arrive at a proper age. It was under a temporary suspension, in consequence of the removal of the the master and mistress to St. Patrick's school, but every exertion was making to supply their places. A Sunday-school existed at the church, but was recently abandoned on account of irregular attendance on the part of the apprentices.

1. Schedule (A.)

St. Mark's Bay.—St. Mark's.

4 miles from Charlotte Town.

The completion of this chapel-school has been much delayed for want of funds, and from the circumstances in which the colony has been placed from the prevalence of the small-pox. The school has in the meantime been held in a house hired for the purpose. At the beginning of the year a similar difficulty was experienced in re-opening it, as in the case of the preceding station, the master having refused to hold the post any longer, in consequence of his salary being reduced.

Richmond Hill.—St. George's.

2 miles from St. George.

The erection of this small school-house has been begun since the commencement of the year, and there is no doubt of its being shortly finished, as the amount of the local subscription, trifling as it is, was considered sufficient for a building of the small size and the slight construction specified. An application had, however, been forwarded to the bishop, for assistance to the amount of 40*l.* or 45*l.*, to enable the parties to improve upon the original idea, and to shingle the building. It was probable that their request would be acceded to. It lies on the Perd mon Tems road, near a spot on which the rector of the parish for some time already maintained a Sunday-school. (See Parnassus, enclosure to Schedule B.)

The donor of the land is a respectable coloured person in humble life.

Carrière.—St. Andrew's.

No information beyond the intention expressed can be at present afforded on the subject of the school-house to be erected in this neighbourhood. There was formerly a Sunday-school held on the estate alternately with Bacolet, in the southern part of the same parish, by the parish-clerk resident at La Baye, a mule being sent to him for his conveyance; but during the reign of the recent epidemic, the fear of infection put a stop to this arrangement, and it has not since been resumed. Carrière lies on the windward and more open side of the island, where there are many fine estates, and the position will be central with reference to a tolerably large population.

La Baye.—St. Andrew's.

12 miles from St. George.

The want of land, which has been the principal hindrance of the erection of a school-house in this town, has at length been obviated by the gift of the Legislature, and it is to be hoped that the second obstacle, the necessity of meeting the offer of the bishop by raising an equal sum towards the erection, by local means, will not be allowed to prevent the speedy accomplishment of this desirable object; but neither in this case, nor in that of

St. Patrick's, Sauteurs,

9 miles from La Baye.

Where the same stipulation has been made by the bishop in promising aid, is it likely that it will be overcome without an effort. In both instances some assistance may be hoped from the grant of 1,000*l.* currency voted by the colonial Legislature in aid of education, but in neither can it be expected that the school-houses can be finished for less than 400*l.* sterling, at least, according to present estimates and plans.

At La Baye the state of the school is, upon the whole, promising. It is held temporarily in the parish church, and is under good inspection. At St. Patrick's, the school occupies an old block-house built on the promontory, during the disturbed times of the colony, and a more insecure and ill-suited locality for the purpose of education could not be imagined. The school at La Baye is supported wholly at the charge of the bishop, without any assistance from either the vestry or the parishioners; the master of that at St. Patrick's, on the contrary, enjoys a yearly stipend from the proprietors of the neighbouring estates of Snell Hall, La Fortune, Mount Craven, Mount Alexander, Marley, and Union, &c.

The far greater proportion of the children in both schools are nominally attached to the Romish faith, though many of them are baptized by the clergy of the Established Church.

The Sunday-schools in both cases have been relinquished in consequence of the poor attenandce of the apprentices.

The small infant school at St. Patrick's is held in the dwelling of the mistress.

Chantimel.—St. Patrick's.

3 miles from Les Sauteurs.

The want of the needful funds is again in this instance the cause of hesitation in commencing the work. The teacher in charge of the small school in operation, is supported partly by the small stipend allowed by the bishop, partly by the payment of a few private scholars, and partly by small sums paid to her by the managers or proprietors of adjacent estates, for the instruction given to their children and labourers.

It is held in a small room, the rent of which is liquidated by a committee of the parishioners, who are associated with the officiating minister of the parish, in the inspection of the school.

1. Schedule (A.)

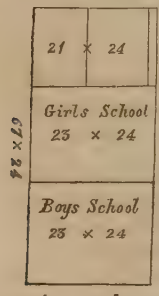
Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

THE GRENADINES.

(Jan. 1838.)—One Station, Parliamentary Grant, 1835; two Stations, Parliamentary Grant, 1837.

Carriacou, Island of. (Attached to the Government of Grenada.)

Hillsborough National School. The Bishop.



The school-house in question, though still unfinished in some of the smaller details, is in daily occupation by the girls' and boys' schools. The sum advanced by the society, in connexion with the Government aid, has been wholly expended in materials; the proprietors or their representatives in the vicinity having come generously forward to furnish the whole of the labour of erection of every description, and have pledged themselves to complete it, and to make up any deficit in the sum total of expense.

The school is in a very promising state; and it may reasonably be expected that it will be particularly valuable in forming masters and mistresses for the estate schools scattered over this small island. Two of the former pupils are already employed in this manner.

No charge is made to the children of the poor; but 10 of the children, of a better class, remunerate the master for a greater degree of instruction, by paying a charge of from 10 d. to 1 s. sterling per week.

The books used in this school are furnished by the "Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge."

Union Island, North of Carriacou. (Attached to the Government of St. Vincent.)

There is but one principal estate upon it. The house destined for the school and master's residence is well adapted to the purpose; it is new, and for the present covered with thatch, with the understanding, however, that when it should appear advisable, it should be shingled, at the cost of the party from whom it has been purchased. That gentleman, in addition to the gift of the land on which the house stands, has generously offered to give 25 l. annually towards the teacher's salary, with the understanding that the like sum will be advanced by the Bishop.

The school was to be opened without loss of time.

There are no means at hand to ascertain the exact population or extent of Union Island, but both are very limited; it contains 2,150 acres.

Beguia. (Attached to the Government of St. Vincent.)

There seems to be, for the present, some insurmountable impediment to the formation or maintenance of a school in this island, which is the largest of the Grenadines.

No land has, up to the present date, been acquired for the site of that which it is now proposed to erect with the aid of the Parliamentary Grant.

A day-school existed on this island for some years previous to 1834, but has been now abandoned entirely. The causes stated for this proceeding were the bad attendance of the children, in some measure, and the reduction of the salary of the master.

At the present day, though the population may amount to 2,000 or upwards, there is no school of any description within it; it contains 3,700 acres.

The rector occasionally visits one or other of the larger islands of the elongated cluster of islands, to the southward of which the principal are Union, Canouan and Mustique; but, with the exception of the first, there seems no immediate prospect of schools being planted among them.

ST. VINCENT.

Kingstown Infant School.

It appears that the 100 l. noticed in the Schedule, furnished by the Governor-general at Barbados, towards the erection of the school-house in question, formed part of the sum of 400 l. from the Parliamentary grant of 1836, placed at the disposal of his Excellency by Her Majesty's Government, to be applied in aid of voluntary subscriptions or grants of the local legislatures in the islands of Grenada and St. Vincent.

The school founded with its aid, was supposed to be opened to children of all classes, to whatever Christian communion they might be attached, without any distinction; in other words, on the liberal system.

At

1. Schedule (A.)

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

At the time of St. Vincent's being visited, it was under temporary suspension, after a few months' trial, but it was intended to be re-opened at the date indicated, under an understanding that it should be placed under the Bishop's direction, and that an infant school hitherto attached to the Benevolent Society's institution, should be transferred to its walls.

It must, however, be distinctly understood that it was the intention of the rector to interpose no difficulty in the way of the attendance of children of every religious denomination; and that perhaps there were still difficulties in the way of its being permanently included in the catalogue of the schools of the Bishop of the diocess. The Dublin Ladies' Negro Education Society have empowered the rector to draw for the sum of 10*l.* towards the support of this school.

Calliaqua.—St. George's.

3 miles from Kingstown.

This is an excellent building, very well situated on the confines of the little seaport-town. It has been opened with every prospect of success, a school having existed previously for some years in the place; but it is to be regretted that the inadequacy of the stipend of the master must lead to the loss of his valuable services, as he finds it utterly impossible to exist with a family upon the 25*l.* allowed, and the small additional sum which he receives as parish-clerk. His wife gives her services without any remuneration.

This is a very important school, being equally conveniently situated for the children of the town, which contains between 400 and 500 inhabitants, and of several large estates in the immediate vicinity. It was most carefully and efficiently conducted and inspected.

A chapel of ease will shortly be built on a part of the same plot of ground on which it stands. Till that is completed Divine service is performed every Sunday by the rector in the school-house.

King's Hill.—St. George's.

5 miles from Kingstown, east.

In consequence of the right of gift on the part of the Crown, not having been as yet sanctioned by the colonial legislature, some delay in commencing the work at this spot would be unavoidable, but it was fully expected that it would be put in hand in March 1838. The site is very judiciously chosen, and the school-house will be accessible to the children on a number of estates lying between Calliaqua on the one hand, and the school at Calder on the other.

Bel Air.—St. George.

4 miles from Kingstown, north-east.

The school-house on this land will be commenced as soon as the legal transfer to the bishop and rector is effected. There are no schools in this vicinity.

Layon, Barronallie.—St. Patrick's.

Cumberland or Washlibo; Chateau Bel Air or Richmond Bay.—St. David's.

With reference to these four stations, it will be perceived that the Government aid, by which the school-houses are to be erected, has just been placed at the disposal of the society by Her Majesty's Government, being drawn from the Parliamentary grant of 1837, consequently but little more information on the subject than that conveyed by the Schedule can be expected at the present date. It was the general opinion that the buildings must in each case cost considerably more than the sum set apart for the purpose, and as local aid could hardly be counted upon in any one instance, difficulties and delays will in all probability arise, even when the primary difficulty of obtaining suitable sites by gift or purchase has been overcome. At Cumberland, where land had been secured, there was, however, a proposal on the part of a builder for the erection of the chapel-school under consideration.

All these stations are to be found lying at intervals upon the leeward coast of the island; they are all situate at or near the opening of vales running upward from the shore into the high and forested ranges of mountains which form, in fact, the main mass of the island. They lie but a few miles apart, but are separated in general by such rocky and thickly wooded spurs from the mountains of the interior, as to be almost cut off from direct communication with each other by land; and the difficult and circuitous roads by which they are at all accessible, are seldom traversed but at such times when the roughness of the sea renders the ordinary mode of communication by canoe impracticable.

In running along the coast to the northward, after quitting Kingstown, and passing the mouth of York River, upon which the new school-house at

is to be erected, the first valley of any consequence that opens to the shore is that of Buccamont, or Queen's Bay River, St. Andrews.

Here there is a temporary chapel close to the beach, and two miles up the valley the small infant school on Hope Estate. The proprietor pays 2½*d.* per week for every child of the estate that attends, and upon this and any casual assistance that the rector is capable of affording her, the teacher is dependent for her support. The valley contains about six estates, and perhaps 75 free children of apprentices.

One mile further along the shore,

Schedule (A.)

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

Layon (St. Patrick's,)

Valley opens, with a small village on the edge of the bay. Here there is both a day and an infant school, both held in a house, the upper part of which is fitted up and used as a chapel. The master of the first is a catechist, and salarized by the bishop. The infant schoolmistress is altogether dependent upon the rector. The small night school at Rutland Vale is in this vicinity.

Between Layon and Barronallie, two inconsiderable depressions in the line of coast contain on both of which evening schools have been established, the teachers of which, in common with those of other evening schools in the Leeward district, are remunerated from a small fund of 20*l.*, placed by the bishop at the disposal of the rector for this purpose.

Barronallie

10 miles from Kingstown.

is a small village situated on the margin of Prince's Bay.

There is here a temporary chapel of ease, and the residence of the rector. The building appropriated to Divine service is hired for the purpose, and is at the same time occupied as a school-house during the week. A church is to be erected here, independent of the school-house named in the Schedule. The day-school in the upper story is conducted in the same manner as that at Layon, by a catechist, appointed and salarized by the bishop. He adds to his small stipend by taking a few private pupils at the rate of a doubloon per annum. The infant school at present supports itself, the payment of the trifling sum charged for instruction being sufficiently regular to furnish the stipend of the mistress, who has also a few private scholars. The night-school has its distinct teacher, who draws his remuneration from the source alluded to above. The valley behind Barronallie contains five estates, and probably 100 children of an age suited for receiving instruction.

Two miles further up the coast there is a small evening-school at conducted and supported like others of its class.

Cumberland, or Washilabo,

3 ½ miles from Barronallie.

is the next station on the line. There is here no day-school for the present; but a small night-school at one mile and a half beyond.

Troumaka,

Chateau Bel Air, St. David's, is situated eight miles from Barronallie. Here there is a small village and port placed at the edge of a fertile cultivated tract, and near the entrance of two distinct mountain vales, running up into the interior. There are in its vicinity at least 10 estates, on which there may be found upwards of 150 free children of apprentices capable of profiting by instruction. The village has about 100 inhabitants.

The day-school is conducted by a catechist, whose stipend is raised by the accumulated payments made by the children in this school, and of those in the day-schools of Barronallie and Layon, which are laid aside for this purpose, and by the addition of some local aid. The school is held in the building used as a chapel of ease, and recently enlarged.

Richmond Estate, where there is an evening-school, is situated at a short distance to the north; and some miles still further, beyond the boundary of St. David's parish, and on the limit of the Old Carib-land, the most remote school station in the colony, at

Morne Ronde,

About 26 miles from Kingstown.

is reached. This is a settlement of the Black Caribs, situated upon extremely broken ground, forming what may be called the base of the Soufrière.

The school is held in a school-house built after Indian fashion with hard wood, reeds and thatch, constructed by the Caribs themselves, and aided, as far as pecuniary expense was incurred, by subscriptions made by the rector for the purpose. The day-school is conducted in a very praiseworthy manner, by a young, steady Indian, and many of the children in attendance read with considerable ease.

On Sunday most of them go to the Sunday-school at Chateau Bel Air.

At or beyond the extreme north point of the island, there is another settlement of the Yellow Caribs, who hitherto have not been furnished with the means of instruction; their port is extremely difficult of access.

The number of Indians in both does not amount to more than a few hundred.

It will probably have been understood, that the whole of this chain of day, infant, night and Sunday-schools, on the leeward side of the island, scattered along a line of coast of between 20 and 30 miles in extent, is under the care of a single clergyman, rector of St. Patrick's, residing at Barronallie. There is throughout a great unity of system to be observed. The rule once adopted, to exact the payment of a small sum for the instruction imparted imparted, is steadily enforced in both the day and infant schools, in all cases, unless known and undoubted poverty leads to an exception being made; and it will have been gathered, that in this case the experiment has been far more successful than usual, one school meeting its own expenses; and, exclusive of the sum collected in another, being applied in part to the payment of the mistress's stipend, it may be observed, that one of the principal day-schools is mainly supported by the proceeds accruing from the payment of the children in it and two others of the same class. Wherever a day and an infant school exist in one place, it follows of course that, at a proper age, the children are removed from the lower to the upper.

1. Schedule (A.)

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

The progress of the scholars throughout may be with truth stated to be exceedingly encouraging. The three catechists at Layon, Barronallie and Chateau Bel Air, are entrusted with the more immediate superintendence of the evening-schools in their respective vicinities; but it is impossible to withstand the conviction, that the spirit infused into the whole of this chain of schools is to be ascribed almost altogether to the Christian zeal, devotedness of mind, and unwearied personal activity and courage of the clergyman at present in charge of the whole, and to those of his predecessors.

If so much is effected with such scanty means, what could not such instruments achieve if properly supported?

Orange Hill, &c. &c. &c.—Charlotte Parish.

With reference to the seven stations in which it is, or has been proposed to build school-houses with the funds of the society, in conjunction with aid from past or future Government grants, it will hardly be expected that much information can be given. No measures have been taken towards building in any instance. Land has only been promised in the case of the Adelphi; and as to the rest, there exists as yet but little idea how or where it may be procured, though the rector states that he is in negotiation on the subject with several individuals in the Carib country, who appear disposed to further his views. Five of the stations named in the Schedule are upon the list of those which participate in the Government grant of 1837. Most of them are to be found scattered over that fertile tract of sloping country on the windward side of the island known by the name of the Carib country, and lying between the Grand Sable and Waribishi rivers. The whole district is in high cultivation, and very populous compared with any other portion of the island of equal extent. In consequence of the colonial legislature having furnished a building for a school-house and chapel at Grand Sable or Georgetown (see enclosure to Schedule B.), it is proposed that the grant made for a school-house at that place should be transferred to Rabaca Estate (or Lot 14), in the higher part of the same district, if land can be procured for the purpose.

ST. LUCIA.

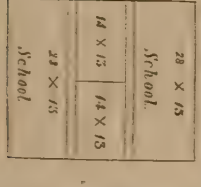
Castries.



The delay in building a school-house, which has been considerable in this instance, has been the result of the difficulty of procuring a site. This has at length been overcome, and the work was advancing at the time the colony was visited.

The national boys' school was in the meantime held in a hired building, towards the rent of which (2*l.* 8*s.* per month) a small sum raised for the purpose by voluntary subscription was applicable. It had not been found practicable to commence the female branch as yet, as, even if a female teacher could be found, there were no means of paying her a stipend.

The Sunday-school could hardly be said to exist.

Souffrière.

20 miles south of Castries.

No steps have been taken to commence the building up to this date, as the land has not yet been properly secured; but the Lieutenant-governor held out the hope that the existing difficulty might shortly be overcome.

In the mean while a school is in activity, being held in a house rented at 2*l.* 8*s.* per annum, for the payment of which the rector is considered answerable, without there being any source to which he may look for payment.

Gros Islet.

8 miles north of Castries.

No steps have been taken at this spot for the erection of the new school-house, as no land has been found suited for the site.

All these three stations are on the leeward side of the island.

Schedule (A.)

ANTIGUA.

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

(December 1837.)—Seven Stations, Parliamentary Grant, 1835; 3 Stations, Parliamentary Grant, 1836.

Rectory School.—St. Philip's.

12 miles from St. John's, 1 mile from Willoughby Bay.

This small school-house, towards the purchase of which the sum of 25*l.* was advanced in the first instance by the bishop from the Society's funds, and which, though hardly arranged interiorly, has for some time been occupied by the infant school, is now upon the point of being enlarged by the application of the balance of the grant of 125*l.*, originally made for the erection of a school-house on this spot.

The school, though not very numerously attended, was conducted with care under the eye of the resident clergyman.

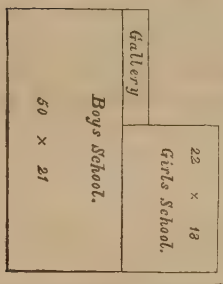
Belfast. St. Stephen's Chapel.—(St. Philip's.)

3½ miles from the parish church, 9 miles from St. John's.

In few instances has the failure of the funds, formerly placed in the bishop's hands for the establishment and maintenance of schools in these islands, been productive of more disappointment than in this instance. Previous to the erection of the substantial school-house now on the ground, there existed here a flourishing school, under a competent master with an annual salary of 50*l.* sterling, when precisely at the time that the building was completed this was withdrawn, and the consequence was that the school fell to the ground. At present the total incapacity of the rector to find the means for the engagement of a competent teacher has reduced the whole use made of an excellent and substantial building to the occupation of a single corner by a handful of children and their mistress, though the school is placed in the centre of one of the most fertile and populous districts of the island. The rector of the parish is unceasing in his endeavours to remedy this state of things, but without success up to this date.

English Harbour.—St. Paul's.

11 miles from St. John's, 2 from Falmouth.



The purchase of the building in question was directed with great judgment, as it is extremely well adapted to the purpose, both from its position and character.

In addition to the principal building, containing the two school-rooms and gallery, there are extensive outbuildings attached, and a good cistern. One portion of these was converted into a soup-house for the benefit of the poor of the vicinity; but the want of funds has caused that charity to be discontinued. It is now proposed, if assistance can be obtained from the bishop, to fit up part of these outbuildings as apartments for the female teacher.

The school is in a very flourishing state. When the children in the infant-schools at English Harbour and Falmouth are of a proper age, they are drafted into it.

Falmouth.—St. Paul's.

9 miles from St. John's.

The new school-house was to be commenced forthwith, after considerable delay, caused by the want of land. A plot has now been purchased and secured in the best situation possible, in proximity to the church. It was the intention to push the work forward to completion as rapidly as practicable, as the house in which the school is held at present is extremely small and inconvenient. The children in attendance are all very young, but their progress may be considered satisfactory.

Rectory Infant School.—St. John's.

Through some inadvertency, it must be here remarked, the aid of Government towards the erection of this school-house was solicited by two different parties at the same time, viz. the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel and the Ladies' Negro Education Society. This could only have happened from one or other of the two societies being ignorant of the rule laid down by the Secretary of State, that this should not be the case; as it is, both obtained it, and the sums thus granted have been both applied towards the erection of the present building.

It may be considered as a model for school-houses of this class; and the same may be said of the school held in it, which is in an excellent state of discipline, and is undoubtedly efficient.

It is carried on under the constant inspection of the rector, on whose premises it is erected, and is further subject to the superintendence of the trustworthy individual employed by him to watch over the general progress and welfare of all the schools connected with the established church in St. John's parish.

George Byam's.—St. John's.

5½ miles from St. John's, 2 from St.

The erection of this school-house in the southern extremity of the parish has rendered the means of instruction easily accessible to the children on several large estates, whose distance previously from any school in connexion with the established church was too great to allow of regular attendance; it is at the same time so placed as not to interfere with the attendance at the Wesleyan Missionary Society's school, situated a little higher up the country, at Sawcolts. Luke's Chapel, 1 from Sawcolts, W.M.S.

It is a plain substantial building, and will probably be licensed for the occasional celebration of Divine worship.

Since the station was visited, the school has been opened with a good prospect of success. A house has been purchased with the land, and affords a convenient dwelling for the persons in charge.

St. George's.

The want of a suitable plot of land, in the first instance, and that of a legal conveyance of that now given even at the present time, are to be mentioned as the causes of delay in this case. At the time that the colony was visited there seemed no probability of the last-mentioned difficulty being speedily removed. It was further stated, that the expense of building a suitable school-house would be far greater than could be met by any sum at the command of the rector, and that, till some local means could be found to aid in the work, it would not be advisable to begin. 3 ½ miles from St. John's.

The school held in the church is not as efficient as might be wished; the children, nevertheless, had the character of both attending and paying with tolerable regularity.

Female Central School.—St. John's.

The Schedule intimates why there exists a doubt in this instance, whether this school-house can at present be considered among those which can be aided by funds in connexion with the Government Grant. The difficulty of meeting the expense incurred in the erection will be diminished, in case the conveyance to the bishop is actually decided upon, in consequence of the "Conversion Society" having, as it is now ascertained, furnished the sum already advanced by the bishop. The school, in common with the male branch, or Mercer's (see Enclosure, Schedule B.), has been hitherto wholly dependent upon that society; though there is now a disposition to make both over to the charge of the "Society for the Propagation of the Gospel." The girls assemble for the time being in the parish church. The school is carefully conducted under the eye of the rector, and by a competent teacher. Regular examinations are held occasionally. Some of the elder scholars have attained a considerable proficiency in needlework; those who are thus instructed pay an additional ¾ d. per week. No arithmetic is taught for the present.

Osborne's Pasture.—St. Peter's.

This building will rank among chapel-schools, one portion of the area being permanently devoted to the celebration of Divine worship and the offices of the church, and separated from the school by a screen. It lies on an elevated plateau, about the centre of the island, in a district which, till lately, seemed to be more neglected than any other of similar extent in the colony. 6 miles from St. John's.

It is a very substantial building, and is to be fitted up in every respect like the same class of buildings in Barbados.

It will probably be opened about the time specified. There are several large estates in the vicinity, and no school nearer than that just opening at the Farm on the one side, and that already existing at Gracehill on the other, both in connexion with the Moravian Missionary Society. The doubts that have existed, as to the source from which the funds necessary for its completion might be drawn, have retarded its completion considerably; but the primary cause of delay was the difficulty of procuring land. Each about 2 miles from Osborne's Pasture.

St. James.—St. John's Parish.

It is very doubtful whether the arrangement specified can be made; it is, in fact, scarcely desirable that it should. The idea originated in consequence of the building having been constructed upon a much larger scale than was originally intended, in consequence of the mismanagement of the contractor; and was for a while encouraged, from a feeling of the necessity that exists to provide a more suitable locality for the infant school than that afforded by the chapel of ease. 3 ½ miles from St. John's.

There is also great difficulty in obtaining land in this vicinity.

It is probable, however, that some other arrangement will be made, and the means found to supply the neighbourhood with a regular school-house.

The infant school is in a very flourishing state, the young person in charge conducting it under the eye and general guidance of a worthy lady, resident in the neighbourhood, and herself, for a great number of years, formerly engaged in the education of the poor of this part of the parish, under the auspices of the Church Missionary Society.

Sixteen of the children in attendance are employed as a weeding-gang, during certain hours in the day, on one of the adjacent estates.

BARBUDA.

1. Schedule (A.)

(See Schedule (B.) and its Enclosure.)

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

At the time this island was visited, it could not be ascertained that there was the remotest idea of a school-house being erected with the aid of the Government funds in connexion with the society.

The school was wholly supported by the proprietor.

ANTIGUA.

Note.—It has been ascertained, with reference to the erection of 17 infant schools in the colony, the names and dimensions, &c., of all of which were entered on the Government schedule, with the sum of 100 l. attached, in each case, as the probable cost, and towards which, moreover, Government aid was voted from the Parliamentary Grant of 1836, to the amount of 1,200 l., that some misconception existed, on the part of the society, as to the real views of the clergy of the island. These were not directed to the erection of school-houses at the localities specified, but to the support of schoolmasters or mistresses on those estates having the charge of infant schools.

It is believed that this mistake has been fully explained to the Secretary of State, and that the sum thus left unappropriated from the Parliamentary Grant of 1836 has been added to the sums voted in aid of the society from that of 1837, of which 1,000 l. is to be applied to the support of teachers in the West Indies, the Bermudas, and Mauritius, under prescribed conditions.

DOMINICA.

(Dec. 1837.)—Two Stations, Parliamentary Grant, 1835.

St. Joseph's.

8 miles north of Roseau.

This school-house was unfortunately burnt by accident in the commencement of 1837, after it had been occupied for upwards of a year. It is not understood if any further aid may be expected from the society towards the restoration. However, subscriptions had been made in the colony to the amount of 80 l. towards that object.

The school, now held in the house of the person in charge, is on a small scale and has fluctuated considerably. The inhabitants of the small village are all free Roman-catholics, and seemed to be far from encouraging the children to attend regularly. Since a regulation had been introduced that the scholars as a sine quâ non must be present at the reading of portions the Church of England service on the Sunday morning, many had been withdrawn.

St. Joseph's is on the leeward coast.

GRAND BAY.

St. Patrick's.

6 miles from Roseau.

The school-house, which is nearly completed, will be licensed as an occasional place of worship. It is extremely well situated, and will afford the means of instruction to a part of the population of the island hitherto completely isolated and removed from all means of education.

Buckingham House, the new station of the Wesleyan Missionary Society, lies at no great distance, but in a position equally well chosen, and excluding all idea of useless competition.

Both schools were upon the point of being opened.

MONTSERRAT.

Plymouth Day and Infant School.—(Ladies' Negro Education Society.)

At the time the colony was inspected this school was held in a hired house, rented for the purpose, at the rate of 13 l. 10*s.* sterling per annum, for the payment of which the rector was responsible. The schools were then united. They have since been removed to the new building, which is placed about the centre of the town, and built throughout of hewn stone.

It

It was not supposed that the demur that had arisen with regard to the right of gift of the land on which it stood, whether vested in the colonial legislature or in the Crown, would at all influence its being ultimately secured, as in other cases, to the bishop of the diocese and the rector of the parish for the time being.

The building will probably come within the class described as "chapel-schools," it having been intended to separate the portion used as a regular place of worship from the school by a screen, and it will in that case be subject to the same regulations.

With reference to the school, there can be no hesitation in saying that it is conducted with great zeal and judgment, and is quite as efficient as it can be, considering the limited means possessed by the rector for providing competent teachers.

The progress of the children in attendance is very encouraging. Their numbers are indeed less than they were previous to the month of July last, when, from a conviction of the ultimate necessity that would exist for the adoption of such a measure, the rector decided that, after a certain date, the weekly payment of 1 ½ d. sterling should be insisted upon, and enforced to the letter. It is gratifying to add, that the missionary of the Wesleyan Society adopted the same rule simultaneously, in accordance with the rector's views. Previous to the regulation being enforced, there were 230 children on the books. A diminution of at least one-half the number was the immediate consequence in the school, as well as in the other school in question. Those that withdrew were chiefly such as had attended from the vicinity of the town. The plan was however steadily persevered in, and the result at this time is, that they are both gradually recruiting their numbers, and that with a far better prospect of future utility, for the attendance is far more regular than under the old system.

Many of the children come from a distance of two miles.

The timely assistance of the Ladies' Negro Education Society, given on the application of the rector for aid, in a state of difficulty into which he was reduced from the failure of the sources from which the salaries of his teachers were ordinarily drawn, has in fact been the main support of the cause of education in Montserrat.

Fry's Day School. The Bishop.

3 miles from Plymouth.

The site of this school-house is well chosen. It is much more spacious and of a far better construction than the smallness of the sum expended upon it would seem to warrant. The foxgrass used for thatching in this and every other recent erection of the kind in the country part of the island, is of a very durable character, and will last for many years.

The room is used occasionally for public worship, and is licensed for that purpose. The school was well conducted, and such of the children as attended regularly were making good progress; but it was complained that the proportion of such was but small, considering the number on the books.

St. Peter's Day School.

10 miles from Plymouth.

Till the completion of the new school-house near the church, the school is held in the small dwelling-house of the teacher. She is a faithful and clever woman, and engaged at a salary double that of any other in the island. The progress of the scholars was satisfactory, and it is hoped that more room and greater convenience would add to the efficiency of the school. The new school-house is being erected adjacent to the church, and is of the same construction as the foregoing. It is in the centre of a district possessing a considerable negro population within a few miles, though the surface of the country is extremely broken and intersected by mountain torrents, and that may, at times, influence the attendance.

St. George's Day School.

5 miles from Plymouth.

Erected near the new parish church, on the eastern edge of that elevated and cultivated plateau which occupies the centre of this portion of the island. There is a small teacher's room attached. In point of construction it resembles those erected recently at Fry's and St. Peter's. The school is in a promising state. This parish was, at the time the colony was visited, under the care of the rector of St. Peter's.

It must be remarked, with reference to the new school-houses built in this island, that besides the large and substantial chapel-school in Plymouth, towards which the bishop advanced 300*l.* from the society's funds, that three others have been erected; less solid, it is true, in their construction than those ordinarily raised with the aid of the Government grants in other islands, but well adapted in every point of view for the purposes in contemplation, at the total cost of probably not more than 180*l.* Towards this expenditure only 110*l.* has been furnished from those sources; so that in fact, of the 425*l.* to be appropriated to the erection of schools in Montserrat in conjunction with the Government grants of 1835-6, there is still the sum of 15*l.* available for the purpose of school erections. The new school-house at Gerrald's has been built without any assistance from the society, or of funds connected with it.

NEVIS.

Various circumstances appear to have delayed the application of the two grants made by the society for the erection of school-houses in St. Paul's and St. James's parishes, in this colony. In neither case has a suitable plot of ground been found as yet.

It is, however, proposed at this date (February 1838) to make use of one of the grants in question, for the purpose of adding a school-room to the parish church of St. John's Figtree, in the south-west part of the island. It is to be separated from the body of the church by a screen, and 200*l.* will be appropriated to this end.

Besides the cause of delay specified, it is but just to observe, that the peculiar position in which the island has been placed since the grants were made, and particularly during the current of 1837, must have had its influence upon every project and scheme, of whatever description.

ST. CHRISTOPHER'S.

Basseterre.

Central National School.

The choice of the building purchased for the use of both branches of the national school in Basseterre has been very judicious, as it stands in some degree apart from other buildings, and adjacent to the parish church. It is otherwise well suited to the purpose.

The state of the schools could not be said to be unsatisfactory, as far as advancement of individuals and proficiency in the common branches are concerned; but the attendance was stated to be very irregular, and the insubordination, among the boys in particular, subversive of all steady improvement.

The two infant schools in connexion with the central school are placed in quarters of the town where such institutions are very much needed. Both stand in need of more convenient school-houses. The state of that in New Town was more satisfactory than that of the other.

In schools of this class everything depends upon the liveliness and tact of the person employed as teacher, and her success in engaging the attention of the children. At a proper age the more advanced are removed to the central schools.

In regard to the application of the other grant made for the erection of a school-house in St. Ann's parish, nothing could be ascertained on the spot; but it is stated that three several school-houses or chapel-schools are to be built shortly, with the aid of Government, in Trinity parish. The proposed dimensions or the probable cost have not yet been communicated.

ANGUILLA.

It was proposed in 1835 to build a school-house in the north-east quarter, or Spring division of the island, with the funds of the society, aided by the Parliamentary grant of that year.

The building was planned as a "chapel-school" of moderate dimensions, with wattled walls and tiled roof, and a schoolmaster's or catechist's dwelling attached. The estimated cost was from 150*l.* to 200*l.* It being subsequently understood, however, that a proportion of the sum required must be raised in the colony by local means, the whole idea seems to have fallen to the ground, from the utter impossibility of complying with the stipulation.

Since that time the rapid diminution of the population throughout the island, which was not foreseen at the time the proposition was made, added to the discouraging prospects of the colony, has caused those who were at first the advocates of the measure, to express the conviction, that the outlay of this sum in the manner proposed is now uncalled for and unnecessary; and, as far as intelligence could be gained on the spot, the idea seems virtually abandoned. It is supposed that within the last three years, nearly half the labouring population has emigrated; and though it is acknowledged that in many instances the children of the emigrants may have been left behind, yet the number of those of an age suited to instruction has so diminished from this cause, and from the prevalence of small-pox in the spring of this year, and the position of the remainder is so scattered, that it would be difficult to say how and where to place a school-house, with reference to their advantage and instruction. The decline of prosperity in this colony at this day is so evident, that with the exception of the vicinity of the Salt Ponds, the whole surface bears more or less the appearance of desertion and destitution.

THE VIRGIN ISLANDS.

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

Virgin Gorda Day School.

THE school in this island is conducted by the catechist appointed by the Bishop. It is held in the dwelling-house hired for his accommodation, and which it has long been in contemplation to purchase and to convert into a chapel-school, the island being unprovided with any regular place of worship.

The delay in executing this idea, which has existed and still continues, seems to have been solely attributable to the want of funds, either to effect the purchase of the house and land, or to make the alterations in the building which would be necessary.

The attendance of the children at the school is very indifferent, and this is accounted for by the scattered nature of the settlements, and the positive want of clothing in many cases. Of the poverty of the islanders in general there can be no doubt; and it is quite useless to look for much local assistance in the arrangement or maintenance of the school or chapel The position fixed upon is not perhaps central, but it would be difficult to find a more suitable one.

The island is regularly visited by the rector of Tortola, and by the Wesleyan missionaries at Road Town.

THE WESLEYAN MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

BARBADOS.

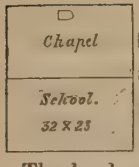
Speightstown.—St. Peter's.



THE building erected by the society in this town must be termed a "chapel-school," as the portion set apart for the purposes of education is not distinct from the rest of the building, which consists of one spacious apartment, and the only distinction is, that this portion of the area is not pewed, and is separated by a partition six feet high, capable of being lowered to three feet during service time. 10 miles from Bridgetown.

The land was purchased for the purpose of erecting both school and chapel, but was found to be so circumscribed, as to compel the parties to make choice of one of two alternatives, either to confine themselves to the erection of only one of these, or to comprise both under one roof: the more so, as no other suitable plot of ground could be found in the neighbourhood. The missionaries trust that, under these circumstances, this arrangement will be permitted, particularly as the area provided and set apart for the purposes of education is much larger than could have been furnished for the sum, if expended upon a distinct building.

The school, which had hitherto been held in the dwelling of the resident missionary, has just been removed to its proper situation. The children in attendance are all free children of apprentices. Indeed no others are admitted to the day-school.

They pay very indifferently, but the progress made is very promising, and the school is both under good inspection and conducted by a competent master.

Mount Hillaby, Scotland.—St. Andrew's.

This school-house has been constructed of lighter materials than are ordinarily employed in building in this island, partly from the insecure nature of the foundation afforded by the friable chalk rock, of which the greater part of this hilly district is composed, and partly from building stone not being found in the vicinity in sufficient quantities. The position is well chosen, as it is accessible to the children of many estates in the highest part of the island, where the means of instruction have been more circumscribed hitherto than elsewhere. The school has opened with a good promise of success, and is conducted by very respectable people. As in Speightstown, it is understood to be open to the children of apprentices only. The payment here also is very poor. The building is employed occasionally as a place of worship, and in this respect it would come under the fifth class of school-houses enumerated at the commencement of this enclosure, in connexion with the schools of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel. 3½ miles from the parish church.

Of the other stations indicated in the schedule, all that can be stated is, that the land is at the disposal of the society, and with proper authorization and assistance, the missionaries are ready to proceed to build.

It is probable that the chapel-school in Nelson-street, Bridgetown, will be the first commenced, as the inconvenience and unsuitableness of the locality occupied by the coloured school now given up altogether to the care and support of the society, becomes every day more apparent.

1. Schedule (A.)

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

GRENADA.

Constantine.—St. George.

4 miles from St. George's, north.

This school-house was nearly completed at the time of the colony being visited. It is well and substantially built on an elevated ridge on the Grand Etang-road. The site is well-chosen. It was to have been finished by contract at the same period as that at Woburn, under a penalty of 300 l. currency; and the contractor having failed, measures were taken to enforce the law, and to have the work terminated by another party. There are several estates and hamlets in the vicinity, and no school of any description nearer than the town, now that at Mount Gay is unoccupied. It was proposed to have it opened as soon as possible by the teacher then employed at St. George.

The town school would have to be suspended, it was feared, till another teacher could be provided.

Woburn.

3 miles from St. George's, south-east.

Built in all respects like the foregoing, and opened with a very good prospect of success. It is well placed in the midst of a number of estates toward the southern part of the island.

It is probable that both these schools will be used occasionally as places of worship.

ST. VINCENT.

Kingston.

This is a commodious and well-built school-room, adjacent of the chapel, and in contact with the house occupied by the teachers. After the work had been commenced unavoidable delay occurred from the great scarcity of timber in the island, which lasted for four entire months.

It was built by contract, and there can be no doubt but the contractor must have been a considerable loser by it, as no such building could be put up for the sum advanced by the society.

The school is in a flourishing state; it began with only 25 boys and 35 girls. The small sum required from the children for instruction is paid with more than ordinary regularity; but in town there are generally in attendance on the schools a greater number of children whose parents are more able to pay than in the country.

DOMINICA.

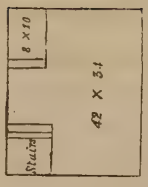
Buckingham House.—St. Patrick's.

1 mile from Grand Bay



The house under this name, with the land on which it lies, was purchased by the society for an extremely moderate sum, considering the real value. It is situated upon a shelf of land overhanging the sea, distant about 1 ½ mile in a direct line from Grand Bay, but separated from it by inaccessible hills, forming an intervening promontory. Notwithstanding the apparent proximity of the two new schools, therefore, they are not likely to interfere with each other's success, as the one in question is better situated for the convenience of the children of estates higher up the country than can be commanded by the other.

The building was undergoing the needful repairs in December last. It had been left for some years untenanted. It is surrounded with substantial offices, capable of forming apartments for the intended master, a well-educated young coloured man in connexion with the society at Roseau.

ANTIGUA.

St. John's.

Advance in the erection of this building was interrupted for several months after the work was commenced, in consequence of the severe drought with which the island was afflicted in 1836 and 1837. There is now every prospect of its being completed at the time specified.

It

It is to be understood, that it is towards furnishing the school-room, 65 × 30, for the convenience of the future day-school, that the 500*l.* advanced by the society and Government conjointly is to be appropriated. The infant-school is in no way connected with Government funds. 1. Schedule (A.)

It must be admitted, that at the same time that by the arrangements made, a spacious and commodious apartment will be furnished, fully proportioned, as far as dimensions and its permanent character are concerned, to the sum in question; that no little delay in the formation of the day-school, and the occupation of a school-house, has resulted from its having been planned, as described, as an apartment in a very large and costly building, requiring a considerable time to complete. It is stated, however, that the society had no other choice but to contrive the school-room in this manner, as no other land suited to the purpose could be obtained. Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

The infant-school conducted by the society, and held in their temporary chapel, has been mentioned in its proper place. (See Encl. to Sch. B.)

Parham.—St, Peter's.

The new school-room in this town has been constructed in much the same manner as the preceding, and under the same circumstances. In addition to the permanent character of the building, it certainly furnishes a much more spacious accommodation for the schools than could have been contrived in any other manner for the sum in question. It is now in full use, though at the time of the inspection, the school was still held in the chapel. It is, without doubt, one of the best conducted of the class in the island, and the progress made by the scholars was satisfactory. The payment of the small sum demanded of the parents was very irregularly and indifferently made. In addition to the regular scholars, five young persons were under particular training as monitors. A master was expected shortly to be sent out by the committee from home; and it was suggested that if in the sequel no normal school were set on foot in the Colony by other parties for the purpose, something of that kind might be instituted here for the training and education of young teachers, to supply the schools of the society here and elsewhere. 6 miles from St. John's.

Sion Hill.—St. Philip's.

The society have hitherto failed in the attempt to purchase a suitable plot of land in this neighbourhood. The large and promising school has been hitherto held in a temporary chapel; the children are all very young; the payment is very irregular. 1 mile from St. Stephen's Chapel and school.

It is stated, that even if land were procured, the sum allowed by the society for the purpose of the erection of a school-house, 200*l.*, would be far too small, if that of one at all proportioned to the necessities and even prospects of education in this neighbourhood, is to be undertaken.

NEVIS.

Gingerland.

The school-house in question is very well built and fitted up, on land adjacent to the chapel of the society, in which, till the new building was completed, the school was originally held. 5 miles from Charlestown.

The school is well and carefully conducted, under the eye of the resident missionary, and the general progress was considered good. A few of the children constituted a writing class, held at noon.

Gingerland is the most open and the healthiest parish in the island.

MONTSERRAT.

Cavalla Hill, s.

It was proposed to build the school-house in this quarter of the island, where land had been obtained, though not yet legally conveyed; but the missionary at whose disposal the committee in London placed the sum of 120*l.* for the purpose, in October 1836, being at that time fully occupied with the erection of the society's chapel at Bethel, and also upon the point of changing the scene of his missionary duty to another island, handed it over, in February 1837, to the present missionary, his successor. He, being single handed, has found himself quite incapacitated from commencing the work, till the arrival of his destined coadjutor, which is shortly expected. The district in which Cavalla Hill is situated will fall under the charge of the latter missionary.

ST. CHRISTOPHER'S.

Halfway Tree.—St. Thomas's, Middle Island.

9 miles from Basseterre.

THE new school-house at this Point is in full occupation; it is a plain but neat building, standing on the sea shore, in a small hamlet about a mile from the foot of Brimstone Hill. A teacher was shortly expected to arrive from England, to take charge of the school, which at this time is quite in its infancy. At one extremity of the school-room a pulpit has been erected, with rails placed round the foot, and it is intended to employ the building occasionally for the performance of Divine service.

THE MORAVIAN MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

BARBADOS.

(March 1838.)—Two Stations, from Parliamentary Grant, 1835; one Station, from Parliamentary Grant, 1836.

BRIDGETOWN.

CONSIDERABLE delay has taken place in carrying into effect the design of building a school-house in this town with the sum set apart for it. It is to be accounted for from the circumstances under which the Mission has lain since the grant was made; first, the untimely death, in November 1836, of the missionary under whose superintendence the work would properly have fallen; and, secondly, the impossibility of making any permanent arrangement for the discharge of the duties of the Mission during the summer and autumn of the following year.

The difficulty of getting a suitable piece of land during this interval added to the delay in question, and gave rise to many different projects for the application of the money in the manner proposed, none of which were carried into effect.

At the present time there is every disposition to lose no further time, but to proceed with the work. Various considerations, however, have suggested doubts as to the propriety of building on the scale originally proposed; among others, the use of the Mico Charity's school in the adjacent quarters of the town, and the necessity that has now ultimately become apparent of building the school-house within the confined enclosure of the Mission premises.

It has thus been resolved to appropriate to the purpose a building on the premises, but recently erected with another object, and by enlarging it, and adding what may be necessary to form a commodious school-room fully fitted up, for part of the sum in question; applying the balance, with proper authorization, towards the erection of a new school-house in the country, in one of the interior parishes, where land is now offered, and where the society have long had the design of establishing one.

To the same causes the delay in opening a day-school in the chapel, as a temporary arrangement, is to be ascribed; but it is promised, that as soon as circumstances permit, and a proper teacher found to take charge of it, one shall be commenced.

Sharon.—St. Thomas's.

4 miles from Bridgetown, 1 ½ from Welshes, S. P. G. 30 × 14

This school-house is completely finished and fitted up, and the school in full operation. It had been intended to occupy the sum given by the society and the Government aid in enlarging the school-house built some years ago by the society, but it was latterly decided to erect a separate building at a few paces distant. It is strongly constructed, and employed as the school-room for the elder and more advanced scholars.

Both this day-school and the infant school held in the other building are in efficient operation, and rank among the best conducted of their class in the country parts of the island, especially when the modest pretensions of the two teachers who take charge of them, under the guidance of the resident missionary, and the denomination of scholars attending, are considered.

In one respect they are remarkable. The first established was originally designed for the education of children of parents attached to the Mission solely, and, with such exceptions as the personal knowledge of the missionaries could possess among their own people, from the very outset a small sum was required to be paid by the parents towards the support of the teacher. When, in the sequel, the propriety of opening it for all who were desirous of attending became evident, the children of apprentices in the neighbouring estates were admitted on the same terms; and many residing on estates at a distance beyond the reach of instruction, were sent by their parents to board on the properties adjacent to Sharon, or with the apprentice labourers who have become settlers on the Mission land, and there occupy cottages. The sum required is higher than that ordinarily asked, and yet it is paid; the missionary always using his discretion to exempt orphans, the children of really poor people, and the second or third child of the same family, according to circumstances, from part or the whole of the charge. These schools, if they continue to prosper as they have done, will no doubt be able to furnish the two-thirds of the master and mistress's salary, which, under the new arrangement made, it will be necessary to raise, in order for the society to avail itself of the one-third offered by Government from the Parliamentary grant of 1837.

1. Schedule (A.)

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

The day-schools may in fact be said to have nearly cleared themselves hitherto, besides furnishing the sum necessary for the purchase of the unexpired term of apprenticeship of the female teacher, whose good conduct and faithful services justified that outlay. It must, however, be stated, that the stipend of both teachers was of necessity extremely small and inadequate, having commenced with merely 16*s.* per month. It has been gradually raised, and it is now proposed to give both a salary more suited to the trust imposed upon them and the character of their services.

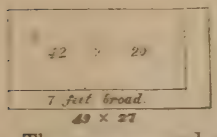
In addition to the teachers employed in the infant school, three monitors, chosen in rotation from the upper school, are in daily attendance, and are paid at the rate of about 1*l.* 10*s.* per annum each. A half-yearly draught is made of the more forward of the children in the infant school into the other. A little writing and arithmetic is taught in that school, but the principal branch of education is simply reading, and, of course, scriptural and catechetical instruction.

Many of the children are upon the Mission premises soon after dawn.

In several instances two children in a family are entered as one, and attend on alternate days.

The Saturday-school has been substituted for an evening-school, formerly established, from a conviction that the latter class of school in the country was liable to be productive of immorality. It is attended by young and adult apprentices. Each of the teachers is allowed 1*s.* per diem extra for giving the necessary instruction; this expense is also met by the proceeds of the day-schools.

Mount Tabor.—St. John's.



The new school-house here is commodiously and well built, and is fully occupied at present. The piazza is regularly roofed, like the main apartment within it, and stands upon the same raised basement of masonry. In front it is open. The windward end is closed with blinds and clapboarded, and that portion serves as a class-room.

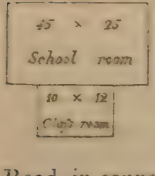
10 miles from Bridgetown, 2 miles from the parish church.

The same general observations made upon the manner of conducting the school at Sharon apply to that at this station, though the payment on the part of the scholars has not been as regular, and there has been much more difficulty in procuring proper teachers. One or two of those employed were of a class of which more might be expected than of that to which the teachers of Sharon belong; but the result has proved that this confidence has been misplaced. The school is in a promising state, and under careful and daily inspection on the part of the resident missionary. Here 2½*d.* per week is required for reading, and 3*d.* only in cases where writing is taught.

ANTIGUA.

(December 1837.)—One Station, from Parliamentary Grant, 1835; one Station, from Parliamentery Grant, 1836.

Grace Bay.—St. Mary's.



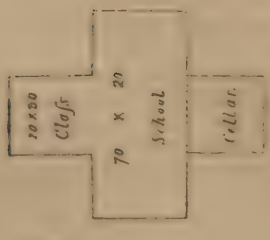
The school-house is speedily advancing toward completion, after much delay, mainly caused by the want of a title to the land. This was only obtained in the course of the past summer (1837), and then the impossibility of having timber brought round from St. John's till the hurricane season was past, retarded the work. The school has been in the meantime, and for some years past, carried on in the chapel, and is well conducted and promising; and there can be little doubt but both this and the other at Old Road, in connexion with the Established Church, may each be filled with scholars, in this populous neighbourhood, without there being a necessity of collision, as they are not only accessible to the estates along the coast of St. Mary's parish, but to those within the bounds and at the sides of Fig-tree Valley.

Close to Old Road, 14 miles to St. John's.

The small school on Russel's estate is chiefly confined to the children on the property.

1 mile from Sawcolt's, W.M.S.; 3 from Grace Bay, M.M.S.

Sea View, or Lebanon.—St. George's.



These school-rooms will be shortly opened for occupation; they are on a far larger scale than was originally intended, and it is supposed will cost nearly double the sum appropriated by the society for the erection of a school-house in this quarter of the island; till, however, the whole expense of the building is known, it is impossible to give a correct estimate. Though under the chapel, they will be spacious, and from their position on the ridge of a hill, sufficiently airy. No grant was made for this station from the Parliamentary grants of 1835 or 1836; but it is understood that

2 miles from the Central-school, S.P.G.; ½ mile from Stoney Hill; W.M.S. 5 miles from St. John's.

1. Schedule (A.)

that an application was made on the part of the society for aid from that of 1837.—(It has been accorded.)

Remarks on the Societies for Promoting Education.

Of the prospects of the future school to be commenced at this spot, no opinion can be hazarded. It is situated near the centre of the island, in the vicinity of many large estates. The Wesleyans have a small school at Stoney Hill, not far to the east, and the new chapel school, at Osborne's Pasture, lies at some distance in the plains to the south.

Five Island.—St. John's.

3 miles from St. John's.

The want of a legal title to the land given to the society has hitherto been a bar to the application of the fund furnished for the erection of a school-house in this district. The small school which has been supported here for some time back by the society, though, perhaps, neither very efficient nor well attended, is still deserving of notice, from the faithfulness with which it has been attended to by a master with very inadequate remuneration. The district of Five Island forms a hilly peninsula, separated from the rest of the island by a marshy flat; it contains several fine estates, and has at present no other provision for the instruction of the Negro population than that which is provided by the society in question.

Pope's Head.—St. John's.

1 mile from St. George's Chapel, 3½ miles from St. John's.

An application has been made for assistance from Government for the erection of a school house at this spot, the land having been already secured for the purpose. It was not known in the colony whether the request had been complied with.

TOBAGO.

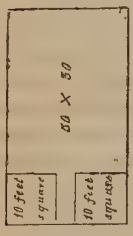
Montgomery.—St. Andrew's.

6 miles from Scarboro'.



This is an excellent school-house, extremely well situated on the heights overlooking the low south-west termination of the island, and surrounded by estates on every side. The assistance given by the gentlemen of the neighbourhood, in materials, cartage, &c., exclusive of 150 l. raised among them by voluntary subscription, could not be valued at less than 100 l. The school is in a very flourishing state, under the daily inspection of the missionaries, and the instruction of an assistant in the Mission, sent out from England for the purpose.

Previous to its commencement, in a temporary situation, in the settlement in 1834, schools had been held on Buccoo, Mount Irvine, and Riseland estates, under the care of the society.

No charge has hitherto been made. The Ladies' Negro Education Society has, for some years, given a donation towards the payment of the female teacher; but that aid is not understood to be assured, and, unless some small payment is eventually demanded from the parents of the children, difficulties may hereafter arise in supporting the school.

The desire has been long entertained by the missionaries to purchase a piece of land at or near Indian Walk, in the interior of the country, for the purpose of building a school-house; but they have not yet received the proper authorization from home.

ST. CHRISTOPHER'S.

Basseterre.—St. George's, Basseterre.

The delay which has taken place in the erection of the school-house in this settlement is to be mainly attributed to the fact, that in the course of 1836, when the work was about to be commenced, the three efficient members of the missionary family, consisting of four persons, were swept off, within the space of a few weeks' time, by the fever of that year. Since then, the difficulty of supplying their places, and the necessity that existed this year (1837) to re-shingle the chapel at Bethesda, before the hurricane season should commence, have been the causes of delay.

The work was resumed, however, before the close of the year; and there is prospect of the school being finished and occupied at the time specified in the schedule. In the meantime, the boys' and girls' schools have been regularly held in the chapel; and the progress of the scholars, the majority of whom were from the estates in the immediate vicinity of the town, was far from discouraging. Great difficulty was experienced, however, in engaging proper teachers.

Bethel.—St. John's Capisterre (substituted for Bethesda, St. Mary Cayon).

Some delay has taken place in the appropriation made from the second Parliamentary grant for the erection of a second school-house, in connexion with the society, in this island. 1 mile from Diepp Bay.

It was originally destined for Bethesda in St. Mary Cayon; but, upon a statement being sent home of the greater necessity that existed for such an erection in this parish (there being two other schools almost close to Bethesda, viz. the Parochial and the Wesleyan), it is understood that the transfer has been approved of by the Secretary of State, and it is to be acted upon forthwith.

At the time the station was visited, the answer had not been received.

The school actually in operation at Bethel is on a small scale, and is held in a temporary shed on the Mission premises. In consequence of the recent deaths and the removal of missionaries, it has evidently been thrown back considerably.

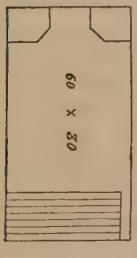
THE MICO CHARITY.

Various Sums from the Parliamentary Grants of 1835-6, to be applied at the Discretion of the Trustees, to the purpose of Negro Education in the West India Colonies, &c. and inter-alias in Antigua, St. Lucia, Dominica, and Trinidad.

BARBADOS.—(March 1828.)

Bridgetown Model Infant School.—Baxter's Road.

This school-room is in every respect well calculated for the purpose intended, and well and substantially built and fitted up. A small compartment is boarded off on either side of the principal entrance, for the use of the superintendent, till such times as a more fitting place of residence for him is provided. The system pursued in the school is a modified form of the so-called "infant system"; and as all the children in attendance are extremely young, the instruction imparted is chiefly confined to reading and moral training. The school is most efficiently conducted by the gentleman sent out by the trustees, in person; assisted by such teachers as he could engage and train for the purpose. The attendance is tolerably regular, but the payment of the small sum required for instruction is very uncertain and hardly enforced. In the evening school, where a collection ought to be made every month to the amount of 6*d.* from each pupil, the females are found to pay willingly, but the males not. The school-house has been placed in the St. Mary's quarter of the town, though at a sufficient distance from the national and infant schools. The evening schools are attended by many with great regularity, and afford instruction to a class whose age and daily occupations preclude any other mode of gaining instruction. All the children in the infant school are of the Negro and coloured classes without exception, though of course there is no impediment to the reception of those of white parents.



In addition to the assistant male and female teachers of the school, there are at this time two or three young people in training, with a view to employment hereafter in country schools.

Nelson-street Infant School.

The building occupied by this school is well suited for the purpose, and though situated at a very short distance from the large school under the care of the Wesleyan missionaries in the same quarter, cannot be said to be placed injudiciously, as there is a very dense and neglected population in this suburb of the town; and, moreover, that the school in question is full to overflowing. The Mico Charity school is for the present confined to children of very tender age, all being included between the ages of two and four.

The school is conducted on the same principles and under the same superintendence as the foregoing, by a young woman, extremely well qualified for the task. There is no idea at present of making a permanent establishment here, either by purchase or otherwise.

Payne's Bay.—St. James's.

The treaty for the use of this plot of ground has just been concluded, and a frame building, of the dimensions stated, is upon the point of being completed upon it. A school will be commenced without delay by one of the young persons, at present in training at the model-school in Bridgetown. 4½ miles from Bridgetown, 2 from Holetown.

A second school-house, of the same construction and dimensions as the foregoing, is advancing towards completion in Bridgetown, to be ready for transport to any suitable situation in the country which may present itself; and the superintendent is unceasing in his efforts to discover a proper site in those parts of the island where instruction may appear to be most needed.

P. S. It is now determined to establish this proposed school with the full concurrence of the proprietor on niles east from idgetown.

Waterford Estate, St. Michael's,

where at this date, March 29, the frame building is being erected.

It appears that at the present time the trustees of the charity are rather inclined to pursue this course of placing temporary school-houses on land rented, if necessary, for the purpose, in preference to incurring the cost and outlay of forming permanent establishments in the country parts of the island.

Bell Castle.—St. Michael's.

miles from idgetown.

A small school was commenced here, in connexion with the charity, in August 1837. It was held in a room hired for the purpose, and at one time had 60 children on the list; but it was found advisable to discontinue it in December.

The above details all that can be learned with reference to the proceedings of the Mico Charity in the Windward and Leeward Islands (Trinidad, yet unvisited, excepted).

In Antigua, Dominica, or St. Lucia it could not be ascertained that active steps had as yet been taken by the trustees, in furtherance of the object in question; though in the first-named colony the expectation had long been held out that a model-school might be set on foot by their instrumentality.

N. B.—As correct data with regard to the amount of the population and its subdivisions in the several islands, are rarely, if ever, to be obtained, no are, with very few exceptions, that an actual census would show that they are, in every instance, rather under-rated than over-rated, Anguilla

Description, existing at this Date in the Windward and Leeward Islands.

Whenever the term "children of apprentices" is employed, it is to be understood that free children of apprentices, or such as were under six years of age on the 1st of August 1834, are intended.

In case the school, though a day school, is attended only once or twice in the week, and but for a few hours at a time, the number of scholars is entered on the column of evening schools, except in cases where regular daily instruction was to be shortly substituted.

In noticing the hours of attendance, it is always to be understood that there is an inverval of an hour's relaxation at noon when the school is open from 9 A.M. to 4 P.M., and that two such hours are included when the school is opened still earlier in the morning.

Schedule (B.)

Remarks on the several Schools.

Enclosure to Schedule (B.)

THE WINDWARD AND LEEWARD ISLANDS.

BARBADOS.

St. Michael's Parish, Bridge Town.

Harrison's Free School

Stands upon a plot of ground adjoining the churchyard of the parish church. It is a substantial building, but in poor repair; and contains, besides the upper and lower school-room, on separate floors, apartments for the masters. The house and premises are conveyed to trustees, consisting of the first member of Her Majesty's Council, the Speaker of the House of Assembly, the attorney-general, the rector and principal churchwarden of the parish, &c. These gentlemen form a committee, and the right of selecting the masters and of placing children on the foundation is vested in it.

By the will of the founder, 24 children are placed on the foundation, to be instructed in the common branches of education, and in the Latin and the Greek tongues, without fee.

The school at present consists of two divisions. The upper, the head master of which is a clergyman of the Established Church, contains 10 young boys on the foundation, besides 14 private pupils, a class of scholars which, by the express permission of the trustees, both masters have the liberty to take and instruct. The under school contains 12 on the foundation; there being two vacancies at present, besides 15 boys and 6 girls, as private pupils.

The charity has no assistance from the legislature or other sources, and the income is very limited; indeed, if it were not for the advantage of taking the private pupils in the school-house, furnished free of expense to the masters, the school could never be suitably kept up.

In the upper school, where the children on the foundation are supposed, at least, to be the children of poor parents, the following are the classes, and number of pupils in each:—

1st Class	- - - - -	Herodotus, Homer, Greek Testament, Livy and Cicero (a boy from this class has just obtained an exhibition at Codrington College).
2d Class	- 1 - - -	Xenophon, Romani Scriptores, and Virgil.
3d Class	- 1 - - -	Analecta Minora, Virgil.
4th Class	- 4 - - -	Greek Grammar and C. Nepos.
5th Class	- 7 - - -	Cæsar Comm.
6th Class	- 3 - - -	Delectus.
7th Class 8th, English	7 - - -	Latin Grammar and English.

In the lower school the children are taught the common branches, &c. To all, the ordinary vacations are allowed: but it seems as if examinations were rarely instituted. The charge for private scholars in the upper school is 25 l. currency, and in the lower 10 l. currency.

The upper is, without doubt, conducted in a very efficient manner.

Central Schools.—The Society for the Education of the Poor, &c.

These excellent institutions were founded in 1819 by the Barbados Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge. They originated in the anxiety felt by Lord Combermere and the clergy of the island, for the establishment of a more efficient system of education among the poorer classes. They were then, and are still, confined to the children of white parents. The society is now known by the name of the "Society for the Education of the Poor in the Principles of the Established Church." The Governor is the patron, and the Bishop the president. It is governed by a board of directors, under trustees, and by a school committee, consisting of certain of the clergy of the island, and others associated with them. This committee meets regularly every month in Bridge Town, and directs all the details connected with the schools. A public examination of both takes place in August, and the children are allowed four vacations, of from 10 to 17 days' duration per annum. There is a Ladies' Committee appointed to superintend the girls' school.

These institutions were supported from the commencement by voluntary subscriptions, assisted by annual grants from the colonial legislature, and from the vestries of the parishes, charity sermons, &c. &c. At present, the society draw 800 l. currency, or nearly 533 l. sterling, from the public treasury. By the regulations, it is in consequence stipulated that each parish in the island shall be at liberty to send three boys and one girl as boarders on the foundation, free of all charge, and several send additional pupils, for whose education, &c. the respective vestries pay a given sum.

The children are bound apprentice to the society. The following is the state of the boys' school at present.

Of

(No. 1. Schedule (B.)

Remarks on the several Schools.

Of 105 boys, 48 are boarders, and the remainder, 57, day scholars. Of the boarders, 31 are supported by the establishment, being three from each parish; with two vacancies (one from St. Thomas, and one from St. Lucy's) to be filled up. Two boys are boarded by the English Charitable Society; eight by the parish of St. Michael; and seven by their parents or friends.

The day scholars have a meal every day with the boarders; the expense of which is met by the parish of St. Michael.

Boys that are boarded by their parents pay 10 l. per annum. No charge whatever is made for the day scholars, the expense of their education being provided for by an annual vote of 200 l. sterling from the vestry of St. Michael.

The present head master is a clergyman of the Established Church. He is at this time absent in England. The school-room forms the basement story of a substantial building of two stories, erected by the society in 1818–19. The school is in every way well and efficiently conducted and inspected, and the upper class attains sufficient proficiency, in every branch taught, to enter with credit into the commercial life. Several young pupils from this school have subsequently become teachers of other schools in the country. There is no branch of industry connected with this school, unless that of bookbinding, which is carried on in connexion with the society on the premises, and at which one or other of the pupils ordinarily assist, may be considered as such.

In the girls' school, of 91 receiving instruction, 42 are boarders; and of these, 18 are on the foundation. St. Michael's parish sends two, by right, and also pays for the education of several others.

This is also done by the vestry of St. James, and by several individuals in town and country.

At a proper age the children are placed out by the committee as domestic servants, &c.

The arrangements throughout are excellent, both in the general school-room and the dormitory; and the morals of the children are most carefully attended to.

They are allowed three suits of clothing per annum, two for week-days and one to be worn on the Sunday. These are all made in the school, and a considerable quantity of plain work is taken in. The proceeds are added to the general funds of the society.

The girls' school-house is at a short distance from the boys', and was built in 1835–6 by the society, the former having been greatly damaged by the hurricane of 1831. Like the other, it is of two stories; and, in addition to kitchens and various out-buildings, is furnished with a bath.

The annual cost of maintaining these two institutions may amount to between 1,200 l. and 1,300 l. sterling.

St. Paul's, National Schools.—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

The Sunday school held in connexion with these schools is in a very flourishing state, and greatly increasing in numbers. It is organized with care, and promises to prove very useful to the neighbourhood.

St. Mary's, Colonial Schools.

These schools originated at an earlier date than that given in the Schedule in the charitable views entertained by a number of the coloured inhabitants of Bridge Town, who, forming themselves into a "Society for the Education of the Coloured Poor," opened a school for the children of that class in the year 1818. It was shortly after taken under the wing of the Church Missionary Society, which remodelled it, and allowed 100 l. per annum to the teacher of the boys. Soon after the arrival of his Lordship, the Bishop, in the colony, it was submitted to his direction: and up to 1835, when the funds hitherto furnished to him from home for educational purposes ceased in a great measure to be placed at his disposal, the same salary was paid by him, with an additional 40 l., to the mistress of the girls' school. The stipends were then reduced to one-half, but the deficit is made up by the committee from the 125 l. currency, given annually by the vestry of the parish towards the support of each school. They are under the control of a committee, of which the Bishop is the president, and the rector of St. Michael's and the curate of St. Mary's members. All books and materials necessary for the schools are furnished, and no charge of any description is made for the instruction imparted.

None but the children of coloured parents are found in either school.

The boys' school is held in an excellent school-room, originally built in 1820—demolished by the hurricane in 1831, and rebuilt in the most substantial manner in 1833. It is situated in a street contiguous to St. Mary's chapel of ease. This school is one of the most important of the class in the colony, and is well conducted in every particular. There are ten classes, and those who compose the first are supposed to be very well grounded in the common rules of arithmetic and to write well. Instruction in English grammar has but recently been introduced. It is under a capable master, who was himself 16 years ago brought up at this school. There is an annual examination, and the children have the ordinary vacations.

The female branch of the Colonial Free School is to be found in the same neighbourhood, and is conducted upon the same general principles as the foregoing, with this distinction, however, that besides the day scholars there are eight boarders, children of indigent coloured parents, recommended by the committee. They lodge on the premises, under the care of the matron. These children are furnished with two suits of clothes per annum, made, as in the case of the Female Central School, by their own hands. All the children are making reasonable proficiency in the ordinary branches of learning and in needlework. The income derived from this source is added to the resources of the charity.

1. Schedule (B.) Remarks on the several Schools.

The premises are very clean and neat, and are also the property of the society. In the case of both schools, 30 of the most indigent receive a daily meal.

Both of these schools are blessings to the town, and have been productive of very great good.

The funds of the society are annually increased by private subscriptions, and by charity sermons at the Cathedral and at St. Mary's Chapel.

St. Mary's, Infant School.

Though at a proper age the children from this school may be drafted into the foregoing, there is no other connexion between them. It is confined to coloured children of very tender age, and is held in the upper story of the Asylum, or workhouse for the coloured poor, an institution under the superintendence of the committee of the boys' school just named, and supported by it, with the annual assistance of 200 l. currency from the vestry.

Model School, Baxter's-road, and Infant School, Nelson-street.—The Mico Charity.—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Mico Charity.

Nelson-street, Day School.—Voluntary Contribution, and Wesleyan M. Society.

There is not another school of this size and importance in the island that is carried on under circumstances of equal difficulty, from the confined and ill-adapted character of the locality in which it is held. It is situated in the vicinity of the smaller infant school of the Mico Charity. It had its origin, previous to 1833, in the charity of an individual of the coloured class in humble life, who, seeing the children of the neighbourhood passing their time in idleness, devoted a portion of his time to give gratuitous instruction to such of them as were willing to profit by it. His example instigated a number of coloured people to form themselves into a committee. A room was hired for the purpose of beginning a school: and from that time up to the close of 1827, one was maintained for the poor coloured children by voluntary contribution. It has been recently transferred to the Wesleyan Missionary and superintendent in this town, and will in all probability be ultimately adopted by the Wesleyan Missionary Society. It is intended to build a chapel school in the vicinity mainly for its accommodation. (See Schedule (A.) and its Enclosure, Wesleyan M. Society.) The school is well conducted at present, and many of the children, and particularly the boys, are making good proficiency in writing and arithmetic.

The Roebuck, Bridge Town.—The Moravian M. Society.—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Moravian M. Society.

(In the Country.)

St. Giles, the Wilberforce School (one mile and a half from the Parish Church).

Situated in the vicinity of the town, upon the St. Joseph's road.

It is built with taste, upon the plan of a chapel school, and is licensed for the performance of Divine Worship, which is held there on the Sunday afternoon, by the Curate of St. Matthew's. The funds employed in its erection were furnished in part by the late William Wilberforce, Esq., and partly by the Bishop. It is unconnected with the late Parliamentary grants. The school was placed under the direction of the Bishop in 1836, having been set on foot, in the first instance, in March 1834, by a few charitable coloured people, in a house standing on a plot of ground, which they purchased. It was supported by voluntary subscriptions.

Previous to the present chapel school being built, at a cost of 260 l. sterling, the land was regularly conveyed to the Bishop. The attendance, on the part of the children of the estates in the neighbourhood, is stated to be very poor, though no charge whatever is made.

St. Stephen's, National School (two miles and a half from Bridge Town, N.)—St. Matthew's, National School (two miles and a half from Bridge Town, N.N.E.)—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Black Rock, District School (one mile and a half from Bridge Town).—The Vestry.

A small but very well-conducted school, established by the parish, for the benefit of the children of poor white parents, on the same general principles as the central schools. The mistress is paid according to the number of children, at the rate of $12 or 2 l. 8 s. per annum for day scholars, and 10 l. per annum for boarders. Her numbers are not limited. The children enter upon a recommendation from a committee of the vestry.

It will be understood that, before the central schools in the town of Bridge Town were organized in 1819, there existed in the town and parish several schools, supported by the vestry, for the education of the poor white children. At what time they may have had their origin origin it is not easy to ascertain, but such must have existed some considerable time before the commencement of the present century.

The vestry, as has been shown, has now distinguished itself for many years by its generous support of schools in the town and country, both for the poor white and the coloured children. The annual sum voted for these purposes is very considerable.

With reference to the population of the town or parish, nothing can be stated with any assumption of accuracy. Twenty thousand inhabitants, of all classes, are supposed to reside within the limits of Bridge Town; and of 17,241 souls given in as the total of the slave population of the parish of St. Michael's in 1834, it was believed that 10,000 were in town.

On the 1st of August 1834, there were certainly at least 3,000 children of apprenticed parents, of a schoolable age, in Bridge Town, and doubtless the number has since increased; therefore, compared with the necessity, the means of instruction are as yet but limited.

Still no just estimate of the number really under instruction can be gathered from the return of those attending upon public or private schools in the Schedule, for there can be no doubt the number of private schools specified is not one-fourth of the number actually existing, but to obtain correct returns of which is almost impossible; and that besides these, there are innumerable irregular channels through which desultory instruction is received by even the children and youth of the poorer classes, such as lessons given in the dwelling-houses by itinerant teachers, &c. &c.

The schools in Bridge Town are well placed to afford instruction to a portion of the children in every quarter of the town and in the country parts of the parish, where, in addition to those existing, it will be seen that two new school-houses are upon the point of being erected; viz., St. Barnabas, in connexion with the establishment, and a second by the Mico Charity; they are also to be found tolerably widely dispersed. But there can be no doubt that the number must be increased, both in town and country, before the means of instruction are proportionate to the necessity for it.

The vestry of St. Michael's has, at this date, March 30, resolved to give 100*l.* currency towards the erection of the chapel school at Vickering's or St. Barnabas, and it is now probable that no great interval will elapse before that building is founded.

Parish of Christ Church.

Parochial School (six miles and a half from Bridge Town).

Founded July 1809, and endowed by the gift of 100 acres of land from F. Williams, esq., originally for the education of 18 white boys; and at the present day designed for that of 24 boys and 18 girls, from the ages of 6 to 14, on the foundation, and for the reception of as many day scholars as choose to profit by it, free of all charge. The children on the foundation are boarded, lodged, clothed and educated, and are, at a proper age, to be apprenticed, if the parents consent, which they rarely do. The school-houses built in 1810 having been destroyed by the hurricane of 1831, the pre-handsome and commodious house, containing all the necessary apartments, was built in 1832. It is close to the new parish church. In addition to the rent accruing from the land, 100*l.* sterling, the vestry vote 200*l.* annually for the support of the institution. The children are placed upon the foundation by the rector and vestry, any householder of the parish having the right to propose individuals as objects of charity. A Ladies' Committee is associated with the rector and vestry in the general superintendence of the girls' school. The high character of many of the gentlemen connected with the vestry of Christ Church guarantees the certainty of this school being conducted in the most efficient manner; it may therefore be considered singular that there are not only no day scholars in attendance, but that it is not even found possible to keep up the full number on the foundation, though there is no lack of poor white inhabitants in the parish.

The vestry, it is understood, is not disinclined to open it for the admittance of those of the coloured classes; but such is the peculiar state of feeling in the island, that there is reason to believe that such a measure would not be productive of the good designed, or perhaps be acceptable to the very class which it is intended to benefit, by the adoption of that liberal course.

St. Matthias, National School (two miles from Bridge Town).—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

St. Lawrence, National School (five miles from Bridge Town; three miles from Christ Church, P. C.)

Rockley Place, &c. &c. &c., Estate Schools (from two to six miles from Bridge Town).

The five estate schools here enumerated, in connexion with the Established Church, and under the inspection of the rector and assistant curate of the parish, are in every case open to the young apprentices of the estate for one or two hours in each day. That at Durants is conducted expressly for their benefit, but is open to such of the free children of the estate as may be permitted by the parents to sweep the yard, but hitherto none have availed themselves of the advantage.

everal Schools.

Oistins Town, National School (six miles and a half from Bridge Town, near the Parish Church).

For the use of this school, the vestry of the parish has just furnished a most excellent school-room, being part of the buildings of the old fort, now dismantled. The school is altogether attended by children of apprentices, or of the coloured population, and has re-opened, after temporary suspension, with very good prospects.

Below Rock (two miles from the Parish Church; eight and a half from Bridge Town).—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

In 1834 there were 12 estate schools in this parish in full operation, exclusive of those enumerated above. They were placed under the superintendence of one general white master, salarized by the Bishop. He had the charge of all the subordinate teachers upon the estates. Upon his relinquishing the situation, it appears that the difficulty of replacing him caused the whole number to be suspended, and eventually to fall to the ground.

A Sunday school exists at St. Bartholomew's chapel of ease, but has at present been relinquished, in consequence of the repairs now being made, in which it will be seen, from Schedule (A.), that two school-rooms are included, and day schools will, in the sequel, be established at this point. The same document will show, that two other school-houses are upon the point of being built within the confines of this parish, at Kirton and Yorkshire. The Wesleyan Missionary Society has a chapel and a Sunday school at Providence, about a mile from the parish church. It has no day school in contemplation at the present time.

St. Philip's Parish.

St. Philip's Parish Church (nine miles from Bridge Town).—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Trinity Chapel, Parochial School (six miles and a half from Bridge Town; three from the Parish Church).

This school is supported by the vestry of the parish, by a vote of 160*l.*, for the education of an unlimited number of poor white children of both sexes. Up to September 1837, it was maintained as a boarding school for 20 children of that class, but the expense of that institution being too great, it was re-opened in January 1838 on the present principle, after a few months' suspension. Every child in attendance has a yearly allowance of a suit of clothes, and that of a daily meal. The master is now no longer in the receipt of a fixed salary, but is allowed 2*l.* per head for each child on the books. He has rooms in the school-house. There is no idea at present of throwing the school open to the coloured classes. It is respectably conducted by the person in charge, and is under the inspection of the rector and a committee of the vestry.

Mangrove, National School (three miles from the Parish Church; three miles from Trinity Chapel).—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Besides the schools here enumerated, it is to be observed, that there have been a number of small estate schools for the free children of apprentices in existence in this parish since June 1833. They are in activity only, however, during a portion of the year, and are suspended in crop-time. These are:

Sundbury	Messrs. Daniels	under 1 female apprentice.
Golden Grove	—— Grasett, Esq.	,, 1 male (hired).
Fortescue	Lord Harewood	,, 1 female.
Thicket	Ditto	,, 1 male and 1 female apprentice.

Estate schools on Hampton, Marchfield, Halton, Gretton's, Mangrove and Brewster's, have been relinquished for various reasons unconnected with the seasons. It is calculated that from 400 to 500 children and young apprentices were gaining instruction by these means. In all these instances the instruction was confined to reading and catechization, and the schools were in connexion with the Established Church.

P.S.—The vestry of St. John's, at their annual meeting (March), for determining upon the amount of the parish expenses for this year, &c., have voted 40*l.* sterling, over and above the sum necessary for the maintenance of the parochial school; to be placed at the disposal of the rector, towards the payment of the teachers' salaries in the national schools in the parish.

Schedule (B.)

Remarks on the several Schools.

ST. JOHN'S PARISH.

Codrington College.

THIS important institution was opened as a school on the 9th September 1745, and continued to exist as such, with varying success, till 1829, when the pupils were removed to the upper estate, and placed under the tuition of the chaplain of the society, in what is now called Codrington Foundation School.

In September 1830, the college was opened under its present organization for the education of a certain number of young men, candidates for holy orders, or otherwise, and the whole establishment and course of reading ordered after the model of the collegiate establishments of the mother country.

All young men, for whatever profession intended, born or resident within any of the West Indian possessions of Her Majesty, are admissible, after examination, into the college. It is needless, perhaps, to remark, that were a young man qualified by his attainments, &c., colour would not be a disqualification.

There are twelve exhibitions founded by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, as trustees, under the will of General Codrington, dated 1702–3, by which his two estates in Barbados were left to the society, in trust, for certain purposes specified; and the exhibitioners are supported out of the funds arising from these estates. All young men, candidates for holy orders, having attained, and not having exceeded, their nineteenth year, are eligible to these exhibitions, upon passing a prescribed examination.

The course of study embraces theology, the classics, logic and certain branches of the mathematics. A professor of medicine is properly attached to the college, and delivers lectures in anatomy, chemistry and botany, but his chair is at present unoccupied.

The college expenses to each student, not an exhibitioner, is about 40 l. sterling per annum.

Applications for admission are made to the principal at the college, and every applicant must present a certificate of his baptism. The following is the state of the college at this date:

Visitor - - - - - - -	The Right Rev. the Lord Bishop.
Principal - - - - - -	The Rev. Henry Jones, M.A.
Tutor - - - - - - -	The Rev. E. P. Smith, B.A.
Medical Professor.
Reader in Mathematics - - -	The Rev. Thomas Gill, A.M.
Eight Exhibitioners.
Four Commoners.
Two Readers.

The whole college course for a student preparing for holy orders may be supposed to occupy about six years, from the age of 17 to that of 23; or, from the time when the candidate enters as exhibitioner to that of his ordination. The whole of his time need not be spent in college, however; as it is usual, after the student has undergone certain examinations, which in ordinary cases are passed in the fourth year, that he is employed in some part of the diocese as a reader, or assistant to a clergyman, for the space of a year or upwards; when he returns, and resumes his residence for six months in the college, to prepare for his final examination. Of the two readers mentioned on the books of the college at this time, one is in Carriacou and the other in Essequibo. Four of the number of students are, at present, preparing for their ordination. Since the formation of the college in 1830, no less than 31 students have been ordained.

The ordinary annual cost of the maintenance of Codrington College cannot be less than 1,500 l. sterling; the society has been necessitated to draw upon its resources to a very large amount since the date of its establishment, as the hurricane of 1831 may be said to have almost entirely destroyed the large and substantial buildings composing the college. The college, properly so called, according to the present arrangement, contains the hall, chapel and library; rooms for the students, each having a separate apartment, and also the apartments of the tutor; the house of the principal stands at a short distance. There are spacious offices attached, and an excellent bath, supplied by an abundant spring rising on the grounds.

The situation of Codrington College is about three miles west by south of St. Philip's Parish Church, on the lower trust estate, situated under the cliff, and at no great distance from the coast; it is perfectly open to the sea-breeze, and in a very salubrious part of the island.

Codrington Foundation School, Chaplain's Lodge (twelve miles from Bridge Town; one and a half from the College).

Subsidiary to the college, and carried on under the personal care of the society's chaplain, for the liberal education of an unlimited number of sons of gentlemen who enter under recommendation of the Bishop. Up to this date there have been six on the foundation educated free of all expense to the parents, the society paying 40 l. sterling to the master for each. The boarders not on the foundation pay a similar sum, and day scholars at the rate of 20 l. sterling per annum.

I.
Schedule (B.)

Remarks on the several Schools.

The system of education comprises the Greek and Latin classics, history, geography, writing and arithmetic.

It is at present under contemplation to increase the number of pupils on the foundation to 12, with the understanding that the society meets half the expense of their education, and the parents the other half.

The present cost of maintaining this institution may be estimated between 400*l.* and 500*l.* sterling. The lodge is situated on the upper estate, about a mile west of the chapel and estate school.

The Society's Estate School (twelve miles from Bridge Town; one and a half from the Parish Church; half a mile from the College).

Is supported entirely by the funds of the society. It is situated on the upper estate, close to the new chapel, and between the college and the foundation school. Though properly intended for the education of the children on the two trust estates, it is open to all in the vicinity. The children are clothed in part on the week-day and wholly on the Sunday. No charge is made. The assistant-master, who is employed to give instruction in writing and arithmetic, has only been engaged within the last year. The school-house, which contains apartments for the mistress, was built in 1832. The school is in a satisfactory state, under the careful inspection of the society's chaplain.

St. Mark's, Day School (one mile and a half from Codrington College; four miles from St. Philip's Parish Church)

Is held in a very good school-house, at a short distance from the chapel of ease, and is in the charge of a very competent master, living under the same roof; it was removed into the present school-room in 1832. The children of the upper class are further advanced in arithmetic than is ordinarily met with in schools of this class, and their attempt at psalmody is so much more pleasing than any other in the island, that it merits particular notice; the children also pay the trifling sum demanded with tolerable regularity.

St. John's, Parochial School (twelve miles from Bridge Town).

This school is entirely dependent upon the vestry, and has hitherto been supported at an annual cost of 200*l.* sterling. It is for white children, who may be received without limitation of number. The efficiency of the school is not proportionate to the outlay. The school-room is built on glebe land, adjacent to the church, and was erected by the vestry over a 'remise.' The children are clothed as in other similar institutions in the island; and are allowed a daily meal.

St. John's, National School (one quarter of a mile from Parish Church; eleven and three-quarters from Bridge Town).—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Mount Tabor, Day School (ten miles from Bridge Town).—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Moravian Missionary Society.

This parish is one of the finest in the island. With reference to the parochial school mentioned above, it has just been decided in the vestry to apply the funds which may be at its disposal in future for the purposes of education in a different manner. The gentlemen composing it have become convinced that the good effected by the school, as at present organized, does not justify the annual outlay; and also, that the change in the social position of the different classes of the population of the colony give all, indiscriminately and without exception, a claim upon such advantages of education as the parish may be able to supply. In a meeting of the vestry, on March 25th, it was accordingly proposed and passed, "that the sum of 75*l.* sterling be applied to the education of all classes generally; to be appropriated as the rector of the parish, with the advice of the Lord Bishop, may think best."

It is the proposal of the rector, in consequence, that, as the parochial school is to be henceforth abandoned, the national school should be forthwith remodelled, and opened for the admission of all classes; that the present parochial school-house should be converted into the master's dwelling, and that the apartments hitherto occupied by him in the national school-house should be formed into a school-room for the girls. He further proposes that the 75*l.* sterling should be appropriated to furnish one-third of the yearly stipends of the three masters of St. John's National School, Kennedy's (see Schedule A.), and of a third school now planned to be erected forthwith below the cliff.

ST. GEORGE'S PARISH.

St. George's, Parochial School, Boys and Girls (five miles from Bridge Town).

SUPPORTED by the proceeds of various bequests of different dates, left to the vestry for the purposes of parochial charity. The income from these may amount to 200*l.* sterling. The vestry makes up the sum necessary for the maintenance of the schools to 330*l.* sterling per annum. The boys' school is instituted for the education of 18 boys, and the girls' school for that of 14 girls, all children of poor white parents; to be boarded, clothed and educated, between the ages of six and fifteen, and then, if possible, to be apprenticed. The children are admitted on a recommendation of the rector and vestry. There is no Ladies' Committee in connexion with the girls' school. Each child is allowed three suits of clothing per annum. Both schools are in the vicinity of the parish church, that of the boys being built over a 'remise.' No idea is entertained of throwing either open to the coloured classes. Day-scholars may be admitted, but very few avail themselves of the permission. The two schools are situated at some short distance from each other, though neither are very far from the parish church.

St. George's, National School.

This flourishing school for coloured children is situated close to the rectory, and at no great distance from one of the parochial schools just named; it is built on the glebe, and, like the girls' school adjacent, was erected after the hurricane, in a great measure, by the funds placed in the hands of the Bishop of the diocese for such purposes in 1832. The school is in a very promising state, and under careful inspection.

St. Luke's (two miles and a half from the Parish Church).—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

St. Jude's, the Harding School (three miles from the Parish Church; one mile and a half from Mount Tabor.)

This is a small school set on foot by the party named, and others, for the education of the poor of the neighbouring estates, whether apprentices' children or not. It is held in a house hired for the purpose; the teacher is also furnished with a residence; a small sum is required of the parents for the instruction given, but is not paid. This school will probably be transferred to the new school-house being erected near St. Jude's.—(See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.)

With exception of the new school-house near St. Jude's, and the schools to be begun at the chapel of ease of St. Luke's, it is not known that there are any schools in contemplation in this parish. St. George's parish is the southernmost of the two inland parishes of the island.

P. S.—The vestry of St. George has in its March meeting pursued the same liberal course with that of St. Philip's, &c., and has placed 50 l. in the hands of the rector, to aid in the payment of the teachers' salaries in the national schools.

St. Thomas's Parish.

St. Thomas's, Parochial School (seven miles and a half from Bridge Town; four miles and a half from Sharon).—M. M. S.

As early as the year 1797, there existed a school of industry in this parish, established for the education of 12 poor girls, towards which the vestry contributed between 50 l. and 60 l. per annum. This was discontinued in 1803. About the year 1825, and from that time up to the year of the hurricane, the two adjacent parishes of St. Thomas and St. James maintained at their joint expense a boarding school for poor white children; each vestry voted the sum of 66 l. towards its support. The school was held near St. James's parish church at Hole Town. The destruction of the school-house in the hurricane of 1831 led to the abandonment of that school, and shortly after, the vestry of St. Thomas commenced the school in question, for the education of its own poor. At this date (Feb. 1838), it having been resolved by the vestry to open it for the education of coloured as well as of white children, the school-room, which is built over a remise contiguous to the parish church, has just been enlarged at the expense of the parish; and the school, which was in the mean-time held in the schoolmaster's dwelling, has just been removed to its proper locality, with the best prospect of success. The master is a man of superior character and attainment, and there can be no doubt of this school becoming very efficient, and doing credit to the enlightened views of the gentlemen composing the vestry. The number of coloured children in attendance is increasing rapidly.

Sharon, Day School (four miles from Bridge Town; one mile and a half from Welshes).—The Moravian M. Society.—(See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Moravian Missionary Society.

Mrs. Worms, Day School (six miles from the Parish Church).

A small school near Irish Town, in the northern extremity of the parish. The mistress is so far connected with the Bishop, as she receives occasional assistance from him to the amount specified; and it is understood that the school will eventually be removed to the Irish Town school-house, when built.

St. Thomas's is the second interior parish of the island, and holds an almost central position, occupying a portion of the highest plateaux. Besides the schools to be opened at Irish Town, Welshes and Lyon Castle (see Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel), it may be mentioned, that the idea of the formation of a school in connexion with the Established Church has long been agitated in the north-east part of the parish, where there are many large estates, and that a piece of land has recently been given to the Moravian Missionary Society for the erection of a school-house on Clifton estate, in the same quarter.

Schedule (B.)

emarks on the everal Schools.

St. James's Parish.

St. James's, National School, Hole Town (seven miles from Bridge Town).

A flourishing and well-conducted school. It is at present the only one in the parish. The school-house was rebuilt, after the hurricane of 1831, without parochial assistance, and the school is at present dependent altogether upon the Bishop for support. The master has apartments under the same roof, the principal room occupied by the children being built over a remise. It is close to the parish church. No charge has hitherto been made; but such of the children as learn to write, are expected to furnish their own books, &c. The person in charge is fully competent, and the progress of the scholars very encouraging; their number is increasing rapidly.

Hole Town is situated on the coast, and contains a number of free inhabitants.

St. James's is one of the poorest parishes in the island, and has hitherto been more neglected on the score of education than any other.

Several schools, however, are in contemplation (see Schedule (A.), where three are named), viz., at Clarendon Fort, Springfield, and at Payne's Bay; the two former in connexion with the Established Church, and the latter to be supported by the Mico Charity. The latter is upon the point of being opened.

St. Peter's Parish.

St. Peter's, Parochial School (ten miles from Bridge Town).

This is a very small school, supported by the parish, at a cost of about 100*l.* per annum, 40*l.* being allowed for the clothing of the children.

There is a Ladies' Committee connected with it. It will probably be opened shortly for the reception of coloured children. Previous to its being adopted by the parish, it existed as a private school, commenced in 1827, the master of which received a certain sum from the vestry, in payment for the education of a small number of poor white children.

Speights Town, National School.—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Speights Town, Day School.—The Wesleyan M. Society.—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Wesleyan M. Society.

Speights Town is considered the second town of note in the island; its present population is supposed to exceed 4,000 souls, and there is every prospect of increase.

In addition to the schools already existing, it will be seen that it is proposed to commence one, as soon as the school-house is built, at All Saints' Chapel.

Both the vestry and the proprietors evince great readiness to meet the views of the Bishop for the extension of the means of education; land has been recently offered at Welsh Town by —— Warren and —— Innis, esqrs.; at Farley-hill and the Castle, G. Ellis, esq., for the erection of school-houses in connexion with the Established Church.

The vestry have recently (March) come to the determination of opening the parochial school for the benefit of coloured children, in common with white, and it is consequently to be shortly remodelled.

There was a school existing in connexion with the Bishop in that remote corner of the parish called Boscabel, which lies on the windward coast, between the parishes of St. Lucy and of St. Andrew's, but it is at present abandoned.

St. Lucy's Parish.

The Parochial School (fifteen miles from Bridge Town, and three from Speights Town).

In the stipend of the master of this school, the salary of his assistant, and cost of a daily meal for the children, is included. It is held in the house which served as a temporary place of worship while the parish church adjacent was being built. Both its position and its dimensions point it out as very well adapted for a school-house, if put into repair and properly fitted up as such. The school, however, does not, under present organization, answer the end intended in every respect. It is loosely conducted by the person in charge, and is only attended by the children of white parents.

St. Lucy's, National School (fourteen miles and a half from Bridge Town), Lies about half a mile distant from the preceding, and is held in a room forming part of the dwelling-house of the master, who is the parish sexton. It is not as efficiently conducted as the generality of the schools of this class in the island. The district is so populous, that a large and commodious school-house would be a great advantage.

Trent's

Trent's Estate, Day School (adjacent to the Parish Church).

This is the only estate school in the parish, and is altogether supported by the gentleman who rents the estate.

The parish of St. Lucy is the northernmost of the island, and till lately the poor inhabitants had but few or no opportunities of gaining instruction for their children. The prospect has now brightened, and the two school-houses at St. Clement's and St. Swithin's, which are shortly to be opened, will bring education within the reach of many of the poorer class, both free and apprentice, in the upper portion.

At the same time, it is to be hoped that both of the schools in the vicinity of the parish church will be placed upon a more efficient footing.

There cannot be a doubt, from the character of many of the gentlemen connected with St. Lucy's parish, that the subject of negro education will meet with the attention it demands, and that the vestry will not remain behind in adopting such measures for the proper application of the funds which may be raised for the purposes of education within the parish as may allow the poor of every class to reap benefit from it.

ST. JOSEPH'S PARISH.

The Parochial School; Boys (twelve miles from Bridge Town; two from the Rectory School).

THE small apartment occupied by this school is in fact nothing more than the porch of the church destroyed on this spot by the hurricane of 1831. Previously to that time, there had existed in the parish two schools, one for boys and the other for girls, the latter supported by voluntary contributions. The present school scarcely deserves the name. It is supposed, however, that when the handsome building which is at present used as a place of worship, till such time as the new parish church is completed, becomes vacant, which will in all probability be the case in the course of the present year, that the vestry will turn its attention to the state of education in the parish, and perhaps appropriate a building so suitable for a school-house, both from its architectural character and position, to that purpose.

Union or Saltram (half a mile from Mount Tabor, M. M. S).

This is a very promising school, recently commenced in a school-house built by the proprietors or their representatives on Saltram, Easy-hall, Malvern Union, and Redland estates, for the education of the children of apprentices. It is placed under the inspection of the rector, and the charge of a master appointed by the Bishop.

The Rectory School.—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

St. Joseph's is one of the poorest parishes in the island, with a very scattered population, particularly in such portions as lie below the cliff, and contiguous to the coast; and the existing means of instruction are very inadequate to the call for it.

ST. ANDREW'S PARISH.

St. Andrew's, Parochial School (one mile from the Parish Church).

FOUNDED for the education of poor children, by Sir John Gay Alleyne, bart., in 1785, with six acres of land, and a yearly stipend of 40 l. currency for the master. The parish adds 20 l. annually to the stipend from "Plower's Estate Fund," St. James's, and a house is provided. Each child is allowed a daily meal, and, instead of clothing, 5 s. per quarter.

The building is good and substantial, and, besides the school-rooms, contains the master and mistress's apartments. Only white children are in attendance.

The school has fluctuated considerably of late years, but is at present in a promising state, under a competent master.

P.S.—It is now to be completely remodelled, and placed upon another footing, the vestry of the parish, in a recent sitting (March), having come to the determination to throw it open to all classes, without distinction of colour, with this proviso,—that all children in attendance shall give one or more hours daily for the cultivation of the school land, which will be laid out partly in sugar and partly in provisions. The proceeds, which may be considerable, are to be applied, in part, to the support of the institution, and in part to the advantage of the parents of the children.

Vaughans (two miles and a half from Hilloby, W.M.S.; two miles from the Parish Church).—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Mount Hilloby (three miles and a half from the Parish Church).—Wesleyan M. Society.—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Wesleyan M. Society.

1. Schedule (B.)

Remarks on the several Schools.

M. Marshall, Sedge-pond, Day School (four miles N. W. of the Parish Church).

Though this school is, properly speaking, a private school, yet it must be included among the number of those frequented by the free children of apprentices, as they are to be found there in considerable numbers, and as it is adapted for them, both from the character of the instruction given and, the small charge which the parents are required to pay for its being imparted.

It is an important school, as it brings the means of education within the reach of a large population scattered over the heights, where the school is situated, and through the deep valleys below. Many of the children attend from a distance of three miles, over very steep and difficult roads.

It is singularly well conducted.

The parish of St. Andrew's is the most rugged in the island, but contains many fine estates. The existing means of instruction are by no means proportioned to the population.

Independently of the school-houses recently erected, or being erected, at this date in the island of Barbados with funds furnished by the various societies named in Schedule (A.) in connexion with aid derived from the late Parliamentary grants for negro education, there may be noticed three several sources arising from the mother country from which assistance has been derived in the re-establishment of school-houses, in connexion with the Established Church, injured or destroyed by the hurricane of 1831 :—First. The Hurricane Subscription Fund, raised in England, and placed by the legislature of the colony at the disposal of a joint committee of the two houses (1 Sept. 1835). From this source, if the information received is correct, the sum of 3,464 l. 8 s. 4 d. currency was placed to the credit of the island. It is not easy to state exactly which school-houses, parochial or otherwise, were assisted by the part of this sum first dispensed; but at this date there remains a balance in the treasurer's hands of 1,139 l. 8 s. 4 d. currency, and for its appropriation the following proposals have been recently submitted by the Bishop of the diocese to the committee, and been approved of:

Secondly. The sum of 4,100 l. sterling, or thereabouts, from a Parliamentary grant towards the erection of chapels and schools, of the application of which no return has been furnished.

Thirdly. About 10,000 l., raised by subscription in England for the erection of chapels and schools, which was applied to the rebuilding of churches, chapels and school-houses, whether endowed, parochial or national, indiscriminately.

The style of building adopted in the erection of school-houses throughout the island, whether by the funds at the disposal of the Bishop, or by the missionary bodies, is, with but few exceptions, far more substantial, generally speaking, than is the case in the other West India islands; and, fortunately, the sense of recensity which dictated such a mode of proceeding has been met by the extraordinary facility afforded by the peculiar geological structure of the island, which allows of abundance of building stone being quarried near the spot in almost every district, of a character easily worked, and yet sufficiently durable.

Under any other circumstances, the cost of buildings, such as have been erected, would have far surpassed the sums actually expended, particularly as the country is almost completely denuded of wood.

It will be seen that no parish in the island of Barbados is altogether without the means of instruction for a portion of the children of the poorer classes, whether white or coloured, and that, compared with all other islands of the West Indies, except Antigua, the number of schools, in proportion to the extent of surface, is very great; when, however, the dense population, comparatively considered, is taken into account, that number will be found to be far from adequate to the existing call for education.

The proportion of the entire surface of the island which is uncultivated is but small. The estates are not confined to the waste nor to the low grounds, but are to be found occupying every level, from the sea-beach to the flank of the highest hill in the country; equally in the northern or southern, the leeward or the windward parishes; and in the intervals, where intervals occur, innumerable small settlements of free white or coloured people are to be be found. In no district of the island can it be said that natural impediments to formation of schools in central positions are to be met with. Throughout the greater part of the island they may be planted where they may, even within one or two miles of each other, and still be adapted, each and all, to command a sufficient attendance, without useless competition, if only the parents, within a moderate circuit, will avail themselves of the advantage, and send their children. If Barbados is favoured in this respect, it may confidently be expected that it will not be the less so, in the liberal view which many of its vestries, and certain individuals among the upper classes of its inhabitants, appear disposed to adopt, with reference to the spread of education, judging from such indications of change of opinion as have recently been expressed. If the growth of interest, nevertheless, upon this subject has not been altogether as rapid as the clergy of the island, the missionaries resident there, and friends of negro education at home, might have wished and expected of the colony, it should never be lost sight of, that the old-rooted prejudices of centuries have to be eradicated—prejudices, of the strength of which none can judge, but such as have felt or studied them closely; and that so much has been done, and so much is doing at this hour, that there can be no reasonable doubt entertained of a very brief period of time and of patience bringing about a complete change in public feeling, and, perhaps, a co-operation on the part of both the legislature, the parochial authorities and the proprietors, which will achieve all that can be desired.

1. Schedule (B.) — Remarks on the several Schools.

A Committee of the Council and House of Assembly have been engaged for some months in the preparation of a Report connected with the subject of the education of the free children of apprentices, but has not yet brought its labours to a close.

The attendance of the children at the various schools cannot, upon the whole, be stated to be much better than in other colonies. The parents of both the white and the coloured classes are equally remiss in inducing their offspring to conform to this duty; and if there is any distinction to be drawn between the two classes, it is certainly that the coloured schools are better attended than the white.

It will have been remarked, that in no island has the distinction of colour been kept up, with regard to education, to the degree observable in Barbados. There are but two or three of the public schools in the whole island in which any admixture of the two classes may be found; to the private schools this observation is not applicable. The exclusive system hitherto followed in most of the parochial schools may be supposed to account for this in some measure; for it followed, as a matter of course, that, they being set apart expressly for the advantage of one class, other schools, set on foot under more liberal patronage, should be supposed to be properly intended for the express benefit of the other, even though no obstacle should be interposed to the reception of the child of poor white parents. True it is that the children of poor white parents have in very few cases been seen to take advantage of a school accessible to the coloured classes. It has been suspected by some, that the feeling of repugnance was not altogether on one side, but that there were those among the coloured classes who would rather not see their children attending school in contact with the poor white child: that question will shortly be set at rest, as at least two schools in the island, which, up to a recent date, were exclusively opened to the whites, are now to be thrown open to all classes, and doubtless others will follow their example.

It must never be lost sight of, that in Barbados the proportion of poor white inhabitants is far larger, compared even with the great population of the island, than in any other British colony; and also, that it is to be feared that they rank among the poorest and very lowest classes of the island. The only schools in the colony which are conducted exclusively for the benefit of the children of apprentices are those of the Wesleyan Missionary Society, at Speights Town, and Mount Killoby.

The sources from which the stipends of teachers have been hitherto drawn are, in general, intimated in the Schedule. Hitherto the prospect of the future maintenance of the schools already set on foot, both by the Bishop of the diocese and the agents of the Missionary Society, has been clouded.

The schools in Barbados, in connexion with his Lordship, have certainly had to experience some degree of that fluctuation in their prospects and efficiency, resulting from the sudden failure of a serious proportion of those resources placed formerly in his Lordship's hands in aid of the cause, which, in other parts of the diocese, has almost threatened to cause the abandonment of many of the schools in connexion with the Established Church. In no instance among these schools in Barbados has the attempt to bring the parents to bear a small proportion of the expense connected with the education of their children succeeded as could be wished. This effort has seemed so hopeless to some of the clergy, that the experiment has not been even tried. In other cases, where it was insisted upon for a while, the rapid decrease of numbers was conducive of the rule being either completely laid aside, or only nominally laid down; and in no instance has it been hitherto steadily insisted upon, and acted up to.

The necessity for this measure is, however, becoming more evident daily.

In connexion with the Parliamentary grant for negro education of 1837, it is, however, understood, that Her Majesty's Government have taken into consideration the difficulty that presses on the Missionary Societies in respect to the salarising of teachers, and consequent support of the schools set on foot with Government aid; and that it has placed the sum of 1,000 l. sterling at the disposal of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, to be applied to this purpose in the proportion of one-third in each case. The society propose to apply this sum in the following proportions:

1. Schedule (B.) Remarks on the several Schools.

400	to the Diocese of Barbados.
400	ditto - - Jamaica.
100	ditto - - Bermudas.
100	ditto - - Mauritius.

The Bishop of this diocese has expressed the intention forthwith to adopt a general rule for the future payment of the stipend of teachers having charge of schools in connexion with the society through him; viz. that one-third must be raised by local means, whether from the payment of the scholars or otherwise; one-third furnished from the funds of the society, and the remaining third supplied by the above grant. The salaries must, of necessity, be small, probably in few cases exceeding 50*l.* sterling for a married couple, furnished with dwelling apartments; and for others in proportion.

With reference to the two schools of the Moravian Missionary Society in the island, it will be seen that the experiment of inducing the parents of the children to pay a small sum regularly for the education of their children succeeded to a certain degree, and the missionaries express a hope, that, with a similar assistance from Her Majesty's Government, which has been furnished to the society to the amount of 250*l.* sterling from the Parliamentary grant of 1837, they may be able to support their schools on their present footing.

The payments of the children at the two Wesleyan schools have been but irregular hitherto. The resident missionaries are not aware whether their society has applied for similar assistance in the support of their teachers, the whole burden of which falls for the present on the society.

On the subject of masters and mistresses, it must be remarked, that there exists, up to the present date, no sure source from which such as are properly educated for the purpose can be drawn, there being no institution expressly organised for this important purpose. Nevertheless, it is undeniable, that the generality of those at present engaged in the service of the various schools are competent to perform what they have undertaken, and that without making any distinction of colour. The white classes of the island or the mother country have supplied teachers for most of the more important schools. Of those who are natives of the colony, some have been educated at the central schools in Bridge Town, and it is probably to these institutions that the clergy must look in future for assistance in carrying on the work. The colonial coloured schools in town are also of a class fully capable of furnishing good teachers, and some might be named in the country equally so; yet, as uniformity of system and manner may be advisable in all the schools connected with the Established Church, it might be perhaps found advisable to contrive some system for the preparation and examination of all employed in future. The care with which, in many of the parishes, the catechization and instruction of the young and more seriously disposed adults has been conducted at stated weekly periods has led to the choice of many of the masters, &c., now employed with the happiest results.

The model school of the Mico Charity, under present direction, is extremely well adapted for the initiation of such as require it into the infant system; and there are at present several teachers in training.

It is impossible, without great time and labour, to give a correct statement of the number of children receiving desultory education in small private schools, both in town and country; or to trace all the various channels through which instruction finds its way in this island; but as every fresh inquiry elicits some further information upon this subject, and proves how very far from complete the information received from the ordinary sources must still be, it will be found that the number 1,800 has been added to the number of scholars in attendance upon private schools in the island, as there can be no suspicion that that number is an exaggeration, and it is wished, in forming an idea of the total number of children under instruction, to approximate as closely as possible to the real fact.

No census of the population has been constructed as yet; neither are there means at hand to ascertain with any degree of correctness the number of children of an age suited to daily attendance at school to be met with in the island. By a loose estimate, there are supposed to be 120,000 souls in Barbados, and of 20,000 whites, probably three-fourths belong to the poor and almost indigent class. It is almost universally allowed that there has been a very great increase of free children of apprentices since 1834.

TOBAGO.

Scarborough, Free School, Boys and Girls.

This school originated with the free coloured population of this island, and was primarily intended to afford a proper education, on the principles of the Established Church, to the children of that class. It is, however, open to all without distinction. It is supported by voluntary donations, legislative grants, &c. &c. The Lieutenant-governor of the colony is the patron, and the Bishop of the diocese the president of the society. A committee is appointed from among the subscribers, under the direction of which, in conjunction with the rector, the schools are more particularly placed.

The stipend allowed to the master by the Bishop in 1835 was 100 l. sterling; but subsequently it has been reduced one-half. However, the whole stipend of 200 l. for the master and mistress is understood to be made good by the Legislature.

The following are the legislative grants made towards the maintenance of the free school up to 1837 inclusive:—

1829 - - -	100	towards purchase of girls' school, now being rebuilt.
1832 - - -	50	for clothes and stationery.
1833 - - -	70	ditto - ditto.
1834 - - -	150	towards master's salary.
1835 - - -	180	150 l. ditto, and 30 l. clothing and stationery.
1836 - - -	150	towards master's salary.
1837 - - -	180	150 l. ditto, and 30 l. additional for teaching singing.
	£. 880

The building occupied by the boys' school was formerly a chapel belonging to the London Missionary Society, and is in fact still the property of that body. No rent is charged for the use of it, and it is kept in repair by the committee. That originally purchased for the use of the girls has just been demolished, and a new one is being erected with the proceeds of a charitable bequest for the purpose, and with further funds from voluntary subscriptions. It will cost probably 300 l. sterling.

Both schools, and particularly the girls', are in a very promising state, under a very competent and respectable pair; and the progress of many of the elder children in arithmetic and grammar is such as to warrant the conclusion that it is one of the most effective schools of the class in these islands.

The children of really poor parents, and all orphans, have assistance given them by the committee. Forty or upwards of the number of children of both sexes at present on the lists are clothed in this manner. It is stated, that of 201 boys who have left the school after receiving instruction, since the date of its commencement in 1828, 32 having advanced as far as simple interest, were apprenticed as accountants, printers, carpenters and bakers; that 85 having attained a knowledge of the four first rules, simple and compound, had become carpenters, shoemakers, &c. &c. &c.; that 79 had left the island, been removed to other schools, or expelled after having learned to read and attained the rudiments of arithmetic.

The whole cost of the maintenance of these schools may be calculated at from 250 l. to 300 l.

Scarborough, Sunday School (five miles from Scarborough; five miles from Mount St. George).—Wesleyan Missionary Society.

The Wesleyans have no day school in the island, but entertain the wish to build a schoolhouse in the interior of the country, in the neighbourhood of Mason-hall. As the Moravian Missionary Society have, however, long had the intention of forming a school at Indian Walk or its vicinity, within the same district, and have applied for the necessary authorization from England, the precise position of the intended school is not yet determined upon.

The

The Hope, St. George's, Day School (four miles and a half from Scarborough).—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Montpellier Estate, Day School, St. George (one mile and a half from Scarborough).

This school is held in a house near the works. It will be seen that, though open to all, scarcely any children attend from other estates.

Bacolet, Evening School, St. George (two miles from Scarborough).

The individual who has opened his dwelling-house twice a week for the instruction of such of his neighbours as are willing to profit by the little instruction he can give, is the head driver of the estate.

Montgomery, Day School, St. Andrew's (seven miles from Scarborough).—The Moravian Missionary Society.—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Moravian Missionary Society.

The Whim, Day and Sunday School, St. Andrew's (three miles from Scarborough).

The proprietor of this estate has the credit of being the first in the island to set an example of providing the means of education for his negroes. In the first instance, a teacher was sent from England for that express purpose. The apprentice at present in charge of the schools acts also as under-overseer on the estate.

Golden Grove, Day School, &c., St. Patrick's (nine miles from Scarborough).

The day school is held in a substantial, but temporary school-house, till such times as the new chapel school, which is shortly to be erected at Mount Pleasant, is completed, when it is understood that it will be removed thither. A school existed on this estate previously to the date given, but had, at the time of the recommencement in 1836, been discontinued for two years. Golden Grove lies in the centre of the fine cultivated tract of country, forming the south-west point of the island.

The school was not altogether in as flourishing a state as might have been expected, but the prevalence of sickness among the children at this season of the year was urged in apology. None of the number in attendance could read.

Plymouth, Day School, St. David's (ten miles from Scarborough).—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Les Coteaux, Day School, St. David's (eight miles from Scarborough; three from Plymouth).—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Goldsborough, St. Mary's (ten miles from Scarborough).

This estate is situated about half-way between "The Hope" and the new school-house upon the point of being opened at Roxborough, in St. Paul's; it is held in an excellent building, serving as a temporary chapel of ease, in which the rector officiates occasionally; it is furnished by the proprietors.

There is an idea of removing it shortly to a school-house now being built by the same gentlemen upon Glamorgan estate, further up the country to the north-east; there will be there a master's house attached, and the cost is estimated at 80*l.* sterling.

The school at Goldsborough was found to be in a promising state, and well conducted; the children in attendance are of very tender age, and the instruction is confined to reading and catechization.

Merchiston Estate, Day School (twenty-two miles from Scarborough).

This small school is altogether conducted by the family residing on their property, and attended solely by their own people on this estate; none of the children from King's Bay, adjacent to it and belonging to same parties, take advantage of it. A bell is rung at Merchiston at 11 in the morning, to give notice that any of the apprentices at labour who are desirous of profiting by the instruction given, are at liberty to leave off work for that purpose.

A glance at the map of Tobago will show, that if a line were drawn from Cotton Bay in St. David's, to King's Bay in St. Paul's, dividing the island into nearly two equal parts, that there is not a single school of any description in the northerly division, unless the small estate school just named might fall within it; it is true that the greater part of the population is to be found in the lower division, inclined to the south; and which, though very hilly, with exception of the Sandy Point division, or the parishes of St. Andrew and St. Patrick, comprises fertile hollows and upland ridges, covered with well-cultivated estates.

The back of the island, or leeward division, is very mountainous, and contains but few estates, and there is one part of probably twelve miles or upwards in extent, extending from Man of War Bay to Great Englishman's Bay, where none are to be found. In the vicinity of Man of War Bay, there are several on which the apprentice population are completely cut off from all means of instruction; and the same remark applies to those in the neighbourhood of Tyrrel's Bay, in the north-east quarter, and in the adjacent portions of St. David's and St. John's parishes, not to mention many small settlements in every part of the island, on the lower stones of the main chain, and at some distance from the coasts.

1. Schedule (B.) Remarks on the several Schools.

The first step towards supplying this deficiency of the means of instruction would doubtless be an increased number of resident clergy or missionaries. There is but one rector and one curate in the island, who between them, in addition to their proper duties at Scarborough and Plymouth, perform service regularly at Goldsborough. The principal scene of exertion of the Moravian missionaries in the island is confined to the lower extremity, where their settlement and large school is situated, and the Wesleyans are confined to a moderate circuit round the principal town.

There is a minister of the Kirk of Scotland resident in Scarborough or its vicinity, and a chapel has been built in the neighbourhood of King's Bay, but funds are wanting for its entire completion; besides that, its distance from Scarborough (near twenty miles) is so considerable, that, as long as the minister is without assistance, it could not be but rarely opened for public worship.

This want of Christian ministers, who might direct the efforts making for the education of the negro population in this colony, is the more to be regretted, as there is hardly another British West India colony, comparatively speaking, in which both the legislature and the proprietors or their representatives have concurred in coming forward to express their approval of the end proposed, and to aid it by both pecuniary and other assistance, in an equal degree; this will be gathered from the details conveyed by the Schedules and this Enclosure; and there can be no doubt but the same feeling will continue, and that if the manner of rendering this assistance available is indicated, it will not be withheld.

In addition to what the legislature has voted recently in aid of the proposed erection at Mount Pleasant, a vote of 200*l.* has passed the House of Assembly towards the payment of the stipends of the masters of six day schools connected with the Established Church, exclusive of the free school in town.

From this source it is proposed by the rector to add to such proportion of these salaries as the Bishop may furnish, sufficient to make them in common cases amount to the sum of 80*l.* sterling for a master and mistress.

No charge is made for instruction in any school in Tobago; it was at one time attempted at the free school, but did not succeed.

The teachers throughout, with but one or two exceptions, may be said to be of a superior class to those ordinarily met with in these islands.

It is stated that there exists a singular feeling of repugnance in the minds of the apprentices living on one estate where there is no school, to allowing their children to attend upon one established upon another in their neighbourhood.

Schedule (B.)

Remarks on the several Schools.

GRENADA.

St. George's, Central School, Boys and Girls.

The Society for the Education of the Poor, with which this institution originated, was formed in 1824 by a number of respectable coloured inhabitants of the town, specially for the benefit of the poor and indigent of their own class.

It is in connexion with the Established Church, and is governed by a regularly-formed committee meeting occasionally for the despatch of business, and publishing an annual report.

The rector and the chief justice are members of the committee ex officio; the Lieutenant-governor is considered the patron, and the Bishop the president.

The total expenditure incurred by the society in maintaining the two schools may be estimated at the present time at 200*l.* sterling per annum. This is met by voluntary subscriptions in the colony; 40*l.* received as rent for the lower apartments of the society's house, which are let, and an annual donation of about 80*l.* from the colonial legislature's charity sermons, &c. &c.

The books are furnished by the Grenada Branch Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge.

Regular examinations of the schools are held at intervals.

It is to be regretted that the schools are in an indifferent state, from one reason or another. Doubtless the sickness recently prevalent in the colony may be alleged as one reason. Not only is the attendance very poor, but the numbers on the books have decreased from 160 boys to 80, and 60 girls to but 36. The female school seems to be particularly inefficient, and evidently so from the want of a proper person to undertake the superintendence.

The Parish Church, Sunday School.

This school had been completely suspended for some months, but was to be recommenced shortly after the beginning of the year.

The Parish Church, Infant School.—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

St. George's, Day School.—Wesleyan Missionary Society.

The progress of the children at this school is, upon the whole, satisfactory, though it had been suspended in common with others for a time; it is, however, feared, that when the new school at Constantine is fit for the reception of the scholars, that this must be abandoned till such times as the place of the master, who only takes charge of it in the interval, shall be filled. There is the greatest difficulty experienced in procuring teachers of any description in this colony.

St. George's, Roman Catholic School.

This is the only school under the Roman Catholic clergy in the colony; and as there is neither a school-house adapted for its use, or a salary for the teacher, and moreover as the gentleman under whose charge it existed has quitted the colony, it can scarcely be called efficient. The sum of 200*l.* sterling was voted by the legislature to the religious teachers of the Roman Catholic church in 1835; and among more recent grants made to the ministers of religion, without distinction, for the establishment of schools, 120*l.* sterling has been placed at the disposal of the Roman Catholic clergy of the island; but as yet no measures for its application have been taken, as far as can be ascertained.

Woburn, St. George's Parish, Day School (three miles from St. George's).—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Wesleyan Missionary Society.

Parnassus (Perd mon Tems Road), St. George's, Sunday School (one mile and a half from St. George's).

This Sunday school has been begun recently with the view of its leading to the opening of a day school in the vicinity, for which land has been given to the rector of the parish.

In this parish there is still another school-house, built at the expense of the proprietors of Beaulieu, Parnassus, Tempe, St. George and Mount Gay estates (Messrs. Kirk & Todd, Hankey & Co., &c., and the managing attorney, L. Hoyes, esq.) It is situated on the last-named estate, at about the distance of a mile and a half from the town. It was completed at Christmas 1836, and placed under the rector of the parish. But the apprentices of the neighbourhood, being nominally Roman Catholic, refused to let their children attend, and it now stands unoccupied.

This is the only estate school property, so speaking, in the island of Grenada.

Grenville, or La Baye, St. Andrew's (twelve miles from St. George's).—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

It will be remarked from Schedule (A.) that there is an intention of commencing the erection of a school-house in connexion with the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, at Carrière, in this parish, where a Sunday school was recently held.

At Bacolet also (seven miles from La Baye), a large estate in the southern part of St. Andrew's, there was, in 1834, both a day, night and Sunday school held in a chapel built by the late proprietor, G. Monroe, esq., who, in conjunction with the owners of Trecothick's and another estate, allowed 30 l. sterling to the master. Divine service was performed on alternate Sundays. The salary was, however, withdrawn in 1835, from some misunderstanding; and at present there is no school in this part of the country.

It is to this estate that the apprentices have been removed from Isle Ronde.

St. David's, Parochial School.

Occupies a school-house, built by the parish in 1831, without assistance from any quarter, on the hill above the parish church. It is open to all without distinction. The master received his stipend, in the first instance, from the vestry; but after a short interval it was arranged that the Bishop should allow him 40 l., and the vestry 12 l. per annum. At present the school-house is in bad repair, and the master's dwelling has been burnt down. The school is placed under the inspection of a committee and the rector. Above three-fourths of the children in attendance are of Roman Catholic parents. Though it is observed among the population of the neighbourhood, included in which there are to be found many poor free settlers, that there is an aversion to education, the school may be considered to be in an encouraging and tolerably efficient state, under competent teachers.

It is proposed by the rector of this parish, as well as by the clergyman in charge of St. George's, to form schools in the Perd mon Tems district to the south.

The feeling of the vestry of St. David's is in favour of negro education.

The physical character of the island of Grenada, in common with most of the mountainous volcanic islands of the West Indies, brings the mass of the population into proximity or into the neighbourhood of the sea coasts; yet, unlike St. Kitts, Dominica, St. Vincent's and others, there is not only a broader strip of country suited to the formation of estates on one side than these can lay claim to, but many of the vales approaching the interior are of a character to admit of a considerable extent of inland cultivation. If other obstacles were removed, there would be few found to stand in the way of placing schools in situations accessible to the greater part of the population. In the interior of the country even, where many scattered plantations of coffee and cacao are to be met with, the mountains are neither of as elevated nor of as inaccessible a character, generally speaking, as in some other islands.

All the schools actually in existence, with the exception of Constantine, which is a few miles up the Grand Etang, or principal road traversing the island, may be considered as comparatively near to the coast, if not directly upon it, and their number is indeed few compared to the call for them.

There is another point in which Grenada may be considered to be favoured in reference to the subject of education, and that is, by the possession of a legislature, every branch of which appears willing to give the subject its weight, and perfectly ready to assist in its promotion by drawing from island treasury.

In September 1836, it was resolved in the House of Assembly, "that a sum not exceeding 1,000 l. currency, or 400 l. sterling, be granted in aid of building schools in the different parishes of the island, to be expended under the direction of a joint committee of the Council and Assembly."

In March 1837, the sum of 1,400 l. currency, or 530 l. sterling, were again voted "towards the establishment of schools for all denominations of Christians, exclusive of 200 l. currency, or 80 l. sterling, the annual vote to the central school."

The

The following is a list of the several purposes to which these or other sums previously voted were proposed to be applied, and the date of the vote in each case.

„ Mar. 10	paid -	300	120	- - to the Wesleyan missionaries in the colony, in aid of their funds in building two school-houses.

From this statement it appears that, according to the view which the legislature of the colony have taken of the case, it has been their object to give assistance to every religious body which was inclined to promote the interests of education, without distinction.

In the cases of the clergy of the Established Church in Grenada and Carriacou, and of the Wesleyans, the sums thus offered have been accepted and already applied. In those of the Roman Catholics and of the Presbyterians, the grants lie unappropriated: 400*l.* sterling still remains to be apportioned out, and it is to be hoped that aid will be afforded from that source to remove the difficulties under which the clergy of the Church of England in the northern district of the island are at this time labouring, for want of funds to proceed with the schools at La Baye, St. Patrick's and Chantimel.

It is computed that there are 20,000 Roman Catholics, so called, in the island.

It will be gathered, that, though the legislature has thus openly given its sanction and testified its approval of the spread of instruction among the labouring classes, up to the present date the subject has hardly met with the attention it demands from the proprietary of the island, or even from the vestries, in every case. The almost entire absence of estate schools, and the manner in which even two school-houses, erected for the express purpose on two estates, are suffered to remain unoccupied, would seem to infer this.

Out of 1,100 Africans landed on the island of Grenada from slave-vessels captured in these seas, it is computed that there were 509 under 14 years of age.

Free Schools.—The Society for the Education of the Poor on the principles of the Established Church. Boys and Girls.

THE society by which this institution is maintained was formed in January 1821, under the designation of "The Benevolent Society of St. Vincent." It originated with, and is still mainly supported by, respectable individuals of the coloured class; and though it is in fact open to all without distinction, there are no children of white parents at present on the list.

The Lieutenant-governor is considered as the patron, and his lady as the patroness of the institution, of which the Bishop is the president. The rector of the parish acts as vice-president and examiner.

It is governed by a committee, regularly constituted, and meeting at stated times for the despatch of business. An annual report is published. In 1834 a ladies' committee was formed, for the purpose of superintending the girls' school. Previous to 1835, the assistance received from the Bishop towards its support was considerable; but on the failure of the means till then at his Lordship's disposal for such purposes, successful applications were made to the vestries of this and other parishes in the first instance, and subsequently to the colonial legislature also. In aid of the voluntary subscriptions made in town and country for the pur pose, and donations from vestries, the Bishop, Lieutenant-governor and other friends of the institution, and occasional charity sermons on the part of the clergy, the legislature comes forward at this time with an annual grant of 100 l. sterling. The whole cost of the support of the schools may be about 200 l. sterling per annum. Forty-two pounds sterling was paid to the teacher of the infant school attached; but, at the present date, as there are only 25 scholars in attendance, and the means of the society are very restricted, it has been resolved to relinquish that branch of the institution; the more so, as the re-opening of the infant school in connexion with the Established Church (see Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel) renders its continuance altogether unnecessary. It is arranged that all the children in attendance should be drafted from the one to the other.

other. Both the boys' and the girls' schools are very well conducted, and in a very promising state, under competent teachers. Many of the children in attendance are of a better class, as is not unusual in towns in these islands; and their proficiency in grammar and arithmetic is far greater than ordinary.

It is known that many parents, who are probably too wealthy to send their children to a school properly intended for the poor, still take the full advantage of it, but pay for their education by a proper donation to the funds of the society.

The whole island is benefited by this institution, and it meets with support from many individuals of high station in the colony.

The school-house is the property of the society. An upper story was added in 1829, and the expense incurred, 310 l. sterling, defrayed by a grant from the British Government, through the Bishop.

Calliagua, Day School, St. George's (three miles from Kingstown).—See Enclosure to Schedule (A)., The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Fair-hall Estate, Cane-garden Estate, St. George's.

Two small estate schools, placed under the general inspection of the rector of the parish. Previous to 1835–6 no less than 19 estates in this parish had similar schools upon them, mostly supported by the Bishop's funds, at the rate of a dollar per month for each teacher. But all these were abandoned, from the cause so often adverted to in noticing the position of schools in this diocese.

Calder Estate, St. George's, Trustees of the Estate, &c. &c. (ten miles from Kingstown).

This school is held in an excellent permanent school-house, built expressly for its use, partly by 100 l., the produce of voluntary subscriptions in England and in the colony, and partly by the trustees of the three estates, Calder, Argyle and Calder Ridge, the property of the heirs of the late Duncan Campbell, esq. It is built of wood, upon a stone basement, and thatched, and is capable of holding between 300 and 400 persons. A portion of its area is pewed, and rented by individuals in connexion with the Wesleyans, to whose communion the master, chosen by the resident agent of the trust, is attached. The proceeds of the pew-rent, it is stated, will be allowed to accumulate, to pay off a debt upon the building and its furniture, and then to be applied to shingling the roof.

Shortly after the commencement of the school, the sum of 1 d. per week was demanded of the children in attendance, and a decrease of numbers was the immediate consequence. Very few of the parents have answered to the call. It was intended to apply whatever was the produce of this charge to meet the expense of lighting the evening school.

In the day school the children are clothed, at the expense of the trust, in trowsers and jacket for the boys, and a frock for the girls, of a uniform pattern. These are put on, upon the arrival of the children at the school in the morning, and taken off at night, on each of the four first school days of the week; on Friday evening they are taken home; Saturday washed; Sunday worn; and Monday morning brought back to school.

The master, in addition to his salary, has house, servant, horse-feed, &c. &c., allowed from the estate. He officiates in the school-house on the Sunday.

The state of the school was fluctuating, from the cause above stated; but there could be no doubt that, if the intentions of the parties to whom it owed its formation were seconded, as they merit to be, by the person in charge, and by steady attendance on the part of the scholars, it would be subservient to the welfare of the neighbourhood in every point of view. The day school is only open for two hours each morning.

Bayaboo, Sunday School, St. George's.

The Sunday schools at Bayaboo and Calliagua, on the windward, and at Barrouallie, on the leeward coast, are the only schools of any description in the island, dependent upon the Wesleyan Missionary Society, with exception of the schools in Kingstown. A small day school is on the point of being begun in the chapel at Bayaboo, for a few children of apprentices, but with no regular master.

George Town (Grand Sable), Sunday and Evening School, Charlotte Parish (twenty miles from Kingstown).

Mount Grennon, Evening School, Charlotte Parish.

The legislature of the colony has recently ceded the barrack, formerly held by the troops placed in this portion of the island subsequently to the last Carib war, as a place of worship and a school-house for the estates in the vicinity of Grand Sable. It is built of wood, and very spacious, forming one long apartment, partly pewed and partly furnished with benches, for the use of the Sunday and evening scholars, who are chiefly from Grand Sable, Mount Young and Bentinck estates.

1. Schedule (B.)

Remarks on the several Schools.

A master has been appointed, with the expectancy of a stipend of 25 l. from the Bishop, and of some further remuneration from the estates on which the children would benefit by his instructions; he is furnished with a house on the same premises. It did not appear at what time a day school would be commenced.

The evening school at Mount Grennon was attended by him one single evening in the week; it was hoped that the children from the adjacent estates of Belle Vue and Hark Hall would take advantage of it.

It had been the project of the rector in 1834 to plant ten small Sunday schools, at intervals, over the Carib country, in such a manner that every part of it might be furnished with the means of instruction; but various impediments, and particularly the difficulty of finding stipends for the teachers, appear to have prevented the execution.

At Peruvian Vale estate, about seven miles south of Grand Sable, an intention was also entertained of forming a school-house out of a building near the works, but nothing could be learned on the spot with reference to the probability of this being carried into effect, though the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, in their catalogue of new school-houses to be erected with aid from the Parliamentary grant of 1837, intimate that there is a sum set apart for this purpose for Peruvian Vale.

The Sunday school at Grand Sable is carried on in a manner which is in some degree peculiar, the number in attendance being limited to 180; there is what is called a probationary bench, upon which such as wish to become pupils are seated till a proper vacancy occurs, or till it is deemed proper that the candidates should enter as regular scholars.

As may be inferred, the situation and formation of the Carib country is particularly favourable for the establishment of schools in central positions, where each might command a certain number of estates. In 1835 it was calculated that there were 7,206 apprentices in this parish alone.

The extreme northern end of the island of St. Vincent's is literally extra-parochial, without cultivation; and, with exception of the small settlement of the Yellow Caribs, in the vicinity of Commantawana Bay, without inhabitants; the only frequented pathway traversing the island runs over from the Rabaca river in the Carib country, to the Black Carib settlement at Morne Ronde, and to Richmond Bay in St. David's. It passes over the very edge of the crater of the Soufrière volcano.

Barrouallie, &c. &c., and the Schools in St. Patrick's, St. David's and St. Andrew's Parishes (ten miles from Kingstown).—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

The interior of St. Vincent's is altogether composed of elevated, forested and almost inaccessible mountains, rising into ridges, groups and peaks of different heights; the estates, and consequently the mass of the population, are to be found either close upon the coast, or, as in the case of the Carib country, and of fertile valleys opening to the shore, at no very great distance from it; in the higher valleys, however, and on the broken acclivities of the mountains, in addition to provision grounds, there are numerous small settlements, and coffee, cocoa and cotton plantations, with no inconsiderable number of inhabitants.

The scattered nature of these settlements for the most part is such, that the children in them are not only beyond the reach of the existing opportunities of instruction in the colony, but many difficulties lie in the way of furnishing them with it, even if there were the means at hand; as, perhaps, in the majority of cases, it would be very difficult to fix upon positions for the establishment of schools sufficiently central and accessible to a considerable number.

In any future arrangements for the spread of education among the labouring and poorer classes of the island, it is to be hoped, however, that these upper parts of the country will not be forgotten; at the same time that, up to this date, the region occupied by the estates, and particularly the parish of St. George and Charlotte parish, which contain two-thirds of the whole apprentice population of the colony, are so poorly furnished with the necessary number of schools, that there it is imperative that this want should be remedied without loss of time. Hitherto the legislature of the colony has confined its direct pecuniary assistance towards the object in view to its annual donation towards the support of the free schools in Kingstown.

Its general expression of feeling on the subject, if the information received is correct, has hitherto been confined to the negative thrown in the way of the introduction of a Bill to the notice of the House of Assembly, for the purpose of advancing education in the colony, in connexion with the Established Church; the precise date and details of the motion were not to be procured, in consequence of the absence of the clerk of the Assembly from the island.

It was stated, however, that another motion had been submitted to the notice of the House for leave to bring in a Bill to propose the colonial grant of 250 l. sterling to the Wesleyan Missionary Society for the erection of schools and chapels in the colony,—with what success has not yet been determined.

But little information can be given with regard to each of these estate schools beyond that conveyed by the Schedule. Their number is very striking, when the small extent of surface presented by the island is taken into consideration. As will be gathered, they are all of very humble pretensions, but it would not be just to withhold an expression of respect and praise for the gentlemen resident upon the island, who have concurred in such a general demonstration of their good-will towards the cause of negro education, and of their willingness to forward the views of the worthy rector of the parish in this respect, both in town and country. These estate schools are to be met with distributed over the island, which is fourteen miles in circumference, and may contain between three and four thousand inhabitants. The produce consists chiefly of sugar and cotton. The soil is good, but the want of rain is severely felt. Some difficulty is still experienced in the schools from the French language being still spoken by many children, and from the very indifferent attendance in most instances. The books are furnished by the proprietors.

Catechization existed on most of the larger estates of Carriacou previous to 1834.

There is a parish church and one rector on the island.

On Isle Ronde, another of the Grenadines, attached to the government of Grenada, and lying a few miles off the northern point of that island, there was a building used as a chapel and school-house connected with the Established Church. The only estate was the property of the late G. Monroe, esq., and the school upon it was placed under the care of the nearest parish in Grenada, St. Patrick's, Sauterre; but the withdrawal of the major part of the apprentices upon it to the estate of Bacolet in St. Andrew's, Grenada, has caused it to be abandoned. There are only about forty-five inhabitants now on the island.

Soufrière, National School (twenty miles from Castries).—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Ance de Roseau (eight miles from Roseau).

THERE is no regular school-house on this estate, though the proprietor expresses his willingness to erect one, provided the success of the school warrants his so doing. All the children are of Roman Catholic parents, but are instructed in the Scriptures and the Church catechism, without any objection on the part of the parents. The proprietor has shown himself the friend of education in the colony in many ways, and latterly by a liberal subscription towards the erection of the national school-house at Castries. The district in which this estate lies contains upwards of 600 apprentice labourers.

Le Cap (nine or ten miles from Castries).

This estate school is to be found on the leeward coast, near the point fixed upon for the erection of a school-house in connexion with the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Le Cap Marquis, Estate School, situated on the windward coast, and near the north-west point of the Island.

It will be seen that there is no island in the West Indian Archipelago which labours under the same disadvantages with regard to education as the large island of St. Lucia. The predominance of the Roman Catholic faith and of the French language are doubtless the main causes.

Schedule (B.)

Remarks on the several Schools.

causes. There is but one resident priest in the island, and six chapels various districts; three are in a state of decay. Small schools have been commenced on three estates for the benefit of the Roman Catholic apprentices. Among a population of upwards of 15,000 souls, but 300 can be found attached to the Protestant faith.

Perhaps this is a main cause why St. Lucia has not been made the scene of missionary labour.

The roads throughout the colony are said to be almost impassable in rainy weather; and, with all these disadvantages, there is perhaps truth in saying that almost the entire island is in a state but little removed from utter barbarism. That this is felt by many influential persons in the colony, as well as by the officer at present in charge of the government, is acknowledged.

On the 1st of May 1837, in consequence of an observation from the Lieutenant-governor, with reference to the necessity of furnishing the labouring population and their children with the means of instruction, and a recommendation to the council to adopt some measure to carry this suggestion into effect, it was moved and carried, that a committee should be appointed to report on the best measure of promoting education and the moral instruction of the juvenile population of the colony. On the 22d of June following, the report of the committee was read, which, after stating that all the existing means of instruction were the two schools at Castries and at Soufrière, in connexion with the Established Church, and the two estate schools at Roseau and Le Marquis, and showing how inadequate these existing means were when compared with the urgent necessity, there being by computation, 1,956 free children of apprentices in 1834, and probably at the present time, 2,933 under nine years of age; and further, setting forth the peculiar situation of the Roman Catholic population of the island, who were excluded virtually, though not nominally, by their faith from drawing any advantage from the funds placed in the Bishop's hands, insomuch that he could not apply them to schools conducted under other principles than those of the Church of England; observing, moreover, that they "had never participated in the Parliamentary grants of the public money, which had been voted for the special purpose of improving the moral condition of the recently manumitted subjects;" the report went on to propose, that four schools should be erected in Castries, Soufrière, Gros-Islet, and Vieux Fort, and should be conducted upon the principle of the National Board of Education in Ireland. That further, "such schools should be endowed with a sum of not less than 400 l., for the salaries of the masters to be appointed, according to the number of scholars who may ultimately attend the schools. That further provision shall be made out of the public funds to pay one-half of the salary of the master of any school that shall be erected by any society or individual who shall undertake to defray the other half of the salary."

The report of the committee further suggested the formation of a board of education, to watch over the working of the system.

No plan was proposed to meet the expense of erecting the necessary buildings required for carrying out the views of the Imperial Parliament, with regard to the education of the negro, as the poverty of the internal resources of the colony would not admit of its furnishing any adequate proportion of the funds; and they trust that Her Majesty's Government will take the case into consideration, and would give assistance for the purpose.

The report was adopted in the council, and the Attorney-general was directed to frame an ordinance to carry into effect the recommendation contained in the report. No ulterior steps had been taken.

1. Schedule (B.)

Remarks on the several Schools.

For some years prior to 1827, this school may be said to have already existed under a different form, and upon a much less extended scale. It now ranks as the best of its class in St. John's, and is well conducted in every respect. The higher classes are far greater proficients in arithmetic, grammar, and writing, than ordinarily met with in these islands.

Though there are a considerable number of the children of apprentices among the scholars, it will be understood that the advantages that it holds out to the townspeople cause it to be attended by the children of many who cannot be properly classed as poor people. The charge is here, however, as elsewhere, very trifling; those who are taught to write pay twice as much as the others. On two days in the week the afternoons are set apart in the upper classes for exercise in branches of industry, tailoring, hat-making, straw-platting, &c. There are at present 40 so engaged. The school is held in a large and convenient building, formerly the chapel of the Society for the Conversion, &c., of the Negro. The schools, both boys' and girls', have been in fact supported by this society up to the present time; though it is now under contemplation to make over the schools and the premises to the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel. The girls' school was held in an adjacent building, formerly the residence of the society's missionary, but that has lately been demolished for the purpose of erecting a new school-house for the use of that branch.—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.)

The library of the Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge is under the same roof as the boys' school.

The Rectory.—Infant School.

See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

The African Hospital.—Infant School.

This school is solely intended for the education of the children of the Africans landed on the island some years ago from the slave ships captured by British cruisers. It is held on the ground-floor of the hospital. When of a suitable age, the children are put to trade, or sent into service, and the number at present on the list has been recently diminished by 20, who have left the school for this purpose.

The instruction is confined to reading and catechization.

St. John's Parish Church.—Sunday School.

This school merits notice from the care with which it is conducted. All in attendance are children and apprentices from the country. It is carried on under the eye of the rector.

St. John's.—Infant School.—The Wesleyan Missionary Society.

This is not to be confounded with the day-school to be commenced shortly by the society, and located in the building now being erected, in part at least, with the society's funds, aided by the Government grants.—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.)

The infant school, held in the present chapel, will also ultimately be removed to the same structure, where a separate apartment will be provided for its accommodation.

It is one of the best organized schools of the class to be met with in the West Indies. As in the case of the majority of town schools, a fair proportion of the children belong to the free coloured classes. All, without exception, are of a very tender age; but the general progress is very satisfactory. Thirty of the number are learning to write, and several of the girls, needlework.

St. John's.—Day School.—The Moravian Missionary Society.

This excellent school-room was erected by the society in 1831, and was opened in the first instance under the charge of a superior teacher, with a salary of 75*l.* per annum; under his instruction it was considered very effective. At present the want of competent teachers is severely felt, and has an unfavourable influence, both on the numbers in attendance, and the progress of the scholars. About 30 read with some degree of case. Almost all the children are of the Negro race.

St. John's.—Colonial Grammar School.

Superseded another institution, called the Central School, supported by the Legislature in like manner with much the same views.

The master has a fixed salary of 140*l.* per annum; and to this is added the income derived from a charge of 10*l.* per annum, made for each pupil instructed in the classics, and of 7*l.* for every other.

These

These sums are paid in advance into the public treasury by the parents.

The present master is a clergyman of the Established Church, and is considered as the officiating curate of St. Luke's chapel of ease.

The institution is considered to be under the control of a board of guardians appointed by the Legislature, including the Archdeacon of Antigua and the rector of the parish.

The present state of the school is as follows:—
First class, 5.—Greek Testament; Ovid's Metamorphosis; Cæsar's Commentaries.
Second class, 6.—Greek Grammar; Phædrus' Fables; Valpy's Delectus.
Third class, 9.—Latin Delectus and Grammar.
Fourth class, 8.—Latin Grammar.
Fifth class, 5.—English Grammar, &c.

Algebra and geometry are not included in the branches of instruction.

There is no limit set to the number of pupils that may be received. The ages of those at present in attendance range from 7 to 17. There is no distinction of colour made, but the terms of course confine the advantages of the school in some degree to the better classes. Three of the number are private boarders of the master. He is not allowed an assistant, and has to rent a house for the purpose.

Colonial.—Grammar School (Girls').

On the same principles as the foregoing, and supported by an annual Legislative grant of 50 l. per annum, and a charge of about 5 l. per annum for each pupil. It is held in the dwelling-house of the person entrusted with the superintendence. It can scarcely be said to succeed, or to answer the end proposed by the Colonial Legislature.

St. James's Chapel.—Infant School (three miles from St. John's, N.N.E.)

See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Cedar Valley.—Infant School (two miles from St. John's, N.E.)

Twenty-two of the free children of this school are employed in light labour on the estate part of the day. It is in a very promising state.

Murray's.—Infant School (two miles from St. John's, S.E.)

An estate school, with very fair prospects, to the left of the road to St. Luke's chapel of ease.

St. Luke's Chapel.—Infant School (3½ miles from St. John's, S.S.E.)

The school which occupies this chapel of ease, till such time as funds can be obtained for the erection of a proper school-house, was removed hither from Green Castle, about one mile distant. It had existed on that estate under the patronage of the proprietor, a gentleman long approved as a friend to Negro education, and it is possible that another school will be recommenced shortly there. The state of the school at the chapel is very discouraging.

George Byam's.—Day School (5½ miles from St. John's, S.S.E.)—The Bishop.
See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Nibb's Estate, (1½ miles from St. John's, S.)—Wesleyan Missionary Society.

The attendance at this small school is so good, that children are scarcely ever known to be absent, unless in case of illness.

Five Islands.—Day School, (3 miles from St. John's, W.)
See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Moravian Missionary Society.

The Wesleyan Missionary Society have recently relinquished a Sunday school at the Point, and another, begun in 1833, at M'Kinnon Estate, to the north of St. John's. The latter consisted of about 20 adults.

New school-houses are to be built at Five Islands, and Pope's Head. See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Moravian Missionary Society.

ST. GEORGE'S PARISH.

St. George's.—Infant School, (3½ miles from St. John's, E. by N.)
See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Gunthorpe's Estate; High Point, or Ronan's; Sir George Thomas's; Carlisle Estate; Millar's Estate—(all within a circuit of about 2 to 3½ miles from St. John's, Eastward).

WITH reference to all these schools, in connexion with the Established Church, it must be remarked that there are no funds applicable to the payment of the teachers' stipends, or other expenses incurred in maintaining them, but the trifling income derived from charging ¾ d. a week for the instruction given.

1. Schedule (B.)

Remarks on the several Schools.

The schools in this parish were not, upon the whole, in as efficient a state as those of the same class in the neighbouring parishes. There seemed almost a total want of method. That at Gunthorpe's was evidently carried on most negligently, and the one at Sir George Thomas's was almost suspended.

At Ronan's the prospect was more encouraging. Here both school and teacher's houses are furnished by the proprietor. A grass-gang of 21 children and 4 adults attends at noon, the manager paying for their schooling.

Another school, in connexion with the Established Church, was to be opened shortly on Herbert's Estate (3 miles from St. John's), in this parish; to be supported by Dr. Musgrave, the proprietor. It was proposed to make it free for the children of the estate, but open to others upon paying the slight remuneration ordinarily required.

Gunthorpe's.—Day School (2½ miles from St. John's).—Wesleyan Missionary Society.

A second school on this estate (see above), held in a house among the Negro huts, lent to the society by the occupier for this purpose. The progress of the children was encouraging. It is evident that the competition between the two schools, so injudiciously placed within a few paces of each other, was injurious to both. The parents of the children pay very unwillingly.

Stoney Hill.—Infant School, (4½ miles from St. John's, 1½ from Sanderson's, W. M. S.)—Wesleyan Missionary Society.

At the time this district was inspected, the school was suspended in consequence of the illness of the person in charge. It is situated within half a mile of Sea View, or Lebanon, in this parish, where a chapel and school are being erected by the Moravian Missionary Society, and about two from the Central Chapel-school of the Established Church, nearly completed, on the confines of St. John's, St. Peter's, and St. Paul's.

ST. PETER'S PARISH.

Parham.—Infant School (6 miles from St. John's).—The Bishop.

A SMALL school held in the parish church, for want of a more suitable locality; and upon the whole in a promising state, the same system and method observable throughout the schools of this class in St. John's having been adopted here.

Cochrane's and Parry's.—Infant Schools, (1½ miles from Parham, and 3 miles from Parham, S.)—The Bishop.

These two small schools have been lately re-organized. The children are under careful inspection, and in a promising state. At Parry's the sum ordinarily expected to be paid by the children is paid by the proprietors, and no other charge is made.

Gilbert's.—Day and Evening Schools (3 miles S.E. of Parham).—The Proprietor.

These schools are held in the chapel, which has existed upon this estate for many years. The services of the Established Church are regularly performed in it by the reverend proprietor.

It will be observed, from the date in the schedule, that instruction was given to the labouring class upon this property, at a time when such a liberal course was rarely pursued; and it is undeniable that the good fruits of the conscientious discharge of this duty, however confined the scope of the knowledge imparted, have been remarked. The children at present in attendance at the day-school are of tender age, and the instruction is confined to reading and catechetical instruction, with a little needlework for the girls. Many read with considerable proficiency. The same remark may be made of several among an older class of the free children, who are now occupied in light labour on the estate, but who still attend at fixed times. No charge is made. Yet, with all these advantages, ample experience of the difficulty of persuading the parents to send the children with regularity is constantly made.

Parham.—Day School.—Wesleyan Missionary Society.

See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Wesleyan Missionary Society.

Vernon's and Sanderson's.—Infant Schools (a quarter of a mile from Cochrane's, a mile and a half from Stoney Hill, and half a mile from Parry's).

The first of these schools, in connexion with the Wesleyan Missionary Society, is well conducted and promising; the other was not under as good management, or in as good order as might have been desired.

The Central Chapel School, now being erected, in connexion with the Established Church, just falls within the south-western extremity of this parish.

St. Philip's Parish.

The Rectory.—Infant School (twelve miles from St. John's, one mile from Willoughby Bay).

See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

St. Stephen's or Belfast.—Infant School (three miles and a half from the Parish Church, nine miles from St. John's).

See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Lavicount's, Room's, and Watson's.—Estate Infant Schools (from one mile and a half to three miles from the Parish Church).

These are all small estate schools, carried on under great disadvantage, from the increasing difficulty that exists in finding the funds necessary for the payment of the persons in charge.

As no assistance is received from the Bishop, they are wholly dependent upon the personal exertions of the rector, and upon his success in obtaining small donations from charitable parties at home or in the colony towards this object. The trifling charge made in the schools for the instruction given, is of course, from the irregularity of payment, productive of a very trifling income.

This state of things is greatly to be deplored, for humble as they may be, they are a class of schools seemingly well suited to the circumstances of the colony, and fully capable, if properly supported and conducted, of affording the instruction and religious education absolutely necessary for the future welfare of the labouring classes.

Willoughby Bay, Bridge Town.—Day School (12 miles from St. John's). Lynche's.—Infant School (1 mile from Parish Church).—Wesleyan M. Society.

The excellent and spacious school-room occupied by the society at Willoughby Bay, was erected by the Church Missionary Society in 1821 for the use of their Sunday schools, &c. The society had engaged in the instruction of the slaves in this colony as early as 1813. The building in question was given up to the Wesleyan Missionary Society in 1827, and is at present hired of the Church Missionary Society for their use by the Ladies' Negro Education Society.

The day-school held in it is more particularly conducted under the eye of the society's superintendent of schools in this colony, who is resident here. The gentleman in question came out to Antigua many years ago as the agent of the Church Missionary Society, and his long experience in Negro education is an ample guarantee for the efficiency of the school; of this a careful inspection left no doubt; it is conducted with great order; 20 of the children are instructed in writing and arithmetic, and are expected to pay, which they do with tolerable regularity; the elder children are also instructed in straw-platting, and the girls in needlework.

The small, but very interesting infant school, from the neighbouring estate, Lynche's, may be considered as the nursery of the one just alluded to, as the children, when of a proper age, are drafted to Willoughby Bay. Thirty of the children left the Willoughby Bay school in 1836 to go to labour of various kinds.

Sion Hill.—Day School (1 mile from St. Stephen's).—Wesleyan M. S.

See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Wesleyan Missionary Society.

Newfield.—Day School (1 mile from the Parish Church).—The Moravian M. Society.

This flourishing school is held in an excellent and substantially-built school-room, erected by the society in 1829, upon the land which had some years previously been conveyed to it by gift of the Colonial Legislature for a missionary settlement, together with an annual endowment, still continued, of 150 l. sterling.

The confidence of the House of Assembly, and other branches of the Legislature, in so doing, has been justified by the great care and method evinced in the formation and government of the school in question, as it is now placed and conducted under the daily inspection and guidance of the society's resident missionaries. The school-room is fully fitted up, and furnished with all the accessories ordinarily found in schools of its character in the mother country; a play-ground is attached, and an adjacent piece of land has been formed in 62 garden plots for the use and amusement of the children during an hour daily. Every means is taken to instil into the minds of the children the necessity and propriety of labour, and of occupation for the hands as well as the head. The school was reorganized on the present system in 1824. The children are expected to pay $\frac{3}{4}$ d. for reading, and those who write 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ d., but so much difficulty is experienced in enforcing this regulation, that scarcely sufficient is raised in this manner to defray the expense of light for the evening school.

The progress of many of the children was very gratifying, and as long as the school remains under an equally zealous and gifted inspection, there can be no doubt entertained of its efficiency.

Besides the regular teachers, there are two young persons training for future employment as such, here or elsewhere, in daily attendance.

Remarks on the several Schools.

ST. PAUL'S PARISH.

English Harbour.—National School (11 miles from St. John's, 2 miles from Falmouth).—The Bishop.

See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

English Harbour.—Infant School.—The Ladies' N. E. Society.

THIS interesting and flourishing school is supported mainly by the society in question, with some assistance from the rector, and is well conducted, in every particular, under his inspection. The proficiency of many of these little children both in reading and needlework was remarkable; when arrived at a proper age, the most advanced are removed into the national school just named.

Falmouth.—Infant School (9 miles from St. John's, 2 miles from Gracehill).—Moravian Missionary Society.—L. N. E. S. Branch Local Association.

See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Bethesda or Blake's.—Day School (2 ½ miles from English Harbour, 2 ½ miles from Willoughby Bay).—Wesleyan Missionary Society.

This is a very promising school, held in a good school-house, originally erected by the Church Missionary Society, but now the property of the estate. The children pay pretty regularly, 1 ½ d. being required of those who learn writing or needlework. Fourteen children have left the school within the six last months to go to field labour. Only two free children of apprentices of the estate on which the school is held are in attend ance.

Gracehill.—Day School, (8 miles from St. John's, 2 miles from Central Chapel School, S. P. G.)—Moravian Missionary Society.

The school-house at this settlement is a substantial stone building, erected by the society in 1829. The attendance of the children is but indifferent; two-thirds of them are from the neighbouring settlements of small cottagers scattered round the north-west flank of Monk's Hill, &c.

The difficulty of finding proper teachers has been greatly felt. The present female teacher has to come and return daily, over very rugged roads, from three to four miles, from and to her home at English Harbour.

ST. MARY'S PARISH.

Old Road Town.—Day School (12 ½ miles from St. John's).—The Bishop.

THERE is some idea of building a school-house in this small port, with the aid of Government funds, if land can be procured. The school is held for the present in the dwelling-house of the teacher, and is very flourishing and well conducted. In rainy weather, there is a difficulty in commanding a full attendance, from the circumstance that some of the most populous estates of the vicinity are separated from the town by streams easily flooded by the torrents from the hills.

Bolan's.—Day School (5 ½ miles from St. John's).—The Bishop.

The want of a proper school-house has in this instance been severely felt. It has long been under consideration to make some addition to the Valley chapel of ease in the vicinity (1 ½ mile from Bolan's), but nothing has as yet been decided upon. There is also great difficulty experienced in providing for the payment of the rent of the hired building and of the stipend of the teacher; and these causes, combined with the existence of a flourishing school of the Wesleyan Missionary Society in the immediate vicinity, keep the school in a very low state.

Bolan's.—Day School.—The Wesleyan Missionary Society.

This school is under the personal charge of the respectable widow of a deceased missionary, and is well attended. The usual charge is made, but is very irregularly paid. During the past year, many of the children have left the school to go and engage in field labour. The general progress of the children is stated as very satisfactory.

Sawcolt's.—Infant School (4 ½ miles from St. John's, 1 mile from George Byam's).—The Wesleyan Missionary Society.

A small school, held in a substantial school-house purchased by the society.

Schedule (B.)

Remarks on the several Schools.

Cedar Hall.—Day School (4 miles from St. John's).—The Moravian Missionary Society.

The children of this school occupy an excellent school-house, erected on the Mission land in 1829. There is no cause to be dissatisfied with the general progress of the children; but the attendance at certain seasons of the year is very indifferent, from the roads leading to the settlement being traversed by creeks liable to sudden overflow. Here, as in many other cases in the island, a night-school for the older apprentices had to be relinquished after a trial, from experience proving that under certain circumstances it was not conducive to morality. Many children have recently left this school to go to labour.

Grace Bay.—Day School, (Old Road Town, 12 ½ miles from St. John's).—The Moravian Missionary Society.

See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Moravian Missionary Society.

Russel's.—Estate School, (½ mile from Sawcolt's M. M. S.)—Moravian Missionary Society.

A small school, but indifferently attended, towards the head of Fig Tree Valley. There was a small school held here recently in connexion with the Established Church, and also two of a like character at Harvey's and Sir William Young's estates, but these are now abandoned.

The schools of various descriptions set on foot and maintained by funds drawn from various sources, for the benefit of the labouring classes in this colony, are to be found pretty equally distributed over the face of the country.

There are but two or three instances to be named in the whole island in which it may be regretted that the zeal and anxiety of the various parties intent upon benefiting the population of the estates had not led them to occupy positions less calculated to counteract each others intentions; the more so, as however thickly the schools may be considered to lie, in comparison with the majority of other islands, there is still much to be done before every district can be fully supplied with means of instruction of easy access to all.

With exception of certain schools in the towns, it will be gathered that by far the greater number of schools in Antigua are allied to the class termed infant schools, frequented by children of tender age, and under the charge of female teachers or masters of very modest pretensions. Though their efficiency or their inefficiency would appear to depend mainly upon the talent and faithfulness of the person more immediately engaged in imparting instruction, yet it is to be doubted if it does not quite as much depend upon the character of the inspection exercised by the clergy and the missionaries, and the effect produced on both teachers and scholars in consequence.

The observation has sometimes been hazarded that infant schools of this description, carried on by teachers of very limited powers, could be productive of very little real and lasting good, where the vicinity of a school of a higher description did not afford an opportunity of continuing the course of instruction begun, or of implanting it firmly in the mind; such may be the case under circumstances where no further means of instruction exist for the boy or girl, and where prejudice stands in the way of an early submission to the necessity of labour, as there the most improvable and critical age is passed in idleness, and no doubt much is forgotten of that which was learned in the infant school. It will be seen, however, that in Antigua, circumstances, under the guidance of God's providence, have so far operated to the benefit of all classes, that many instances can be adduced of instruction in the infant school being productive of no such effects, but on the contrary, of a ready acknowledgment of the necessity of bodily labour and exertion, the children passing from the school to honest labour, even on the estates, or into service of one kind or another; many of them moreover keeping up or adding to any proficiency they may have attained to, by attendance on the schools for an hour or two in the day, or at least on evening or Sunday schools. It is admitted that no positive conclusions are to be drawn from instances so rare and isolated that they must be called exceptions; but a complete inspection of all the schools of the island has induced a belief, that though not general as yet, the instances of this connexion between a proper degree of instruction and a natural transition to labour, and even estate labour, are not only more numerous than might be supposed by many, but are becoming daily more so.

The parochial, national, and infant schools, in connexion with the Established Church, are to be found distributed over every part of the island, and are, it is understood, under the immediate inspection of the parochial clergy. It is difficult, without going into great detail, to show in what manner exactly they have all been maintained since the year 1835, when the failure or withdrawal of the funds drawn from various sources, of which the Bishop was considered the almoner, has thrown such difficulty in the way of his Lordship and of the resident clergy. At the present day, it may be said with truth, that, were it not for the energy and the devotion to the cause of Negro education displayed by the individual clergy, far from there being an increase of the means of instruction from month to month, there would be infinitely fewer schools in connexion with the Established Church in this island than there were at that epoch.

In St. John's parish, the schools set on foot in every part of the parish are almost all dependent for existence upon the steady and unremitting zeal and personal activity of the rural dean of the island, there being, at present, no fund that may be termed permanent applicable to the purpose.

1. Schedule (B.)

Remarks on the several Schools.

The timely donations with which the London Ladies' Negro Education Society have come to his aid, and that of others of the clergy in the island, on a representation of their difficulties, is acknowledged with gratitude. Throughout these schools, whether in town or in the country part of the parish, a general and uniform system is pursued; and this is not only maintained by the constant personal inspection of the clergyman in question, but by the employment of a general superintendent for these schools, whose acquaintance with the precise state of each school is maintained by constant visits.

In St. George's parish, the major part of the existing schools are maintained solely by the income derived from the trifling sums received from the parents of the children, there being otherwise no sum at the disposal of the rector for providing salaries for the teachers in them. When the small amount of these irregular contributions is considered, it will not appear singular, that the teachers must be of the poorest class; and that the schools are carried on more tamely and more inefficiently than in any other parish of the island.

In St. Peter's many of the schools after having been suspended for a time from the difficulty of supporting them, have recently been recommenced. The rector has received occasional assistance for their maintenance from the Bishop, but it can hardly be said that there are certain means of carrying them on at his disposal. The method and system adopted in St. John's parish is also observable in the infant schools of St. Peter's.

The almost total absence of proper funds throws the only impediment in the way of successful education in the parish of St. Philip.

The rector is dependent for the maintenance of his teachers upon the same occasional assistance from the Bishop, or the Ladies' Negro Education Society; and the same observation applies to the state of things in St. Paul's, with exception of the support of the National School at English Harbour, where the teachers have fixed salaries from his Lordship.

In St. Mary's, the stipend of the teacher of the school at Old Road Town is assured from the same source; the other day-school in the parish is dependent upon uncertain sources for maintenance.

In this manner, it may be seen that the majority of the schools in question throughout the island are being carried on, as many of them were begun, rather in faith that better times would come, and the means necessary for this object furnished at some future time in the same manner as prior to 1835, than that they are actually furnished or attainable at this date.

The second cause of anxiety in the minds of the clergy is, in a great degree, the result of the want of means, which is the primary one; and this is the difficulty that exists in engaging any teachers of respectable character and attainments.

The vestries in the island profess themselves willing to assist, but allege the great expenses they have had to meet in the late erection of churches and chapels, and the two years of distress recently experienced by the colony, in apology for declining to give assistance at the present time.

No general measure in favour of Negro education has, as yet, emanated from the Legislative body, though its approval of the object in view has been intimated and proved in particular instances.

When not otherwise specified, it is always to be understood that the charge of sustaining the schools in connexion with the Wesleyan Missionary Society falls upon that body. The Ladies' Negro Education Society, however, give a donation of 50 l. towards the payment of salaries, besides furnishing to the society the school-house at Willoughby Bay.

It is calculated that the amount of the payments made in the various Wesleyan schools throughout the island, in consequence of the small charge of $\frac{3}{4}$ d. or $1\frac{1}{2}$ d. demanded for the instruction given, may amount at present to about 90 l. per annum.

Various charitable societies at home have occasionally sent presents of money or clothing for the support or use of the schools; but, as these are now discontinued, the burden of furnishing the main support falls heavy on the society. Books for the children of the schools have, hitherto, been furnished gratuitously by the Sunday School Union, the Tract and Bristol Societies. The first-named society furnish six boxes of candles annually for the use of the evening schools.

Some of the evening schools are carried on with good effect, and others indifferently. Much depends upon the zeal of the teachers, the whole of whom give their labour gratuitously.

From the moderate degree of qualification possessed by the majority of the teachers in the day-schools, and the tender age of the children, the attainment of no very great degree of proficiency can be expected. Among the infant schools, that in St. John's is to be distinguished for the excellent training observable. In that respect it may be considered as a model-school for the rest. Those at Sion-hill, Bolan's, Bethesda, and at Lynche's deserve particular commendation, and the two at Parham and at Willoughby may be placed in the first rank; in the higher classes they are adapted for the education of older children.

The day-school at Willoughby Bay commenced in April 1829. At the close of that year it numbered 215 scholars.

The society desire, as soon as it shall be found practicable, to form a normal school, in conjunction with the school at Parham, for the education of teachers.

The whole of the schools in the island, with the exception of a few in the western district, are placed by the society at home under the superintendence of the inspector at Willoughby Bay, conjointly with the chairman of the district committee at St. John's.

The parents of the children, taken in the aggregate, have not shown any great disposition to conform with regularity to the payment of the trifling sum demanded for the instruction of their offspring. In Willoughby Bay school the sum of 1½*d.* has only been required of such as were learning to write, all the rest attending free of expense; and here the payment was passable. It is evident that the society have not yet determined upon any general system to be adopted in their schools, either as to these details, or those to be observed in the style of education. It is however understood, that it is in contemplation to have all, in the sequel, conducted after a given model, and subjected to the same rules.

It remains to observe, with regard to the numerously attended Sunday schools attached to the Wesleyan Mission, that as there is ordinarily a sufficient number of the congregation both able and willing to impart the degree of instruction required, that they are of a much more efficient character than might be supposed.

The schools in this island under the care of the Moravian missionaries have been hitherto altogether supported by the funds of the society, unless it be considered that the annual sum given to the society by the Legislature may be in part applicable to that purpose.

In these schools, the weekly payment of the ordinary sum has been also attempted, but cannot be said to have succeeded generally; and in no case can it be considered to form a fund sufficient to furnish the school with even books, slates, or pencils.

The difficulty of procuring proper teachers is greatly felt; and there is no doubt but all the larger and more important schools, with the exception of that at Newfield, which is under unusually talented inspection, suffer on this account.

The various schools in the island are considered as placed by the society under the general superintendence of the Missionary Conference of the Island.

There has been no recent census made of the population of Antigua; but the following was the result of that made in 1828:—

Whites.		Coloured.		Slaves.		Total.
M.	F.	M.	F.	M.	F.
1,140	840	1,549	2,346	14,531	16,533	37,226 Including 287 Africans.

The means are not at hand to ascertain what was the number of apprentices of all classes registered in 1834, or the number of free children. The last slave returns gave 29,537 as the total number.

It is not known how many of the apprentice class may have emigrated since emancipation.

(It is scarcely necessary to observe, that in the construction of that part of the schedule which refers to the schools in Antigua, the children in attendance upon them, who may be of a corresponding age to the free children of apprentices of other islands, are enumerated in the column under that head.)

BARBUDA.

The Town.—Day School.—Sir Bethel Codrington.

The unpretending school still maintained in this island is in a very gratifying state, notwithstanding the neglected position of the population. Many of the children were making good progress, under the faithful tuition of the person in charge, and the inspection of the gentleman who is entrusted with the sole government of this small, but interesting community.

The Town, so called, is the main and indeed the only settlement on the island which lies to the north of Antigua, distant about 36 miles. It stands on the borders of the extensive lagoon which stretches for many miles to the N. W., and which is only separated from the main ocean by a narrow strip of land. The only buildings of really a substantial character, are the castle, the house of the managing attorney, and a few store-houses, and outbuildings. The Negro huts, though in part built of stone, are nevertheless too fragile to resist the hurricanes, and from the recent occurrence of that of the previous August, at the time of the island being visited they were most of them in ruins.

The population of the island consists at present of 417 souls; namely, 69 males, 100 females, and 248 children. In 1834 it numbered 510. The large proportion of children observable in this statement, is the result of the exile, emigration, and shipwreck of a great number of adults.

The island is about 19 miles long by 10 broad. The greater part of the surface consists of a sheet of coral rock, raised but a few feet above the sea level: and even the higher portion towards the N. E., cannot attain greater elevation than 150 or 200 feet. The principal income is derived from the raising of stock; horses, mules, sheep and cattle, deer, &c. &c.; and of all these classes there is a large quantity dispersed over the country in a state of nature, and are either hunted down for the sake of the hides, which are tanned at the Town, and converted into shoes, harness, and saddlery upon the spot; or, with the produce of the turtle fishery, exported to Antigua, to supply the market of that island. Agricultural labour is confined to the cultivation of provision grounds. The Negroes, who were all emancipated fully by the proprietor in 1834, are hired by the attorney, by the week, at the rate of 6 d. sterling per diem, and are regularly paid in cash. No fewer than 74 children under 14 years of age are at this date engaged in daily field or other labour, and are in the receipt of wages.

Exclusive of the children in the day-school, it was stated 250 of the adults in the settlement were able to read.

It must now be 15 years or upwards since the Wesleyan Missionary commenced a school and maintained a teacher in Barbuda.

On being, from circumstances, relinquished by them, the "Society for the Conversion of the Negro" sent a catechist hither about the year 1826–7. He was in the receipt of a salary of 50*l.* from the Bishop, and was furnished with a house and provisions by the proprietor. In the interval between that year and 1834, three others in succession were deputed to take the charge of the school, and the religious instruction of the people, and were shortly again removed, in two instances at least, in consequence of disagreement with the manager, under whose control the island was then placed, and who of course possessed the power of dismissing from it whom he chose. During that administration, it really appears as though the object in view was the depopulation of the island.

Since the emancipation there has been no person deputed to take charge of the moral and spiritual interests of the community, on the part of either the Established Church or the missionary societies. Occasional visits from the Archdeacon of Antigua, or from one of the clergy of that island, have taken place, subsequently to that made by the Bishop of the diocese shortly after his first arrival in the West Indies. Up to March 1836 these visits from the clergy of the Established Church amounted to 14. Since that date, up to the close of 1837, no individual, authorized to perform any Christian rite, either of the Established Church, or connected with the missionary societies, has set foot on the island.

Whatever difficulties may have existed in the domestic government of this island to the faithful discharge of a catechist's or missionary's duty to the poor population, they now no longer exist, as the gentleman now in charge, with his amiable family, profess themselves most anxious to facilitate and to carry into effect the wishes of the proprietor on this head; and it is but just to add, that as far as personal exertion on their parts can supply the want of a regular spiritual guide, whose whole time and attention might be directed to the improvement of the people, all is done at present that the case admits of. There is ample and evident proof in the island that the good seed sown by the catechists and by the visiting clergy has not been sown in vain, but has produced fruit notwithstanding the subsequent neglect. The faithfulness of the humble individual now for many years in charge of the school merits much commendation. On Sunday a large proportion of the inhabitants meet in the school-house for Christian worship, which is conducted by the representative of the proprietor, who also reads the burial service in case of death.

A friendly society, and a soup-house for the benefit of the poor and sickly, are established in the settlement, and very well conducted and supported by the head people, under the general direction of the attorney, though that gentleman interferes no further with the government of the funds, which are deposited in St. John's, Antigua, than by the counsel and assistance which his position enables him to give. A few small sloops and schooners, which are the property of the estate, carry on a weekly communication with St. John's (where there is a resident agent for the island), and with other ports in Antigua. No other vessels approach the shores of Barbuda for traffic, or even curiosity, as the island is nearly encircled by dangerous reefs, of which no charts are published, and the navigation is extremely intricate. The passage to or from Antigua takes ordinarily from six to eight hours.

Wrecks have not been unfrequent, and it must be conceded that to such occurrences the Barbudian looks forward with no inconsiderable interest; though there can be no reason to doubt but, as long as the gentleman who has recently been appointed their superior possesses the confidence and the respect which he has evidently inspired them with, and the authority which he has maintained, without aid of police or magistrate hitherto, that even wrecking will be conducted in a proper spirit.

There is a considerable difference to be observed, between both the physical structure and the moral qualities of the Negroes on this island and those characterizing other divisions of the same general race met with elsewhere in these colonies; but whether resulting from the Barbudians being of a distinct tribe originally, or from their isolated position, and the difference of their pursuits, it is difficult to say.

They do not lose by the comparison in either respect; and when the small degree of moral culture which they have hitherto received is taken into account, it might be almost asserted that, with equal advantages with the majority of their countrymen in Antigua, they would in a short time greatly surpass the latter in civilization and moral conduct.

DOMINICA.

Roseau, St. George's.—National School (Girls'). Infant Training School.—The Bishop.

THREE-FOURTHS of the children in this girls' school are the offspring of Roman-catholic parents. No charge is made, but those who learn to write are required to furnish the paper. The proficiency of many of the elder children was gratifying, and the whole school was under good discipline and steady tuition. The boys' school, for the accommodation of which there is a provision made in the same building, had been suspended in October last, for want of a master. At that time it numbered 78 on the books.

The school-house, which is a substantial building, of two stories, situated in the lower part of the town, has been conveyed to the Bishop and rector for the time being by the Legislature of the colony, for the use of the national schools; and in 1835 an addition of 50 feet by 16 was made to it, for the use of the infant school, at the cost of 100 l. sterling, towards which the Bishop gave 60 l. from funds at his disposal, unconnected with the late Government grants.

That school is in full operation, and in a very promising state, under a competent and active young female teacher. Two-thirds of the number on the books of this school also are children of Roman-catholic parents.

At a proper age the children are advanced from the infant to the national schools.

Gomier, St. George's.—Infant School (1½ mile from Roseau).

This is a small estate school, maintained for the children residing on the property by a Roman-catholic proprietor.

Pointe Michel, St. Luke's.—Infant School (3 miles from Roseau).

Placed in a little hamlet, where the children were particularly exposed to bad example, without any means of education to counteract it. It is held in a house hired for the purpose, and is supported altogether at the private cost of Her Majesty's present lieutenant-governor. The prospect was encouraging, but its recent commencement did not allow of any great progress as yet. All the children in attendance were of Roman-catholic parents.

Canefield, St. Paul's.—Day School (2½ miles from Roseau).

A temporary chapel on this estate is used also as a school-house. There are no children of Roman-catholics among those in attendance. Needsmust and Mount Pleasant estates both lie in this neighbourhood.

St. Joseph's or Layon (8 miles from Roseau).—The Bishop.

See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Hillsboro' and Clarke's Hall, St. Joseph's.

Both these estates lie in the entrance of Layon, or St. Joseph's Valley.

Pointe Ronde, St. John's (15 Miles from Roseau).—The Sugar Loaf, St. John's (19 miles from Roseau).—Day Schools.

The first of these schools is held in the house formerly occupied by the manager, and is in a promising state. That at the Sugar Loaf is at present to be found in a very confined room on the estate, but it is understood to be the intention of the proprietor to build a regular school-house. Both schools, it will be remarked, are in their infancy, but they have opened with a very good prospect of success.

Two other schools will shortly be recommenced in the Prince Rupert's district, having been suspended since August last for want of proper teachers; viz. at Piccard's and Mount Eulus estates, under the superintendence of the Wesleyan Society's missionary. No children of Roman-catholic parents attend any of these schools.

Pointe de la Soye.—Day School (18 or 20 miles from Prince Rupert's, 38 miles from Roseau).—The Weslyan Missionary Society.

There is here a resident missionary and an excellent chapel school, erected in 1836 by the society, unassisted by the Government grants. Four children of Roman-catholic parents attend the school, which it is to be regretted is scarcely as efficient as it ought to be. A schoolmaster and mistress are salarized and reside on the Mission land, and the arrangement has been made, that while the female attends to the infant school here, the male should go for three days in the week to conduct the school at Hatton Garden, eight miles to the south, and other three days to attend to that at Hampstead, five miles in the contrary direction. It is the best arrangement, doubtless, that circumstances admit of, but is liable, as far as the male teacher is concerned, to so many interruptions from bad weather, swollen streams, indisposition, and the allurements of a comfortable home, that a change in this respect is felt to be necessary whenever it shall become practicable.

The Sunday school is occasionally attended by a few of the Caribs from their settlements on the windward coast, but it is found difficult to attach them sufficiently to any regular line of conduct.

The majority of the proprietors in the La Soye district have approved themselves very friendly to the cause of Negro education, and assisted to a very considerable extent, with men and materials, in the erection of the chapel school at the Point.

Remarks on the several Schools.

Londonderry, St. Andrew's (2 ½ miles from Pointe de la Soye), and Melville Hall, St. Andrew's (3 ½ miles from Pointe de la Soye).—Day Schools.

Both these schools may be considered as extremely promising and well conducted. Six African children are in attendance at Melville Hall, and seven at Londonderry. Many of the young apprentices and adults on the books of the evening school are in the habit of stepping into the day-school for half an hour or more at moments of leisure during the day.

Hatton Garden, St. David's (8 miles from La Soye).—Day School.

The school here is the most remote in the island. The circumstances under which it is placed have been already mentioned.

Hampstead, St. Andrew's (5 miles from La Soye).—Day School.

There are no Africans on either of these estates, and, with the exception of the four in attendance at Pointe de la Soye, no children of Roman-catholic parents are to be found under instruction in this wide district.

Pointe Mulâtre.—Infant School.

Is maintained by the Roman-catholic proprietor for the instruction of the children on his estate.

Up to a very recent date it will be seen, from the accompanying schedule, that the population of this large and beautiful island were almost utterly neglected on the score of education. With the exception of the day-schools set on foot and supported by the Bishop in Roseau and in St. Joseph's, and a few scattered Sunday and evening schools, under the Wesleyan Missionary Society, no efforts were made with any success till 1836. The great obstacle, doubtless, in the minds of those who might be disposed to come forward here, as in other islands, to plant schools and give to the Negro population an opportunity of reaping the same benefit from instruction which was offered to their fellows elsewhere, lay in the great preponderance of those professing the Roman-catholic faith over any other class. At the present day it is calculated that nine-tenths of the whole population are nominally of that church; and that it is an obstacle is not to be denied, and greatly to be lamented, when it is seen that the officiating clergy of the Roman-catholic communion have not the power, even if they had the will, to supply the labouring class with that needful measure of instruction and moral training, without which, in islands of the size and physical construction of Dominica, emancipation would, in the opinion of many, speedily show itself to be a curse rather than a blessing.

It is true that at this date the prospect has become much more cheering in several quarters far removed from the vicinity of the principal town. It will be seen that the Wesleyan Missionary Society, in conjunction with a few of the principal proprietors or their representatives, are particularly active, though their schools, however willingly made open to all, are scarcely frequented by the children of Roman-catholic parents as yet. If this is caused by any positive objection on the part of the Roman-catholic, or is the natural effect of the position of the schools in connexion with them, in the midst of estates appertaining to Protestant masters, is not clear. In the case of the few schools attached to the Established Church in the island, a certain proportion of this class are to be found among their scholars.

In town, these scholars attend their own French church on Sundays; in the country, there being else no opportunity for hallowing the day, the rector has judged proper that they should attend a short service in the school-house.

From the character of the gentlemen in the colony, who have been the first to step forward and set an example of active and earnest co-operation with the missionary in furthering the object in view, it is perhaps not a vain hope to look forward to a steady advance of the cause among the more enlightened and influential proprietors of the island.

Two several measures, emanating from what must unfortunately be called opposite parties in the Legislature of the colony, have been brought forward since the commencement of 1836 on the subject of Negro education.

One was in the form of a bill or motion, by a member of Assembly, to this purport (if the information received is correct): that the Legislature should assist the rector of the island to build five school-houses, namely, at Soufrière Bay, Pointe Michel, Colihaut, Coulibistre, and Prince Rupert's, by a grant of 100 l. sterling in each case; and should further allow 10 l. sterling per annum towards the stipend of each teacher, stating at the same time that if these sums were granted, there was no doubt but the religious societies in connexion with the Established Church would advance sums in further aid of the erection and support of the schools.

It appears that this proposition was thrown out at the second reading in the House of Assembly, whether in consequence of a counter-petition from the Roman-catholic clergy praying for its rejection, which was presented, or not, does not appear.

The other measure was introduced to the House on the 9th May 1836, in the form of a motion for the formation of a committee to inquire into the state of education among the labouring classes, &c. The report of the committee was brought up on the 10th, formed from the information received from the clergy of both the Established and Roman-catholic Churches, &c., and notice given of a resolution thereupon. On the 4th of October following, this resolution was brought forward, and passed unanimously in the House, in this form:

"Resolved, That upon the expiration of each quarter in the year, it shall and may be lawful for the Protestant rector, the Wesleyan missionary, and Roman-catholic clergyman within this island, to present to the Committee of Public Accounts, at their quarterly meeting, certified statements of the expenses incurred and due by them in the salaries of teachers, the hire of school-houses, purchase of school-books, and incidental charges attendant upon all schools for the instruction of the poor, which may have been in actual operation under the sanction of such ministers. Whereupon the said Committee of Public Accounts shall and they are hereby authorized and required, after deducting one-fourth of the total amount of such expenses, to pass the same as other claims against the colony. Provided always, that the portion of such expenses to be defrayed by the colony shall not exceed for each such minister the sum of fifty pounds per quarter; and provided also, that no account so presented shall be passed by the said Committee, unless it shall be certified to them that instruction at the said schools is imparted in the English language."

This resolution was forwarded to the Board of Council, but appeared not to meet with their approval, as no answer was returned.

The following session, on 11th July 1837, the same resolution was renewed, and again sent up to the Council; but at the period of the dissolution of the Assembly, in September, no answer had been received.

It was supposed that the trustees of the Mico Charity would take the case of this island into consideration, but no information could be obtained in the island as to their intentions.

Certain districts in the interior of Dominica may be said to support a large population on provision ground, coffee and chocolate plantations, and there are numerous spots of cultivation scattered over the lower mountains occupied by small proprietors of French descent, many of them claiming the service of a few apprentices. The estates are chiefly to be found upon the leeward coast, from the Soufrière Bay to Prince Rupert's, or within a short distance of the sea-board, and upon the north and north-eastern shores. The extreme north is principally if not altogether occupied by small French settlements.

The extended stretch of coast on the windward side of the island from Hatton Garden estate, situated on Ance Pagoua or Commissioner's Bay, down to Point Mulâtre, a distance of at least 16 miles in a direct line, only numbers four estates, at Castle Bruce, Rosalie, Dangleburns, and Bertrands, and these separated by long intervals of almost inaccessible mountain and forest.

The few Caribs remaining in the island form two small settlements, the smaller consisting of two families just to the north of Hatton Garden estate, and the large of ten, in the forests a few miles to the southward of the same estate. The latter live as it were without the pale of either the law or the church, as they are rarely if ever visited at present; but they have the character of being an inoffensive and mild race, occupying themselves with the chace or the manufacture of cane baskets, which they bring to market at Prince Rupert or Roseau. The country throughout is extremely mountainous and rugged, many of the clusters of estates on the leeward coast being separated by tremendous ravines. The canoe is the ordinary mode of travelling from the Soufrière Bay to Prince Rupert's, from whence a rude horse-road leads through the forests to Pointe de la Soye and to Hatton Garden. The whole of the interior of the island, from north to south, is occupied with ranges and groups of mountains covered with impenetrable forest, except in the line of the roads mentioned from Prince Rupert's to the La Soye district, and a few horse-roads traversing different points of the southern division. Some years ago, a difficult and laborious foot-path led over the very centre of the island, from Commissioner's Bay to St. Joseph's, but a few years' neglect have entirely blocked it for any passenger but a Carib Indian, till the expense and labour of reopening it is incurred.

THE basement story of the society's chapel furnishes the room for the school, carried on under the careful inspection of the resident missionary. Previous to July 1837, it numbered 120 on the list. At that time, in conjunction with the rector, the society's missionary made a regulation, that the children in this school should be admitted on the same terms as were adopted in the school in connexion with the Established Church.—See Enclosure to Schedule (A.)—As in the instance of that school, though there has been a decrease of numbers, the general effect has been far from disheartening, as there is a better attendance of those professing to belong to it, and consequently more proficiency and regular improvement.

Broderick's.—Day School (3 miles from Plymouth).—The Bishop.

A small school, well situated, and with a tolerable attendance; though the rule with regard to payment has been adopted here also. At Parson's, (2 miles from Plymouth,) there was another school of the same class; but in this instance the experiment did not succeed, and it has been broken up for the present.

Gerrald's.—Day School (13 miles from Plymouth).—The Bishop.

Situated in a remote corner of the parish towards the windward coast. The school-house is just completed, and, like others in the island of recent erection, is wattled and thatched. It was built at the private cost of the rector, with some slight assistance from the neighbours, and cost 25*l.* sterling. The salary of the teacher is paid by the Bishop.

The face of the country in the vicinity is extremely rugged, deep ravines separate the estates, which apparently lie contiguous to one another; but the site has been chosen with judgment, and the attendance was as good as circumstances admit. The evening school at Dayly's is in the neighbourhood.

All the schools mentioned thus far are to be visited by following the leeward road of the island.

White's.—Day School (9 miles from Plymouth).—The Bishop.

THIS little school is held in a miserable hovel on the estate of this name; the rector has, nevertheless, to pay rent for its occupation. The position is extremely well chosen however; and the attendance from this and the neighbouring estates very good. The proficiency of the children in reading was particularly pleasing.

It lies near the windward coast, about due east of Plymouth, in a country broken by deep ravines, but otherwise possessing a considerable population.

Reiley's.—Evening School (4 miles from Plymouth).

Is to be found on the same plantation as the day school at St. George's Church.

Carty's.—Day School (10 miles from Plymouth).—Wesleyan Missionary Society.

The day-school is held in a building which, till the new chapel at Bethel was completed, was used as a place of worship, and which, if properly furnished, would be well adapted to the purpose to which it is now devoted.

It is the property of the society. The school seems to have fluctuated considerably, from an attempt to enforce payment having been made. It is now virtually abandoned, and the children are received and instructed whether they pay or not.

A night-school has been given up on account of the poor attendance.

Both Carty's and Bethel chapel are to be found near the windward coast.

ST. PATRICK'S PARISH.

Roache's.—Day School (8 miles from Plymouth).—The Bishop.

Is a small but flourishing school, lying in a very wild and remote district, difficult of access, near the S. E. point of the island. It is under the charge and inspection of the rector of St. Anthony.

The island of Monserrat presents an extremely broken and varied surface.

The centre, for the greater part, consists of almost inaccessible mountains, covered with dense forest, and even where the country slopes towards the sea coast, or extends between the flanks of the several groups, the surface is commonly seen furrowed with deep and broad ravines, serving as channels for innumerable mountain torrents.

The consequence of this configuration is, that not only are the cultivable districts rarely of any considerable unbroken extent, but, even where estates lie seemingly adjacent to each other, an examination of the country shows them to be wide apart, and communication from one to another only to be maintained by circuitous foot or horse-roads, always rugged and difficult, and in the rainy season liable to be completely blocked, from the sudden swell of torrents descending from the mountains, and depositing in their passage large accumulations of stone and gravel.

When this is understood, it will be conceived why the clergy of the island, in availing themselves of the scanty means placed at their disposal for the promotion of education among among the labouring population on the estates, have thought it incumbent upon them to give the preference to the erection of many small schools, built at as little expense as possible, and dispersed over the island wherever circumstances favoured them, rather than to the concentration of their means in but one or two spots, by the erection of more substantial buildings, and the formation of schools of greater pretensions than those now existing. In this manner it will be seen, that by the exertion of equal zeal and sound judgment, no less than eight day-schools, exclusive of that in town, have been set on foot since 1834, and maintained in a great measure, less by assistance from ordinary sources, than by the unwearied exertions of the resident rural dean and other clergy.

In the country, the instruction is, as may be gathered, principally confined to reading and catechization.

Monserrat is a poor colony; many considerable estates have been relinquished, and the majority of the proprietors find, in the plea of the depressed state of prospects of the colony, an excuse for not evincing more interest in the education of the labouring population.

It would appear that no measure in any degree connected with this subject has as yet emanated from the Legislature.

Nothing proves the absence of any advance of feeling on this subject among the upper classes of the community, with exceeding rare exceptions, as to see that when the clergy find energy and means to plant a little school on an estate in a deserted district, without any other means of instruction, that far from seeing those whose apprentice children are benefited by the step coming forward to assist in its maintenance, they have actually been obliged to draw upon their scanty means for wherewith to pay the rent of a shed on the estate, or a Negro house to hold the school in. The character of the Negro in this colony is described by even their best friends as extremely listless and indolent; and it has been experienced that no assistance can be expected from them in the country parts of the island in the erection of the school-houses founded for their peculiar benefit.

There are some Roman-catholics in this island, but no resident priest.

ST. CHRISTOPHER'S.

Parishes of St. George's and St. Peter's, Basseterre.

Basseterre, Central National Schools; Boys, Girls; and Irish and New Town Infant Schools.
See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Basseterre, Day School, The Moravian Missionary Society.
See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Moravian Missionary Society.

Basseterre, Sunday School, The Wesleyan Missionary Society.

The Society had recently a day school in this town, in addition to the Sunday school, which is well conducted, and more efficiently than schools of this class frequently are. It has been found necessary to suspend the former till the arrival of a teacher from Europe, who is expected shortly.

The chapel will, probably, be made use of in the first instance; but the missionaries of the society express their wish to build a regular school-house if the land and means can be procured.

Basseterre, Female Benevolent Institution, Church-street.

This praiseworthy charity is supported by voluntary contributions from individuals in the colony, with occasional aid from the Ladies' Negro Education Society, and other similar societies in England. It originated, in 1835, in the desire expressed by a few charitable ladies of the coloured class to furnish the means of education and religious instruction to free coloured female children. It is still confined to such. The children are all taken into the institution under 11 years of age, and are lodged, fed, clothed, and instructed in the asylum. In addition to the common branches of instruction they are taught to occupy a portion of their time in attending to household duties, washing, straw-platting, and straw-hat cleaning. The proceeds from the branches of industry are applied to the maintenance of the institution. The committee, which is composed entirely of ladies, meets at stated periods, and publishes a half-yearly report. At a suitable age the girls are either apprenticed by the committee or taken into service. The asylum is considered as dependent upon the Wesleyan society's missionary for religious instruction, and charity sermons are preached occasionally at the Wesleyan chapel in aid of the funds. The means of the committee are very limited, and the income hardly adequate to meet the ordinary outlay necessary for the maintenance of the institution, which may be said to amount to about 300 l. currency; and, limited as the numbers supported by it are at present, there can be no hope of extending its advantages to a larger number, however great the demand, as long as the debt of 500 l. currency, remaining from the purchase of the buildings, &c. occupied by the children, remains unliquidated.

In addition to the schools here enumerated in the town of Basseterre, there existed, till recently, a colonial school, known under the name of the Charitable Institution, founded originally in 1803, for the education of white children, and supported, in the first instance, by voluntary subscription. A few years later it was patronised by the Legislature, and was subsequently maintained by annual grants of 2,000 l. currency and under. Twelve children were latterly placed upon the foundation as permanent boarders, and 22 received as day-boarders, and instructed in the common branches of education. The children were not admitted under the age of seven years, or above that of ten, nor retained after that of 14. The institution was placed under the management of a committee nominated by the Legislature. It was superintended by a principal and a matron. In 1836 it was abandoned, the Home Government having refused to recognise the renewal of the law enacted by the Colonial Legislature, by which it was to be maintained on the same exclusive system, though the funds from which that support was to be drawn were taken from the island treasury, towards which all classes of the free colonists furnished their proportion.

Estate Schools, in the two Parishes, attached to the Established Church.

As to the good effects resulting from the establishment of these small schools in the vicinity of Basseterre there can be no doubt entertained; and it is to be regretted so much difficulty exists in furnishing the small stipends necessary for their being carried on.

They owe both their origin and their maintenance, with scarcely an exception, to the earnest zeal and perseverance of the late rector of Basseterre, whose personal influence and personal exertions have effected what certainly could not otherwise have been attempted; and it is greatly to be feared that, unless timely aid be given, many of them will now fall to the ground. In some instances the estate has furnished a room, in others a small gratuity has been paid for the use of one to the owner of the cottage. The teachers are, as may be supposed, of very humble pretensions and attainments; but under a steady and regular inspection on the part of the clergy there can be no doubt of the good effect of this class of schools throughout the islands. Besides the number of children specified in attendance, it is not unusual for young or adult apprentices to step in occasionally for an hour or more, at moments of leisure, for the sake of instruction.

Remarks on the several Schools.

Of the estate schools, that at Salt Pond is the only one situated at any considerable distance from the town, and that lies near the extremity of the long rugged promontory which forms the extremity of the island to the southward. It is six or eight miles distant by water, and can, consequently, be rarely visited.

Estate Schools, Moravian Missionary Society.

These schools are of much the same character as the foregoing, the instruction being confined to reading and catechization. The children of each are conducted once a week to the Moravian settlement at Basseterre to receive religious instruction from the missionaries.

In addition to those named, there was a fifth held till recently at Lagreet's estate, begun at the same epoch, and at one time numbering 36 scholars, but now discontinued from the indifferent attendance of the children.

Greatheeds, (2 ½ miles from Basseterre,) Wesleyan Missionary Society.

This is a flourishing school, held in a commodious building, serving the society as a temporary chapel, lying on the confines of St. Mary, Cayon. There was also an evening school held here till very lately, which was very well attended, but which it was judged proper to discontinue on account of its leading to disorder.

St. Mary, Cayon, Parochial School, (6 miles from Basseterre) The Vestry.

It is observed that the attendance of the children at this school is very irregular, and that this is an obstacle in the way of the steady improvement of the scholars. It is open to all classes of the population. The vestry is well disposed towards the education of the poor, and it cannot be stated otherwise with regard to the proprietors. The former levied a tax of 1*d.* sterling, per acre on the property in the parish in 1836, to pay the stipend of the teacher 25*l.*, and offers to do the same in the present year if the bishop will give a similar sum. There is no school-house provided, and the occupation of the parish church is therefore the only alternative.

Bethesda, The Moravian Missionary Society.

It was proposed to build a school-house at this settlement, with the assistance of the Government grant of 1836; but circumstances have rendered the transfer of the sum originally appropriated for this place to Bethel, in St. John's, Capisterre, where greater necessity exists for such a building.

The general proficiency of the scholars in the school held here may be considered satisfactory, though the attendance is not always as full and regular as could be desired.

Cayon, Day School, Wesleyan Missionary Society.

This school is in the vicinity of the two above named, and is held in the society's chapel. The children are all of very tender age, and the attendance appeared to be more than usually indifferent.

It is to be observed, of the 12 estate schools connected with the Established Church, in this and the adjoining parish of Christchurch, or Nicola Town, that, at the time that the district was inspected, they had all been suspended for some months previous, from the want of funds to purchase the few articles (books, candles, &c,) necessary for their being carried on; but that they were on the point of re-opening, the apprentices themselves having come forward and subscribed a small sum for the purchase of what was unavoidably necessary. They are all to a certain degree under the inspection of a young coloured man, authorized by the rector. He visits each in turn, and assists the apprentice who acts as teacher with advice. How they will continue to exist, or what will be their character or efficiency, it is not easy to say.

In Christchurch parish a day-school had existed till within a few weeks at the parish church, but had been just abandoned in consequence of the mistress's salary being in arrears.

The Wesleyan Missionary Society is desirous of commencing a school in this parish, and of building, with the aid of Government.

It is computed that there are at present 800 free children of apprentices within the limit of the above two parishes.

PARISH OF ST. JOHN'S, CAPISTERRE.

Dieppe Bay, National School, The Bishop.

THIS school has fluctuated so much of late years, that it has now scarcely half the number of scholars with which it commenced six years ago. It is evidently in a very low and neglected state. The school-house which it occupies is one of those originally hired by the branch association of the Conversion Society. The society has now, as far as could be ascertained, ceased to exist, and left no funds for the discharge of present rent or of the arrears. The payment of the arrears of salary of the schoolmistress is also doubtful, and as the vestry gives no assistance whatever, it will not be wondered that the school is conducted without spirit.

Dieppe Bay, Day School, Wesleyan Missionary Society.

A numerously attended school, in the same little town as the preceding, and evidently conducted with care and efficiency. It is held in the chapel. The children are mostly from the neighbouring estates.

Bethel, (one mile from Dieppe Bay, 14 miles from Basseterre), Moravian Missionary Society.
See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Moravian Missionary Society.

The Tabernacle, (10 miles from Basseterre), The Wesleyan Missionary Society.

This newly-established school is situated exactly upon the line of the two parishes of Christchurch and of St. John's, Capisterre. It is held in a spacious watted shed, used as an occasional place of worship. The attendance here was far better than in the generality of schools in this island, and few of any description that have been visited in the same unexpected manner, at a late hour in the day, have appeared in an equally favourable light, or one more calculated to impress upon the mind the certainty that both teacher and scholars are intent upon their respective duties.

The school-house is situated at some distance from the coast, and well calculated for the attendance of the children on the estates at the foot of the mountains.

From the very tender age of those at present in attendance, it may be considered as merely an infant school.

The population of the parish of St. John's, Capisterre, estimated at 1,738.

PARISH OF ST. PAUL'S, CAPISTERRE.

Willet's Estate, Infant School, (16 miles from Basseterre.)

THIS is the only day school in the parish for the children of apprentices, and this has been but just commenced, and is for the present confined to the children on the estate.

It is intended to form an evening school shortly.

A Sunday school was recently held at the church, but has been given up.

There are, it is stated, 260 free children of apprentices in this parish.

The population of the parish of St. Paul's, Capisterre, estimated at 1,691.

PARISH OF ST. ANN.

Sandy Point, National School, (12 miles from Basseterre), The Bishop.

THE same observations which were made upon the day school at Dieppe Bay are unfortunately applicable to this, both as regards the school-house, school, and the difficult position of the person in charge. Though not in quite so neglected state as the other, as some of the children in attendance were evidently making good progress in all the common branches, the consequences are evident.

The sudden and unforeseen failure of the sources depended upon for the maintenance of the the various schools established in this island some years ago is severely felt, and to be lamented, as far as this parish is concerned also.

Remarks on the several Schools.

There existed in it, previous to 1835, in connexion with the Established Church, day schools on Causton's, Bottom's, Burt's, and Bourke's estates; when the withdrawal or non-payment of the small salaries allowed to the teachers caused them all to be abandoned. About 346 children were instructed for little more than 32 l. sterling per annum, the salary in the case of each school being about 8 l. None of those employed have been wholly paid even to this day.

Sandy Point, Day School, Wesleyan Missionary Society.

This school is to be considered in a promising state as to the progress of the scholars, though the attendance is not as full as might be wished. The parents of the children are principally inhabitants of the small town adjacent. The Sunday school is carefully organized, and under the superintendence of 24 teachers, regularly appointed by the missionary.

The only estate school in the parish is under the care of the Wesleyan Missionary Society.

The population of the parish of St. Ann's, Sandy Point, is estimated at 2,211.

Parish of St. Thomas, Middle Island.

Old Road Town, Day School, (six miles from Basseterre), The Bishop.

The national school in this small town lies under much the same blight as others of its class in the colony, and has diminished to one-third of the number of scholars which its list exhibited previous to 1834.

The instruction is confined, with but trivial exception, to reading and catechization; needlework is not taught.

There is no Sunday school at the parish church.

There existed, some short time ago, a day school on Walk estate, in this parish, nominally in connexion with the Established Church. It is now understood to be relinquished.

Old Road Town, Day School, Mr. Challenger.

This school, though very confined as to numbers, and in fact a private one, is noticed in this place, because it is opened by the young man in question solely for the benefit of the children of apprentices or of any others disposed to attend, and instruction is gratuitously given.

Old Road Town, Day School, Wesleyan Missionary Society.

The attendance here is numerous, and like other schools in the island, under the care of the society, is conducted with energy, and as far as the instruction extends, must be considered as efficient. There is no proper school-house, but the chapel is given up for the use of the children during the week days. The society have no schools on estates in this parish.

Half-Way Tree, (nine miles from Basseterre), Wesleyan Missionary Society.

See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Wesleyan Missionary Society.

The population of the parish of St. Thomas, Middle Island, is estimated at 2,896.

Trinity Parish.

Palmetto Point, Day School, (four miles from Basseterre.)

This small school is quite in its infancy, conducted under the eye of the rector, in a building adjacent to his residence.

It is proposed, as will be seen from Schedule (A), that three school-houses or chapel schools should be speedily erected in this parish, with the funds of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, aided by Government.

Palmetto Point, Day School, (half a mile distant from the above,) Wesleyan Missionary Society.

This school is under the inspection of the society's missionary, at Old Road Town, and is held in a chapel recently erected. It is of the same class, subject to the same general observations made upon similar ones on the Leeward coast.

The population of the parish of Trinity, Palmetto Point, is estimated at 1,592.

It may be gathered from the foregoing remarks, and from the accompanying schedule, that, in regard to this colony, it is not so much from the want of schools that the island may appear to labour under disadvantages with reference to education, as from the inefficiency and decay of a large proportion of those which might naturally be expected to lead the way in setting the example of affording sound and wholesome instruction to the labouring classes. This is mainly observable to the schools in connexion with the Established Church throughout the island, with the exception of those in the principal town and its immediate vicinity. It will not be necessary to seek for the causes of this falling off beyond that already intimated, viz. the almost total failure and suspension of the funds, in reliance upon the steadiness of which most of them had been set on foot, and were altogether dependent for their maintenance, both as regards the payment of salaries, and, in many cases, that of the rent of the building used as school-house.

Where

Where the teacher stayed at his or her post under the discouragement of a great and unexpected reduction of salary, merely out of respect to the entreaties of the resident clergy, whose anxiety to see the ground continue to be occupied, and expectation that present difficulties could not be of long duration, are perfectly comprehensible. It is not to be wondered that the state of the school should rather tend to deteriorate than to improve; and still less surprise can be entertained that such a school should be conducted without zeal, energy, or spirit, when still later the individual in charge merely retained the place from a feeling that to do otherwise would deprive him or her of the only chance of receiving arrears which were due, or of being employed at a future time.

As to local means of carrying on these schools, there seem to exist none. Neither the legislature of the colony, nor the vestries of the parishes, in general, have been excited by a feeling of the urgency of the case to offer assistance. Moreover, however expedient the experiment might be, it seems to be completely futile, at this time, to expect the parents of the children will come forward to the support of the institutions set on foot for the benefit of their offspring, particularly in cases where the schools had hitherto been free to all without any charge, and where, perhaps, the alternative of sending their children to another school, equally accessible, where no such demand would be made, was open to them.

The clergy in the island, and the bishop, to whom they naturally looked for aid, in particular, have been placed in circumstances of great difficulty and embarrassment.

At the same time that the funds formerly placed in the hands of his lordship by the home societies to be applied to the purpose in question have been so greatly reduced in amount, it is to be gathered that the St. Christopher's Branch Association of the Society for the Conversion, &c. of the Negro, which but a few years ago was in full activity, has almost ceased to exist. There is a branch association of the Ladies' Negro Education Society at Basseterre, with whose aid, it is understood that the schools in and about that town have in some measure been carried on.

The Wesleyan missionaries, whose long standing in the colony has given them a preponderating influence in some districts, have, it will have been seen, commenced a considerable number of schools, dispersed through the different parishes. They are maintained wholly by the society. It is not understood that a charge for instruction has hitherto been made. However modest in pretension, from the limited extent of knowledge possessed by the teachers employed, they are, with a single exception, evidently zealously and steadily conducted, and under careful inspection.

It must be conceded that, at the present time, in all the country parishes, the day and Sunday schools of the society, in addition to those in connexion with the Moravian Missionary Society at Bethesda and Bethel, afford the sole means of efficient instruction within the reach of the labouring population, with but very little exception.

The difficulty experienced in some of the other mountainous West India Islands in making choice of suitable central positions for the erection of school-houses, accessible to the children of several estates, cannot be said to exist here. By far the greater majority of the estates are to be found spread over the sloping base of the steep forested chain, which occupies the centre of the island, where they form a band of cultivation, lying confined between the sea-coast and the forests, of rarely more than two miles in breadth. There are no coffee or other plantations in the interior. Some of the parishes are intersected by deep ravines, forming the bed of torrents, impassable in rainy weather; but, nevertheless, the estates are so disposed that a school-house, wherever placed with judgment, might be accessible at all times to the children of several, at a greater or shorter distance, without fear of interruption even from this cause.

NEVIS.

St. Paul's Parish.

Charlestown, National School.

This school is held in a building in the churchyard, which was originally a vestry-room, but which, some years ago, was given up by the parish for the purpose of a school-house; a story being added for the use of the national, while the basement was occupied by the infant school.

The latter was commenced in 1835, and at the time of its being suspended, a few months ago, consisted of 50 children.

The National school can hardly be said to have been in operation from some time previous to the colony being visited. This was accounted for in some measure by the sickness of the master.

It could not otherwise be considered in a satisfactory state, though it had evidently flourished formerly, and been much more effective than at present. The reduction of the teachers' salaries is adduced as one reason; the extremely unhealthy state of the colony in 1837, may, perhaps, be adduced as another.

Charlestown, Day School, Wesleyan Missionary Society.

This school occupies an excellent school-house, built by the society on the mission land. The children under instruction were making satisfactory progress; and the whole was conducted with great order, and under careful inspection. Nevertheless, it has decreased in numbers to what it was in 1836, from one cause or other; but chiefly, it is judged, from the attempt which was making to induce the parents of the children to pay a trifling sum. This was not expected to succeed.

The society have no schools on estates; but the missionaries have sufficient opportunity offered them for the establishment of such, if they had the means to support them.

Charlestown, Sunday School, Parish Church.—See Sunday Schools at four other Parish Churches.

The sum of 100*l.* has been annually placed for some years back by the New England Society in the hands of the president of the island of Nevis, to provide salaries for the five Sunday-school teachers at the several parish churches. It is understood to be equally divided amongst them, with some little deduction for the purchase of books.

St. George's Gingerland, (five miles from Charlestown,) Wesleyan Missionary Society. See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Wesleyan Missionary Society.

Bachelor's Hall, Day School, (two miles from the foregoing, seven from Charlestown,) Wesleyan Missionary Society.

A small but well-conducted school, under the inspection of the same party as the foregoing, held in a chapel; school furnished and arranged for the society by the proprietor of the estate. It is well situated for the convenience of the children of the estates on the coast.

Stoney Hill, Day School, (seven miles from Charlestown, one mile from Gingerland, W.M.S.) The Proprietors.

This is the only estate school in the island. It originated with, and is supported by the proprietors, under the inspection of the rector. The children in attendance were all from the estate, but it is not understood that others would be excluded.

Stoney Hill is situated at the base of the central mountain of the island.

St. James's Parish Church, Day School, The Bishop; and Newcastle Day School.

These schools, which lie two miles apart, on the northern coast, are carried on under very disadvantageous circumstances, though both are well situated, and accessible to the children on several estates. The teachers in both cases, however willing, are hardly competent to effect much, and are dispirited for want of regular and sufficient remuneration. The rector of the parish is fully alive to the poverty of their attempts to educate the children of the labouring class, but has no means or power to improve them.

It was proposed to build a school-house at the small village of Newcastle, with the aid of the Government grants; but no land has hitherto been found suited to the purpose.

The same observations as were made with reference to the present state of schools in connexion with the Established Church in the island of St. Christopher, in accounting for their inefficiency, are equally applicable in the case of Nevis, where all of that class are in a state of spiritless depression; while the contrary may be said with truth of the three schools under the charge of the Wesleyan missionaries.

But while alluding to that blight which has arrested the progress of education in Nevis, and has followed the reduction or non-payment of salaries; and to the great apathy with regard to the interests of the population in this particular, which is evinced by both the colonial legislature, the vestries of parishes, and the proprietors of estates, with but few exceptions, in Nevis; it is but just to admit that the plea of poverty preferred in apology of the absence of local aid in this colony is to a certain degree but too well-grounded.

Many estates have been relinquished; many more are deeply embarrassed; a disastrous fire has recently consumed a large part of the principal town; and this year a virulent fever, attacking all ranks without discrimination, has been fatally prevalent. One thing is evident, that for the present all that is effected in favour of education in this island must be effected by aid from without.

It has been observed that the sum of 100 l. sterling has been for some years put into the hands of the president for educational purposes, and applied to the payment of the salaries of Sunday schoolmasters connected with the parish. But it may be doubted whether its application in that manner, under present circumstances, is that which is most calculated to be productive of the greatest benefit. At one time the portion which fell to the share of St. Paul's parish was applied to the part payment of the teacher of the infant school in Charlestown.

The Wesleyans appear to consider the field open to them for the establishment of other schools in the colony, and, if funds could be obtained, are ready to commence six, without loss of time.

ANGUILLA.

The Valley, Day School, The Bishop.

This school, which is very respectably conducted, and has been of much advantage to the island, has suffered a diminution of numbers recently from various causes. It has been recommended that a small sum should be required weekly from the parents of the children, towards the salary of the master and mistress, their stipend from the bishop having been reduced to half of that which was originally given. There is no prospect of the arrangement being productive of any other effect than that of driving away the few who attend. At one time there were 100 scholars on the books. The building in which it is held was erected in 1836 by the vestry. The dimensions are 40 ft. by 20 ft. It is built of wood, on a stone foundation. As the church, which was founded at the same time, 1,000 l. being advanced by Government for its erection, has never risen above the foundation, the schoolhouse is used as a place of worship, and Divine service is regularly performed there by the rector, who lives in the immediate vicinity. The progress of the few children in attendance in the day school is upon the whole encouraging. An evening school has recently been discontinued, few or none taking advantage of it.

The Wesleyans are erecting a chapel in the same quarter of the island, and propose shortly placing here a resident missionary, and the commencement of a day school. They had, in fact, one of their body stationed here previous to 1835, when he was withdrawn, and since that time Anguilla has only been visited once a quarter by the society's missionary from St. Martin's. Since the proposition was made on the part of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel to erect another school-house in the Spring division of the island, with the aid of the Parliamentary grant of 1835 (see Enclosure to Schedule A.), the future prospects and general position of Anguilla have changed so considerably, in consequence of the emigration of the labouring class, and the abandonment of estates, that the idea may at this time be considered as relinquished. The falling off in numbers, remarked in the case of the above day school, is certainly to be partly attributed to these circumstances.

In event of the sugar estates being depopulated and relinquished, the salt-ponds would form the only source of profit on the island; and the quantity and quality of their produce are necessarily very uncertain.

As it is, the island can hardly be said to possess the power of supporting itself. The rector and the officials of every description are paid by the Home Government.

THE VIRGIN ISLANDS.

TORTOLA.—(November 1837.)

Road Town, Day Schools; Boys and Girls; the Bishop.

THERE is no proper locality provided for either of these schools. Though it cannot be said that the prospects of either the boys' or the girls' school are discouraging, the simultaneous opening of the other day school in the town, under the Wesleyan Society, has, perhaps, kept them much lower as to numbers than was expected in the first instance.

The master of the boys' school is a young pupil from the central school in Antigua. The female teacher may be justly considered to be actuated by the desire of doing good, rather than by the hope of adding to her future comfort, from the very inadequate remuneration offered for her services.

Her own family dwelling serves as a school-house.

Road Town, Day School; Wesleyan Missionary Society.

The children in attendance upon this school are chiefly those of parents attached to the Wesleyan Society at Road Town and in its immediate vicinity.

It is well conducted under the eye of the society's missionaries, and promises to prove effective.

The Sunday-schools in connexion with the society here, and in other parts of the island, have been numerously attended; but the destruction of the temporary places of worship, both at the east and west end of the island, by the recent hurricane, has, for the time, checked the progress of instruction in those quarters.

Kingston, African village, (2 miles from Road Town).

At the time this settlement was visited (October 31) the day school was suspended, from the circumstance that the almost total destruction of the African huts by the hurricane of August had necessitated the appropriation of the substantially built school-house, situated on the hill above, as a place of refuge for the sick and houseless. It was, however, to be recommenced after a brief interval.

The master is paid by the custom-house. The rector attends every Sunday for the performance of Divine service and catechization.

Virgin Gorda, Day School, (18 miles from Road Town); the Bishop.
(See Enclosure to Schedule (A), The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.)

A catechist, licensed by the bishop, resides on this island; and it is occasionally visited both by the rector of Tortola and the Wesleyan missionaries from Road Town.

Remarks on the several Schools.

With reference to the other islands comprised in the British division of this group, it may be observed, that in Anegada, the third island in point of size, which was visited on November 3, three several attempts have been made to establish schools since the formation of the Windward and Leward Islands into a diocese.

The most recent was made in July 1837, and a small school was commenced, under two females, for giving instruction in reading and psalmody during two hours each day; and for a time 38, chiefly apprentices, were in attendance; but this has already fallen to the ground for want of funds to carry it on.

The poverty of the island, which is a mere bed of coral rock raised but few feet over the surface of the ocean, is yet greater than that of Virgin Gorda. It hardly produces anything beyond a few fruits and ground provisions; and it is to wrecking that the islanders have, from time immemorial, looked for their main subsistence. Local aid in the formation or maintenance of schools must be considered as quite out of the question.

Even in Tortola, whatever may be the disposition of the principal proprietors and of the colonial legislature, no active measures, public or private, have been set on foot recently to advance education and religious instruction among the poor apprentice population; and the poverty of the island is the plea upon which that apparent apathy rests for excuse.

A small day school existed for some time on Salt Island, in connexion with the Established Church; but this has been relinquished for want of means to support a teacher; and even a Sunday school of the Wesleyan missionaries, held upon a considerable key, called Joes van Dykes, has recently been given up.

That body is anxious to obtain the aid of their committee and of Government to erect substantial chapel schools, both at the east and west end of the island of Tortola: no land had been secured, but it was not supposed that its acquisition would be difficult.

LADY MICO'S CHARITY.

o's Charity.

REPORT of the TRUSTEES of Lady Mico's Charity.

COPY of a LETTER from the Rev. Mr. Trew, Secretary to the Mico Charity, to Lord Glenelg.

My Lord, Colonial Office, 31 May 1838.

I HAVE the honour herewith to transmit to your Lordship, for the information of Her Majesty's Government, the First Report of the Trustees of the Mico Charity.

On this occasion, I am directed by the trustees to call your Lordship's particular attention to the fact, that in order fully to carry into effect the various operations in the colonies to which their attention has from time to time been directed by Her Majesty's Government, the sum of 20,000 l. will be required for the current year. With this sum the trustees hope to be enabled to extend the blessings of Christian education, to the amount noticed in their Report, through the different colonies, and further to meet a few other cases of extreme necessity more recently brought under their consideration.

I have, &c.

(signed) J. M. Trew, Secretary Mico Charity.

THIS Charity, having for its object the religious and moral Instruction of the Negro and Coloured Population of the British Colonies, was established on the 29th day of July 1835.

Its Origin.

Dame Jane Mico, widow of Sir Samuel Mico, knight, by her will, dated 1st July 1670, bequeathed, in a case that afterwards occurred, the moiety of a sum of 2,000 l. "to redeem poor slaves," which she directed should be put out, as her executors thought best, for a yearly revenue to redeem some yearly.

About the year 1680, the Court of Chancery, in a suit which was then instituted for the establishment of the above charity, decreed that the 1,000 l. legacy should be laid out in the purchase of lands, and that the rents and profits thence arising should be applied according to the intent of the testatrix.

Pursuant to this decree, a certain freehold wharf and premises in Castle Baynard, London, were purchased with the legacy, and conveyed to Lady Mico's executors.

Divers subsequent proceedings were had with respect to the charity, but no scheme for the application of the funds was ever approved, nor was any part of the funds applied at any time according to the will of the foundress, except that, under a decree of the Court of Chancery on the 16th June 1731, three-fourths of what then constituted the charity funds were transferred to Sir Charles Wager, knight, to be applied as therein mentioned.

In the year 1827, on the death of Mr. Barker, the last trustee of the said charity, his executors brought the subject once more before the Court of Chancery; and that Court referred it to Lord Henley, the Master, (amongst other things,) to appoint proper persons to be trustees of the charity funds and estate, and to devise a proper scheme for the application of the dividends, rents, and profits, according to the will of the foundress; and if the Master should find that the same could not be executed according to her will, then as near its intent as po sible, regard being had to existing circumstances.

In the settling of the scheme many difficulties and hindrances arose in various quarters, which were not overcome until the year 1835, when the Master, by his report, approved the scheme under which the operations of the charity are now being carried on. And by an order made by the Master of the Rolls on the 29th of July 1835, the Master's report was confirmed, the appointment of one of the trustees vested in the Secretary of State for the Colonies, and the present charity established.

The following seven gentlemen were appointed by the Court of Chancery to be trustees:

James Gibson, esq.
Stephen Lushington, LL.D.
Thomas Fowell Buxton, esq.
* Charles Raymond Barker, esq.
James Stephen, esq.
Thomas Pickard Warren, esq.
John Gurney Hoare, esq.

Mr. Barker is tely dead.

3. Report on Lady Mico's Charity.

RESULTS.

The trustees report, fourthly, some of the results attending their labours.

JAMAICA.

The commencement of their labours may be dated from the departure of their first teachers from England on the 1st November 1835. On the 15th December they arrived at Kingston, and on the 23d January, little more than one month after the arrival of the teachers (who had every arrangement to make in the meanwhile regarding schoolrooms, &c.), there were 395 infants, children and adults, under instruction: such was the Mico Charity in its beginning.

Next, as to the progress of the charity: on the 3d December 1836, at the expiration of scarcely one year from the commencement, the trustees had the following schools in active operation in this island; viz.

1 Normal
8 Boys'
6 Girls'
8 Infant
9 Adult and
6 Sunday } Schools;

comprising on their list, throughout these 38 schools, 3,013 scholars.

At the beginning of the present year the numbers on the list, including boys, girls, infants and adults, stood as follows:

On the list - - - - - - 5,136
Average attendance - - - - 3,808

The following TABLE exhibits a general view of the Labours of the Charity in this Island.

NORMAL SCHOOLS.

3. Report on Lady Mico's Charity.

The establishment of Normal Schools, designed for the training of native teachers, early engaged the attention of the trustees; and their first institution of this kind was founded in the city of Kingston, "where," as stated by Mr. Latrobe, "the whole premises of the Mico Institution are extremely well arranged, and may be considered in every way permanently established and in full operation."

The following Table presents an outline of the expense attending it, as well as of the progress which has been made in the prosecution of this department:

Schools.	TEACHERS.	Salary. Sterling.	Salary. Currency.	Probable Amount of Annual Contingent Expenses.	Currency.
Male - -	Head Master, Assistant Secretary, and general Superintendent of the Charity's Schools throughout the Island, including salary of Mistress - -	400		Board of 15 Teachers in training, at £. 30 per annum - - -	450

There is no branch of their operations which the trustees feel to be of greater importance than their normal schools. The expenses attending European teachers, together with their liability to suffer from a tropical climate, impress on them very strongly the necessity of using the most strenuous efforts in order to train, from amongst the natives of the colonies, persons who may become properly qualified for discharging efficiently the duties of that office. The difficulties existing on this point are matter of loud complaint by all persons connected with the education of the apprentices, &c.; and whilst the trustees are labouring as far as they can in order to their removal, it is their anxious wish to extend, to the utmost of their means, the advantages of their normal schools to all who are bearing a part, in common with themselves, in this interesting work. To this end they lately acceded to an application from the Ladies' Negro Education Society, soliciting the admission of their teachers to the training schools; and, more recently, to an application from the missionaries of the United Brethren for a similar purpose. The trustees are most anxious to open the advantages of that institution as widely as possible, and are only prevented by the absence of suitable funds from extending them to every Christian missionary who may be desirous of availing himself of such facilities for conducting his schools through the medium of native agency.

Regarding the effects which may have been produced among the apprentices of this island, through the blessing of God on their labours, the trustees would here merely invite attention to the facts relative to the previous state, to the subsequent improvement, and to the existing feelings of the parents and children with respect to education in this island, as displayed in Appendix (A.)

The next station to which the trustees would advert, is Trinidad.

Extensive premises have been purchased at Port of Spain, in order to the establishment of a normal institution in this island also. This design the trustees hope in due time to be able to carry into full effect. In the meanwhile, a considerable measure of success has attended their efforts in Trinidad, as will appear from the following returns:

Description of Schools.	Number on the Books.			Average Attendance.
	Males.	Females.	Total.	Males.	Females.	Total.
Normal - - -	3	3	6	3	3	6
Boys' - - - -	140	- -	140	72	- -	72
Girls' - - - -	- -	76	76	- -	36	36
Infant - - - -	126	52	178	54	26	80
Adult - - - -	310	- -	310	98	- -	98
Total - - -	579	131	710	227	65	292

From this island the trustees have received satisfactory assurances of co-operation from persons of different religious persuasions, whose statements show at the same time the destitution that prevails with regard to Christian education, and the fitness of the plans laid down by this charity, for ameliorating, in common with other religious bodies, the moral and religious condition of the people. Vide Appendix (B.)

Mauritius.

The moral destitution of this fine colony has for some time engaged the serious consideration of the trustees; the difficulty, however, of finding suitable teachers conversant with the French language, has in some manner retarded their operations. Three teachers are however at present actively employed, and four are on their passage, besides a few native teachers who are supposed, from instructions sent to the superintendent of this station, to be by this time similarly engaged.

Total		515

By accounts received from this island to the 2d January, it appears that three additional schools have been commenced, making the total number of schools in operation at that period to have been six.

Barbadoes.

At this station also the trustees have not been unmindful of the advantages derived from a well-appointed Model School, which, although small in comparison with their establishments at Jamaica and Trinidad, has nevertheless been found of some benefit to that island.

The following presents a summary of the persons receiving instruction from the charity at this station:

Bridge Town, Baxter's-road (daily school)	140
Ditto (evening and Sunday)	160
Ditto Nelson-street (daily)	50
Belle Plantation (ditto)	50
Ditto (evening)	60
Total	460

The trustees refer to the examination of their superintendent in Barbadoes before the committee of council, appointed to inquire into the education of the apprentices and free children in that island (Appendix C.), as containing fuller information in detail from this station.

Bahamas.

The Normal School, established by Her Majesty's Government at Nassau, has recently been placed under the direction of the trustees. The design of this institution was not so much to meet the necessities of that particular locality as to furnish teachers for the neighbouring islands, many of which appear still to be without any means for the education of the population.

Reference to Appendix (D.) will more fully explain these particulars.

The latest accounts from Nassau state the total number of children attending the school to be 160.

The following brief summary exhibits at one view the extent of the labours of the trustees at the different islands, referred to in the preceding returns.

The numbers include adult, Sabbath, daily and infant school attendance.

Total	16	11	27

Preparations are being made for speedily supplying others to the island of Dominica, making a total of 13 colonies to which the labours of the charity have been directed, and to the support of schools at which the trustees are now pledged.

The responsibility they have assumed in sending out a considerable number of European teachers, and in occupying a sphere of operation so far beyond the resources at their disposal from the Mico fund, are too evident to need remark. Resting, however, with implicit confidence on the continued support of Her Majesty's Government, they unhesitatingly go forward in the prosecution of those purposes to which it has required their attention, trusting that means will not be wanting for still farther extending the blessings of a Christian education to that numerous portion of the negro race scattered over the colonies, who have not yet participated in any degree in such blessings.

Difficulties and Encouragement.

In a work of such magnitude and importance, designed to meet the friendly support and co-operation of all Christian denominations (vide Rules and Regulations, Appendix E.), it was to be expected that the charity would be viewed with a degree of jealousy and suspicion by some of every party.

It is not the intention of the trustees to dwell upon the difficulties thrown in their way, or the opposition they have encountered; this they would, however, affirm, that it has been their anxious desire to avoid, in every possible way, giving just cause of offence to any. They have endeavoured to administer their important trust in the spirit in which that trust was established; and, whilst keeping in view its simple object, namely, the moral and religious instruction of the apprentices and of their offspring, they confidently hope they have attained that object to the full extent of their means, and as far as human effort, with a reliance on the Divine blessing, can ensure success. They are also happy to state, that they have excited in some of the islands a spirit of more anxious inquiry than was ever before known to have existed on the important subject of Christian education.

From several of the heads of departments in the colonies they have received considerable aid in prosecuting their labours. From the Marquis of Sligo, Sir Lionel Smith, Sir George F. Hill, and other governors of Her Majesty's colonies, their operations have met with friendly support. By some of the clergy of the Established Church, and by the different missionary bodies throughout the West Indies, their efforts have been most favourably received; and if all have not aided them with their support, they would attribute it, in a degree, rather to a want of acquaintance with the nature and design of the principles on which the charity is founded, than to any ungenerous hostility to the work itself.

The trustees have only, in conclusion, to report their fixed determination, with the aid of Her Majesty's Government, and resting all their hopes of success upon the Divine blessing, to persevere in imparting to the negro race those moral benefits which, under every circumstance of his condition, are best fitted for making him wise and happy.

As political economists—as men devotedly attached to the cause of the long and deeply-injured negro—as Christian men, desirous of giving him a moral elevation above the beasts that perish, and of placing within his reach a knowledge of his God and Saviour,—the trustees of the Mico charity submit, that the question as to whether the colonies of Great Britain shall prosper or not depends, not so much upon any act of the Legislature, however benevolent in its purpose, nor upon the administration of that act, however just, as upon the moral influence of Christian education; which, with God's blessing, is calculated to preserve these colonies no less for the aggrandizement of the State than for the interests of that generous people whose 20,000,000 l. have redeemed their slave population; they, therefore, earnestly plead for the means of extending Christian education among them.

Appendix (A.)

I.—Previous State.

1. As to the intellectual condition of the children previously to their entering our schools, I may just say, that they could not answer the most simple question put to them. Their moral condition was equally deplorable, being generally adepts at lying, stealing, quarrelling, and swearing.

From Mr. ———,
Manchester.

2. The previous intellectual and moral condition of the children who attended this school was in a very low state, as not more than three children out of 80 first admitted here could read the alphabet. Two-thirds of this number were in the habit of uttering profane language.

From Mr. ———,
Savanna-la-Mar.

3. The greater part of the children and others now connected with our school could not read, and scarcely understand anything but what related to eating, drinking, &c.

From Mr. ———,
St. Thomas in the East.

4. As to the moral state of the children in this neighbourhood, I will give you one painful fact, viz. that after a considerable effort on the part of their teachers in the boys' and girls' school to promote the love of truth, there are not more than two children I could implicitly trust in this respect.

From Mr. ———,
Montego Bay.

5. On examining some children who lately came into the school, I found many of them quite ignorant that they had a soul.

They had such erroneous and confused ideas of the Deity, that it seemed as though, in some cases, such an idea had never been broached to them at home.

One boy told me, he did not know if he had a part about him that would never die; neither had he heard of such a person as Jesus Christ. Another told me that Christ was the son of Adam. The latter I examined as to his notions of God: he told me, that he had seen him. Another boy, who seemed to have a pretty good notion as to Christ being the Son of God, told me, his business in coming down into the world was to see about all the idle people. These children were from seven to ten years of age.

From Mr. ———,
Kingston.

6. At our commencement here two-thirds of the children who came to us did not know a letter in the alphabet. They were very greatly addicted to lying.

From Mr. ———,
St. James's.

II.—Subsequent Improvement.

In a neighbourhood like this, which was proverbial for theft, drunkenness, quarrelling, sabbath-breaking, in a word, licentiousness of every kind, we cannot expect a great reformation in the short period of 15 months we have been labouring here. Nevertheless, that a change has taken place for the better we are inclined to believe. It is a striking fact, that although theft still prevails to a frightful extent, not one who has been under our instructions stands charged with the commission of that crime. It is also worthy of remark, that though petty thefts are frequently committed around us, we have hitherto had nothing of any value taken from us in such an unjust way. If our schools have not had a powerful influence in correcting such evil practices, they have effected one great object, which is, bringing to light those characters who were really guilty of these petty thefts; and such persons they are found to be who can neither read nor have any inclination to learn. It gives me great pleasure to state, that crime is very much on the decrease, the cause of which, under God, must be traced to Christian instruction.

From Mr. ———,
Manchester.

2. We allow our children nearly an hour to play every day. When in the play-ground we have none of the complaints which we had shortly after our schools were opened. Pinching, quarrelling, lying, stealing, and saying bad words, have almost totally disappeared. We may judge of the conduct of the children at home from the pleasing accounts we frequently receive from their parents, such as follows:

"Me carry dis boy to massa. Befo him come a cool him rude, him no do what him fadder or moder bid him; but him not rude again, massa. Him can teach we to pell; him good boy." Thus we are frequently cheered with such accounts.

Several

Several of our school children, when at home in the evening, take a class of all ages, from their parents down to their younger brothers and sisters; not, however, confining their instructions to their own family, but admitting all who come; and are quite delighted in teaching the lessons they themselves have learned at school.

The moral and, I trust, the religious influence thus produced must be great; for the parents most attentively hearken to the instructions of their children, who have facilities for communicating these ideas, in point of language, which their teachers have not. The affection of the parents for the children we observe to be increased in these cases.

Ibid.

3. In a conversation I had a few days since with an overseer of some repute in this parish, he observed, "You have a parcel of bad characters in your school," naming some of them, "they are saucy, idle, &c.; however," he continued, "I must say they are much better since they have attended school; still, I consider them a worthless set." Thus bearing testimony to the beneficial influence of instruction, even upon the most worthless.

From Mr. ———,
St. Thomas in the East.

4. When we opened school we could scarcely find 12, young or old, who knew their letters; now we can scarcely find the same number (unless it be those recently admitted) but can not only say their letters, but many of them read in the first, second, and third part class-book. I think we have now about 20 reading in the Testament. The improvement in Scripture knowledge is highly satisfactory, and has been cordially attested by several who have visited the school.

Ibid.

5. On our commencement we had scarcely a child that knew its alphabet, and not one that could read the Scriptures. Of the latter we have now 25. The children here advance as readily as any I ever met with in the Borough-road school.

I am happy to state that many children in the school, who were formerly addicted to lying and stealing, have given up these bad habits.

From Mr. ———,
St. James's.

6. I know many of them are teaching their parents to read in the evening, and some of the girls are endeavouring to convince their parents of the sinful way in which they are living. Some of them meet together in the evening, and keep school in the negro villages.

Ibid.

7. I was obliged some time ago to leave the school nearly the whole day; the monitor-general on this occasion being absent, I selected a boy from amongst the class-monitors, to whom I gave the charge of the school. Whilst away, I was not a little anxious about the result, as the charge of 88 children was in the hands of one to whom they were not accustomed to look up as one set over them, and who himself was not used to rule. I returned however about one o'clock, and found that everything had gone on pleasantly.

From Mr. ———,
Kingston.

8. The mother of one of our boys states: "After he goes from school, towards evening he employs himself sometimes in getting together a number of children in his neighbourhood. Being assembled with them in an old room under the house, he places himself in the midst of them, sings with them, and talks very seriously to them about the things they are to do to inherit eternal life."

Ibid.

9. The children in general advance rapidly in their different stages of learning. I have at present several in my school who have not been more than two months admitted, and who never were at any school before, and did not know a letter in the alphabet, who can spell off words of four or five letters, and read fluently lessons containing words of the same. Several of the more advanced, after writing on slates for about one month, and then on paper, I find are very ready to commence writing small hand. Their acquaintance with the Scriptures is very satisfactory.

From Mr. ———,
St. Anne's.

10. I know children who were in the habit of swearing and telling lies, when first admitted, who now do neither, even when telling the truth is altogether against themselves. The attendance at school manifestly promotes habits of cleanliness and decency to a great extent.

Ibid.

11. The parents of several of my scholars have told me that they have a great deal more pleasure in their children since they came to school.

Ibid.

3. ort on Lady co's Charity.

12. I have often heard my children instructing their parents and other friends at home. One little boy, whenever he can get master of any hymn we may sing in our school, will immediately set about teaching it to his father, mother and little sister at home. His father says it cheers and causes him to forget the labours of the day.

Ibid.

III.—Feeling of Parents and Children.

1. A few nights ago I was laying before the minds of those who attend our night school the deep obligations they were under to God, in placing their children in such circumstances that they could receive an education calculated to make them more useful in society, as well as prove a blessing to their souls. A parent answered, "Massa, we thank God for it; befo massa come, the children fo we no better den the wild hog in de bush, but now, massa, they shame we, we no can pell good; dem can read and teach we." I believe the above case to be a fair exhibition of the feeling of the parents with reference to our schools.

From Mr. ———,
Manchester.

2. We have now an opportunity of witnessing the feelings of the children with reference to our schools. The long drought we have had caused provisions to be so scarce, that, while many were detained from our schools in consequence, not a few came without having a sufficient quantity, and some without anything except a little fruit they might chance to pick up in the way. I have every reason to believe the children regard their teachers as their best friends.

Ibid.

3. When first our school was opened many of the parents appeared reserved, but now they have thrown off that, and many have asked me to take their children altogether, stating that their improvement has been so great and obvious, that they do not wish them to leave school at all, even to go home.

From Mr. ———,
St. Thomas in the East.

4. Several of the parents and guardians of children who attend the school have told me how hard it is to keep them at home, even in cases of sickness; I therefore think this indicative of the children's good feeling towards their school and teacher.

From Mr. ———,
Savanna-la-Mar.

5. A large proportion of the children in our school walk from three to four miles, morning and evening.

From Mr. ———,
St. James's.

6. As a proof that the children are attached to the school, a large number of them begin to assemble as early as half-past seven in the morning, and have often expressed a wish to be kept in school later of an evening. When I visit the estates they have frequently run after me for a mile out of their way.

Ibid.

7. The more informed class of parents are quite disposed to regard our school and system favourably. A late trial for nuisance at the court of assize presents the best fact to allege on this point. All the witnesses on both sides (with such exceptions as could not but be looked for) spoke in terms of approbation in reference to the school, and the mode of instruction pursued in it. And I noticed, on the day of trial, that they had a fuller attendance, especially of blacks and of the lower classes, than any other day of the term.

From Mr. ———,
Montego Bay.

8. The grandmother of a boy, in giving me an account of what caused her to send her grandson to the school, made the following statement: A friend of hers had a daughter at our school, and for some reason or other took her away and put her to another school, but the child cried and grieved so much, and was so incessant in her entreaties to be sent back, that the mother could not refrain. She granted her request, and made the change the girl so much longed for. "When I saw how this child fretted about leaving her school," said the old lady, "I wondered to myself what kind of a school can this be, make the child cry so because she take away? And when I think upon it, I could not help send Thomas there too. And really the boy loves his school. I can't get no peace for him in the morning till he gets his hot water and a little something to eat, and is ready to set off."

From Mr. ———,
Kingston.

9. Last Friday one of the boys told me, "My mother told me I must stay at home to-day to get my shoes mended, but I begged her to let me come to-day, and get my shoes mended to-morrow" (Saturday, a holiday).

Ibid.

10. Sometimes I meet with an opposite feeling. A little orphan boy, who manifested an utter dislike to his school, was from school for a day or two. I visited his guardians to know the reason of his absence. I learned from them he had been sent; they supposed he was at school as usual. The boy himself was then called. He made his appearance in a shocking temper. On a question or two being put to him, he told us he would not go back to school again. "I won't go," he said, "I could do as I liked at my other school—I want to go there: I won't go—I won't go."

Appendix (B.)

Trinidad, 19 November 1837.

1. I HAVE great satisfaction in reporting to your Lordship, that the school established under the Mico Charity has obtained universal applause from the admirable system adopted to advance the pupils in their learning. The Roman-catholics, without scruple, send their children to the Mico schools for instruction, where, although the Scriptures are the foundation of instruction, no particular catechism is insisted on.

In September last, the numbers of children

Under 10 years of age were	139
Boys of all ages	98
Girls of ditto	43
Male adults	275
	555

The numbers have since increased to 700.*

* Of these upwar of 550 are Roma catholics.

Four Mico schools are in progress of being established in different country districts, and a class of eleven teachers is under normal instruction, to be placed over country schools when qualified.

Money for buildings will be required. The disposition among the negro apprentices to learn very much increases.

[Extracted from a Despatch of the Lieutenant Governor of Trinidad to the Lord Glenelg.]

2. A better code of regulations, in my humble opinion, cannot be framed for the government of schools in this colony than those adopted by the Mico Charity. The liberal principles which induced the trustees of this charity to open their schools to the children of parents of every denomination, will, I sincerely hope, remove that great objection which Roman-catholic parents have to most of the schools established here, especially against those in which the Church of England catechism is made the sine quâ non. Many children have been withdrawn from these schools in consequence of their being made to learn this catechism, and they are now idling about the streets.

From the Rev. D. Evans,
Chaplain to the Forces.

3. I have to express myself highly satisfied with the "regulations for the government of schools supported by the Mico Charity," a copy of which you have kindly sent me. They are evidently formed on principles alike enlightened and liberal, and, of course, entirely discard the Shibboleth of party. This, of itself, in my opinion, is sure to win public favour for the Mico schools, and make them extensively useful. It cannot be denied that Protestant zeal, as regards education, has generally defeated itself by the adoption of exclusive systems. I therefore hail with joy the establishment of schools on the broad basis of Christianity, without reference to religious creed.

From the Rev. Mr. Kennedy,
Minister of the Scotch Church, and Head Master of the Cabildo School.

4. I consider that a system of teaching which excludes all particular religious tenets, as held by the different sections of the Christian Church, but which, at the same time, gives a decided prominence to the Holy Scriptures, is especially suited to the strangely mixed population of this island. I feel persuaded that many Catholics would not object to your system, who would have strong objections to the teaching of any Protestant catechism.

From the Rev. Geo. Beard, Senior Wesleyan Minister.

5. Looking at the population and circumstances of the colony, I am induced to think these rules prudently framed, and practically calculated to ensure the object of the society to a much greater extent than if founded upon a system more exclusive in its operation.

From the Honourable Judge Johnston,
Acting Chief Justice, a Member of the Established Church.

3. port on Lady co's Charity.

6. I anticipate with much satisfaction the benefit which this colony will derive by the intended exertion of the managers of that charity to aid the education of the poorer classes.

Their rules, abstaining from the enforcement of any particular creed upon the children who frequent their schools, will have and has already had a harmonizing effect here.

From Sir George Hill,
Lieutenant Governor of Trinidad.

7. After mature consideration, I am of opinion that the liberal and humane regulations which you have so judiciously framed to serve as the basis of a system of education for the lower orders, particularly the children of apprenticed labourers in this colony, will not fail to be attended with success.

I also consider the infant system for education will tend to promote most effectually the moral and religious improvement of the lower orders, who, as well as their offspring, are in as deplorable a state with respect to instruction as when they were groaning under the execrable yoke of slavery.

From the Rev. Abbé Power,
Roman-catholic Clergyman.

8. The arrangement, I feel assured, cannot possibly provoke cavil or animadversion in one party, or offence in the other.

From the Hon. Judge Gomez,
One of the most influential of the Roman-catholic Laity.

9. His Excellency the Governor, on visiting our schools the other day, expressed himself highly pleased with our system and plans—truly astonished at the order and progress of the children, and believed that no plans hitherto adopted were so well calculated to improve the people of Trinidad as those of the Mico Charity.

On distributing the inclosed notices for the opening of our schools, Abbé Power sent to beg that I would furnish him with a hundred of them, and he would distribute them amongst his people; at the same time expressing his cordial approbation, and wishing us success in all our undertakings.

Abbé Smith has visited me several times, entered into a lengthened conversation on the subject of education, and has always expressed himself much pleased, and cordially agreeing with our plain, open, straight-forward plans. He has sent us several children, and we have now four in the school on his recommendation, and for whose schooling he pays monthly.

The Wesleyan and Kirk missionaries are very friendly, and do all in their power to assist us in the great cause of education. They state both in public and in private, that the Mico institution is one of the greatest blessings ever bestowed upon the people of Trinidad.

The Rev. Mr. Cummins, with all the clergy, missionaries, and catechists in connexion with the Established Church, have visited us at different times. To these I have explained the nature of our system, afforded them every means of obtaining a practical knowledge of our plans of instruction, illustrated by our prints, lessons, and other apparatus—the pleasing and powerful effect of the infant system upon the minds of these poor ignorant neglected children; and, in several instances, supplied them with all the materials necessary to carry on a school upon the same plans in different parts of the island.

From the Agent for Trinidad.

10. We have introduced much of the infant-school system into the boys' British School; such as singing, repeating the table of weights and measures, interrogating the children on every object or lesson brought before them, and the elliptical mode of instruction in our conversation and addresses. The more I look into the state of education, the wants of the people in this island, and their capacity to receive instruction, the more I am daily convinced, that, if any system be more calculated to meet their present condition than another, it is the infant system, when in the hands of a judicious active Christian teacher.

This system comes down to their capacity, blends amusement with instruction, and just meets that cheerful, active, playful disposition which is everywhere found in the negro character. The apprentices are but infants in mind; they require the first rudiments of knowledge.

Ibid.

11. I have just been through all the schools in the institution, held an examination in each, and was not only pleased, but highly gratified with the cleanliness, order, and improvement of the children. The day was wet. We had 58 boys present; 35 spelt and read pretty well; all wrote on slates, and 31 in copy-books, remarkably well. Their arithmetic was good; they have a considerable knowledge of English grammar; and traced with great accuracy the map of the world, and also that of Palestine. Their singing was in parts, and as good, both in time and harmony, as any children I ever heard in England. They are remarkably quick in getting off any tune, extremely fond of singing, make rapid progress in every branch of education in which the imitative faculty alone is called forth, as in writing, &c.; but they are sadly prone to deceit, will persist in the most barefaced falsehood, are very irritable, peevish and revengeful, very fond of dress, and extremely proud. Our work is of no ordinary nature; every Christian grace is called forth, and Patience may be said to have her "perfect work." Moral and scriptural training is greatly wanting in this country, and to that we must look, under God, for lasting good.

Appendix (C.)

Barbadoes, 1837.

Examination of Alexander Stronach, Director of the Mico Charity School, taken the 4th September 1837 before a Committee of the Council and Assembly appointed to inquire into the Education of the Free Children of Apprenticed Labourers.

Question.—Will you have the goodness to state the number of schools established in Bridge Town under your direction, and the number of children attending them?

Answer.—We have three schools, two in Bridge Town, and one near the Belle Plantation, in St. Michael's parish. At the one in Baxter's-road, Bridge Town, 140 children are in constant daily attendance. In this school is exhibited the practical working of the infant system of education; likewise teachers are here trained for other schools. About 160 adults who attend at this school on the evenings and Sundays, are taught chiefly by voluntary and gratuitous teachers. The adult scholars are exemplary in their behaviour, and grateful for the attention that is paid to them; their progress has been very great, and they willingly contribute a small sum monthly to defray the expense of lighting the school.

The other school in Nelson-street, Bridge Town, and the one near the Belle Plantation, have only been established about a month; at each of these schools about 50 children attend daily. The teachers have been trained at the model-school in Baxter's-road. The average attendance of adults on evenings and Sundays is about 60.

Question.—Will you have the goodness to state the general plan adopted for the education of the children?

Answer.—The instructions which I received from the trustees of the Mico Charity on leaving were, to direct my attention more particularly to the education of the apprenticed labourers' children from two to seven years of age; to establish schools for them, to be conducted on similar principles to the infant schools of the mother country. The grand feature of the infant system is, that the teacher should pay far more regard towards the formation of the character of his scholars, than to the great progress in any of the elementary branches of education. The bodies as well as the minds of the children should be early subjected to a complete system of moral training.

Question.—Will you have the goodness to state what you mean by moral training?

Answer.—By moral training we mean, not simply instruction addressed to the understanding of a child, but an endeavour to infuse right principles by reducing that instruction into practice. To do this it is necessary that there should be a complete superintendence over the conduct of the children, both while they are in school and at play. Every fault to be corrected is brought before the body of the whole school, inquired into, and proved by the children who saw it committed; and then made by the teacher the medium of moral and religious instruction, by reference to the Bible, which is deemed the basis of our system; and I am happy to be able to add, that it would be considered by the children a great punishment were we to omit our daily story from the Scriptures.

Question.—Are the children taught to believe that there is only one means of salvation, through the redeeming love of our Saviour?

Answer.—This being the sum of the whole Scriptures, our plan is first to make them acquainted by what means man fell from the state in which he was created, as related in the three first chapters in Genesis, and then to lead their tender minds to a more pleasing review of the birth, life, cause of suffering, and death of the Saviour; and show them that it is by faith in him alone that man can be recovered from his fallen state, as related in the New Testament. Daily some important lesson is learned from Bible narrative.

Question.—Are the creed or any other of the formularies of the Established Church admitted or used as forming part of the instruction of the school?

Answer.—The Creed (Apostles'), the Lord's Prayer, and the Ten Commandments are taught and used in our schools.

Question.—Are the children taught to read, write, and cipher?

Answer.—The elder children are taught to read, write, and cipher; the younger children are taught chiefly by oral instruction, with the assistance of objects and object lessons; but they are also put into classes at the earliest age to learn the alphabet.

Question.—Do you find a willingness generally on the part of the apprenticed labourers to send their children?

Answer.—The parents willingly send their children to school; in some instances a want of clothes for their children has prevented them from doing so.

Question.—Is any fixed rate of payment demanded for each child?

Answer.—No fixed rate of payment is demanded, but it is expected that every parent will contribute something towards the education of their children.

Question.—To what extent have these expectations been realized?

Answer.—About two-thirds of the children pay at the rate of 1½*d.* per week.

Question.—Has the improvement of the scholars been equal to your expectations?

Answer.—The children have made great progress, even beyond my expectations.

Appendix (D.)

In my last communication I took occasion to urge on your attention the claims of the Bahamas. I now send you, as below, the statement of the actual condition of this colony as to the means of education.

District.	Population.	Schools.	Scholars.
New Providence	8,000	8	600
Eleuthera	2,528	4	159
Harbour Island	1,345	1	55
Long Island	757	1	40
Turks Islands	1,974	2	79
Abaco	921	1	76
Exuma	842	2	99
Watling's Island	842	1	25
Grand Bahama	218
Andros Island	180
St. Salvador	515
Rum Cay	—	- - These districts are entirely without schools.
Steneagua	70
Caicos	109
Crooked Island, &c.	528
Ragged Island	157
	18,986	20	1,133

From this you will perceive, that, in a population of 18,986 souls, the means of education are not provided for more than 1,133, of which more than one-half is devoted to the town of Nassau, so that out of Nassau there are not more than 533 children, including infants, under instruction.

I cannot doubt the readiness with which the conviction of the deplorable condition of this colony, and its peculiar claims on their funds, will be presented to the minds of the trustees. Our normal institution will be of little use as a training establishment, unless the trustees connect several branch schools with it, to be formed on the out islands in the destitute districts, to which trained teachers can be sent from Nassau, and which can be visited and inspected occasionally in every year.

From the Agent at Nassau.

Appendix (E.)

Regulations for the Government of Schools supported by the Mico Charity.

1. All schools to be supported, in whole or in part, from the funds of this charity, shall be open to children of parents of all religious denominations.

2. The grand object of this charity to be the promotion of education in general, especially of religious education; the basis of the system to be the Holy Scriptures, with such Extracts as are at present used by the British and Foreign School Society.

3. No catechisms or books of peculiar religious tenets to be taught in the schools, but every child to be at liberty to attend regularly the place of worship to which its parents belong.

4. These regulations to constitute the basis upon which pecuniary aid is to be extended to schools, whether public or private. Where such aid is given, the schools to be under the superintendence of the trustees of this charity.

5. No teacher to be employed who does not bring satisfactory recommendations as to his religious and general character, and competency as a school teacher; his efficiency to be approved of by the agent of the trustees, who shall have power to remove him.
